

Saint Mary's Beacon
COUNTY NEWS.

Localwise and Otherwise

We are now having an abundance of rain.

Don't fail to attend the meetings of the Young Women's U. T. U.

Miss Nettie Knight, of Leonardtown, is at home from the State Normal School.

The Republican State Central Committee did not fix the date of the State Convention.

The Democratic State Central Committee will meet in Baltimore to-day, (Wednesday).

Dr. Payne will be at Chaptico Wednesday, 21st instant, to attend to professional calls.

St. Mary's Female Seminary will commence Wednesday, June 21st, instant. See advertisement.

The Charlotte Hall cadets went into camp at River Springs, Tuesday last, June 19th, instant.

There were eighty-four persons with the Sun Brothers Shows and it was a well behaved crowd.

A beautiful assortment of neck wear—the latest—just received at F. O. Morgan's, Leonardtown.

The sun did not shine on Sun Bros. show Monday last, and in consequence the attendance was small.

The Orphans' and Commissioners' Courts were in session Tuesday last and transacted routine business.

The commencement at St. Mary's Academy, Leonardtown, will be on Monday, June 19th, instant.

Mrs. Julia A. Guy, of "Holly Hill," who, for the past four months, has been very sick, is much improved.

County Commissioner Dominic Bowles has so far recovered from his recent accident as to be able to attend the meetings of the Levy Court.

A valuable horse, known as "Clifton," belonging to Mr. George F. Collison, of Cedar Point, was killed by lightning Friday evening of last week.

Messrs. J. Frank Smith and B. H. Camalier left Leonardtown, Tuesday last to attend the meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Wednesday of last week, while cultivating his corn George W. Edwards, of St. Inigo's Neck, was overcome by the heat and had to be carried into his house.

Messrs. Reintzwell and Bradshaw, of the Board of Election Supervisors, met in Leonardtown Tuesday last and examined the Judges of Election who are to act as Registers of Voters.

The Summer Time Table of the Washington and Potomac Railroad went into effect June 5, instant, at 6.45 p. m. There are now two daily trains from Mechanicsville, one at 5.35, a. m.; the other at 1.30, p. m.

It is reported here that Friday's storm greatly damaged Mr. J. Thomas Brown's orchard and injured his wheat crop.

During the same storm Mr. John Wheatley, of St. Inigo's Neck, had some of his cattle killed by lightning.

Tuesday last, Mr. Lewis E. Tension reported the drowning of Frank Lawrence, son of John Lawrence, colored, of St. Inigo's. The young man was drowned by the capsizing of his boat on Chesapeake Bay during Friday's storm.

Stacks of new goods just received at F. O. Morgan's Leonardtown, and prices very low. A specialty this season with Mr. Morgan is gentlemen's silk boomer shirts in all colors. They are beautiful, and range in price from 75 cts. to $1.50.

Constable Frank Bateman, of Belair, was fatally shot by John Hays in Belair while serving a warrant, and in turn killed his assailant. Both men fell together, Bateman on top of Hays, dying within a few hours of each other—Sun.

Recently, a horse and buggy belonging to Mr. George F. Tension and driven by his son Sebastian, went through a bridge. By the aid of neighbors the horse was rescued and it is hoped was not seriously injured. The buggy was broken.

May 27th, ultimo, a carrier pigeon came to Capt. J. T. Jarboe's, at mouth of Canoe Neck Creek and on the following morning was found dead in the yard. On one of the bird's legs was a brass band marked LX and on the other an aluminum band numbered NA-9818.

The Reverend Pastor of St. Joseph's is giving a course of sermons on the "Holy Eucharist," during the month of June. The subject of the sermon next Sunday, June 18th, is: "Sacrifice an Essential Part of a Divine Religion"; Sunday, June 25th, "The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass."

The mad-dog scare is still on in Patuxent, and recently two supposed rabid animals have been killed, one belonging to Mr. James Ferguson, and the other to Morris Rustin, colored. On Monday, a dog supposed to be mad came to Mr. W. W. Joy's and killed a number of chickens.

Friday last, Robert W. Butler, colored, alias Pigeon Butler, confined in the county jail on warrant of Justice P. H. J. Readmond was brought before Judge Crane on a writ of habeas corpus and released. Messrs. Ching & Henry represented the prisoner. The magistrate had no jurisdiction to finally try the prisoner and the commitment was defective.

The Baltimore American reports Hon. Sydney E. Mudd as saying that the reason the 1898 Republican primary notice was published in a Democratic paper was because "I wanted some Democratic votes, and I got 'em too." Mr. Mudd must surely be mistaken about getting Democratic votes, for he is about the last man in the State a Democrat would vote for. Mr. Mudd may be all right for Republicans, but for Democrats, he is tectotally and entirely wrong.

Uncle Ned's Letter.

Well, little readers, to simply say that it is warm could hardly fill the measure of temperature, so we will give you the benefit of both the adjectives "hot and warm," like the fellow who wrote his letter and then placed all the punctuations points at the bottom, telling his reader to use them to suit his own liking.

Harvest time has come again and it reminds us of the years as they come and go, and it may be called the "farmer's anniversary," when the table is spread with lamb and peas, spring chicken, etc., and all sorts of delicacies that make one forget his toils of the day.

Between two and three hundred hands are now daily employed on the Susquehanna farm in their various occupations. The pea season will soon be over and then begins the work for tomatoes. Refreshing showers on Thursday and Friday evening. Farmers may now finish planting tobacco. Tobacco rapidly going into market from our section. Corn on the "rise"—about knee-high in some parts of our hundreds. We notice fresh supplies at "Three Gates," viz: Yager's Compound, Sandford's Mixture, Honey-Tulo, Anti-Fog, Worm Confections, Scott's Emulsion, Indian Toothache Drops, &c. These little articles don't cost much all put together, and may save much pain and heavy doctor bills, if persons would take the hint and supply themselves.

Can't always put your hands on the doctor, but you can tell Bridget to go to the medicine department and bring you what you need for yourself and the little ones and perhaps save all that suffering and pain whilst you are going miles for the doctor. If you can't get along without him then, of course send for him. They must live—so must Mrs. Yager and Sanford and others who, perhaps, have spent years and years of hard study for man's benefit—and we think that they should be patronized so long as their medicines are approved by the Medical Faculty. Dr. Chambers, we learn, is about to locate amongst us. We have met the Dr. and he seems a very clever gentleman. If Old Sol continues to "fire up" we fear that there will be much sickness during the Summer and fall months. And now, little friends, we will conclude with a few useful hints for the thoughtful.

We should forget other's faults by remembering our own, and not forget our own by remembering others.

One little unkind word thrown into the path of success may check the wheels of progress in our own life.

One little drop of curiosity to gratify the taste may swell to the enormity of measure that leads to vice and crime.

One little kind word fitly spoken may serve as the turning point of one's life, severing the chains of delusion that lead perhaps to ruin and to shame.

One little match ignited is sufficient to set the whole world ablaze, and one little act of charity or kindness may deface more than a thousand faults.

One little pebble cast upon the smooth bosom of the water will disturb its whole surface, and one little stain upon the character allowed to spread its venomous effects may tarnish one's whole life thereafter.

One little push up hill in time of need may so shape one's life that the return of a thousand fold may in future years be the result.

One moment at a time and the longest life is ended.

One stitch at a time and the longest rent is mended.

"It is what we are, not what we might have been. The selfish heart, disowns the world akin. The busy tongue that 'sits' and leaves their bitter sting. And makes up what we are, not what we might have been." U. N.

Orphans' Court.

Court met—all the officers present—Bond of A. E. Bowling, admr. of Chas. H. Buckler, filed and approved, and letters of administration granted John H. Parsons and James T. Harrison appointed to appraise personal estate.

Account of R. T. Turner, vs. estate of W. G. Gough examined and passed by court for $357.90.

J. M. Dent, Executor of John F. Dent reported sale of "Little Hackly" and ratification nisi ordered by court.

Last will and testament of Thomas R. Biscoe filed.

Court adjourned to meet Tuesday, June 27th, 1899.

Eighth District Locals.

Mr. Adron, of Baltimore, is the guest of Justice Magill.

William Biscoe, colored, who, in a supposed state of frenzy attacked a Baltimore policeman a few weeks ago, is reported to be much better.

Mrs. H. A. Wise and family have returned to their home in Baltimore.

Mrs. McHammett is on a visit to her relatives in Calvert county.

We hear that the lightning struck a locust tree in Dr. Richardson's yard and also played a destructive part in Mr. John Hilton's orchard.

5 and 10 Cent Store.

The latest thing in Leonardtown is an up to date 5 and 10 cent store. Whenever you come to Leonardtown, don't fail to go and see the many valuable articles you can buy for 5 and 10 cents. You will be surprised. The store is in charge of Miss Daisy Longmore and under the personal management of Mr. F. O. Morgan. Don't fail to give Miss Daisy a call.

Mr. P. Ketcham of Pike City, Cal., says: "During my brother's late sickness from sciatic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Pain Balm was the only remedy that gave him any relief. Many others have testified to the prompt relief from pain which this liniment affords. For sale by William F. Greenwell & Son, Leonardtown, and all country stores."

Go to Wm. A. Loker for your binding twine, and go at once. You will save money by promptness. It is likely to advance.

Henry A. Wise.

Messrs. Editors:—A short sketch in the Sun and Beacon last week of my good friend Henry A. Wise though he is kindly and flatteringly mentioned yet a few more words in his behalf would be eminently proper. He was born at Green Holly on the Patuxent river, St. Mary's county, October 4th, 1842. His parents were the late whole-souled and generous Capt. Charles L. and Susanna Wise. He was named for the distinguished orator of Virginia who first stemmed the tide of Know-Nothingism in the fifties. He was educated partly in the public schools of the county and at St. Thomas', Charles county.

In August, 1862, he went to Richmond, and in a few days helped to form and was a member of Co. B, Captain J. P. Crane, 2nd Md. Infantry. His elder brother, Charles B. Wise, was 2nd Lieutenant of the Company and proved to be a brave and worthy officer.

As time moves on the impressions of the war are fast fading away, but to the best of my recollection he never asked for nor obtained a furlough. Consequently his history is the history of the 2nd Maryland. As time and space will not permit of an extended account, a few facts, I hope, will illustrate and make plain his career and characteristics both as a man and a soldier. At Camp Hill, where the Marylanders poured out their best blood, no command went further than the 2nd Maryland, and no soldier went further than Henry A. Wise. At the second battle of Cold Harbor, when the 2nd Maryland was called by the renowned Lee "The Gallant Battalion," we were charged upon by the enemy whilst asleep or no man was quicker to be ready or outstripped him in the pursuit of the flying enemy. In fact, upon the battlefield never was he found wanting nor to duty a truant. Upon the long and weary marches, with scant rations and hungry stomach; during the long, cold winter nights, without shelter and with but little covering—times to try men's souls; no one bore these hardships more heroically or philosophically than he.

After the surrender of Lee at Appomattox he returned to his native place and settled down to the peaceful pursuits of life. In 1868 he married Miss Elizabeth Bates, of New Castle, Delaware. His devoted wife and four children, one son and three daughters, survive him.

Though sick for a long time before his death, he bore his sufferings with Christian fortitude and resignation, being kindly nursed and waited upon by wife and children. Many members of the old command in Baltimore visited him and soothed his declining years and last, but not least, I render in my own name, as well as for the family, heartfelt thanks to Mr. Henry Williams, of Baltimore, for his disinterested friendship and most kindly attention.

His body was brought from Baltimore by the Weems Line to Millstone Landing where, being met by a large concourse of friends from different sections of the county, was taken and buried in old St. Nicholas' graveyard, where his ancestors quietly sleep. Peace to his soul.

Pall bearers were Capt. Geo. Thomas, Judge J. P. Crane, his old Captain, Jos. A. Bean and John F. Duke. J. Frank Bohanan and Jefferson B. Jarboe.

River Spring Items.

(Reported for the Beacon.)

Despite the drenching rain the Charlotte Hall Cadets arrived at River Springs about 1 P. M., Monday, and about sixty of them, accompanied by Majors Thomas and Weedon, are enjoying the salt water breezes, fish, crabs and oysters which are always found at Dr. Blakistone's. "The Boys" were placed under military discipline immediately and their uniforms, guns and soldier-like bearing remind one of the scenes in the Philippines. The commands are heeded so well and everything is in such clockwork manner that it seems almost like an automaton in which "you press the button and it will do the rest." The two drills during the dry, dress parade evening, base-ball games on the 14th, 16th and 19th at 3 P. M., followed by evening dances, will be worth a drive from any part of the county. And we know every one feels interested in our Southern Maryland College, and hope they will encourage the Majors and Cadets by their presence at River Springs during their encampment. The following is a list of the Cadets:

STAFF OFFICERS.
Maj. W. S. Weedon.
Adj. W. A. Leake.
Q. M., E. W. Peterbridge.
Sergt. Maj., J. C. Wilmer.

LEONARDTOWN, ST. MARY'S CO., MD., June 5, 1899.

Editors Beacon—Sir:—May I beg a limited space in your valued journal in which to call the attention of its numerous patrons to "The Henry Watson Children's Aid Society of Baltimore City," an old and highly appreciated institution of our State, which from the date of its organization—September 18, 1860—has, through God's blessing, rescued thousands of children from lives of degradation and crime, the great majority of whom having turned out well, are now filling responsible positions in society.

While thus benefitting our wards, we hope to furnish some slight services to the farmer's family, and thus prove more of a help than a hindrance. This Society believes that the best disposition which can be made of the majority of the unfortunate children who are thrown upon the mercy of the charitable public is to place them in good country homes.

Children who from misfortune or neglect of their natural guardians, are deprived of the happiness of home life, should be taken from their old environments, and placed where they may make new ties, and where they may learn by experience what are the daily cares and joys of happy family life. May we beg your numerous readers, sirs, to aid us in our work, either by taking into his or her household, one of our little wards, or by urging some friend or neighbor to open his doors to one of our boys or girls?

In this connection we would call your special attention to our little tots, ranging from infancy to eight years; our long experience of nearly forty years teaching us that it is much easier to train a child under the age of eight years than over that age, who previous to its reception by us, has received its instruction in our "State schools."

Such, sirs, has been the experience of many receiving our younger children, of which we possess abundant evidence. In families in which there are no young children the above arrangement would be particularly desirable. Our wards go out upon a trial of two months. Should they not prove satisfactory within said term of trial, they can be returned, upon a prompt notification, with cause of complaint, to the Society's office. We wish to find homes of the following kind:

1. Homes in which children of any age may be adopted.

2. Homes in which children of age may be received, and in which they may remain until they are eighteen years of age. They must receive during the intervening years proper physical and moral care, and be given at least four and a-half months' schooling each year, until the age of sixteen has been reached.

3. Homes for boys and girls from 14 to 18 years who, in return for their services, shall receive wages.

A careful oversight is kept of each of our wards, who are visited at regular intervals by our experienced agent. We would gratefully receive the address of any person, able to give a thoroughly good home, to any of our wards.

Applicants and others desiring further information, will please address our special correspondent in Leonardtown, St. Mary's county, Maryland, Mr. C. W. Foxwell, P. M., or Miss Mary Wilcox Brown, General Secretary.

THE HENRY WATSON CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY, Room 14 Wilson Building, No. 301 N. Calvert Street, Baltimore, Md.

SCOTLAND, June 11, 1899.

Messrs. Editors:—As we seldom see in the columns of the dear old BEACON any items from this section, we will endeavor, time permitting, to send you an occasional communication. But we fear that since there is very little of interest transpiring, present our letter at this time will necessarily be dull and hardly worth the reading.

The roar of the surf is plainly audible, and we are reminded of the fact that we are in close proximity to the water—on a mere strip—where the majestic Chesapeake bay, and Potomac river are approaching each other to intermingle their beautiful waters. In the distribution of her bounty, Nature did not overlook this portion of our county, for what greater gift of hers could we wish than to be near these waters, to drink in the invigorating breath that comes over their briny depths, provided always that it is not too heavily laden with mosquitoes? Whew! they are awful things. Of these annoying, undesirable, unfeeling and uncouth pests we have received more than our share, and were generous enough to divide up with some other less favored (unfavored) locality.

But we must dwell longer on these pesty things; will proceed to give more of the good things with which we are blessed. Our farming lands are level and fairly good, and yield well the crops to which they are adapted, namely, corn and wheat. The soil is not suited to the growth of tobacco, hence this crop is cultivated only to a very limited extent.

Corn planting is about over and much of the early corn has received its second working. We observe that this crop is growing more extensively now, which is evidence that our farmers are awakening to its great value. Owing to the late drought wheat, we think, will not be up to the average. With the exception of peas, which were much injured by the extremely hot weather of the past week, vegetables generally are in a thrifty condition. Peas, beans, onions, beets and potatoes are sufficiently matured in some of our gardens for the table, and they are welcome there, too.

We had occasion to pass by the Confederate Cemetery not long since and was delighted to note that at least the place where sleep the gallant dead is receiving some attention. The fence is nicely whitewashed and the grounds have had a preparatory cleaning. Let the good work continue. A spot of this kind should be one of beauty—one to attract the eye of the stranger as he journeys by.

Before another issue of the BEACON is before us the closing days of St. Mary's schools will have arrived, and many will be the happy hearts—teachers and pupils—as they anticipate the period of respite in store for them during vacation.

Prof. Joy visited Scotland school last week. We had the pleasure of seeing him, and found him the same pleasant and refined gentleman as of old. By virtue of our right we were present to witness the examination of the pupils and we cannot refrain from saying that he is truly a joy (Joy) in the school-room. He makes no hurried tests of the schools, but as an Examiner, thoroughly interested in his work, and imbued with the full sense of his duties, he goes thoroughly through the different grades and concludes his good work with appropriate remarks to the pupils, in which he endeavors to impress upon their mind the value of education. Let us hope, Messrs. Editors, that he will thus be connected with our schools for a long time. They can't afford to be without him. With best wishes, will write is a food medicine for the body that is thin and for the mother whose milk does not nourish the baby.

It is especially good for the child who is thin and not well nourished by their food; also for the chronic or consumptive child that is losing flesh and strength.

In fact, for all conditions of wasting, it is the food medicine that will nourish and build up the body and give new life and energy when all other means fail.

Should be taken in summer as well as winter.
