NEW YORK STATE NORMAL SCHOOL.—We are happy to learn that this institution is answering the most sanguine expectations of its friends. The graduates of the school have gained the confidence of the public by their faithfulness and skill as teachers. The new building now erecting for the accommodation of the school will be finished by the 1st of August.

From the official circular of the State superintendent, which has been recently published, we learn that a number of vacancies will occur in the several counties; those persons, therefore, who wish to avail themselves of the advantages of the school, must apply to the town superintendents of their own county, in whose hands the power of appointing students has been placed.

The next term of the school will begin on the second Monday of May next.—Albany Argus, March 31.

Our Patrons in want of a Rich Carpet, Hearth Rug, Floor Oil Cloth, a beautiful pair of window Shades, a handsome Stair Carpet, &c., at less than the market value, have only to visit the extensive warerooms of Hiram Anderson, No. 99 Bowery, where they will find good qualities, new and elegant patterns, at astonishing low prices.

California Firearms.—Joseph & Hart, 74 Maiden lane, importers, manufacturers and dealers in firearms, wish to call the attention of companies and others bound for California, to a superior article, expressly adapted to that trade, known as Hall's Carbines; loads at breech, can be fired 20 times in three minutes; light in weight, and warranted to shoot balls 300 yards. They are used by the U. S. Army and Navy, and highly valued by them. This arm can be used as a rifle or shot gun. It need only to be seen to insure its adoption.

Genin's Spring Hats for 1849.—Symetrical in form, rich in fabric, tasteful in trimmings, perfect in workmanship—every way adapted to the requirements of gentlemen of taste, and sold for Four Dollars, the price originally established by him. JOHN N. GENIN, 214 Broadway.

Combs.—Ladies are Respectfully Invited to examine the choice selection of dress combs at the subscriber's store—the variety is beyond all doubt the greatest in the city, among which will be found the double scroll pattern, so much admired. Also, can be obtained every article appertaining to the toilet

COMMERCIAL AFFAIRS.

MONEY MARKET.

Sunday, April 1st—6 P. M.

The week just closed has been a very blue one in Wall street for the bulls. A complete panic seized the minds of speculators upon the opening on Monday last, and it appeared to be impossible to resist the downward movement in prices. The alarm became so general that the fancies fell off four and five per cent before a reaction was realized; and the bulls have been pretty well cleared out. We have heard of no failures among that class of operators, but most of them have been large losers. We do not believe, however, that they have lost by the fall in the fancies much beyond what they made out of the bears by the rise, as prices rule a little above those current previous to the recent inflation. The bulls have not realized the profits they might, by the advance, but have fallen back into their old position. They now have an opportunity of coming in again at low prices, with a very good prospect of a speculative improvement at least equal to the last. The market closed firm, yesterday afternoon, and the indications were decidedly in favor of a steady advance. The fancies have been pressed down by a money market more stringent than has been experienced for years before. For the time money has been scarcer, and commanded in the street higher rates of interest than we have known for a long time, and no one can give a satisfactory reason for this state of things. Some attribute it to the drain of specie for shipment to California, some to the accumulation of specie in the Sub Treasury, some to the large discount of paper for the purchase of sterling exchange, others to the aid extended by the banks to speculators in breadstuffs and a dozen other causes, all of which no doubt, are more or less correct, and have had their influence in producing the stringency noticed. It is impossible for this state of things to last long; but there can be no permanent improvement in the stock market, or in our markets generally, until relief comes from some quarter. It is our opinion that it will soon come from two sources, from Europe and from California, in the shape of large importations of gold. All the elements of prosperity are in a healthy state, but the fact is, we have not money enough to meet all the legitimate demands for it. Our enterprise outstrips our resources, and until they become more equalized we shall experience from time to time difficulties similar to those we are now in the midst of.

The annexed statement exhibits the quotations for stocks in this market for each day of the past week, and at the close of the week previous. It will be perceived that throughout prices have been steadily settling down:—

A comparison of prices current at the close of the market yesterday, with those ruling at the close of the previous week, exhibits a decline in Treasury notes of 1½ per cent; Pennsylvania 5's, 1½; Indiana 5's, 1; Reading Railroad, ½; Norwich and Worcester 1½; Erie Railroad, new, 1½; Harlem, 1½; Long Island, 1½; Farmers' Loan, ¾; Canton Co 1½; Morris Canal, 1¼; and an advance in Ohio 6's of ¾ per cent.

The Great Western, at Mobile, from Vera Cruz, brought $33 227 in specie for New Orleans.

The Illinois and Michigan Canal has sustained very little damage by the late freshets in Illinois. A boat passed through from Lockport to Bridgeport a few days since, and it is supposed the canal will be opened by the 15th of April.

The value of merchandise, and amount of specie, imported into this district, exclusive of that sent to the warehouse, for the week ending March 31, in each of the past four years, with the amount of duties on the same, were as annexed:—

COMMERCE OF THE PORT OF NEW YORK—WEEKLY IMPORTS.

	1846.	1847.	1848	1849.
Free goods	$ 194 793	3 726	348 891	215 025
Dutiable goods	1 347 879	765 260	1,709 409	1,324,455
Total merchandise	$1,492,169	768 986	2,058,300	1,539,481
Specie	2 651	8 993	4 019	2 642
Total imports	$1,514 820	1,688 945	2,104,439	1,542,123
Duties received	346 667	213,467	442,883	348 864

Of the imports this week, $459,140 were in dry goods entered for consumption. Value of dry goods entered for warehousing, $78 041; withdrawn from warehouse $116 805. The amount of drafts on the Assistant Treasurer for the week, was $221 785 04, which, deducted from the receipts for the same time, shows an increase in the deposits for the week of $126 579. The imports for the week, this year, were $531,194 less than for the corresponding period last year. The value of merchandise and specie imported into this district for the month of March, in each of the past four years, was as annexed:—

IMPORTS INTO THE PORT OF NEW YORK—MONTH OF MARCH.

	1846.	1847.	1848.	1849.
Total imports	$9,4 7,549	7,988,570	8,435,932	8,377 9

The imports for the month, this year, were valued at $72 773 less than those for the corresponding month in 1848.

It will be perceived by the manifests of our packet ships from Europe, particularly those from Liverpool, that the quantity of light goods arriving is small. What is very unusual at this season of the year, packets arriving are loaded with heavy freight, such as coal, iron, &c., which is an indication that the bulk of the importation has been received. This is a favorable feature in our foreign trade, as it not only insures a steady reduction in the government deposits, but will prevent any advance in the rate of exchange, and turn the tide of precious metals this way. We do not wish to see a large importation of specie from Europe, but the larger the importation from California the better. The receipt of three or four million of dollars worth of gold or silver from England, would have a good effect here, and it would doubtless be permanent; but an importation much beyond that amount would create a state of things here calculated to do more harm than good. It would tend to inflate prices for our own products, so that our exportation would be checked, and inflate prices for foreign manufactures, so that foreign manufacturers would find a market here for their fabrics at rates sufficiently remunerating to give a great impetus to importations. This is usually the effect of a large importation of specie, and we generally have not only to disgorge all the specie imported, but have to draw largely upon our staple products for payment of the balance against us. Large movements of specie between two such important commercial countries as England and the United States, are always attended with injury to each; and we have always looked upon them as evils which the commercial classes of each should, by all means, avoid.

An importation of gold from California is entirely a different thing, and the larger the better. Speculation as to the probable extent of the receipts from San Francisco, at the different ports of the United States, during the present year, has about ceased. It has been estimated by most excellent authority, that up to the 10th of December, about three millions of gold had been exported from San Francisco, of which about one million, (when that on the way which left previous to that time shall reach us,) will have arrived in this country. This left, at that time, one million more ready for shipment, which makes an aggregate of four millions produced. The authority to which we allude, asserts that at no time were there more than fifteen hundred men employed in the mines or among the placers. It is true there were between three and four thousand men in the country, but only about the number named digging gold. Now, it is well known that the digging did not commence until about June, and the amount produced, say four millions of dollars, was the result of the labor of an average of fifteen hundred men for six months. This is about as fair a calculation as can be made, and upon this basis it will be easy to estimate how much thirty or forty thousand men can produce during the digging season of 1849. By the time the season fairly opens in California most of those who have already left this country will be on the spot, ready for operations, and if the supply of precious metals is inexhaustible, as reported, the production will exceed the calculations of the most sanguine. The three steamers forming the line of communication between this port and Chagres are all anxiously looked for, and their arrival will remove all doubts upon the subject. On this account the next intelligence will be of immense importance. Millions upon millions of dollars have been invested in this movement, and the next arrival will bring weal or woe to the thousands who have invested their all in this enterprise.
