The El Paso Times says that the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe branch from Benson to Arizona was constructed without a charter, and the Mexican government has refused to pay the subsidy, but proposes to pay on the projected branch from Hermosillo to Paso del Norte, to encourage its construction.

Some wag who had got the fear of the court before his eyes, yesterday placed on the table of Clerk Shea a number of walnuts, where they could tempt those who came up to the desk on business. One by one the nuts were cracked off the table and quietly croaked, only to reveal to the weary victim the weary fact that the meat had been taken out and the shells glued together again. Stifled mirth was heard murmuring in different parts of the court room as one after another was thus sold.—Omaha Bee.

Arizona will never be able to hold successful territorial fairs until it secures a north and south line of railroad. The exhibition next week at Phenix will no doubt be an excellent local affair, but the difficulty and expense of getting to and from the place will cause a small attendance from the Territory at large.—Albuquerque Journal.

You are wrong, neighbor. Our fair will be represented by the people of the whole Territory, and also by the people of New Mexico, who got left by the Arizonans, you know.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5, 1885.

EDITOR DAILY TOMBSTONE—Washington is soon to have a new attraction, which, although the result of private enterprise, bids fair to rival the Government museums and public buildings as a place of interest, and will, doubtless, receive its share of attention from the ever-changing army of sight-seeing visitors who congregate at the National Capital during the time that Congress is in session.

A joint stock company, composed of Chicago capitalists, prominent among whom may be mentioned the names of Hon. S. Corning Judd and Gens. Beveridge, Fitz-simmons, and Thompkins, was formed in December last for the purpose of erecting a permanent building in this city in which to illustrate upon canvas the famous battle of Manassas.

The building, which is now under construction, is located upon the corner of Ohio avenue and Fifteenth street. I will be a sixteen sided structure, 126 feet in diameter. The walls will be of brick and the roof of wood and iron.

The painting will be one of the grandest scenes ever portrayed upon canvas. It will be 377 feet in length by 46 feet in height, and extend entirely around the building. An idea of its magnitude may be had when it is considered that nearly eight tons of paint and oil will be required in its preparation. The figures will be about one-fourth natural size.

An elevated stage or platform (accessible by means of a commodious staircase) will be provided in the centre of the building from which to view the painting.

Work is being pushed forward rapidly, and it is expected that the artist, Mr. Poitpot, of Paris, under whose charge the painting is to be executed, will be able to commence his work in November.

A large corps of assistants will be employed, and the exhibition will be open to the public in February or March next.

It will be remembered that Congress at its last session appropriated the sum of $3,000,000 for the building of four new war ships. Secretary Whitney advertised for plans for the proposed vessels, and a large number of shipbuilders and others have submitted plans, which are now being examined by a board of naval officers, who were appointed by the Secretary as a committee charged with this duty. There is little doubt entertained by those who are somewhat familiar with the designs prepared but that the plans submitted by Chief Contractor Wilson will be adopted, for, although many of the plans submitted possess merit, and some of them were offered by shipbuilders who have had an extensive experience in their line, yet few of them understand the requirements of a modern man-of-war.

It has not as yet been decided who shall finish the new cruisers under construction at Mr. Roache's establishment, but it is believed that the Government will accept the Dolphin and complete the work upon the other vessels under the supervision of Chief Constructor Wilson.

The navy yard at Washington has long been the manufacturing yard of the navy and it is provided with all of the machinery necessary for use in naval construction and repairing. It having been recently decided that several vessels are to undergo extensive repairs, a committee of workmen waited upon Secretary Whitney on Friday last and urged that the work should be done here. Similar requests have been received from other cities in which navy yards are located, and the Secretary has the matter under advisement.

The acknowledged inferiority of the American navy has long been a theme of comment in the newspapers, and has afforded stump-speakers opportunity for criticising of the opposing party.

The cause of the decadence of American shipbuilding is something beyond ordinary comprehension, at least nobody has as yet appeared to understand the subject sufficiently to propose an efficient remedy. Hence the efforts of the new Secretary to reconstruct the navy will be watched with a great deal of interest by the people of the country.

The work of unloading the silver recently brought from New Orleans has attracted a large number of spectators to the navy yard. Eleven wagons of the Adams Express Company are used in transferring the silver to the Treasury. Each wagon is accompanied by a special officer. Fifteen boxes, containing in the aggregate about two tons of silver, are carried each trip, and the work has been in progress since Monday morning.

It seems to be settled now that the President will appoint an entirely new board of civil service commissioners. Messrs. Eaton and Gregory have resigned, and it is expected that Mr. Thoman will send in his resignation within a few days.

Gen. Rosecrans, the new Register of the Treasury, seems to meet with opposition in every quarter. He now finds that he will be unable to get rid of the clerks of rebel ancestry in his office, although he has asked for and received their resignations, the President having decided that no sufficient reasons had been offered for their removal.

A large number of Congressmen have arrived during the week, and are engaged in looking up houses and winter quarters.

There will be services at the Presbyterian church Sunday, the Rev. Dr. Wills officiating. Subject for the morning discourse, "What is Prayer." For the evening, "What will you do with them."

General Crook states that the hostiles have all been driven back into Mexico, and on Sunday last a band of cowboys took their trail in the San Simon valley. It is easy to be seen who drove them there. The cowboys and not Crook.

We take the above from the Albuquerque Journal and sincerely hope that it is true. With Trittle out of the way, so that as Governor of this Territory he can not telegraph and advise the government that Crook is doing all that he can, and Crook removed and some general who will fight, in the field, the Indian question will be settled forever, and the prospector will not cur mountains with mines and the rancher fill our valleys with cattle.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A special dispatch from Washington to the Mail and Express says: Information which has been received here privately shows less good question that the Apache scouts employed by Gen. Crook are leading the soldiers on a wild goose chase, thus enabling Geronimo every opportunity to visit the reservation he deserted and to supply himself with women, bucks and ammunition. A sentiment is rapidly working up in the interior and war departments which is believed will eventually lead to the removal of Gen Crook to another command and the substitution of an Indian fighter with less faith in Indian humanity.

The Printers' Patron.

The 13,000 union printers of America are ready to shout George Washington Childs, of Philadelphia, that they consider him a good deal of a man and a particular friend to their craft. When the International Typographical Union met in New York last June, Mr. Childs gave the delegates a complimentary excursion to Philadelphia, where he showed them the Public Ledger establishment, entertained them at Fairmount Park, and generally treated them handsomely. The printers, handsomely appreciating his courtesies, appointed a committee, M. B. McAbee, S. McNamara, and M. S. Crawford, to say so for them. The testimonial printed by Knight & Leonard, and mounted by C. H. Ward, of the house of Sherman Flood, is now on exhibition. It consists of appropriate resolutions of thanks, in view of the compliments received of Mr. Childs, printed on fine parchment satin, the sheet, 19x25 inches, being in its center, like a silver panel, a miniature reproduction, on white satin, of the first page of that edition of the Ledger, June 8, containing the report of the printers' visit. The frame shows a moulding in gold and green, bordered on either side by rows of raised silver pearls, a beautiful piece of work. In the resolutions the Ledger receives the honor of having ever been "recognized as the stanch friend of the toiling masses and the zealous friend of organized labor."

Passed Away.

In our last issue we stated that very little hope was entertained for the recovery of Mrs. J. A. Cassidy, and to day it is our painful duty to record the death of the lady. The illness although a short one was very serious, and not until a few days ago was it thought that she would pass over the dark river. Her death will be a sad blow to her many friends in this city, as she was ever foremost in charity and one of all social gatherings which she attended. THE DAILY TOMBSTONE in common with her many friends extends its heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family who have thus been racked by death of the dearest one on earth.

The funeral will take place tomorrow from the Episcopal church at 2 o'clock p. m.

Governor Trittle Resigns.

Governor F. A. Trittle has resigned, to take effect upon the appointment and qualification of his successor. When this latter event shall occur, no matter who his successor may be, the Territory of Arizona will lose the services of an able and conscientious officer. He has discharged the duties of his important trust with honor to the government and great credit to himself, never having for a moment neglected the interests of the people.

The reasons which have actuated Governor Trittle in placing his resignation in the hands of the President are sound and patriotic. His experience during the past week, in the endeavor to place militia in the field for the purpose of warding hostile settlers and co-operating with the military in the suppression of the hostile Apaches, satisfied him, in view of the fact that the legislature had made no provision for the maintenance of a militia force in active service that no man in his position without the confidence and sympathy of the Administration, through which the general government might be successfully invoked to furnish the means to defray the expenses of such service, could hope to accomplish that the emergency demanded, and having at heart the welfare of our citizens which, this time, he was unable to satisfactorily guard, and realizing the importance of the situation and the need of prompt action, he decided to resign in the hope that the President would appoint some man who was in perfect harmony with the Administration and who, therefore, could reasonably expect from the general government such assistance as would be required to maintain a proper force for the protection of the lives and property of persons in exposed districts.

Before taking this step, however, Governor Trittle did everything in his power to secure the safety of the citizens by posting a very competent force in the field, and in Tombstone, where he met with persistent opposition from certain citizens, he was obliged to personally guarantee the necessary expenses of a cavalry company which was deemed necessary to guard the lives and property of citizens residing in the country adjacent to that city. Thus has the Governor done all that was in his power to do for the people, and he will continue his great work until his successor shall have qualified, depending in confidence upon the appreciative people of Arizona to assist in providing the means to meet those necessary and emergent expenses.—Tucson Times.

In connection with the above resignation we will say that we are glad it has been sent, for the governor of this Territory no matter how good a man he may be socially, weighs like a feather in the scale of and the people on the other, for General Crook or any other man, while the people want to lay hard in cold blood, is not in for governor, no matter whether he be a Republican or a Democrat.

Socially, Governor Trittle is a splendid gentleman, and gene on to a fault. Governor Trittle and General Crook are warm personal friends, and a few days since he was asked to represent the true state of affairs in this city to the general government at Washington, or in other words, to take the side of the people, and denounce Crook or to denounce the people and uphold Crook. He chose the latter and was subjected to the scorn and derision of the people of this section of the country. This ended him so that he left the town, and on his arrival in Tucson, he forwarded his resignation. In this he done right and entitles him to a little of the respect that he has lost.

A New Departure.

While strolling down Allen street this afternoon we were invited by Messrs. Cæsar & Wehrfritz to inspect their new ice house which they have recently built in the store in the rear of their saloon on Fifth street. Accepting the invitation the reporter was shown a spacious room capable of holding a car load of ice and a car load of beer. The ice house is very substantially built and the walls are 18 inches thick, built of Oregon pine and filled with saw dust, the floor is of corrugated iron. It will thus be seen at a glance that it is one of the coolest of its kind in the Territory. The cost of this ice house is estimated at about $800. Messrs. Cæsar & Wehrfritz have made arrangements for and are the sole agents for the celebrated Lemps' St. Louis beer. They are also the sole agents of the Truckee ice company for this county, and informed us that they were now prepared to furnish the people of this city and county with pure Truckee ice for six cents per pound and St. Louis beer on draught at the lowest rates. Messrs. Cæsar & Wehrfritz have gone to a great deal of expense to procure this beer and ice, and now offer the citizens of this city and county the benefit of these articles at cheap rates. Don't forget to call at the Crystal Palace saloon and sample some of the celebrated Lemps' St. Louis beer, ice cold, and drawn from the celebrated German Fountain.

Where is Key West?

Key West is one of the busiest manufacturing spots on the Atlantic coast. Cigars, of course, constitute the principle article of export. The Key West is situated on the Florida coast, only sixty miles from Havana. The famous Key West cigars are made from tobacco of the finest Havana procurable, and made by Cuban workmen. The tobacco only has to pay an import duty of $2.50 per pound and 25 per cent ad valorum on cigars. The climate is the same as in Cuba, consequently the aroma is the same as in the imported cigars. Smokers should take these facts into consideration and call on Ashmun & Walker, who have just received a fresh stock of the best brands of Key West Cigars, including the "Estrella," "Celonia," "La Countess," and other favorite brands. c9tf

[illegible]

Messrs. Bradshaw and M[illegible] have entered into an agreement with the manager of the Southwestern Ice Company whereby they will be able to present every customer with 20 pounds of ice free with each barrel of beer. They have also reduced the price of beer from $6.25 to $5.50 per keg. As this is cheaper and better beer than the bottled beer, there is no doubt but what every saloon in town will now keep beer on draught.

Thomas Gardiner, who is the owner of the colt which is to run against Fashion on Sunday next, arrived in this city to-day bringing two more colts which he will enter for races on that day.

J. M. Nash returned from his ranch yesterday.

Messrs. Gus Williams and Billy Creighton went down the river to-day to slaughter some of the innocent ducks that infest that locality.

Messrs. Wolcott & Mesick have just received a car load of fresh apple. tf
