Desirable Young Men for Husbands—A Safe Choice.

QUALITIES.

The qualities that I should think most essential in a young man, were I choosing a husband for either of my fair young daughters, would be:

1. He must be a man of pure life and irreproachable character. Need I say that every pure minded young woman should require this from the man of her choice, who is to be her bosom friend and life-long companion?

2. He must be of good parentage. I would have him belong to the nobility, in the true sense of the word, and have by inheritance a sound body and mind, with true principle and high integrity.

3. He should be patriotic and true to the best interests of his country.

4. I would also have him intelligent, broad minded, and interested in the leading questions of the day; alive and awake to the great interests of his native land.

5. He should be serious in view of the weighty responsibilities resting upon the young men in this wonderful twentieth century.

6. Although serious, he should have a gound and kindly nature, one to whom you would naturally turn for sympathy when in trouble.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

1. He must be master of a good trade or profession.

2. He must be studious and industrious, whereby he may gain influence in his chosen vocation.

3. He must, by all means, be neat and orderly in his habits,

4. He should be liberal with his means in aiding any worthy cause. It is hard for a woman to love a selfish or stingy man.

5. I would wish him to be polite in the Scriptural meaning of the word courtesy—kind and gentle to those of the dear home circle, or in his demeanor toward strangers.

6. Lastly, I would, of course, have him a Christian gentleman, with a true faith in Christ as his personal friend and Saviour.

GOOD JUDGMENT IMPERATIVE.

Twenty years ago I thought an alabaster brow of snowy whiteness was the most desirable quality a young man could possess; now I think that good common sense is more to be desired than a brow of alabaster. Likewise I thought a young man should have a distinguished, princely air, or he was not worth looking at; now I think still less of the princely air than I do of the alabaster brow, and would prefer a man possessed of enough generosity to give his wife ten cents a year without looking as solemn as an owl and asking her what in the world she wants it for, and telling her to be careful not to fool it away.

He should not lack bravery or fidelity, reverence or judgment.

If he is possessed of good judgment he will not haul water in barrels and pour it into an uncemented cistern situated on the top of a hill, as a learned professor did, to my certain knowledge, expecting it to stay there all summer, and regretting his young wife for not washing quickly enough to use some of the water before it leaked away, and saying, in a very aggrieved tone, that he did not think he would ever fix another cistern for me. The poor thing wondered, meanwhile, what good it would do if he did, and discreetly lugged soft water up the long hill herself, for fear he would try another new patent way of making cisterns.

I forbear to mention the time he tried to boil the apple butter in a large brass kettle (holding thirty gallons), by hanging the kettle on a dry locust stump for a support, and then setting fire to the dry stump, as he wished to burn it out by the roots; nor how the poor little woman, running out at the frenzied calls of her husband found him shouting and gesticulating wildly for her to help him to get the thirty gallons of preserves down the now fiercely burning stump before it all tumbled into the fire. I will not tell of the blistered hands and aching backs, nohow. He told his weeping wife that he did not think the old stump was so thunder and lightning dry; that his mother's preserves never foamed up and boiled over like that; that his clothes were ruined, and that the old stump was only half burned out after all his trouble, and he did not think he would ever help her make apple butter again.

Space forbids me speak of the lovely chicken house, built with so much enthusiasm, which (to the builder's disgust) was left to the undisturbed possession of owls and lizards, because the chickens could not be persuaded that it was ever meant for anything but crazy fowls to inhabit. And the poor things tucked their eggs away in the orchards and hay mow, or under the horses' heads in the manger, because, as he said, they were too thunder and lightning stupid to appreciate honest labor.

His accomplishments should be:

A good education, though it is apt to make a man feel that he is too good to build the fires on a cold morning.

Politeness is to be desired.

He should also be chaste, temperate, truthful and peaceful.

The December Woods.

(The following poem has won for its 10-year-old author a St. Nicholas league silver badge.)

I roamed in the woods in winter
When the trees were blank and bare;
When the gusts of wind blew the snow in heaps
In the path of the hurrying hare.

A few leaves clung to the tree-tops,
But those were old and brown;
And the winter breeze shook the snowy trees,
And blew the dead leaves down.

I gathered a bunch of ivy leaves
Still bright with autumn glow;
I picked a cluster of berries red,
All sprinkled with feathery snow.

I reached the hill above the creek,
The snow began to fall;
And thick and fast in the wintry blast
Blew snowflakes over all.

I turned my footsteps homeward,
Along the smooth worn track;
A chipmunk hurried up a tree,
With stripes upon his back.

The dull, gray clouds had parted,
And faintly I could see
That the early setting winter sun
Was shining down on me.

—Jessica Nelson in St. Nicholas.

Living Authors.

Give four players the names of poets, four of novelists, four of essayists, four of historians, and so on. Each player is told in secret whom he is to represent. The complete list is placed upon the blackboard. These preliminaries being arranged, from four to seven or eight unnamed persons play the game. They sit in a circle and draw their cards by calling in turn upon the members to stand behind their chairs. As each member reaches the chair he whispers his name to the player. The game proceeds as in the well known game of authors, each player calling in turn for an author needed to complete some book of which he has a part. After a book is formed it is made to sit down behind the chair of the fortunate player, and so the game proceeds until all are seated.

Asked to Request the Resignation of Prof. Cook.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 9—The students of the medical departments of Grant university in mass meeting today by unanimous rising vote asked the trustees of the university to dispense with the services of Rev. R. J. Cook, professor of historical theology, for his attack on the daughters of the Confederacy in a religious paper.

When Mr Cook entered the mess hall while the students were at supper, he was loudly hissed. Grant university is under the control of the Southern Educational society and the Freedmen's Aid society of the Northern Methodist church.

The editorial in question compared the daughters of confederacy to Emma Goldman and Her Most and charged them with teaching treason.

The law students of Grant university adopted a resolution which declares:

The article appearing in Dr. Cook's paper is altogether out of accord and not in sympathy with sentiments of the law students, and the article is hereby condemned as altogether unjust; and further we believe that the law department shuld not be concerned for the utterances of an individual not in any way connected with this department.

Conundrums.

What is the difference between the manager of a theater and a sailor? A sailor likes to see a light house and the manager doesn't.

Why is it that when a church is burn everything is so difficult to save as the organ? Because the fire engine cannot play upon it.

What did Jack Frost say to the lily? Will thou—and she wilted.

When are two heads better than one? When they are in a barrel.

When is a farmer like a dentist? When he is pulling out stumps.

Why should the highest apple on a tree be the best one? Because it's a tip top apple.

What is the most afflicted part of a house? The window, because it is always full of panes.

Why is milk like a treadmill? Because it strengthens the calves.

What is the most fashionable article in the world? O woman.

Why is a nice, but uncultured girl like brown sugar? Because she is sweet but unrefined.

What are the most popular airs in the land? Millionaires.

Why is baseball likely to become epidemic? Because the game is catching.

What is the best size for a man? Exercise.

A tender-hearted young lady once said to a boy guilty of robbing a bird's nest, "O cruel, heartless little wretch, to rob those poor little birds of their eggs." "Ho," retorted the little boy, "that's the old mother bird you've got on your bonnet; guess she won't care. Ex.

Rheumatism

Rheumatic pains are the cries of protest and distress from tortured muscles, aching joints and excited nerves. The blood has been poisoned by the accumulation of waste matter in the system, and can no longer supply the pure and health sustaining food they require. The whole system feels the effect of this acid poison; and not until the blood has been purified and brought back to a healthy condition will the aches and pains cease.

Mrs. James Kell, of 707 Ninth street, N. E., Washington, D. C., writes as follows: "A few months ago I had an attack of Sciatic Rheumatism in its worst form. The pain was so intense that I became completely prostrated. The attack was an unusually severe one, and my condition was regarded as being very dangerous. I was attended by one of the most able doctors in Washington, who is also a member of the faculty of a leading medical college here. He told me to continue his prescriptions and I would get well. After having I filled twelve times without receiving the slightest benefit, I declined to continue his treatment any longer. Having heard of S. S. S. (Swift's Specific) recommended for Rheumatism, I decided, almost in despair however, to give the medicine a trial, and after I had taken a few bottles I was able to hobble around on crutches, and very soon thereafter had no use for them at all. S. S. S. having cured me sound and well. All the distressing pains have left me, my appetite has returned, and I am happy to be again restored to perfect health.

SSS the great vegetable purifier and tonic, is the ideal remedy in all rheumatic troubles. There are no opiates or minerals in it to disturb the digestion and lead to ruinous habits.

We have prepared a special book on Rheumatism which every sufferer from this painful disease should read. It is the most complete and interesting book of the kind in existence. It will be sent free to any one desiring it. Write our physicians fully and freely about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

has been said by the mothers of many other boys and girls, regarding the wonderful curative and strengthening qualities of

Dr. Miles' Nervine

HASTING, NEB.

"Our little boy, Harry, had spasms for 3 years and we feared the disease would affect his mind. Though we doctored continually he grew worse and had ten spasms in one week. Our attention was directed to Dr. Miles' Nervine and we began its use. When he had taken the fourth bottle the spasms disappeared and he has not had one for five years. His health now is perfect." FOR HARNESS and Saddle Sores Mexican Mustang Liniment is just what you need. It takes effect at once, and you will be astonished to see how quickly it heals sores.

It's this way:

You can burn yourself with Fire, with Powder, etc., or you can scald yourself with Steam or Hot Water, but there is only one proper way to cure a burn or scald and that is by using Mexican Mustang Liniment.

It gives immediate relief. Get a piece of soft old linen cloth, saturate it with this liniment and bind loosely upon the wound. You can have no adequate idea what an excellent remedy this is for a burn until you have tried it.

A FOWL TIP. If you have a bird afflicted with Roup or any other poultry disease use Mexican Mustang Liniment. It is called a STANDARD remedy by poultry breeders.

YOU CAN'T DOWN THE STIEFF!

There are all kinds of men in the Piano business, but the meanest competitor that has attracted our attention recently, is the man who sets to and wilfully tries to dissatisfy customers that have already bought fine Pianos by telling them they have been swindled, etc. We would advise such men as this to get out to work, put in the time they waste in such work as this in hunting new customers, and perhaps they could sell a Piano once in a while.

The class of people who buy the STIEFF PIANOS are the best people on earth, and their minds are not to be changed by every little wind that blows

STIEFF PIANOS are the very finest Pianos made, and are sold all over the world on merit alone. It's the old reliable STIEFF PIANO all the time, and when anyone tells you he can furnish something as good for less money—just remember you have heard "Ghost stories" before.

Write today and get Factory prices on the STIEFF PIANO and save the big profits made by the dealer.
