JAMES W. DAWES, Chairman.

CRETE, Neb., June 12, 1882.

MR. GUY BARTON is a little to previous in aspiring to office in Omaha before he has been a resident of the city six months.

GEN. VAN WYCK seems to be a good antidote to a sleepy senate if the current run of Washington press dispatches is to be credited.

OUTSPOKEN platforms and outspoken candidates will be at a premium in Nebraska during the coming campaign. It is going to be a poor year for straddlers.

THE final outcome of the Kosters murder case is a somewhat sad commentary upon the peculiarities of what is called justice in these parts.

MR. BEECHER has indorsed the freight handling strikers. It now remains to be seen whether the strikers will retaliate by indorsing Mr. Beecher.

DR. MILLER is delighted over the strictures which the Washington reporters of certain papers have made upon Senator Van Wyck's latest speech. The doctor does not see the reports in other papers that commend the junior senator from Nebraska.

THE department of public works in New York has just issued an order that cautions the public against an excessive use of water. Such an order would not be necessary here in Omaha, where thirsty men can always find something more substantial.

MAYOR BOYD says he has done the best he knew how in selecting the board of public works. He certainly had ample time for making the selection and it would seem that at least one man out of three should be from the middle or the laboring class. There are hundreds of mechanics and laborers in Omaha fully qualified and in every respect reliable.

BROTHER BARNES, the Kentucky evangelist, has "converted" Governor Blackburn. Blackburn it will be remembered was the party who attempted to convert New York into a yellow fever hospital during the war. Brother Barnes' achievement throws the efforts of Widow Van Cott and George Washington Frost into the shade.

ALDERMAN O. H. JONES, of Brooklyn has been tried by two juries. One of these juries returned a verdict that Mr. Jones is responsible for the theft of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, embezzled by his brother-in-law, G. A. W. Stuart from the school fund. The other jury, which tried Mr. Jones on a criminal indictment, returned a verdict that Jones is not guilty of helping his brother-in-law to rob the school fund. In other words, Jones did not steal, but he is responsible for the theft all the same.

ONE of Jay Gould's western provinces, better known as the territory of Wyoming, is preparing for another political round up. The province of Wyoming is at present represented in congress by a democratic delegate, but it matters very little to the railroad king, who, as we all know, is a democrat in democratic districts, a republican in republican districts and a doubtful in doubtful districts. It is a foregone conclusion that whoever may carry off the credentials to represent the province of Wyoming in the next congress must wear the brass collar with the U. P. stamp.

CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS.

Congress is just now convulsed over the assessment of office holders for campaign purposes. There are two sides to the question whether office holders ought to be expected to contribute to the success of the party to which they owe their official positions. No political campaign can be conducted without money. Organization is as necessary to a party as it is to an army, and the operation of party machinery becomes expensive just in proportion as the field in which it is to operate is extended. Funds for campaign purposes must be raised from some quarter. Is it not more reasonable to expect that they should be forthcoming more readily from men who reap pecuniary benefit from party organization than from those whose interest in party success is founded on an unselfish attachment to party principles. The only rational objection to such contributions must be that they are in the nature of a forced levy. The present system of soliciting political campaign funds from officials who are pecuniarily interested in the success of their party was adopted many years ago as the most expeditious and, on the whole, the fairest course which could be devised for securing the sinews of war. The practice has taken root in American politics and is likely to remain just as long as patronage is distributed as a reward for partizan service. The BEE does not approve of an enforced levy on office holders without regard to rank or salary. It does not believe that the circular of the congressional committee can be considered a club held over the heads of federal officials to compel the payment of assessments. The record proves that in the past, answers to such calls have been voluntary and that removals from offices have not been made on account of the refusal of any officials to respond to the assessments. Not one-tenth of those to whom circulars were sent in the last national campaign answered the call and there is no evidence that their neglect or refusal was followed by the loss of their positions. If every federal official held his position on the sole ground of his personal qualifications without obligations to party or administration for his incumbency or tenure of office, the obligation to contribute to the expenses of a party campaign would probably be very lightly felt. But while enjoying the benefits of party supremacy it seems to us that federal office holders are not so shamefully abused when they are asked to assist in maintaining the supremacy which to them means continuation and frequently lucrative employment.

THE railroad literary bureau in Nebraska is organizing for the campaign and the columns of the monopoly organs may shortly be expected to teem with the work of the brains of other writers than the editors employed by the corporations to throw dust into the eyes of the voters of the state.

THE democratic and greenback coalition in Maine has nominated Gen. S. J. Anderson, of Portland, as one of their candidates for congress. General Anderson is president of the Portland & Ogdensburg railroad, which goes to show that the anti-monopoly platform of the democ-greenback coalition in Maine is mere bunkum.
