SEA AND SHORE.

A Serious Collision Between Two River Steamers.

Loss of the Bark Nellie May Confirmed—The Schooner Seven Sisters Returns to Port. Strong Winds Off Shore.

At an early hour yesterday morning a collision occurred between two stern-wheel river steamers at Jackson-street Wharf, whereby one, the Aurora, was seriously, and the other, the Mary Garratt, slightly, damaged. The former belongs to the California Transportation Company and the latter is the property of the California Steam Navigation.

The steamer City of Stockton, which collided with a schooner on Thursday night, has been laid off at Stockton for repairs, and the Mary Garratt was put on in her place.

CRASHED INTO HER SIDE.

The Mary Garratt, Captain McMurtry, arrived from Stockton about 4 o'clock yesterday morning and entered the slip between Washington and Jackson street wharves, intending to make fast at her berth on the south side of the slip.

Suddenly, without warning, she sheered across the slip at a good rate of speed and crashed into the Aurora, which was made fast on the south side of Jackson-street Wharf.

She struck the Aurora with her bow right aft on the port side, cutting through the fan-tail, splitting the engine timbers and deck and crushing her against the wharf.

The Aurora was driven ahead by the strain and carried away five strong mooring lines she had out. As she forged ahead the dock apron, which was down, raked her side for about twenty-four feet, smashing into splinters the upper deck stairs, bulwarks, sail and covering boards.

The apron, of course, was smashed, but it materially deadened the boat's headway, or the results would have been more serious, as the Aurora would undoubtedly have had her bows stove in.

SLOOP AND WHARF DAMAGED.

Before the Mary Garratt backed away the Aurora struck the jibboom of the sloop Solferino, carrying it away, and then crashed into the wharf, splitting the cap block and stringer and ripping the planking for about five feet. Her bow was slightly damaged when she struck.

The Aurora is very badly strained and damaged, and her repairs will cost a considerable amount of money. The only damage to be seen to the Mary Garratt is a hole on the port side near the stern.

A DECK-HAND BADLY BRUISED.

When the accident occurred a deck-hand of the Garratt, known as "Antioch," was standing right in the bow. A pile of sacks of flour dislodged by the shock fell on him, and he was badly bruised about the chest.

The sloop Solferino is the same one that was run into and badly damaged by the steamer J. D. Peters some four months ago. She runs regularly to Novato, and was loaded for that port, intending to sail at daylight. Captain J. M. Mazeas, her owner, says that besides the loss of a new bowsprit the vessel is opened forward and is leaking and the mast is spring. She will have to go on the ways. Her cargo was transferred to another vessel, and Captain Mazeas estimates his damage at $500.

HOW IT OCCURRED.

The engineer of the Mary Garratt states that after the boat was in the slip he received a signal of one bell to go ahead and that he has two witnesses to prove it. It is presumed that the signal meant to be given was the one to go astern. The facts will no doubt come out when the local inspectors hold their investigation.

THE NELLIE MAY LOST.

Word has been received from Victoria, B. C., that a ship's boat bearing the name Nellie May had been picked up near Clayoquot, on the west side of Vancouver Island, and that a large quantity of wreckage and fresh-cut lumber had washed ashore there. This, no doubt, settles the fate of the bark Nellie May, of which nothing has been heard since last January.

The bark sailed from Port Madison for this port on January 23d last with a cargo of 550,000 feet of lumber, consigned to E. M. Herrick of 17 Steuart street. Her dimensions were: Length 143, beam 42, depth 20 feet; gross tonnage 699. She was built at Newcastle, Mass., in 1867, and her home port was Port Townsend, Wash. W. P. Sayward being her managing owner.

The weather was hazy at Point Lobos yesterday and the wind all day from the northwest, blowing six miles an hour early in the morning, increasing in the afternoon to twenty-four miles an hour. The barometer read: 8 o'clock in the morning 30.20, noon 30.20, 5 o'clock in the afternoon 30.14.

A SCHOONER RETURNS.

The schooner Seven Sisters, Captain Olsen, which left here on April 5th for Humboldt, returned to port yesterday afternoon, having carried away her maintsail and jib off Point Arena on April 9th.

The steamer Corona, Captain Hannah, arrived yesterday, 18 hours from Eureka, bringing 66 cabin and 13 steerage passengers. Among the freight was 206 sacks of peas and $8818 treasure.

The schooner Mary Dodge has returned to Humboldt from Honolulu in ballast. She was 15 days on the passage up, and made the round trip in 48 days.

There must have been strong breezes blowing up the coast and away off shore for the last few days. The steamer Mariposa reported encountering a heavy northwest swell the day before entering port, and a number of schooners have had to return to port partially disabled.

Yesterday the schooner Argonaut arrived after a quick run of 3½ days from Grays Harbor, and the schooner Gem made the passage from Umpqua in 2½ days.

A NEW FOUR-MASTER.

Charles Hooper and others of this city have contracted with Fraser Matthews, the ship-builder of Eureka, to build for them a four-masted schooner, work on which will commence at once. The dimensions of the new vessel will be: Length of keel, 155; beam 45.8, depth of hold 14 feet; carrying capacity 500,000 feet of lumber. Captain Peterson, now of the Maggie C. Russ, who is one of the owners, will have command on her completion.

The bark Annie Johnson, brig Deacon and schooner Annie towed to sea early yesterday morning.

The ship Ardmillan will dock at Green street to-day, and the steamer Mariposa will go up to the refinery.

The ship Rowena came down from Port Costa and anchored in the stream.

The ship Benicia will go up to Nevada Dock to-day.

In Memory of Saffi.

The death at Bologna of the eminent Italian patriot, philosopher and moralist, Aurelio Saffi, the greatest republican educator since the death of Mazzini, has created a profound sorrow among the better class of Italian-Americans of this city. A meeting in his memory was held yesterday at 729 Montgomery street, and resolutions of condolence passed and telegraphed to his noble widow and family, with the request to be represented at his funeral. J. Calegaris presided with V. Papina as Secretary. The meeting was well attended, and an eloquent tribute of respect paid to the memory and works of the illustrious dead.
