THE SPECULATIVE MARKETS.

Bulls and Bears Unite on 80c As the Wheat Top.

RAILWAY NEWS FOR WALL STREET

No Material Change In Corn—Oats Remain Steady—Provisions Up a Fraction—Cattle Dull And Rather Weak.

CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKETS.

CHICAGO, June 17.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Wheat here and in New York, as well as at minor markets, opened anywhere from ½c to 1½c higher than Saturday's closing range. The wheat pit on the Chicago board of trade has not been so crowded with traders in months. As the result proved, pretty nearly everybody had some wheat for sale. Trading at and around the beginning was on a basis of 79¾c@80¼c for July and 78c@78⅛c for December. This was about 1c better for July than was obtainable at the close of business Saturday, and ⅝c better for December. Around 80c seemed to be the point marked in the speculative mind as the top for the present, at least. The longs locked upon 80c as a good figure to sell out their holdings and the bears to put out fresh lines. The consequence was that the market, big, broad and strong as it seemed to be on the surface, was overwhelmed under a load of offerings, and prices broke. The break did not get fairly started until about noon; July had settled back in the meantime to 79¾c, and once it got to 79⅝@79½c; December had also yielded somewhat, and hung at 77¾c. All the morning conflicting reports came in about rains in the northwest. The weather bulletin did not mention rain, but the barometer was low up there, and the indications pointed strongly to rain. Private advices on the subject were flatly contradictory, and the same was true as to advices on the northwestern crop prospects. Farmers and others, who wrote or wired to their agents or friends, had a great deal to say about the damage already done, and about the urgent need of rain at once; while strange to say, practically everything from railroad sources was directly the other way. This gave ground for the openly expressed suspicion that the railroad reports are being given out for Wall street digestion, rather than for the information of the grain trade. The most sensational item that was "sprung" on the floor was the statement that cash wheat had broken 10c in St. Louis. A little bit of squeeze was run in St. Louis last week, and it seemed to have culminated Saturday. The cash wheat market in that place, to-day, got back 10c nearer its proper relations with June and July. That was all there was to the 10c break, but it served the purpose of causing a vicious break in the futures here. The crowd in the pit, from being strongly and aggressively bullish, became intensely and unreservedly bearish, and was in that mood at the close. Undoubtedly a great mass of long wheat was unloaded and a great lot of wheat was sold short. Some think that it is now a "short market," instead of a "long market," the short interest being especially heavy in December. July broke to 78⅛c, and December to 76¾c; gauged by Saturday's closing range, this showed a decline of ⅛c to ⅝c; and by the top prices of the morning a break of 1⅝c to 2c. The last prices were at a slight recovery, viz: June 80⅛c, July 78⅞c, September 77¾c, December 76¾@76⅞c. The dealings were on a very large scale; Hutchinson was a bidder early "for effect," and a tremendous seller all the rest of the day. He contributed largely to filling the crowd up.

The corn market ruled steady and firm, in spite of some reasons which, at first, appeared to promise a different result. The receipts were much heavier than had been estimated on Saturday, and for Tuesday the estimate was for 503 cars. Export clearances were very light, and orders on either side of the market scarce. The early strength in wheat was considered a favorable feature by the speculators in corn. Business in the speculative branch of trade was small, and chiefly local in character. The fluctuations were narrow and prices show following changes from Saturday's closing figures: June, July and August, ⅛c higher, and September at the same as on the closing day of the previous week.

Oats were stronger early, with trading from ⅛c to ¼c advance, and this was followed by a decline of ¼c. The strength at the opening was attributed to a sympathy with wheat, but the increased offerings at the top proved too much, as there was a lack of demand except at old prices. Speculative trading was not heavy, and an unusually large decrease in the visible supply did not affect the course of values. July sold up to 22¾@22⅞c, and back to 22⅝c, with September at 22⅝@22¾c, early, to 22⅜@22½c; October was offered at 22⅞@23c. No. 2, regular, was quiet around 22⅝c.

In provisions the week opened without much stir. Early in the session indications of increased outside buying made pork advance quickly 15c, and short ribs from 2½c to 5c. Lard, however, was practically undisturbed, and failed to sympathize with its companion articles. The upward turn in short ribs and pork proved, subsequently, to be poorly supported and was soon followed by an easier feeling. Trading in the speculative way was spasmodic, and, upon the whole, under the average. Based on Saturday's last prices, pork closed unchanged to 5c higher, and lard and short ribs unchanged to 2½c higher.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, June 17.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—CATTLE.—About 7,500 native and 2,500 Texans came in to-day. The market opened with the salesmen asking 10c advance, and buyers bidding last Friday and Saturday's prices. The eastern markets, however, were all reported weak and dull, and the trade in native steers finally ruled fairly active and strong, but not quotably higher. The native market was strong for the best cows and heifers, but very slow and weak on the canning trade. Most of the Texans on sale were thin cattle, suitable only for canning, and as there was but little competition for such, sellers were unable to exact any improvement over last Friday's prices. Business in the stocker and feeder line was light, as is usual on Monday. Choice to extra beeves, 1,300 to 1,600 lbs, $4.40@4.65; medium to good steers, 1,350 to 1,500 lbs, $4.05@4.40; 1,200 to 1,350 lbs, $3.55@4.30; 950 to 1,200 lbs, $3.60@4.00; stockers and feeders, 5c to 10c lower, $2.40@3.50; cows, bulls and mixed, steady, at $1.65@2.80; bulls, $2.00@2.50; Texas cattle, steady, steers, $2.30@3.25.

HOGS—The general market was opened by the speculators at strong Saturday's prices, but quickly developed a weak and lifeless movement, by reason of indifferent action on the part of packers. Still later, however, a healthy shipping demand infused some life into the general shipping market, and the market ruled steady at Saturday's bulk transactions, heavy hogs inclining to weakness, and light descriptions tending to strength, sales of good to choice packing and shipping, heavy, being largely at $4.25@4.27½, and up to $4.30 for a few extra quality. The bulk of good packing hogs sold at $4.25, and ordinary packing grades $4.20@4.22½. Some rough, big, coarse stuff sold down to $4.15. Light hogs sold generally at $4.35 for mixed, $4.40 for sorts, 210 lbs down; $4.45@4.50 for Yorkers and $4.55 for fancy singeing selections. Toward noon the market again weakened, light hogs suffering the most owing to the shutting off of the York orders. The closing sales of packing grades were $4.12½@4.20; tops of heavy $4.25@4.27½, and light sorts $4.40@4.42½.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, June 16.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—STOCKS.—There was a nervous and an unsettled feeling in the stock market this morning. Chicago started in selling grangers, and the opinions regarding London orders were conflicting. The room was bearish, and the cliques were supporting specialties. The action of the market at the opening was in sharp contrast with the close on Saturday. The list was weak, especially western stocks, and after the opening at sharp declines, further declines followed during the first hour. Of the opening declines, Missouri Pacific with ⅞ per cent, and St. Paul, Northwestern, and Burlington & Quincy with ¾ per cent each, were the most conspicuous; and of extreme losses, Rock Island at 96¼ was 1¾ per cent lower, and St. Paul at 72, was down 1⅜ per cent. The downward movement met with a check towards 10:30, and small fractional recoveries were generally made; but in few cases were the opening figures again reached, but, later, weakness again prevailed, and St. Paul, especially, displayed a lack of support and reached still lower figures. At 11 o'clock the market was active and weak, at about the lowest prices reached. Grangers, with New England, Lackawanna, Lake Shore, and Northern Pacific, preferred, were active shares, and there was again a brisk business done in the trusts. The pressure of stocks for sale, which marked the declines in the stock market during the first hour was lifted after 11 o'clock, and the market, except for New England, Atchison, St. Paul, Lead trusts, and one or two others, became quite dull, but a firmer tone soon appeared and prices rallied. New England and St. Paul were the most conspicuous in the upward movement and the former rose ¾ and the latter ⅛ per cent, but the changes in the rest of the list were for smaller fractions. The lowest prices of the day in stocks were those reached before noon. Later there was a more limited business, especially in granger stocks. During the last hour there was a pretty general rally in the prices of the stocks which had suffered the most early. The buying was largely by the room traders and did not indicate any change of sentiment, or improvement in railroad conditions in the west. The secret of the weakness was the withdrawal of Alton from the association, and the rate cutting in the northwest caused much unfavorable comment. On the whole, the trusts were not much changed. Chicago Gas and Sugar trusts closed steady, and Lead trusts ⅝ per cent higher. Jersey Central moved up 2 per cent to 112¼; New England was active, and after selling off to 49⅜, reacted 2⅛ per cent, and closed 1⅛ better for the day; Reading gained ⅝. Among the western stocks, Atchison recovered the early loss and closed steady; Burlington also reacted and closed about steady; Rock Island and St. Paul lost 1⅛ per cent each, even after a slight rally. The other charges were not significant. The total sales of stock were 258,937 shares.

OMAHA LIVE STOCK.

Cattle.

Monday, June 17.

The market did not present any essentially new features to-day, prices being about the same as on Saturday, but there was more life and activity to the trade. The cattle were about all sold before the close. The beef and shipping steers sold at $3.40@4.20, but largely at $3.80@4.05. Butchers' stock was scarce, but there was some trading in stock cattle.

Hogs.

Like the cattle market, there was little or no change in the hog market, values remaining about steady. The market was fairly active at the prices and an early clearance was effected.

Sheep.

There were no sheep to make a market.
