

Saint Mary's Beacon
COUNTY NEWS.

Ho! for Ever Springs.
Grand Christmas entertainment on Tuesday, Dec. 28th, by the ladies of All Saints Parish. For the benefit of their Rectory fund. Operetta—"The Cadets Picnic." Farce—"Wooling under difficulties." Seats, 15, 25 and 35 cts. Performance to begin at 8 p. m. To conclude with oyster supper and dance. All cordially invited.

Dwelling Burned.
Mr. John S. Haley informs us that Saturday evening last Mr. W. D. Bedford's house, near Herman's store in the 8th district, caught fire and was burned to the ground. A defective fuse is said to have been the cause of the fire. Most of the furniture was saved. Mr. Bedford is a new comer to our county and we sincerely regret the misfortune that has overtaken him. The house has been built about five years. It is reported that there was no insurance on the building.

Localwise and Otherwise.
We wish you a Happy Christmas!
In remembering your friends don't overlook the printer.
Misses Mary and Rosa Loker, of Leonardtown, have returned from their city trip.

On our first page will be found a story and other matter suitable for the Christmas time.

The first snow to "show up" fell on the night of Tuesday, December 21st, instant.

Christmas Holidays are on hand and we hope they will pass pleasantly for one and all.

Capt. William K. Watts, of the Second District, is again with Capt. C. R. Lewis at Lewistown, Virginia.

Christmas Candy, Fruits, Nuts, Cakes, &c. French Mixed Candy. Best for 5 cents per pound at Lawrence's.

Billy Lyles, colored, died recently near Leonardtown. Lyles was going about a few days before his death.

Mr. P. O. Budd, is clerking during the Christmas Holidays at Mr. William A. Loker's store. Call and see him!

The Baltimore American of December 29th prints an excellent picture of Capt. William C. Geoghegan of the Steamer Potomac.

Edward Wheeler died suddenly Friday morning last at his residence near California. He leaves a wife and two children.

Owing to the extremely low tide and adverse wind, the Lancaster did not make Leonardtown wharf Saturday last. Passengers were taken on board from small boats.

We are in receipt of a poem and a letter from a Fishing Point correspondent which we are obliged to hold over for another issue.

Mr. Robt. W. Yates, of Colton's Paint, writes us that he "had 5 hogs, 14 months old, that weighed respectively: 451, 424, 342, 341, 314 pounds.

Judge J. W. G. Blackstone has been re-elected in Accomac county, Virginia. Judge Blackstone, it will be remembered, defended Wood Chase.

Mrs. L. A. Jones has just received a large supply of Xmas goods, consisting of all the novelties of the season. She invites all to call and see them.

A new schedule goes into effect with the Weems Line on Saturday, Dec. 25th, on the Patuxent, and on Tuesday, Dec. 28th, on the Potomac. See ads.

Saturday last, Joseph H. Milburn of Leonardtown, left per Lancaster, en route to Norfolk, to purchase lumber for the new Catholic Church to be builded near old St. John's.

It is reported that Dr. F. F. Greenwell and family will move to Leonardtown after Christmas. The doctor will reside in the house now occupied by Mr. James J. Greenwell, who will move to "Hunter's Retreat."

Last week, Messrs. Adams Bros. of St. George's Island, killed a 15 months old hog that weighed 446 pounds. Trice & Hobbs, also of the Island, killed one weighing 352 pounds.

Miss Sutton, of La Grange, N. C., Junior at the Western Maryland College, is spending the holidays with her classmate, Miss Erva Foxwell, at the residence of her father, Mr. Thos. F. Foxwell, near Leonardtown.

A friend of ours, residing in the 8th district, had one child born to him May 4, 1896, and twins born April 26, 1897. We hope they may all live to comfort and brighten the old age of their now youthful father and mother.

Moving day is near at hand. Those of our subscribers who change their post-offices will please notify us promptly, giving the name of the post office they leave as well as the one to which they remove.

Christmas Day Masses at St. Aloysius' Leonardtown, will be at 6, 7 and 10:30 A. M. The bell will ring at 5 A. M. to arouse the early church-goers. There will also be Masses on Christmas Day at St. Joseph's, St. John's and Sacred Heart.

Our little local on red foxes has elicited the information that last year Mr. James C. Wise's pack killed two reds, and about three weeks ago the same dogs caught another. Mr. Wise has the finest fox-hounds in this section and we believe they are the fastest in Southern Maryland.

The Baltimore Sun of Saturday, December 18th, instant, reports that Senator Wilkinson has called upon Postmaster General Gary and requested the appointment of Mr. John R. Garner as postmaster at Hollywood. The office is now in charge of Mrs. S. C. Thompson, whose term has expired.

Lowtown Locals.
(From our Regular Correspondent.)
Question.—Much sickness?
Answer.—Some chills and fever.

Q.—What is the treatment of doctors?
A.—A cathartic and quinine.
Q.—Any courting?
A.—Well, a-b-e-m, there seems to be some love making being done.

Q.—How do you know this?
A.—We do not know it, we only surmise that it is being done, because we occasionally hear young men say such and such a young lady is his "pet," his "darling," his "angel."

Q.—Are the roads in good traveling condition?
A.—In consequence of the recent rains they are sloppy. We miss Bob Pembroke. We are not a fault finder—a pessimist.

Q.—Much sawing and grinding?
A.—Owners of mills seemingly do a fairly good business notwithstanding the fact that meal sometimes is coarse and planks are not uniformly sawed, i. e., thicker at one end than at the other. Let this be entre nous, please.

Q.—Do any accidents occur in mills?
A.—Although the balls of the governor often fly out by centrifugal force, an indication that the machine is going too fast, no accidents occur. Thanks.

Q.—Any hog killing?
A.—Farmers have finished killing we believe.

Q.—Why did they kill so early?
A.—Well, for two reasons. First, the fear of the appearance of the cholera. Second, to economize feed—corn.

Q.—Any heavy weights?
A.—300 lbs., maximum.
Q.—Schools progressing?
A.—Teachers, white and Afro-American, apparently are well pleased with progress, attendance and average of their respective pupils.

Q.—Any base ball playing?
A.—The national game seems to be losing favor hereabout. "Keep the ball in motion," is no longer heard as a motto.

Q.—Much Xmas preparation?
A.—We hear that some "fixing up" is being made. Children no doubt feel Xmas in their bones. They have St. Nicholas in their mind's eyes. Abandon Xmas festivities and children would be content dependent. The ghost of Washington Irving would rise to rebuke us for such action.

Q.—Any parties, cold water and otherwise?
A.—Fiddlers tell us that it is "mighty dull" with them. We hear that a "Stag" dance is going to take place soon. A Jury affair, indeed.

Q.—How are Ex-Rebs, Dan Hammett, Dallas Evans, Walter Wood and others getting along these hard money times?
A.—Swimmingly. They love their Maker and their neighbors. They are buoyed up by hope, and are perfectly well satisfied to read occasionally the 13th Article of the Constitution of the United States.

Q.—Any Independent Republicans in St. Inigo's district?
A.—A-b-e-m, we'll turn 'Yankee' and answer by asking, did Acha make his children pass through fire to consecrate them to the false god Moloch?

Q.—Any gays in Lowtown?
A.—A few, and the citizens don't get scared worth a cent when they land at Miller's wharf and think that they were "horned hogs" as did the natives of the Pacific Islands when Captain Cook carried a dozen or more there.

Q.—Sleepy?
A.—Yes, sirs, by the way, I believe that a strong mind in a strong body depends on sleep and plenty of it. Good night. Pleasant dreams and a happy Xmas.
ALFAMA.

There is no medicine in the world equal to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the cure of throat and lung diseases. This is a fact that has been proven in innumerable cases. Here is a sample of thousands of letters received: "I have tried Chamberlain's Cough Remedy while suffering from a severe throat trouble, and found immediate and effective relief. I can unhesitatingly recommend it."—Ed. W. WHITTEMORE, Editor Grand Rivers (Ky.) Herald. For sale by William F. Greenwell & Son, Leonardtown; Jos. S. Matthews, Valley Lee.

For the Holidays.
We call the special attention of our patrons and the public generally to our well assorted supply of Xmas and Holiday goods. Prices very low. Best broken candy 3/4 cts. per lb; loose raisins, 4/4 cts. per lb; London layers, 10 cts. per lb; mixed nuts, 10 cts. per lb. Other goods in proportion.
We have some big inducements to offer you in ladies' capes and cloaks.

First District Items.
Well, dear readers, did you think "Three Stars" was dead? No, not dead but sleeping. Sleeping in the literary sense of the word but now he has awakened and hopes to give you the First District Items more regular in the future.

The great feast of Christmas is near at hand and every one is busy preparing for the joyful time. Little children are eagerly counting the days before Santa Claus will come. When I was in Town last week I saw him busily engaged digging gold on the Klondike. So look forward for a big Xmas.

Messrs. Birch, Wilkinson and Tennis have received large stocks of Xmas goods. Mr. Birch has just completed his new store and has everything on sale. Mamma's who want nice and cheap goods call on friend Raymond.

Mr. Morris, of Jutland, is dangerously ill from a cancer.
Master Benjamin Cullison, of Baltimore, is on a visit to his uncle in this neighborhood.
Mr. Henry Wible, of the Pine, butchered three hogs. The three weighed 1228 pounds. One weighed 504 pounds. Who can beat Mr. Wible?

Mr. Beaman will you please say in your issue which boat is the oldest the Potomac or the Lancaster? And if Mr. Lewis did not run her sometime before she was bought by the Weems' Company.

Three Stars.
The Lancaster. Mr. Lewis never owned or ran the Lancaster.

Uncle Ned.
Dear Little Readers:—As good old merry Xmas is near at hand, I don't know a subject more suitable for you. It is a time when you rejoice in every heart, both old and young, with few exceptions.

(I have once seen in my life one poor creature that never laughed. I was then quite a youth, but I looked deeply into that face and that character, and it has taught me valuable lessons.) But I am speaking of merry Xmas, when the world over is filled, with joy and gladness—when the fond parents lay aside their cares and mingle their joys with the little ones—when the fond husband clasps his loving companion to his bosom and speaks out, as it were, "children, behold the messiah"—when eloquence is poured forth throughout the world from every breath and pulpit, proclaiming the light of a Saviour is dawned upon the world, that He comes to welcome alike the sinner and the saint to His great heart of hearts—when thousands of voices from every choir ring out the anthems on the midnight air, and the organ peals out in thundering tones to do honor to Him who comes to bring the "glad tidings of great joy"—when smiles are seen upon every face and gladness plays round about every heart—when the poor hopeless urchin is startled by some gift from the hand of charity, his little heart bounding with joy to know that he too is remembered—when the tables are spread with all the delicacies and dainties imaginable and the heart is filled with childhood's glow—when gifts and well-wishes are exchanged and the opened door bids welcome to all—when the world is a mass of artificial light, the heavens ablaze with illumination amid the roar and laughter of God's little ones—when the aged and infirm whose cheeks are furrowed and whose once manly and graceful forms now bent down with years cry out in their hearts with Simon of old, "Lord, it is enough that mine eyes hath seen," &c.—when the little babe is lulled to sleep and the mother's heart goes back across the long bridge of centuries that span the time when the infant Saviour was nestled in a virgin mother's arms. It is, my little readers, a time of universal joy.

It is a time when the merchant stands behind his counter exhibiting his toys and his dainties and he likes to see the little folks and the big folks come in and supply themselves for a joyful time, and, by the way, U. N. is requested to say that there is a nice lot of stockings kept on hand at the "Three Gates" store—all sizes—some of them, I think, would hold about a bushel, and some would come in for the babies. Then there are some suitable for the boys and the misses—and—well, the beaux will take care of the larger ones.

Well, little readers, I don't know when you will hear from your old friend again, perhaps not for a long time. He stole these moments from himself as a benediction for the outgoing year. It is hard to tell what may take place before another Xmas comes after this. He may hang up his fiddle and the bow for what he knows, but he hopes to be in the land of the living for many years yet and to give you some more lessons in the future. It has not been his aim to mislead you, and he hopes that you have or will profit by his simple notes. If he has said anything, politically speaking, he is sorry for, he is glad of it, and whilst he departs from you for the present he still clings to the old "forsaken bough," believing as he does that the best policy is to be what you are and nothing else but that one thing. He now bids you a good bye for the present and wishes you and all his friends, young and old, a merry and a very happy Xmas.

UNCLE NED.
P. S. Would like some of my little readers to tell me the monster alluded to in last issue through next issue of the BEACON.

(Written for the Beacon.)
A Courting Mishap.
Two Leonardtown sports a-courting went the hours of both best quick.
The road was dark, their mare was fast
And they hustled along so fast.
These were so handy with their heels
And "oh how skimming they were!"
Who's the car? O' returned and a-courting boy
Went rootin' in the mud.
His friend fell on him as he lay
And though deep in that mud hole "mashed"
He did not groan, but quick did say
"My bottle isn't smashed."
The boys kept on and soon arrived,
Their spirits sure were good,
Their lines were cast in a pleasant piece,
For they were near H-v-w-d.

(Communicated.)
The L. M. and S.
A meeting was held at the residence of Mr. C. W. Foxwell, recently, by a number of persons who were desirous of cultivating the social spirit and who cherished the opinion that a musical and literary society would conduce to their moral and mental improvement. A committee for a permanent organization was chosen and on December 8th a constitution and by-laws adopted. Persons, both male and female, are eligible to membership, and the mutual enjoyment and usefulness to be found in such a union is appreciated. With the assurance of success of The L. M. & S., Leonardtown will be dearer to the Muses.

The following is a list of the officers: Mr. W. D. Henry, President; Mr. C. W. Foxwell, 1st Vice-President; Miss Mollie Foxwell, 2nd Vice-President; Mr. Frank Foxwell, Recording Secretary; Miss Pauline Hammett, Assistant Recording Secretary; Mr. C. G. Jarboe, Corresponding Secretary; Mr. M. S. Green, Treasurer.

(Correspondence of the Beacon.)
There was an interesting gathering of the family and descendants of Mr. Martin Wible at his old homestead near Hollywood on Saturday last, the occasion being the eightieth anniversary of his birth. Mr. Wible came to this country about sixty years ago, having a wife and one child. He now numbers among his descendants twelve children, fifty-four grand and eleven great grandchildren. Of these, fifty four were present on the occasion referred to, together with a number of friends and neighbors who were glad to honor this Patriarch of the Wible family by their presence. The old gentleman has "grown old gracefully," and enjoys the pleasures of life with as much zest as those many years younger than himself. He is hale and active, and in his good old age is enjoying the blessings of a temperate and well-spent life. His many friends and relatives testified their appreciation of him by a variety of handsome presents. Among those which seemed to delight him most, was a large twist of country tobacco, sent him by his old friend, Col. John F. Dent. When this was presented to him, he manifested his pleasure by bringing a "double shuffle," the nimbleness of which excited the envy of all present. We hope he will live to enjoy many more family reunions.

(Communicated.)
Editors Beacon.—One of the most impressive scenes witnessed for many years was the occasion of the celebration of the eightieth birthday of Mr. Martin Wible, at the home of his son, Jos. C. Wible, on Saturday, 18th instant. Over seventy guests, including his four sons, one daughter, twenty-nine grandchildren and ten great grand children partook of the beautifully prepared meal of turkey, stuffed ham, oysters and other goodies too numerous to mention. The table was most beautifully and tastefully decorated with flowers and evergreen. The confectionery table was oh! just lovely. It was loaded with sweets, and the cake prepared by an experienced baker of Baltimore placed in the centre, was magnificent to behold. Mr. Wible, the subject of this celebration, was in the best of health and looking as well as he did twenty years ago. His face beamed with joy, making manifest the happy emotion which swelled up in his heart, and well might it be so, for the love and affection of his children, thus revealed, rendered the occasion one of the happiest of his life. Years may come and go, and mayhap many changes will be wrought, but all who took part in this festive scene, will ever remember the occasion as being one of the most impressive of their lives.

May many years yet be his, and each anniversary marked by such a love token of his children, grand children, and possibly by his great great grand children is the wish of your humble correspondent.
