

Saint Mary's Beacon.

LEONARDTOWN, MD.

THURSDAY MORNING, June 26, 1902.

In the event of the President naming a sub-treasurer himself, we hope he will not overlook St. Mary's county. Should he desire to select a bred and born Republican, and a thoroughly competent man for the place, we commend to him the name of Capt. Asa A. Lawrence.

Ex-President Cleveland's recent speech at the Tilden Club banquet has aroused Col. Bryan and he scores the ex-President. Mr. Bryan declares there can be "no such thing as harmony between men like Cleveland and believers in Democratic principles." Mr. Bryan, says among other things, that Cleveland secured his nomination in 1892 by a secret bargain with the financiers; his committee collected from the corporations and spent the largest campaign fund the party ever had; he filled his Cabinet with corporation agents and placed railroad attorneys on the United States bench to look after the interests of their former clients. He turned the Treasury over to a Wall street syndicate, and the financial member of his official family went from Washington to become the private attorney of the man who forced (?) the Treasury Department to sell him Government bonds at 105 and then resold them at 117. He tried to prevent the adoption of the income tax provision, he refused to sign the only tariff-reform measure passed since the war.

His Administration, instead of being a fountain of Democracy, sending forth pure and refreshing streams, became a stagnant pool from whose waters foul vapors arose—poisonous to those who lingered near.

The Mudd-McComas Fight.

Senator McComas has succeeded in having the President stigmatize Aloysius E. Bowling, of this county, as "unfit" for the sub-treasurership at Baltimore and forced Mr. Mudd to drop Bowling and propose another man for the position, viz: James B. Belt, Clerk of the Prince George's Circuit Court. Senator McComas also objects to Belt's appointment and it is likely that he too will fail to land the position. Mr. Mudd has stated in interviews his newspaper opinion of the Senator and our inference therefrom is that the Congressman's real opinion of the Senator would not be suitable for publication. Tuesday's Sun states that the President has announced that the controversy must stop, and that right away, otherwise he will step in, ignore both Senator and Congressman and name a man himself. In an interview with President Roosevelt, Mr. Mudd defended his position and said: "Mr. President, Senator McComas has started out to do me, but I won't be done."

Likely Senator McComas will again call on the President and give his views and we confidently expect to read in the Baltimore dailies of the next few days that Mr. Roosevelt has said to McComas: "Well Senator, I have told Mudd that he must stop calling you."

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, June 23, 1902. On the advice of Senator Hanna, who is too astute a politician not to appreciate the baneful effect on his party of the continued suppression of facts and figures by the War Department, Secretary Root has made public the cost of the Philippine war up to the first of May. By the most conservative methods of figuring which the Secretary could command, the total now aggregates $170,329,586. These figures, large as they are, do not include the $200,000,000 originally paid to Spain nor has he any way of figuring that portion of the cost which has been incurred by the Navy Department and which is not small. Last May, however, the Secretary of the Navy threw some light on the situation by sending to Congress a statement of the total of which aggregated, in round numbers, $20,000,000. It may, therefore, be safely stated that the Philippine Islands have cost this country, up to date, $210,000,000 which would mean, exclusive of the purchase price, an annual expenditure of $50,000,000. So stupendous are these figures that they convey but little to the mind of the average man, but when it is calculated that the Islands have cost every man, woman and child in the United States $3, or to the bread winner who has five mouths to feed, $15, some conception of the expense of being a "world power" can be arrived at.

It is quite a part of the irony of fate that the republican party, which indulged in so much gratuitous levity at the lack of harmony in the democratic ranks, at the beginning of the Fifty seventh Congress, should find itself, at the close of the first session of that Congress more hopelessly divided than were ever the democrats. The message of President Roosevelt urging the republican senators to get together on his policy of Cuban reciprocity accomplished nothing and the two conferences which have followed have served no purpose but to more clearly demonstrate to the country the hopeless division of the party. It is worthy of remark that at neither meeting of the Senators was there any suggestion of promoting harmony by the sacrifice of the trusts and the natural result was a deadlock between the adherents of the Sugar Trust and the Beet Sugar Trust, respectively, from which, in the words of Senator Hanna, "our party will suffer at the polls in the coming election." While, at the eleventh hour, Mr. Hanna came to the rescue of the policy of the administration, it has for some time been an open secret at the Capitol that had the Senator from Ohio thrown his influence, as chairman of the National Committee, into the balance and worked for reciprocity instead of indulging in much quiet enjoyment at the discomfiture of the President, the result would have been different. As it is, all hope of any action looking to the relief of Cuba at the present session has been abandoned.

On Thursday the Senate adopted the Spooner substitute for the Nicaragua Canal bill and, if the Panama Canal Company have been correct in their representations of their ability to furnish a clear title to their property, and if the Colombian government has been sincere in its promises to make the necessary concessions to the United States, the isthmian canal will be built along the Panama-Colon route. In view of the extravagant raid on the treasury which has been perpetrated by the present Congress, Senator Fairbanks found it necessary to attach to the bill an amendment whereby the government is authorized to issue interest bearing gold bonds to the amount of $130,000,000 to defray the expense of the construction of the canal. The canal bill as passed by the Senate and the House but it is expected that the House will finally agree to the Spooner substitute.

The Senate has passed upon all the appropriation bills with the exception of the General Deficiency bill and the only measure of importance which is likely to receive consideration by that body during the remaining hours of the session is the Omnibus Territorial bill which the representatives of the territories still believe to have a fighting chance, as Senator Bate will make an effort to secure consideration of the bill during the coming week. That he can succeed, I do not feel as confident as do Messrs. Rodney, Flynn and Smith, the territorial delegates. A story, which is interesting, if true, is circulating at the Capitol. It is to the effect that Delegate Flynn was approached by Senator Beveridge, chairman of the Committee on Territories, with a proposition to change the name of Oklahoma to "Beveridge" and that Mr. Flynn's refusal to do so resulted in the defeat of the measure in Mr. Beveridge's committee.

On Thursday the House took up the Philippine bill and an earnest debate is being conducted by both sides. Its now appears that the House will insist upon the Senator's concurring in the adoption of the measure reported by the House committee on Insular Affairs. The measure grants a certain form of self-government to the Philippine and is the only proper standard for any nation and the adoption of a silver standard for the Philippines will be an absolute nullification of the republican dogma. The anxiety of the members to adjourn will be in favor of the Senator's proposal, but numerous members are in favor of the bill and it is not probable that the House will adjourn until July 2nd.

The effort of the House committee on Commerce to increase the period of unbroken travel for cattle being shipped by rail, from 28 to 40 hours, and to accomplish which the committee has reported a bill changing the present law, promises to be stoutly contested by the humane societies of the country. Already Mr. C. A. Snow, President of the Washington Humane Society, has forwarded to the committee a letter which reads in part as follows: "The passage of this bill will be a distinctly inhumane and retrogressive act to which I hope the American people will not commit themselves. These animals, vertebrate like ourselves, have sensitive appetites and thirst, and twenty-eight hours, under the present bill, is far too long, especially under trying transportation conditions, to make them eat without food and water. To increase the time to forty hours will involve an added torture which, reduced to intelligible expression, would shock the conscience of the world. How outrageously mean and cowardly to treat these creatures in this way, only because they are voiceless, voiceless defenseless. They give their lives that we may live more abundantly and may an avaricious cattle interest purpose, through the action of Congress, to add torture to sacrifice."

COMMUNICATED. BALTIMORE, June 22, 1902. Messrs. Editors:—It will probably seem to some of your many readers that a spirit of vindictiveness and not regret prompted this communication. I do not wish to be understood at this late date to be casting any reflections or blame on the name of my dead father. He was just and honest, but was easily persuaded, and he must have been badly advised. In your advertising columns of June 19th I note for public sale on July 1st, the farm formerly owned by Elias G. Heard, titled Ashcomb's Freehold and Hanover. Some was the estate of James E. Heard, my father, and was known to me as Heard's Security and Hanover Addition.

The notice of the passing of one's birthplace into other hands very naturally touches a responsive cord in the hearts of those of the family capable of sentiment. Though I left my home and birthplace early in life I have always had a warm spot in my heart for my old home, and know that it was my poor father's wish that the old place remain the property of some member of the family, and to me there never was a more plausible reason why it should not have so remained, but a combination of circumstances willed it otherwise.

When I came to Baltimore in 1873, within one year after, I had paid every bill in this city standing against my father, for which he gave me his note signed by my dear mother and himself. Later on I loaned him sums of money of various denominations at intervals for which I received similar notes until his indebtedness to me amounted to over $1200, with interest from date of issue. I do not remember ever asking my father for one cent except once, but do remember writing to him upon hearing that he intended giving a mortgage to Jos. T. Jarboe on the farm, requesting him to convert my notes into a mortgage there by better securing me and retain the chance to keep the home place in the family, but the request was never granted, and why such a refusal I shall never perhaps know, but home, the land of my birth and joy of my boyhood days will soon be the property of who knows?

At the death of my father I could not force a sale without involving my dear mother whose name was on my notes, but fortunately she had withheld her signature from all other public documents, which gave her a life lean on the estate. Later on, to avoid publicity, the deed of the estate was by agreement signed away by the heirs. Now after years of unfruitful stillness appears the advertisement for which in 1889 I gave my signature to prevent. Alas! the curtain will soon fall which will close the last chapter in which I shall ever take part, though I raise my voice in useless protest.

James J. Ryan vs. John W. Jenson.
In the Circuit Court for St. Mary's county. In Equity.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the specific performance of a contract for the purchase by the defendant from the plaintiff of a tract of land in St. Mary's county called "MULBERRY FIELDS," containing 435 acres, more or less.
The bill states that the defendant on the 15th day of November, 1900, entered into an agreement in writing with the plaintiff for the purchase of a tract or tracts of land called "Mulberry Fields" in St. Mary's county, containing 435 acres, more or less, excepting 5 acres out of same sold to one G. H. Ander, and for the sum of $671.88. That the sum of $500 of said purchase money was paid in cash, and the further sum of $170 according to the agreement, was paid on the 1st day of January, 1901; that the balance of said purchase money was to have been paid on or before the expiration of eighteen months from the date of agreement, with interest from date.
The bill also states, that said agreement further provided that the purchase money for a portion of said property, comprising 164 or 165 acres of the above mentioned tract, which the plaintiff had contracted to sell to one I. E. Zerkowski, at the sum of $10 per acre, which was to have been paid on or before the 1st day of June, 1901, had said contract of purchase been consummated, and that was to have constituted a portion of the balance of the purchase money above referred to, was not paid to the said plaintiff, nor was said contract completed.
The bill also states, that the plaintiff delivered to the defendant the possession of said property and the said defendant entered into possession thereof.
The bill further states, that the defendant has not paid the said balance of the purchase money or any part thereof although demand has been made upon him for the payment of same.
The bill further states, that the said defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

D. 1902, give notice to the said defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor on or before the 11th day of AUGUST next, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to pass as prayed.
