Saint Mary's Beacon.

LEONARDTOWN, MD.

THURSDAY MORNING, March 24, 1904.

In the past week we have talked with many from all sections of the county and find a practically unanimous approval of State Senator Greenwell's vote and speech against pensioning the Judges.

We may be numbered to the charge of old fogyism and other things besides, but we must confess that we are opposed not only to the Hanna Oyster Bill but also to the Wilson substitute recently passed by the Senate. We think we could give valid reasons for our opposition but at the present stage of the discussion abuse is at such a premium and reason at such a discount that we content ourselves with merely declaring our opposition.

The President's Land Commission.

The special public lands commission appointed by the President to report to Congress on the operation of the land laws in the west has made a partial report, the principal feature of which is a recommendation for the repeal of the timber and stone act. The commission will continue its investigations of the desert land law and the commutation clause of the homestead law. The report is signed by Wm. A. Richards, the Commissioner of the General Land Office, Gifford Pinchot, the Forester of the Department of Agriculture and F. H. Nowell, the head of the Irrigation Reclamation Service.

Against Land Grabbing.

The big stockmen and timber men of the west who have only forty or fifty thousand acres of land and who are ambitious to increase it to one hundred thousand acres will have to move lively and rustle some dummies and substitutes to make 160 or 320 acre entries under the timber and stone act or the desert land act or the commuter's clause of the homestead act, or they will not fulfill their desires. The country and Congress is beginning to wake up to the importance of saving this western public domain, our greatest resource to-day, with national irrigation an established government policy, and converting it into homes for settlers and homemakers. It looks as though the days of the Western speculator and the land-grabber were numbered.

COMMUNICATED.

WASHINGTON, March 21, 1904.

The Republicans in the House of Representatives, last week, showed conclusively that they are a lot of four flushers, trimmers, hypocrites and cowards. It was a strenuous and most exciting week in the House. Every man whose name had been mentioned in the Bristow report thirsted into the bear pit by the chairman of the committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, the Hon. Jesse Overstreet, was boiling over with rage and wanted a chance to get at Bristow. There were nearly one hundred and fifty Republicans and about a dozen Democrats named in the report, who were accused of using their pull with Beavers and Machen to get things from the Post Office Department that did not belong to them and that were unlawful to grant. As I said last week these requests were made, for the most part, with no criminal intent. The members of Congress did not know that it was unlawful to grant these requests and relied on the officers of the department to know the law in the matter. They knew they wanted the things asked for if they could get them. And, Beavers and Machen in order to stand in with the members of Congress granted them, law or no law. To have themselves placed on a par with Beavers and Machen, the latter a convicted felon on his road to the penitentiary, was calculated to make the bristles rise on the back of most any man and it surely did on the members in the House who were tarred with Mr. Bristow's stick. They ranted and roared and raged for two days. They denounced Bristow as a liar and a scoundrel and did other stunts that caused the House of Representatives to resemble a ward meeting in a hot factional campaign. When, however, the Democrats tried to them get to pass a resolution to enter on a full investigation of the rottenness in the Post Office Department, they ran like a passel of scared coyotes. The party whip cracked over their backs, and they fell into line. They refused absolutely to investigate the very department about so much has been written as to its rottenness, and which they were so lustily cussing out only a few moments before. Was there ever before such a flagrant exhibition of inconsistency? Denounce the department in one breath as being one of the worst things on the face of the earth, and in the next vote that there is nothing about it to investigate. That is what the Republicans did. When will the people get their eyes open?

In talking with Mr. P. V. DeGraw, the eastern press representative of the St. Louis World's Fair, I learn something of interest to the farmers and stock breeders of the country in connection with that great exhibition. One of the curiosities of the World's Fair will be two twin steers, probably the largest ever born in the world. These red-polled giants were born on a Texas ranch owned by William H. Goodair and purchased from him by Harry Berliner, of East St. Louis. These steers now weigh about three thousand pounds each although they are only in fair flesh. [illegible] they can be made to weigh 3,500 pounds by the time the Fair opens. They are understood will attract much interest among breeders of stock who attend the Fair.

Another exhibition of great interest to breeders of fine stock will be in the first shipment of Holstein-Friesian cows to take part in the exposition cow demonstration which will arrive on the World's Fair grounds in the charge of E. B. von Hagen, superintendent of farms as superintendent for the World's Fair Holstein-Friesian Association during the demonstration. This shipment comes from Courtland, N. Y. Another shipment of Holstein-Friesian cows will be made shortly from Wisconsin. The short horn cows to be exhibited in the demonstration will be shipped to St. Louis soon and Chief Coburn has been advised by the Brown Swiss breeders that their cows will also be forwarded at an early date.

All farmers will have an interest in the rule which has been imposed that bearing on the shearing of sheep to be exhibited at the World's Fair, as announced by Chief F. D. Coburn of the department of live stock. It follows that all sheep and goats must have been properly and evenly and closely shorn on or after the first day of April, 1904, and the date of the shearing must be certified on the application for entry. Sheep or goats and even old stubble, shorn or that have been clipped to conceal defects or to mislead will not be allowed to compete. The judge shall disqualify for competition any sheep or goat deemed by him as having been improperly or stubbly shorn or with the fleece otherwise treated for purposes of fraud or deception. [illegible] In order to give these letters a distinctive many who read this correspondence People sometimes get tired of reading politics.

And speaking of politics, the one political subject of discussion in the nation's capital at the present writing is the [illegible] by the Hon. William Randolph Hearst in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination. A good many people who have been laughing at the so-called Hearst boom as a thing impossible have taken the dragons and are willing to admit that there are some things in the politics of this country that they do not know all about. The average politician who comes to Washington knows about as much of the ideas of the common people of the country and the real feeling among them as to their preference in the matter of a presidential candidate as a hog knows about navigating a ship. The daily press, whom they depend on for information as to the popular candidate, knows about the same amount and expresses it with about the same amount of wisdom. I have kept my ear to the ground for a long time and have been reading the country papers that come to my desk as exchanges, and my judgement has not been warped by bias or by inclination in any one direction. I admit I have said many kind things about Mr. Hearst in these letters, because I think deserved much at the hands of the Democratic party.

I have not said any hard things about other candidates possible or probable because I do not desire to put myself without the pale of the Democratic party and AM not want to be inconsistent in my support of anyone the Democratic national convention might nominate, but I felt that the great Democratic heart of this country beat in unison with its own and I knew what I wanted to be the next candidate before the people who was the standard bearer of the party of the immortal defender of the Constitution and that he must stand for something to rally and enthuse different from the Republican program; who was the embodiment of Jeffersonian principles, who got back of the grand plan laid down by that man of the people and who believed in the people, who did not believe in going to the trusts and the combines and the lurcandees of Wall Street, to get his campaign fund and thereby selling selling out to them in advance, and in case of election we simply would be swapping a devil for a witch. Therefore, I picked out the Hon. William Randolph Hearst as the man who came nearest up to my ideal of the man of the hour and the man on whom the people could depend, because he is a [illegible] Democrat. It seems the people in number of States are agreeing with me, all but the State of Rhode Island has instructed its eight delegates to vote for Hearst in the Democratic convention and it looks as though the Democratic party were about to be [illegible] ing in the hands of Hearst and his followers. The Hearst boom is growing by leaps and bounds and looking like they were pleased that they are not compelled to walk. It is freely predicted here that he will continue to take one State after another until he will either have the nomination sinched or will have the naming of the man in hand. He is earnestly recognized as the most [illegible] ie national convention. Watch him broke from now on.

Col. Jown W. Avirett, of Cumberland, is a candidate for appointment as State Game Warden.

SPRING, SPRING, SPRING.

Did you ever hear the birds a-chirping when walking down the street.
And see the pretty girls pointing out to Canter & Co.'s store, oh! how sweet?
This is true, we admit, but that isn't all you can tell,
Why not come in and see how Canter & Co. sell?
Spring is coming and we are humming,
As busy as a bee,
Then why not come to see us
So we can please thee?

SEE US FIRST.

We will open up this week with a full line of Spring and Summer Goods, Shoes, Oxfords, Ladies', Men and Children. Are selling these at close margin. They were bought right, and we can sell them to you right, so why not take a pair? Same case in Dress Goods, and in fact everything we carry. See if this isn't true.

It gives us much pleasure to show you our line. No trouble at all. We don't ask you to buy. Our goods sell themselves after once being introduced to you. We sell everything. We buy everything, so come and trade with us. Thanking our patrons for their past patronage, and asking continuance of same, we are

Sincerely yours,
