GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

Strength of Corn is Reflected in Demand for Quick Shipments.

WHEAT MARKET IS STUBBORN

Traders, However, Are Uncertain as to Which Side It is Going to Turn—Grain Closes Somewhat Higher.

OMAHA, Oct. 10, 1913.

The strong position of corn was reflected not only yesterday, but on several previous days by the urgent demand for quick shipment to the east of any purchases made in Chicago. This fact shows that stocks are at a low ebb east and that while the new crop is almost ready there will be considerable urgency in the demand for the old corn for some time to come. Canadian cattle that have been driven into the United States, and which are to be finished on corn, will devour a great deal of the yellow cereal, and it was said yesterday that goodly shipments already have been made to the owners of this stock.

There was little in the government crop report that was not already known to the trade. There was practically no change shown from that of a month ago, as the document failed to account for the abandonment acreage, and this must be considered when the final yields are made up. The estimate is for a crop of 2,873,000,000 bushels, compared with an estimate a month ago of 2,851,000,000 and a year ago of 2,564,000,000. Corn displayed an oversold condition yesterday and in the event of unfavorable weather for a time, which would cause additional damage reports to come forward, as well as to curtail the movement, the situation would likely become more bullish, and from the action of corn for a few months past it is not out of place to say that the bulls would make the most of their position. The lowest point yesterday was made right after the opening, but strength was soon gained and the market changed from a dull and weak one to an active and strong one. Cash markets all over the country were higher, with the most strength shown at Chicago.

When the western receipts of corn are considered and they were less than 400,000 bushels yesterday, compared with nearly 500,000 bushels a year ago, the fact looms up that farmers are not letting go of their corn as rapidly as they were when prices were higher.

Cash corn was unchanged to ¼c higher.

The question was asked by more than one man in the wheat trade yesterday whether the position of this cereal is a strong one or not. The market displayed more stubbornness during yesterday's session than in some days and this, too, in the face of circumstances which were bearish. The weather in the southern hemisphere was reported as again unsettled and the cash situation there was reported as a little firmer, with increasing sales on milling and eastern shipping account.

Cash wheat was ⅛c higher.

There was a quiet trade in oats with the feeling a little firmer and prices the smallest fraction higher. There was a sprinkling demand from investors, but this was of a conservative kind.

Cash oats were unchanged to ¼c higher.

The Chicago and Omaha markets will be closed Monday, October 13, Columbus day.

Clearances: Wheat and flour equal to 300,000 bushels, corn, 1,000 bushels and no oats.

Liverpool closed with wheat unchanged to ½d higher and corn ½@¾d lower.

Primary wheat receipts were 1,761,000 bu. and shipments of 832,000 bu against receipts of 2,140,000 bu. and shipments of 1,188,000 bu. last year.

Primary corn receipts were 498,000 bu. and shipments of 853,000 bu. against receipts of 462,000 bu. and shipments of 176,000 bu. last year.

Primary oats receipts were 933,000 bu. and shipments of 561,000 bu. against receipts of 819,000 bu. and shipments of 1,000,000 bu. last year.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Features of the Trading and Closing Prices on Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Falling off in receipts at primary terminals gave considerable buoyancy today to wheat. Largely in secure, the market closed steady at a net of ½@⅝c to ⅞c. Corn showed a gain of ¼c to ⅝@¾c and oats a setback of a shade. In provisions the outcome ranged from unchanged figures to 12½c decline.

Wheat values began to harden after a selling drive early had demonstrated that the market possessed good support. Shorts were uneasy on account of disappointment as to the government estimate and there was bullish help in the fact that arrivals here and northwest were much lighter than a year ago. Sentiment later against the bearside increased rapidly when it was found that receipts in other directions had dimished almost as much as the spring crop belt.

Talk of uncertainty regarding the effect of recent tariff legislation was offset in the wheat pit by the statement that prices were now 5c to 5½c lower than a month ago. It was also argued that an unwieldy short interest in the market had turned conditions more in aver of the buyer.

Corn traders who at first construed the government report as decidedly bearish took an opposite view after attention had been directly to unofficially figures on unabandoned acreage. Sales of two cargoes of Argentine corn to Galveston emphasized bullish feeling. The transactions were taken to indicate an unexpectedly early call for corn in the southwest. Oats weakened owing to the heavilp increased yield shown by the government estimate. The market, though made a complete recovery in sympathy with the corn bulge.

Late declines in prices for hogs took away benefits that the provision market had received earlier owing to temporary strength at the yards. There was some of an improved call from eGrmany for lard.
