BUSINESS TROUBLES.

Carpet Mills at Work.

Philadelphia, Pa., December 2.—John Bromley & Sons' extensive carpet mills in Kensington started up yesterday on full time, and the firm say prospects for the future are good.

The Hoyle, Harrison & Hoyle carpet mills have increased their running time from seven to ten and a half hours per day.

Big Failure at Marshal.

Marshall, Texas, December 2.—A. Goldsmith, dry goods and clothing, filed a deed of trust this evening, naming W. W. Heartnell trustee. Liabilities, preferred, about $20,000; other liabilities unknown. Assets independent of accounts about $20,000. Bad business and hard collections the cause.

Lace Mills Start Up.

Patchogue, L. I., December 2.—The American Lace mills start up Monday. They have been idle three months. Three hundred men have been out of work, and their sufferings are terrible. One family of nine had nothing to eat in three days and another in two days.

Jarvis-Conklin Company.

Liverpool, December 2.—Commissioners to adjust the affairs of the Jarvis-Conklin Mortgage Trust company arrived yesterday. They have a plan for recess[illegible] arranged which they intend to submit to the creditors and sharers immediately.

Assignment at Cuero.

Cuero, Texas, December 2.—Mr. August Bischoff on yesterday filed a deed of trust naming R. C. Fleck trustee, for the benefit of creditors. Preferred claims amount to about $248. Mr. Bischoff was in the wagon and buggy business.

Discharged From All Obligations.

Washington, December 2.—For Eastern Texas: Generally fair; much colder; moderate cold wave over Northern portion; winds becoming northwesterly.

In Colorado.

Denver, Colo., December 2.—The storm last night in the mountains about Leadville was the most severe in years. A heavy snowfall was accompanied by high wind and the storm continues today.

LABOR MATTERS.

On World's Fair Grounds.

Chicago, December 2.—Labor riots are threatened at the World's Fair grounds and Colonel Rice of the Columbian Guards has taken steps to prevent possible bloodshed. About 60 men employed as packers of the exhibits will be discharged tonight and when they learned that their places will be taken by Italian laborers at much lower wages, they made threats that when the change takes place tomorrow they will use force to prevent the foreigners from working.

Colonel Rice announced today that he had taken steps to effectually stop any possible demonstration.

A Conference Will Be Held.

Louisville, Ky., December 2.—A conference between the Louisville and Nashville officials and employes will be held Saturday, December 9.

The Grand Jury Will Investigate.

Kansas City, Mo., December 2.—The grand jury will investigate the failure of the Continental Trust company, which occurred November 27. It has just been ascertained that a brief time prior to the failure the officers of the institution borrowed $18,000 from it, giving their personal notes. The depositors have received only 2 per cent.

THE CRONIN MURDER.

DISCLOSURES BY THE WIFE OF AN ACCESSORY.

She Gives the Horrible Details of the Affair as Gathered From Her Husband.

A POLICEMAN STILL ON THE FORCE AN ACCOMPLICE.

Doctor Cronin Said to Have Been Killed With a Chisel Wielded by Patrick Cooney, the Carpenter.

Chicago, December 2.—Mrs. Andrew Foy, who will be the first witness for the State in the Coughlin trial, will, it is reported this afternoon, testify that Dr. Cronin was killed by carpenters. The chisel was wielded by Patrick Cooney, the long missing suspect. Report has it that Martin Burke, now dead, held Cronin while a policeman, still on the force here, and whose first name is said to be Michael, stood guard at the door. Cooney is represented to be the only one who struck Dr. Cronin and only Burke, Cooney and the anonymous policeman suspect were in the cottage. Iceman O'Sullivan is said to have acted as guard at the rear of the cottage, outside.

Coughlin, according to the current narrative of what Mrs. Foy will testify, was not at the cottage until after Cronin's death, when Coughlin arrived in company with Mrs. Foy's husband, Andrew Foy. The man who drove Cronin to the Carlson cottage is said to have been Michael Dawn of Hancock, Mich. J. B. Rasmussen, the purchaser of the furniture discovered in the cottage, and who was accused of renting it at 12 Clark street, was, it is alleged, James Cooney's grocery clerk, whose present whereabouts are unknown. Mrs. Foy is represented as having learned these details as a result of meetings held at her husband's house.

Foy is the man supposed to have been mistaken for the little German, mentioned in the milkman, Marles. One Joseph McKenna is alleged to be the person who drove to the Carlson cottage the wagon utilized to carry away the corpse.

Much of the story is reported as having been learned by Mrs. Foy from her husband in his remorseful moments. Mrs. Foy says her husband frequently spoke of Cronin as "a worse spy than Lecaron" and on the night of May 4 he was absent from home, returning in the morning, mud stained and disheveled and explaining to his wife that he had helped to remove another Lecaron.

His wife is said to have asked in horror "Is he dead?" "Yes, I helped to commit murder. Murder is nothing." Foy is said to have answered. "We only killed a spy. You don't call that murder."

The defendant, Daniel Coughlin, is spoken of as the chief of the supposed expedition against the spy whose "removal" was to "conserve a good cause." Coughlin is reported to have been seen by Foy when they entered to kick the prostrate form of the doctor, and say: "There, you won't tell any more tales."

O'Sullivan, who also entered the house by this time, it is said expostulated, and it was also owing to the latter's objections that the plan to fill the trunk with quick lime was abandoned and the journey to the lake front was begun.

Mrs. Foy is alleged to have been cautioned by Coughlin some days later to "keep her mouth shut and not worry about her husband, that she and her children would be taken care of."

It appears as if the story can be rolled upon Mrs. Foy had been upbraiding Coughlin for leading her husband into the affair. The extent of Cooney's part in the plot was the renting of the flat on Clark street, popularly supposed to be the place abandoned as being too public a place, at first decided upon for the scene of the taking off of the alleged spy, and afterward Andrew Foy is reported to have told his wife that Martin Dawn, who called for the doctor, was sent from Hancock, Mich., by J. P. Ryan of that place. Foy is said to have brought home the chisel with which the doctor was killed and hid it between the mattresses on Mrs. Foy's bed.

Mrs. Foy's testimony, if given as above, will be in the nature of hearsay and it is probable the defense, if she should be a witness, would succeed in excluding the bulk, if not all, of such a story as related. Her appearance on the witness stand depends whether this should prove true or not and regardless of whether the current forecast of her testimony is or is not correct has long been eagerly awaited by those familiar with the case. Burke and Cooney are said to be the persons who rented the Carlson cottage. Coughlin, according to the alleged forecast of Mrs. Foy's testimony, was one of the three men in the wagon that carried the decomposed remains from the cottage.

Michael Dawn, of Hancock, Mich., who today for the first time is mentioned in the case is a laborer. He and Andrew Foy, who is a bricklayer, are supposed to be now in seclusion. The grocery clerk, Cannes, Rosenmann and Cooney and the man McKenna have also long since disappeared. Of McKenna's occupation or identity little is known. Laborer Martin Burke and Iceman O'Sullivan and others mentioned here are locating now on trial, and the alleged suspect still on the police force, are apparently the only ones on the list within reach.

Foy is said to have been chosen by lot as one of the executioners of the supposed spy, but Martin Burke objected on the ground that Foy's family might suffer, Burke volunteering for the place himself instead. Foy's first explanation to his wife regarding the secret meetings to Foy's house was that Cronin, who was active in politics, was trying to have Democratic Coughlin discharged from the police force and some of Coughlin's friends were privately devising means to save the detective.

So many alleged disclosures in the case have petered out on investigation, that the opinion is divided as to how much credence is to be given this story, but of its general plausibility, there is little doubt.

The Coughlin Case Again.

Chicago, December 2.—The Coughlin case had its daily sensation today. It was announced that the prosecution was preparing to call for the dismissal of Juror Sidney E. Mather. It is claimed that during his examination some of his sworn statements are not in accordance with the facts.

Killed by an Officer.

New Orleans, December 2.—Court Officer Martin Geis shot and almost instantly killed Philip Schneider this morning in this city. Schneider was a man of family, having 2 wife and six children. He had abused his wife terribly and she had finally been compelled to prefer a complaint with threats with intent to kill against him.

Officer Geis was entrusted with the warrant, which he tried to serve upon Schneider. Schneider drew a pistol and advanced upon the officer in a threatening manner, the latter believing his life in danger, pulled a pistol and fired and the ball entered the abdomen of Schneider, who sank to the ground and died in an hour. Schneider was 45 years of age. Geis was arrested.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

New Orleans, La., December 2.—Yesterday Philip Schneider, a grocery clerk, commenced to use unmentionable language to his wife and threatened his family that he would cut their throats. When the police came to his residence this morning to arrest him on affidavit made by his wife, he drew a razor and attempted to assault Officer Martin Geis. The policeman fired one shot at him, wounding Schneider in the abdomen, and the man died inside of an hour.

FLAMES IN GALVESTON.

Big Blaze in a Furniture Store. Three Men Injured.

Galveston, Texas, December 2.—About 1 o'clock today a fire broke out in the third story of the large furniture and house fitting establishment of Kauffmann, Oppenheimer & Co., on Market street, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets. The entire fire department was called out and when it reached the scene of action the whole third story was a mass of flames, but was soon brought under control and extinguished.

During the progress of the fire an accident occurred which may result in the loss of life. Special Officer Dave Jordan of the Galveston detective force was assisting Charles Daniels of Chemical engine No. 1, and Frank Miller, foreman of truck No. 1, in passing up pipes to Daniels and Miller, who were standing on the top rung of the ladder, when it gave way, and all of the men were precipitated to the shed below, a distance of about thirty feet. Daniels sustained a severe cut on his head and was otherwise seriously injured, and Miller suffered a severe injury to his spine and was speedily conveyed to his home in an unconscious condition, from which he has not yet recovered. Daniels was conveyed to St. Mary's infirmary, suffering severely from internal injuries. Detective Jordan escaped with slight injuries.

The stock in the entire building from the third story to first floors is damaged to a great extent by water and smoke. The fire is supposed to have caught from a gas stove used to heat glue. The stock in the building was valued at $60,000 and was insured in outside companies for $30,750. The damage to stock is estimated at $20,000 and to the building about $2,000. The building belongs to the estate of H. R. Davis and is fully insured.

Following is a list of insurance on the stock of Kauffman, Oppenheimer & Co.:

In Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., December 2.—The Heisen building, 34 and 36 South Paca street, occupied by Lengfeld & Co., cloak manufacturers; Deutsche Lithographing and Printing company, Max Ury & Co., fancy ties and overalls, and Charles Heisen Suse Manufacturing company, was destroyed by fire tonight. The fire spread to Ann. Menkine's Bacon Leaf and Clear company, dissecting the building of the Maryland University of P. Levy, straw hat manufacturer, the Jewish synagogue at Paca and German streets; also partially destroyed the L. Corlen's stables. Loss, $100,000; fully insured.

Work of an Incendiary.

Lake Charles, La., December 2.—This morning at 5 o'clock the Lake Charles steam laundry, owned by Mayor Crowley, was entirely destroyed by fire. It is thought that the fire was started by an incendiary—probably some one of the many vagrants with whom the mayor has recently been dealing rather severely. The loss is about $900; insurance $250.

Residence at Cedar Bayou.

Galveston, Texas, December 2.—The residence of Tom Stafford at Cedar Bayou, valued at $2000, was burned last Thursday night during his absence. It is believed to have been fired to conceal a burglary, as Mrs. Stafford had sold quite a lot of silverware and many valuable relics.

At Manning's, S. C.

Charleston, S. C., December 2.—A special to the News and Courier from Manning's says the business portion of the town is on fire. The fire started in Jenkins & Hutchinson's livery stable at 7:30. It is probable that the store of M. Levy & Chandler, Lodge Lyons, Western Union office and other buildings will go.

Gin and Cotton.

San Angelo, Texas, December 2.—The Bismarck farm gin, owned by Mrs. E. B. Taylor, containing fifteen bales of cotton, burned last night. Loss, $400; no insurance.

CHICAGO'S MAYORALTY.

Swift Nominated by Republicans and Hopkins by Democrats.

Chicago, December 2.—The nomination for mayor of George H. Swift at the republican convention today was attended by a tragic incident in the sudden death of a well known banker, Charles Kozmanski. Kozmanski seconded the nomination of Swift and retired to the committee room to serve on the committee on resolutions, when he suddenly sank to the floor expiring immediately.

Swift was the only name placed in nomination, and the present acting mayor was speedily chosen by acclamation.

In the democratic mayoralty convention also held today, John E. Hopkins showed unexpected strength and was nominated on the first ballot.

The Allis Trial.

Little Rock, Ark., December 2.—In the Allis trial today Jake F. Carr, assistant cashier of the Southern National bank of New York, F. M. Miles, cashier of the Continental bank of Memphis, and Dr. J. H. Parker, cashier of the United States Bank of New York, testified as to drafts, transactions that appear on the books of the First National bank of Little Rock as having been made with their banks. They disclaimed all knowledge of the accounts. Much testimony was given regarding a number of notes aggregating about $240,000 said to have been negotiated by President Allis and Cashier Denney with their official indorsement.

Found Riddled With Bullets.

Concord, Ga., December 2.—Cicero Holt, a negro arrested yesterday at Concord on suspicion of being the murderer of Arthur Burnette, proved to be the right one. He was found this morning hanging to a tree opposite where he committed the murder. The body was riddled with bullets. Not less than 100 shots were fired into it. Both wrist and neck were shot. It was positively in this way and hope is now proven an example for others.

Wholesale Poisoning.

Montgomery, Ala., December 2.—A wholesale poisoning is reported from Fort Deposit tonight. On Thanksgiving Day a negro by the name of Nathan Lewis, who failed, had a quarrel against Mr. T. M. Searcy, proprietor of the Hermon house, and placed some "rough on rats" on turkey after it had been put upon the table for the guests. Those who ate of it were suddenly taken sick. The next day the negro put some poison in the drinking water and upon some of the barbecue. The result was the poisoning of Mr. Searcy, his wife and daughter, Messrs. McQueen and several drummers. Two came very near dying from the effects of the poison. The negro was arrested and has confessed, and his trial is now pending. Lynching is talked of, but it is thought it will not take place unless some of the victims die.

Betrayed by a Blind Mute.

Cameron, Texas, December 2.—A number of burglaries have been committed here in the last few weeks. The store of M. M. Keefe & Co. was broken into and goods taken out, but it seems that the parties took more than they could carry, and hid some of the pelf in a barrel, which led to the capture. Buggy tracks leading from the barrel were followed from Cameron to Rockdale, a distance of fifteen miles, and they stopped at the shanty of Tom Taylor, a negro. The officers arrested Tom Taylor, but his two boys took to their heels and made their escape. Many of the goods were found. The two Taylor boys have since been captured and the three are now safe in jail. They stole the mare and buggy of Dr. Horles and used her for the trip. The mare being blind, she did not keep straight on the road, which caused Sheriff Bickett to follow the tracks, which lead to the results above.

THE MEXICAN METHOD.

HOW DIAZ DEALS WITH UNFRIENDLY PAPERS.

Circulation of the El Paso Times in Mexico is Peremptorily Ordered Stopped.

SUBSCRIBERS AND ADVERTISERS ARE TO BE PUNISHED.

Juan Hart, the Editor, Now in Mexico and He May Be Arrested—American Residents Growing Apprehensive.

El Paso, Texas, December 2.—Governor Ahumada arrived in Juarez this morning from Chihuahua. It is given out that he came to see about some roads. A very near friend, however, said he came to look into the border troubles and report to President Diaz. It is well known he is very close to the president.

Private letters from American citizens in the Mexican States say an uneasy feeling exists in the public mind and revolutionist information is to the effect that in at least six States there will be a general uprising within a few weeks.

The Press Suppressed.

El Paso, Texas, December 2.—Since the arrival of the governor of Chihuahua in Juarez an order has been issued to that town. It is alleged that any person who receives the El Paso Daily Times on this side of the river or any person who attempts to distribute it will be punished.

Merchants have also been notified that they must not advertise in the Times.

The publisher having not been served with official notice will send the paper over as usual.

Juan S. Hart, editor-in-chief of the paper, is at this time in the city of Chihuahua, where he went Tuesday with Senator H. A. W. Tabor of Denver. He is of Spanish-Mexican extraction himself and is extensively connected with some of the leading families of the State of Chihuahua. It is thought probable an effort to arrest him will be made.

BURIED BENEATH SNOW.

A Snow Slide Causes Destruction of Life and Property.

Butte, Mont., December 2.—Helena, a small mining camp fifty miles southwest of this city, is the scene of twelve snow slides within the past two days, which resulted in the instant death of five persons, others being fatally hurt and many more or less injured. The first slide came down the mountain side Wednesday night, demolishing the cabins of Wm. Sparks and R. Rush, miners, and a Chinese cook. Last night another immense slide a short distance from the first avalanche fell, burying and crushing three houses. One of these was occupied by Nicholas Bergman, wife and three children, six of whom were asleep. Bergman and two children, aged 10 and 14, were killed. Mrs. Bergman and the babe were rescued alive but can not recover.

IRON MOUNTAIN ROBBERS.

Another One of the Train Bandits Captured.

Little Rock, Ark., December 2.—Jim Wyrick one of the Gilphart train robbers, was brought to the pen this morning by Special Railroad Detective Heinich and Deputy Marshal Thompson, who captured him yesterday thirty-five miles north of Van Buren, a mile east of the Indian Territory line. Wyrick and family were traveling the country in a wagon and night coming on they were worn out with loss of sleep. He had gone about twenty yards from the railroad track and went to sleep. He admits his identity, but denies participation in the robbery.

On the Lehigh Valley.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., December 2.—A serious wreck occurred on the Lehigh Valley railroad at White Haven early this morning, caused by a rear end collision. Twenty-eight cars were piled up and were thrown across the house, which was built close to the track. Several of the buildings took fire and the fire department had a hard battle. One Italian was killed and two injured.

What Caused It.

Philadelphia, Pa., December 2.—General Manager Voorhees of the Lehigh Valley company made the following statement tonight in reference to the White Haven wreck: The accident at White Haven this morning was caused by strikers placing the pins on the rocker train, which stood in front of the station. The pins were made several attempts to wrench the switch and each time we found it spiked down. Officer was soon on the ground from this place before the train got the pins following it run in and caused the collision.

Iron Hall Case.

Indianapolis, Ind., December 2.—Judge Brown rendered his decision in the Iron Hall receivership case. The court sustains the action taken yesterday by the receivers and orders a continuance of the order.

Pathetic Story.

Cheyenne, Wyo., December 2.—Tuesday Foreman Hudson of Frattes & Perrish Cattle company apprehended six men while they were in the act of killing cattle on the range. The men were brought into the district court today and sentenced to a year's imprisonment in the penitentiary. In pleading guilty one of the number, speaking for the party, said they stole the cattle to keep their families from starving. All the men are farmers living in Box Butte county, Neb. Their crops had failed, their farms were mortgaged and their families were starving. The pathetic story affected the judge and the court officers to tears and the lightest sentence allowed was imposed.

Hundreds of Mendicants.
