The Stars It Is.

The Blue Star base ball club has reorganized and changed their name to the Stars. They are anxious to play any amateur team of Omaha or this vicinity. William Malvin is the manager, 310 South Thirteenth street.

Army Notes.

The following officers have been relieved from further duty in connection with the distinguished marksmen's competition, to date September 3, next, and will proceed to join their respective regiments at Camp George Crook, near Fort Robinson, Neb.: First Lieutenant William A. Mercer, Eighth infantry; Second Lieutenant Grote Hutcheson, Ninth cavalry; Second Lieutenant John C. Gregg, Sixteenth infantry.

So much of paragraph 3, special orders No. 74, current series, Department of the Platte, as directs Lieutenant Colonel John S. Poland, Twenty-first infantry, to proceed to Camp George Crook, Neb., on the adjournment sine die of the general court martial, has been revoked.

Fire in a Bakery.

The fire department was called to the corner of Fifteenth and Williams about 10 o'clock last night to extinguish a blaze in a building owned by John Rachek and used as a bakery by Hamek & Coray. The fire was caused by an overheated oven. Damage about $250 on the building and $300 on the bakery stock.

STATE NEWS.

After Ex-County Clerks.

OSCEOLA, Neb., August 26.—[Special to THE BEE.]—The county of Polk began an action on Saturday in the district court against ex-County Clerk J. F. Kelley, claiming $869.50, money that he had been paid and retained, allowed by the county commissioners for making out the tax list for the years 1884 and 1885.

The county commissioners, at their last meeting, instructed the county attorney to commence an action against ex-County Clerks J. P. Heald and J. F. Kelley to recover money paid to them and allowed by former county commissioners for making out the tax list.

Johnson County's Institute.

TECUMSEH, Neb., August 26.—[Special to THE BEE.]—The Johnson county institute just ended has been a complete success. About eighty-four earnest, wide-awake teachers attended. Mr. Beard, of Maryville, Mo., conducted the sessions. Mrs. Sadie O. Griswold, of Chicago, conducted the primary work. The other instructors were Prof. W. H. Gardner and W. Van Wymer. Friday evening there was a grand musical concert, which was appreciated by the townspeople of Tecumseh. One pleasant feature of the entertainment was the presentation to W. B. Compton, county superintendent, of a large easy chair.

Arcadia News.

ARCADIA, Neb., August 26.—[Special to THE BEE.]—Several excursionists, principally from Illinois, arrived over the B. & M. railroad last evening seeking homes in this section. The real estate men are active and on the alert.

The republican county committee is called to meet August 27. This being the first year of our county under township organization, there will be much work of importance for the county to do. The republican candidates are bobbing up thick and fast. The principal fight will be for county judge and sheriff, there being no less than four candidates for judge and three for sheriff.

Condemned Land for a Road.

CREIGHTON, Neb., August 26.—[Special to THE BEE.]—The committee appointed by County Judge Cooley to condemn the land along the Yankton, Norfolk & Southwestern railroad in this county, returned to this city last night and report the work all done. The committee was accompanied by Attorney Holmes, of Norfolk, who says the twenty-four miles of road in this county is all purchased and that graders will begin work September 10. Two town sites have been purchased by the company in this county.

Odd Fellows Celebrate.

BRAINARD, Neb., August 26.—[Special to THE BEE.]—Charity lodge, No. 108, I. O. O. F., celebrated its sixth anniversary to-day. The members and visiting brothers formed in procession at the hall and, led by the Brainard cornet band, marched to Roosenstocks grove, one-half mile north of town, where dinner was served to more than two hundred. The afternoon was spent with music, toasts and an able address by Rev. H. C. Harmon, of Ulyses.

Suicided Over Family Troubles.

VALENTINE, Neb., August 26.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Lavina George, a sixteen-year-old daughter of James George, a prominent farmer of Seven Creek precinct, in the eastern portion of the county, committed suicide this afternoon by taking strychnine. She died before medical attendance could reach her. A messenger has just reached here for the coroner. Unhappy family relations between the girl and her stepmother is supposed to be the cause.

Traveling Men Coming to Omaha.

BEATRICE, Neb., August 26.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The traveling men's club of this city are making arrangements to turn out seventy-five strong at the parade in Omaha September 4. The club will give a reception to the business men of the city Wednesday evening.

Another Veteran Gone.

Amusements.

Six and seven years ago Richard Golden made some reputation as a comedian in light opera, but at that time no one imagined he would ever attempt character work, and especially in the line found so far east as Maine. But Mr. Golden was born and reared at a little village on the Penobscot river, known as Bucksport. Among the inhabitants was an eccentric old man of the name of Jed Prouty, and it seems that he attracted young Richard's attention and the lad was wont to mimic him. As he grew older and became identified with stage life, Golden conceived the idea and commenced writing the play which he is now producing and presented for the first time in Omaha at Boyd's opera house last night. While there is not much strength to the piece so far as story or plot goes, it serves Mr. Golden's purpose admirably, and furnishes a pleasing entertainment. All the personages in it were taken from life, and they are true to nature. Golden's impersonation of the genuine Yankee is in many respects more than clever, and puts him in the very front rank of young commedians. His best work shows itself in the pathetic scenes, though at no time is it possible to discern a lack of perfection in his performance. His identity is completely lost, by artistic make-up and action, in the person of "Jed Prouty." It is a play that interests all classes and will live. Mr. Golden has surrounded himself with a good company and carries his own scenery, representing Prouty's hotel, Justice Todd's court room, and a well furnished flat in Boston. Those deserving mention are little Millie Smith, who plays the child part; Frank A. Lane, a drummer; Fred Peters and Miss May Irwin. The others were also good.

Mr. W. A. Tibbs is a printer in the office of the Jackson, Miss., Clarion-Ledger. He says that three years ago he was a victim of bad blood, which deprived him of health and threatened serious consequences. He further says that he took S. S. S., and it cured him.

PARENTS BATTLE FOR A BOY.

A Husband and Wife Create a Sensation In Keokuk.

CENTREVILLE BADLY SCORCHED.

Proceedings Begun Against Several Iowa Druggists For a Violation of the Pharmacy Law—The Blue Grass Palace.

A Keokuk Sensation.

KEOKUK, Ia., August 26.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—A big sensation was caused on a principal street here this morning. A woman named Andrews left her husband, who lives near Montrose, about a year ago, taking with her their only child, a boy about three years old. The boy was left with a woman at Alexandria for care and keeping while the mother worked as a domestic. Last night Andrews and a man named Ramsey went to Alexandria and secured possession of the boy. This morning as they were passing through the city they were met by the woman. The men and boy were in a wagon and the woman climbed in and began to fight for the possession of the child. The wagon was driven a distance of two blocks before it was stopped by the police. The men were arrested and the woman carried the boy off in triumph.

A $25,000 Fire.

DES MOINES, Ia., August 26—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Early yesterday morning a fire, supposed to be incendiary, broke out in Houston's furniture store at Centerville, and in two hours the whole northwest corner of the square, including ten store buildings and three warehouses, were completely destroyed. The loss is estimated at $25,000, with insurance of $11,000. Thomas Strode was caught by a falling building and fatally injured. The principal losers are the following: Drake & Son, grocers; Wilson & Miller, grocers; J. W. Houston, furniture; E. E. Silknetter; J. W. Helman, restaurant; Mrs. Richards, millinery; William Stine, harness shop; Singer sewing machine office; G. A. Elliott, law office; Charles Root, restaurant.

Fining the Druggists.

DES MOINES, Ia., August 26.—[Special to THE BEE.]—The commissioners of pharmacy are prosecuting very vigorously violators of the pharmacy law. Each of the commissioners goes out as opportunity offers and looks after the offenders. Commissioner Snider, of Grinnell, has just returned from an expedition of this kind in northwestern Iowa. At Lowden, Cedar county, G. Baumgart was arrested and he pleaded guilty to the charge of selling medicines and poisons without a certificate, and was fined $500 and costs. Dr. Safely, of the same place, was fined $15 and costs for the same offense, and G. Freund, of the same place, was fined $20 and costs for selling a poison without being a registered pharmacist. At Coggin, Linn county, L. G. Hall was mulcted in the sum of $50 and costs for conducting a drug store without being registered as a pharmacist. At Van Horn, in Benton county, Dell G. Files was fined $25 for selling strychnine in the absence of the registered pharmacist who belonged to his firm. At the same place a Mr. Knedet was fined $50 for violation of the liquor law. He held a permit, but it was charged that he was violating its provisions and had allowed unregistered clerks to assist him in the sale of liquor. He surrendered his permit.

The Blue Grass Palace.

CRESTON, Ia., August 26.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Interest in the blue grass palace and exposition increases every day. To-day was Page county day, and also the opening day of the Creston fair. A large crowd was present, including two train loads of excursionists from the west and south. Each excursion brings its band, and the scenes about the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy depot when the crowds are welcomed in the morning are quite stirring. Hon. A. J. Streeter, late candidate for president on the union labor ticket, was the orator to-day, and addressed a vast crowd in the palace. Senator Allison arrived to-day and will deliver an address to-morrow. Everything is moving along nicely, and the weather so far has been fine. To-morrow is Lucas county day. More fine stock and fast horses are entered this year than ever before. Next Saturday will be Chicago, Burlington & Quincy day, which is looked forward to with great anticipation. Rev. Talmage is also expected to preach in the palace next Sunday. Dr. Thomas, the noted Chicago divine, addressed an immense throng at the palace yesterday, delivering a sermon that was highly appreciated.

Shutting Out the Pharmacists.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., August 26—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Petititions were being circulated throughout the city this morning by committees of two from each church to be presented to Judge Hindman, asking that permits be granted to but two druggists in the city to sell liquor according to law. Votes were taken on the question at nearly all the churches last night, large majorities favoring the restriction. A good many look upon it, however, as an unjust discrimination against the pharmacists thus shut out, and equity demands that all should have equal privileges under the law.

He Goes to Jail.

MASON CITY, Ia., August 26.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Joseph Sargent, the crook arrested here Saturday for swindling Clear Lake citizens out of $1,500, was fined in the municipal court $50 and costs. He goes to jail.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Routine Matters Take Up Most of Last Night's Session.

The board of education held a dull and prosy session last night. All the members were present except Mr. Sholes.

Immediately after being called to order the board went into committee of the whole to consider the report of the committee on rules with Mr. Points in the chair.

The rules were acted upon section by section, there being only a few changes made. One change provides that during extreme cold or inclement weather the janitors of schools shall open the buildings at least one hour before time for school to begin.

An amendment was also adopted declaring that any teacher employed in the day schools shall not be eligible to the position of teacher of a night school.

Labor day was added to the list of holidays on which the schools shall be closed.

Dr. Saville offered an amendment to change the time of closing the schools from the last Friday to the third Friday in June, which would shorten the school year one and sometimes two weeks. The motion was lost.

On motion of McConnell, the day on which the school year should begin was changed from the first Monday to the first Tuesday in September in order to comply with the act on providing for closing the schools on Labor day.

The section providing for calisthenic exercises in each school under the direction of the teachers was amended to make an exception in the case of the High school, where it is not practicable to have such exercises.

McConnell offered an amendment to provide that the examination committee shall have at least one person on it who is a teacher in the schools.

Rees opposed the amendment, saying that a teacher might be interested in keeping some applicant out and could exert undue influence.

Mr. Points thought Mr. Rees put the matter on the wrong ground, but was of the opinion that the rule should not be made mandatory.

The rule was adopted providing that a teacher may be on the committee, but not making it mandatory.

Mr. Poppleton renewed the amendment which he had offered at a previous meeting, providing that no teacher not now under engagement to teach in the public schools shall be eligible to a position as teacher who has not completed a course in a high school or a school of equally good curriculum, and had at least one year's course in a normal school, or one year's experience in teaching.

Mr Rees rose to remark that he did not want a rule adopted which would prevent Abraham Lincoln from teaching a primary school. He said that it could debar applicants who might be peculiarly fitted by nature for teaching, and would also debar many deserving pupils who had not the time or money to take a normal course, or even a full high school course.

Mr. Martin said he would rather have a bright young girl, with good common sense, to teach his children than to have a "rusty old maid who had spent all her life in teaching."

Mr. Points thought it to the advantage of the schools to have teachers who had normal training, although he would not debar deserving applicants. He thought the case might be compared to the requirements in the case of physicians who are required to have a course in a school of medicine or its equivalent.

The amendment was put upon its passage and was lost.

The committee of the whole then arose without completing its work and asked leave to sit again.

A communication from W. J. Connell was read, stating that the papers in the case of Mitchell Monette against the school district of Omaha for $15,000 had been prepared, and stating also that the case would not come up for trial before October, and probably not until February. The matter was referred to the committee on judiciary and the new attorney.

The board then tried to elect a teacher to fill the vacancy in the High school. Mrs. Sudborough and Miss Ray were nominated and one ballot taken which resulted in no election.

The board then adjourned until next Tuesday evening.

LABOR DAY.

The Various Unions Perfecting Details For the Celebration.

A meeting of the general committee of the various labor organizations of the city was held in the old council chamber in the city hall last night, the object being to prepare for the proper observance of Labor day (September 2), which will consist of a grand parade and a picnic at Hascall's park.

A POLICE COURT FAKE.

Another Willie Tascott Confesses Before Judge Berka.

A desperate looking man securely handcuffed was conducted by two officers into Judged Berka's court and arraigned on the charge of being a suspicious character. When asked to give an account of himself he greeted the court with a contemptuous snarl, glared savagely at the officers who had him in charge and cast an occasional glance at the open door of the court room. He seemed to be calculating his chance of escape if he made a break for liberty. The man's demeanor puzzled the judge and the hangers on became nervous. After a whispered consultation with one of the court officers Judge Berka's face assumed its sternest expression as he addressed the prisoner:

"I have a hint as to the crime of which you are suspected and also of your determination to maintain silence. But you must speak. In this case it is words and not deeds that we want from you. If you refuse you will find that this court brooks no opposition to its wishes. Again I ask you to give an account of yourself. Speak."

The same contemptuous stare was the only answer to the mandate.

"You still refuse!" demanded the judge in angry accents. Then turning to an officer court continued:

"You will take this man to the cells. Put him in the one with the rotten floor under which lies the sewerage from the patrol barn. Keep him there until 8 o'clock to-night. Take him then to the mayor's room and there strongly guard him while he is compelled to hear the deliberations of the police commissioners on the recent investigation—"

Here the prisoner trembled.

"That is not all," continued the judge. "To-morrow night you will take him to the council chamber where Judge Huscall is billed to speak—"

"Hold on, for pity's sake," gasped the now terrified man. "My crime is great and death will be my punishment. But even death will be gladly, joyously welcomed as a redeemer from the punishment you would inflict. I must speak. I am John Doe, alias Willie Tascott, the Weeping Water version. Now do your worst."

A change came over Judge Berka's countenance. He hesitated, wiped his glasses and, in a voice husky with illy suppressed emotion, exclaimed:

"You can go!"

The other police court business was tame, after this episode. Ten drunks were fined and two dismissed. Two bootblacks were up for fighting. One of them, John Foley, was discharged; the other, George Richards, who has been arrested three times on a similar charge, was fined $5 and costs. Three vags were sentenced to two days each in the county jail.

Something to Remember.

If you are going east remember the "Rock Island Route" run the sleepers and chair cars of their solid vestibule train to and from the Omaha depot, leaving Omaha at 8:45 p. m., thus avoiding the transfer at Council Bluffs. Three solid trains daily. All chair cars are free. Dining cars on all through trains. Our trains make close connection with all eastern limited trains connecting in union depot at Chicago, avoiding a transfer across the city to parties enroute to New York, Boston and other eastern cities, "and everything a little better than other lines can offer." SEAVEY WAS A TRIFLE LATE

But Got in Just in Time For a Stinging Rebuke.

TOO FREE WITH HIS ADVICE.

An Interesting Meeting of the Fire and Police Commission—Green's Resignation Accepted—Officer Newman's Case.

Fire and Police.

Chief Seavey joined the commission later than usual last night, but was early enough to receive in person a stinging rebuke at the hands of Commissioner Hartman.

The chief sent in a number of recommendations; among others, the name of the man he wished to have appointed to succeed Captain Green.

"When we want the chief's advice we will ask him for it," said Mr. Hartman, sharply, and, arising to his feet, he continued: "It isn't right and business like, and we want no more of it. We have had this for a year past, the chief always advising on this or that, and I don't think he has ever been asked to recommend anything. Has he?" and the irate member glanced inquiringly round upon his associates.

Mr. Gilbert shook the horror off his face long enough to say he guessed the advice had come unsought. Mr. Hartman waited only a moment and then resumed his "roast" by saying that the chief had given to the newspapers the names of his choice in half a dozen cases, and always a day or two before they were reported to the commission. This, too, he thought, was unbusinesslike and disrespectful to the board. The public had come to think that whatever the chief recommended the board obediently adopted at once, and it was that idea he wished to do away with.

Commissioner Gilbert concurred with Mr. Hartman's expressions, but declined to second that gentleman's motion to lay the recommendations on the table.

The chief denied intending anything disrespectful toward the board in giving the names of his nominees to the papers, and he made the recommendations because the board had allowed him to do it before. Later, in executive session, the recommendations were ordered filed.

Captain Green's resignation was accepted, the commission agreeing that they had found him a gentleman and a good officer.

The usual quota of policemen accused of violating the misdemeanor ordinance under the protection of their respective stars and clubs were on hand. Officer Newman, who assaulted Attorney Crowell during the investigation, told three or four stories, none of which seemed to suit his superiors, so the matter was continued until next Monday night. Officer Walker told how he came to arrest Attorney Sheridan while the latter sat on his own door step. Several men had told him that vagrants were too numerous in that vicinity, and though he had received no orders from his superiors regarding the matter, he proceeded without a warrant to arrest a few of them. He met a young man named Hunt at Twenty-sixth and Lake, and after talking with him for over twenty minutes put him under arrest. He then called up the patrol wagon. After it arrived he decided to go down and get Sheridan if he could find him.

"Why did you want him?" asked Gilbert.

"Well, he was shabby and told me he wasn't working, and I told him he could make his explanation to the police judge, and took him along. The acting city attorney said he was sorry I had arrested Sheridan and dismissed the case."

"That's enough," said Gilbert, in tones of disgust, and added, in an undertone, "He isn't fit for the force." But no action was taken to get him off it.

Basing his remark on a case in hand, the mayor announced for the license board that no permits would be issued for the sale of liquor on the fair grounds

Officer Dubois was confronted by C. J. Phillips, who said that the officer was drunk and disorderly, using profane language and unnecessary violence on the Forepaugh show grounds. The officer of course denied the charges, and the hearing was set for next Monday night.

Officer Curry was severely reprimanded for conduct unbecoming an officer, he having followed a man half the length of a block cursing his victim the whole distance to provoke a quarrel.

Special Officer Nagle was dishonorably discharged for open collusion with the prostitutes on his beat, and other flagrant misdemeanors.

The Irish republican club and the Knights of Labor urged very strongly that Sergeant Whalen be appointed junior captain. Their letter was filed.

Mr. Gresham was appointed special officer with beat on Grace street.

Ex-Conductor Roth, who lost his position with the motor company through the alleged fraudulent representations of Officer McBride, asked what had been done in the matter. Nothing was the sum of it all, but Dr. Mercer, Mr. Roth and McBride will be summoned to appear before the board on Monday night next.

Officer Foley's Close Call.

A lively scene was enacted at the corner of Twenty-fifth and Farnam streets last night. For some time residents in that vicinity have been complaining of a number of tramps who congregate there, and last night Officers Foley and Hudson investigated the matter. They discovered three men hiding in some tall weeds and attempted to arrest them, whereupon one of the tramps fired a revolver, the bullet grazing Officer Foley's head. Hudson fired at the men but missed them. A call was sent to the central station, and Captain Cormack and a detachment of police soon arrived, but the tramps had made their escape.

The Tenth Street Viaduct.

OMAHA, August 26.—To the Editor of THE BEE: The writer has lived near Tenth street for several years, and joins everybody else in claiming the absolute necessity of a Tenth street viaduct from Jackson to Mason street.

Extravagant as it seems, yet it is not so much of an exaggeration, which says that "every square yard of the Tenth street railway crossing is stained with blood of the dead or crippled passers-by, and that there is a ghost for every rail which crosses Tenth street." The Eleventh street viaduct does not serve its purpose, even as a relief, but, on the contrary, the fume of the gas works, added to the sulphurous coal consumed in the locomotives, with the open roadway thrown in as a ventilator, makes it almost insufferable for an invalid or a person with weak lungs. Of necessity, for want of yard room, the rushing engines at a high rate of speed, and those in standing places near by, give the Eleventh street crossing more sulphur than would be likely to occur at Tenth street, as the engines back up to their trains very little in advance. If and when, we get the union depot, that is to be, something like the old picture we gloated over, twenty years ago, in Crofut's Western World, it will be found not only necessary but desirable to give us south side people and our visiting cousins a better crossing. Now, we ask ourselves the query, which of us is to be killed or crippled next? Whose fault is it? If we could get good legal assurances, with penalties collectable for the union depot, the general disposition of the interested people is to give the $150,000 for the viaduct and waive damages, but railroad bonds must be side by side with city bonds now.

We mark and learn that new railroad deals occur every little while. Large expenditures are involved, but none of them for home consumption. While the railroad companies are cramped for room, every subterfuge is recited to the avoidance of any special outlay by them, except it be to the utilization and improvement of something or somewhere outside of Omaha. The payment of interest coupons is a gentle reminder that we have been tapped at the barrel and phlebotonized in every vein. If we give up any more blood, we must have some show of making up the loss, or we shall die of inanition, and be buried under our bonds and obligations. We do not believe in jug handled contracts, unless there be two handles, and we have both eye and grip on the jug.

The people and the railroads would have a common benefit
