MACNEIL, MOORE & CO.

A syndicate of Omaha capitalists, owning 1,500 acres of land south of Fort Washakie, Wyoming Territory, have discovered pure lubricating petroleum in the Shoshone Basin, ten miles south of Lander. The drill tapped a gushing vein at a depth of eighty-two feet, and the vein has been flowing steadily ever since at the rate of 100 barrels a day. Surface petroleum is common in that locality, and Union Pacific machinists have used it successfully as a lubricant. Samples from the well have been tested by chemists and pronounced of superior quality. Numbers of prospect holes are being sunk in the field.
