YONG SING'S KNIFE.

Used It with Probable Deadly Effect on Charlie Chu.

Surprised Him with Pretty Mamie Nagle, His Alleged Wife.

Tragic Event That Excited Chinatown Early This Morning.

Mamie Nagle, a pretty girl of nineteen, was the cause of a row between two young Chinamen in the tenement-house at 16 Doyers street at 5 o'clock this morning, which may result in the death of one of them.

Mamie, in the parlance of Chinatown, is known as a Chinaman's girl. She occupies apartments on the top floor of 16 Doyers street. Until Saturday last Yong Sing, thirty-four years old, a partner in the grocery and clothing firm of Chinamen at the corner of Pell and Doyers streets, lived with her and passed as her husband. He introduced her to his friends as his wife, and she wore a heavy band of gold, which she said was her wedding ring.

She was of a gay disposition, while he was surly, reticent and intensely jealous of her. Quarrels between them were of frequent occurrence. The final one occurred on Saturday, when Yong Sing packed up his clothes and left the house, declaring he would never return.

He did, however, about 4.30 this morning, but could not get into Mamie's room. He heard voices within, and when she refused to open the door he broke it down.

There he found Charlie Chu, twenty-eight years old, a laundryman, who lives at 227 Willis avenue. When she saw Yong Sing, Mamie rushed out of the room screaming. The Chinamen instantly clinched and a desperate struggle ensued. They overturned or broke a great part of the furniture in the room, and then fought out into the hallway and struggled down to the third floor landing, each man endeavoring to draw a knife.

Yong Sing was the first to succeed, and he stabbed Chu twice in the region of the heart with a sharp-pointed Chinese dirkknife, six inches long.

Meantime Mamie's screams had aroused Chinatown, and the narrow, foul-smelling little street was thronged in the early dawn by a crowd of chattering, excited Chinamen, when Policemen Farrington, Perkins, Burns and Coyle, of the Elizabeth street station, arrived on the scene. By that time both Yong Sing and his victim had disappeared.

Farrington found a pool of blood in the hallway on the third floor, and then followed a crimson trail down the stairs and across the street to 9 Doyers street, where he found the wounded Mongolian sitting in a corner of a rear room on the third floor, with his life's blood ebbing away. The policeman promptly summoned an ambulance and had him removed to Chambers Street Hospital.

Meanwhile Policeman Perkins had succeeded in tracing Yong Sing to a room on the second floor of 18 Doyers street, where he found him concealed under a pile of old matting and rags.

Yong is one of the biggest Chinamen in town, and he gave Perkins a hard fight before he finally succeeded in subduing and handcuffing him. He denied positively that he had done the stabbing. No knife was found upon him, but later the dirk was picked up in the yard of 16 Doyers street, by Chu Ling, of 4 Doyers street, who turned it over to the police.

Chu Noey, of 21 Pell street, and Charlie You, both declared that Yong Sing was the man who did the cutting. The dirk was stained with blood clean to the hilt. The police do not believe that the wounded man gave his right name. In fact, they say that Mamie Nagle said that Charlie Chu was not his right name, but she would not tell what his real name was, saying that if it became known it would ruin his business in the annexed district.

Before sending Chu to the hospital, Farrington asked him who had stabbed him. He said he did not know, but thought it was robbers. He had plenty of money on his person, but not a cent had been taken from him.

Dr. Cutler, the ambulance surgeon who first attended Chu, said his injuries were very serious, and that he would probably die. When an "Evening World" reporter called at the hospital at 10 A. M. the gentlemanly clerk on duty said that the house surgeon was at breakfast, and that he really did not know just how seriously the Chinaman was wounded; nor would he make any attempt to find out.

Policeman Perkins, who had been there for two hours trying to get a certificate as to the man's condition for production in court, could not get any better satisfaction. He was told he would have to wait until the surgeon was ready to see him.

Justice Grady, at the Tombs Police Court, held Yong Sing to await the result of his victim's injuries.

Miss Lucille Anderson, the nineteen-year-old daughter of John Anderson, a retired produce merchant, living at 38 West Seventy-second street, has just been notified that by the death of an uncle in Scotland she has fallen heir to $600,000. The uncle, who was a strict churchman, left half of the amount named to Miss Anderson's brother on condition that he would lead a good religious life, but at the last moment changed his will, leaving all to the young girl. The latter, however, will see that her brother gets his share when he reaches his twenty-sixth year. He is now twenty-three.

CHANGES AT THE THEATRES.

Fine Exhibition of Living Pictures at Proctor's.

New Attractions at the Various Roof Gardens.

There were living pictures at Proctor's Theatre yesterday, and very creditable ones, too. Some of the tableaux were particularly attractive, and they will undoubtedly prove to be an irresistible drawing card. Pictures are now all the rage and it seems that no well-regulated establishment can afford to be without them. They did not interfere with the vaudeville performance, which went on as interestingly as ever. Among the artists were George Leslie, George M. Devere, Musical Silvo, Tony Hart, jr., Najify, the Hoyt brothers, and Sig. Leonardo. "The Mascot" was sung by the Wilbur Opera Company, with Susie Kirwin as Bettina.

AMERICAN ROOF GARDEN.

The programme at the American Roof Garden last night was a good one. After the torrid day, people seemed to hunger for open-air entertainment, and the garden was packed very soon after it was open. Among those who appeared were Smith and Cook, the comedians; Mlle. Antoinette, the Glenroy brothers, the Darling sisters, Nizarra and Thora, John W. Ransome, whose geniality did not seem to be affected by the hot weather; Ward and Curran, Maud Reynolds, the bright little ballad singer; Koh-I-Baba, and the Americus Comedy Quartet.

CENTRAL OPERA-HOUSE.

The Central Opera-House, at Sixty-seventh street and Third avenue, held its own with the other vaudeville resorts of this city last night. The entertainment was a long and a good one, and the people who live uptown were undoubtedly thankful to a management that saved them a trip downtown on crowded cars. The attractions included Baldwin and Daly, "the Happy Hottentots;" Kate Rooney, in imitations of her father; Blanche Fernandes, Lawrence and Harrington, Perry and Tenbrooke, Al Grant, the mimic; Haynor and Andrews, Aherne, the champion hand balancer, and Rita Durand.

TERRACE GARDEN.

Maggie Cline's stentorian affable tones resounded through the Terrace Garden last night. They certainly filled the Garden. Miss Cline sang in the same old style that made her famous at Tony Pastor's, and her "Throw Him Down, McCloskey," proved to be as desirable as ever. After all there is only one Maggie Cline. Other features—for even Maggie cannot fill an entire evening—were Press Eldridge, Aunt Louisa's amusing son; Leclair and Leslie, Nelsonia, Bertha Fisch, the Chaffin sisters and J. J. Zamora. Nahan Franko and his orchestra contributed some interesting music.

MADISON SQUARE ROOF GARDEN.

The star attraction at the Madison Square Roof Garden last night was Bessie Bonehill, who is "accepting" Summer engagements appreciative New York. She had a very cordial reception, and she deserved it. Miss Bonehill's colleagues were the Brunellos, Caron and Herbert, the Grauss trio, Nellie Franklyn, Lottie Gilson, "the little magnet;" John and James Russell as the Irish chambermaids, the Tortajada troupe, which is very popular, indeed in this city; Frank Bush, who appears to have an inexhaustible store of witticisms—and they are never stale—Isabella Ward and Ruth.

KOSTER & BIAL'S.

The vaudevillers at Koster & Bial's Concert Hall last night were Bunth and Rudd, the eccentrics; Troja, the serio-comic; the Eduardo sisters, Cascedo, the wire king; Sarino, the contortionist; Leslie's dog circus, Naomi, the equilibrist, and Mlle. Lalo, the eletric bicyclist. All these were but preliminaries to Hammerstein's "first series" of living pictures, which are not to be excelled by any in the city. "The Last Message," "L'Orchestra D'Amour," "Romeo and Juliet," "Arabian Pastime," "Montana Silver Statue," "Give Me a Kiss," and "The Angelus," are all charmingly artistic.

CASINO ROOF GARDEN.

There was plenty of variety at the Casino Roof Garden last night, and hundreds of people seemed to find unalloyed happiness in indolently sipping cold drinks and listening to the stage entertainment. The performers were Miss Annie Hart, who sang "Tim Sullivan's Chowder Party" and "The Bowery Girl;" Bertie Crawford, a soprano singer; Sandford and Lee, eccentric black-face comedians; the Manhattan Quartet, Johnelli, the musical moke; Fannie Cohen, in songs and dances; Lottie Elliott, the skipping-rope dancer; Katherine B. Howe, Madge Leasing, Gus Pixley, Belle Stewart and Ernestine de Berner.

IMPERIAL MUSIC HALL.

The Imperial Music Hall was open last night, in spite of the fact that it was to have been closed Saturday. Manager Kraus has reduced the prices to 50 cents for reserved seats and 25 cents for admission. Zara, a "Honolulu dancer," did a danse du venture that caused something of a sensation. She wore a costume of bangles. Other attractions were James McAvoy, a parody singer; Laurient and Harvey, Allen and West, Ed Parker, the "silver-toned tenor;" the Evanses, with their famous dog, and George Leslie, the eccentric comedian.

Capt. Warts Worth Only $12,000.

The will of the late Capt. Alexander B. Warts, which has just been filed, shows that at the time of his death he was worth only a little over $12,000. It goes to his widow and a cousin in trust until two of his children reach twenty-one years, when it is to be equally divided among all his children, five in number, and his widow.

WELLMAN DENIES IT.

Says Supt. Byrnes Is Not Going to Be Pushed Aside.

His Investigation Will Not Be of the Whitewashing Order.

Calls at Police Headquarters for the Lexow Evidence.

Mr. Wellman, Assistant District-Attorney, who has been appointed to assist Supt. Byrnes in preparing the cases against the accused police officals, called at Police Headquarters at 11.30 this morning.

He said he went there to obtain the minutes of the Lexow Committee, which the Superintendent has had in his possession for the last few days, in order that he might look carefully over the entire testimony, before bringing any of the accused officials to trial.

He said that the report that Supt. Byrnes had been pushed aside or superseded in this investigation was without any foundation whatever.

"I am going to confer with Supt. Byrnes now," said Mr. Wellman, "in regard to the preparation of these cases, and will continue to co-operate with him as long as the investigation shall continue.

"This investigation is going to be a thorough one. There will be no whitewashing done by the Commissioners. Every case will be examined most carefully, and the evidence sifted to the very bottom. It is not probable I will have any case ready to bring to trial for two weeks yet."

Before Mr. Wellman's arrival Supt. Byrnes seemed to be waiting for something to turn up. He was not busying himself particularly with looking up the records of the police officials accused by the Lexow Committee witnesses, but spent most of the time sitting at the Mulberry street window of his office in his shirt-sleeves and agitating a huge palm-leaf fan.

"What is there, Superintendent, in the report that the Commissioners are about to relieve you of the task of investigating your subordinates, and will put the whole matter in the hands of Mr. Wellman?" he was asked.

"Don't ask me," he replied, "I don't know anything about it. All I know is that Mr. Wellman is coming up here sometime to-day to talk over matters.

"What plans he has, I don't know yet, but I will after he has had his talk with me. I can't say anything about the report that I am to be superseded or 'pushed aside,' as they say, because I have had no intimation that there has been any change in the situation since the Commissioners passed their resolution last Friday."

It is the talk around Police Headquarters to-day, however, that Messrs. Martin and Sheehan, the Tammany Commissioners, have taken the prosecution of the policemen accused before the Lexow Committee into their own hands and, ignoring Commissioner Murray completely, are going ahead with their private investigation to suit themselves.

A point which has been suggested in connection with the proposed prosecutions by these Police Commissioners is whether or not they have the power to subpoena and compel the attendance of witnesses.

This, however, seems to be conclusively settled by the Police Manual, which contains the following under Rule 187:

Under section 251, chapter 410, Laws of 1882, "The Board of Police have power to issue subpoenas, vested in the name of the President, to compel the attendance of witnesses upon any proceedings authorized by its rules and regulations. * * * Any person making a complaint that a felony or misdemeanor has been committed may be required to make affirmation on oath thereto and for this purpose the Inspectors, Captains and sergeants of police have power to administer affirmation or oaths. Any wilful or corrupt false swearing by any witness or person to any material fact in any necessary proceeding under the said rules and regulations, or under this act, shall be deemed perjury and punished in the manner now prescribed by law for such offenses."

TALK ABOUT THE GRANGERS.

Gideon and His Former Wife Alleged to Meet Clandestinely.

PORTCHESTER, N. Y., July 3.—Some people who reside near Commissioner McClave's house think there still exists a strong attachment between Granger and his former wife, and they say that Granger and she have been seen signaling each other and also meeting outside of the McClave residence at night unknown to the McClave family. Granger is quoted as stating that he and his divorced wife still retain much of their old regard for each other, and that they met occasionally.

Commissioner McClave has not yet decided when he will take the proposed European trip. He does not gain in strength very rapidly, and is quite weak. He takes short rides evenings through Greenwich village and Belle Haven. Dr. Jones, it is alleged, advised Mr. McClave to go abroad, so that he might be free from Granger, who is continually annoying him with correspondence regarding business matters.

Shot by a Rejected Lover.

(By Associated Press.)

VANCEBURG, Ky., July 3.—Charles Dusan, twenty-one years old, shot and fatally wounded Miss Mattie Hull, eighteen years old, near Tolesboro, on Sunday. Dusan had been waiting on the young lady for some time, but when he proposed she refused to marry him. It is thought Dusan is insane, as he has been acting strangely for some time.

Grief Drove a Boy to Suicide.

OSWEGO, N. Y., July 3.—Robert Meilin, thirteen years old, last evening procured a boat, sculled out to deep water, disrobed, leaped into the river and was drowned. His mother was buried yesterday and at the grave Robert showed signs of insanity caused by grief. The body was recovered by the life saving crew.

WANTS NO WELCOME.

Croker Will Land Privately at the State's Expense.

Tammany Will Screen His Home-Coming from the Public.

To Board the Gov. Flower When the Majestic Reaches Quarantine.

To his former subjects in Tammany Hall, Citizen Richard Croker is still King. It is Croker's wish to avoid the public and publicity on his arrival from Europe to-morrow. A wish from Croker is equal to a command to his underlings.

It is his command, therefore, that they take precautions that he does not come in contact with the plebian populace. Above all, he wants to evade the enterprising reporter and questions that may embarass him.

To enable him to gratify his personal desore Health Officer William T. Jenkins, Croker's brother-in-law has placed the quarantine steamer Gov. Flower, which is maintained at public expense, at Croker's disposal.

Croker wrote a letter to his business partner, Peter F. Meyer, in which he requested that no demonstration be made on his arrival, and that he should not to be put to the indignity of landing at the wharf, with Lord Churchill and the other passengers.

Meyer communicated with Brother-in-Law Jenkins, who arranged it so that the United States Government will not prevent the great man from leaving the ship before the customs inspectors get around. Croker will be taken off the steamer as soon as the Majestic anchors at Quarantine. He will be the Lord High Admiral, in command of the Gov. Flower, and will direct the vessel's movements from that time on until he lands. That is all his friends profess to know of Croker's intentions.

He will be master of the vessel. It will all depend on him where he will land. This statement is official. His most intimate friend, Commissioner of Public Works Michael T. Daly, authorized it. Mr. Daly, Tammany Leader Lawrence Delmour and Peter F. Meyer will go down to Quarantine to-night as the guests of Dr. Jenkins and wait for the arrival of the Majestic there.

It was suggested that a landing may be made somewhere near East Seventy-second street, and that the party would proceed from there to Croker's home, 9 East Seventy-fourth street. Mr. Daly replied:

"Mr. Croker's house is closed. If I were he I would get out of the heat of the city at once. His family is at Richfield Springs, and he may go there. But no one knows what he will do except Mr. Croker himself."

It was also suggested that Croker might hasten down to the Coney Island races, as he hustled off to the Grand Prix at Paris when he landed on the other side.

Croker never takes the public into his confidence. He likes to keep people guessing, and that is evidently his plan as to his movements to-morrow. At the White Star office it was said to-day that the Majestic was expected at her dock between 10 A. M. and noon to-morrow. That would make her due at Sandy Hook about 7 o'clock, and Quarantine an hour later.

Deputy Commissioner of Public Works Maurice Holohan, Grand Scribe of the Tammany Society; Police Justice Bernard F. Martin and Nicholas R. O'Connor are in Washington to-day.

They are a committee to escort to this city the guests of the Tammany Society at the Fourth of July celebration to-morrow. The party will probably arrive on the Congressional limited train, over the ePnnsylvania Railroad to-night.

ELOPED WITH THE BARBER.

Rachel Deserts Her Musical Husband for a Tonsorial Artist.

Articles of Jewelry and a Sum of Money Also Strangely Disappear.

Pretty nearly everybody on the east side knows Joseph Lezinski, who has attended every gathering of note in that section for years, and whose violin, which he always carries with him, has stirred the souls of dancers in every hall.

Joe is in mourning now, and those who kept time to his music may never hear the strains again

Joe had a wife who was regarded as one of the prettiest women on the east side. His home, at 190 Forsyth street, was of the happiest kind, and Rachel spared no pains to make it a perfect heaven. Now Rachel is among the missing, and so are $100 which the musician had saved.

Not a cloud darkened their sunshine until in an evil hour Morris Brenner entered the household as a boarder. Morris was a natty young man of twenty-six, just Rachel's age, and he was a barber by profession. Mrs. Lezinski liked the style of his hair, and he was outspoken in his praises of her beauty.

Two months ago Joseph thought the barber's health would improve by finding another boarding-house, and told him so. Morris lingered, however, for two weeks longer and then disappeared. Joseph also changed his quarters to 305 East Eighth street.

On June 23, when the musician returned home weary from the dance, he found the house in darkness, and investigation showed that his wife had fled. Then he looked for the $100, but that, too, had gone. So had a diamond ring and other articles of jewelry. He says the barber has the latter.

He has been searching for the missing couple ever since without success, and this morning found him in tears at Police Headquarters. He sobbed out his story and added that he heard the barber had a chair in some seaside hotel and was living with Rachel. He asked the police to aid him. They said they would consider it.

Whether he mourns the loss of his wife or the $100 most is the question puzzling the police.

SMALL-POX TAKES A JUMP.

Seven New Cases Transferred to North Brother Island.

Seven new cases of small-pox were reported at the Bureau of Contagious Diseases this morning.

The patients are Thomas Higgins, twenty-seven years old, of 525 East Sixteenth street; Michael Noonan, thirty years old, and Michael Fitzgerald, sixty-three years old, both of 351 Water street; Gricco Borso, sixteen months old, of 8 Baxter street; Minnie Bruner, twenty months old, of 303 West Forty-first street; Mary Citro, six months old, of 510 Courtlandt avenue, and Patrick Fitzgerald, twenty-nine years old, who was found at Chambers Street Hospital last night. All of the sufferers were removed to North Brother Island this morning.

The case of Minnie Bruner is the second case that has been taken from 303 West Forty-first street since yesterday.

MRS. CLAUSON IS SATISFIED.

Policeman Who Arrested Her Admits He Made a Mistake.

Mrs. Lena Clausen, of 48 Greenwich street, who was arrested in Rivington street on Saturday night by Policeman Kelly, of the Eldridge street station, charged with being an improper character, called on Inspector Williams this morning and made a statement of the circumstances.

Policeman Kelly was also present, and after hearing the woman's statement, acknowledged that he had made a mistake and apologized to her.

Mrs. Clauson refused to make a complaint, stating that she had suffered enough disgrace and didn't care for any more notoriety.

Mrs. Clauson is a respectable married woman, and the complaint was dismissed against her in the Essex Market Police Court yesterday.

Rondout Man Drowned Here.

The body of William Clancy, twenty years old, a boatman at Rondout, N. Y., was found floating in the North River off Thirty-fourth street at 7 o'clock this morning. He had been missing since Saturday night, and is supposed to have fallen overboard at the place where the body was found.

MOB IN GRAND STREET

Crowd Tried to Rescue Two Little Girls from Gerry Agents.

Policemen and Citizens Saved the Latter from Rough Usage.

The Children Finally Taken to the Gerry Headquarters.

An attempt was made shortly before noon to-day to rescue two little girls, at Grand and Essex streets, who were being taken to the rooms of the Gerry Society.

This morning, in the Essex Market Police Court, Justice Simms held Max Washensky, fifteen years old, of 103 Hester street, and Max Melorky, fifteen years old, of 36 Norfolk sreet, for examination. They were charged with assault.

The complainants were two little nine-year-old girls, named Rosa Prince and Rachel Schneider, both of 103 Hester street.

On Sunday last the girls and boys were playing in front of 103 Hester street. The boys, it is charged, attempted to assault the girls in the hallway. The parents of the girls heard of the matter and prosecuted the boys.

When the case was brought up in court this morning, the boys were committed to await further examination, and the girls were turned over to the Gerry Society.

At Grand and Essex streets, on the way to the Gerry rooms, the girls were met by their parents and friends.

The agents who had the girls in charge were taken by surprise.

The girls' friends and parents grabbed the girls and assaulted the agents. But for police interference and the timely aid of a few citizens the agents would have been roughly handled and the girls rescued.

An excited mob gathered, but the disturbance was quickly subdued.

The agents finally got clear of the crowd and took the girls to the Gerry rooms.

TAILOR CHENKEN ARRESTED.

Caught by the Sheriff for Swindling His Creditors.

Elias Chenken, formerly in the tailoring business at 159 East Broadway, was arrested late yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Walgering upon an order issued by Justice Van Wyck, of the City Court, in a suit brought by Dahiman Bros. to recover $212.49. The plaintiffs allege that the defendant and his partner, Abraham Neuman, secured credit for goods to the amount mentioned by declaring that they had a stock of $700 and owed no debts.

These representations, the plaintiffs claim, were false. They also claim that Chenken gave a note to an outside person just before the debt to Dahiman Bros. became due, and that the stock was sold out.

Chenken's former partner corroborates the plaintiffs.

INNOCENT MAN IN JAIL.

Daniels Must Stay in Prison Through Official Carelessness.

Col. Haire, the lawyer, was at the District-Attorney's office this morning, trying again to solve the puzzle surrounding his client, Thomas J. Daniels, now imprisoned in the Tombs, an acknowledged guiltless man, of the charge of assault in the second degree on the word of Assistant District-Attorney O'Harr. The man cannot be discharged because the indictment has been lost.

Acting District-Attorney McIntyre, when the facts were laid before him this morning, urged Col. Haire to see Assistant District-Attorney Battle, and have him certify to the loss of the indictment. Mr. Battle was seen and he refused to act in the matter.

All he would do was to promise that he would have the case laid before the Grand Jury, and have a new indictment found or the prisoner discharged.

DOCTORS TRY MUNYON

Three Well-Known Physicians Test the New Methods Under the Direction of the Eminent Professor.

Dr. De Graff, of 9 West 14th street, New York's best known dentist, says: "I had rheumatism for years, at times so badly I could not stand on my feet. My ankles were swollen, and the least movement caused excruciating pain. I tried Munyon's Rheumatism Cure and found one bottle sufficient to cure me promptly and completely. I also used Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure and was entirely cured of a very distressing and painful stomach trouble."

Brought a Patient from Buffalo.

Dr. E. R. Barnes, of 1258 West avenue, Buffalo, says: "My patient, John Haenges, 1329 Niagara street, suffered from dyspepsia for eight years, with frequent attacks of great pain and tenderness of the stomach. My remedies gave him only temporary relief; but he says since taking Munyon's Remedies, as prescribed by Prof. Munyon, he is entirely cured."

A Boston's Physician's Praise.

Dr. George F. Brooks, 29 Temple place, Boston, says: "The effect of Prof. Munyon's treatment is marvellous. One of the patients he brought him was a lady who had chronic rheumatism for years. Her knee and elbow joints were stiff, and she suffered great pain. Munyon's Rheumatism Cure gave relief from pain in a few hours, and inside of twenty-four hours she was feeling better than for years. I shall use Munyon's Cure for all my cases in the future."

Professor Munyon's Splendid Work.

Prof. Munyon's marvellous success has attracted the attention of the whole medical world, and his office is crowded daily with the most intricate and obstinate cases brought to test his methods after all others fail. Every case receives personal attention. Thorough medical examinations and advice absolutely free. Open all day; Sundays, 3 to 5 P. M. 7 East 14th street, between Fifth avenue and Union Square.

Munyon's Remedies sold by all druggists.

MY FRIEND THE MAJOR.

Enforced Retirement of a Society Swell Due to His Efforts.

I am taking a rest after a round of gayety and social activity which I never equalled before, and I doubt my going into the "swim" again next Winter, or for some Winters to come, for that matter. I am desirous to explain my reasons for this withdrawal from society, and in order to do so I shall be obliged to speak of my relations with Major Hoffman.

You see, I have always felt that it was, in a sense, my duty to move in good society, and I have been at some pains so to arrange my affairs and social relations as to be able to attend most of the better class of private entertainments given in the city during the past two or three Winters. It not only gave me no small enjoyment, but it also assisted me materially in my business.

It was a matter of considerable difficulty to secure an invitation to the Van Schoonhoven reception, but I managed it—no matter how—and it was at this
