ROOT SEES DANGER IN SHIPPING BILL

Tells Senate Government Would Be Buying International Quarrels.

PLAN TO RESTRICT DEBATE GIVEN UP

No Interned Boats To Be Taken, It Is Said, Without Belligerents' Consent.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]

Washington, Jan. 25.—Asserting that under the pending shipping bill the government would buy a quarrel with every ship of a belligerent it purchased, Senator Root told the Senator, in a speech on the international phase of the bill to-day, that international complications would surely arise should the measure become a law.

He quoted numerous authorities to sustain his point, and he pointed out that the Declaration of London, which, though not agreed to by this country, has been made the law of Great Britain, France and Germany, provides that the purchase of a belligerent ship by a neutral after hostilities have begun is void unless it can be shown that the transfer was not made to avoid the consequences to which an enemy vessel, as such, is exposed.

Senator Root also made a plea against the injection of party lines in so important a piece of legislation, and he accused the administration of putting out a garbled version of the American note to Great Britain for political purposes.

Following the address of the Senator from New York, the leaders of the majority gave notice that it was not the purpose of the administration to purchase interned ships without obtaining the consent of belligerent nations. Other members of the majority said that it was the understanding of the Democratic caucus that the administration would take precautions to avoid involving the United States in serious complications.

Assurances also were forthcoming that there was no desire on the part of the majority to restrict debate on the ship purchase bill, and as a pledge of this change of attitude, Senator Fletcher gave notice that he would move the adjournment of the Senate, which puts an end to the legislative day of January 15, which persisted up to the close of the session to-day.

Senator Simmons suggested that ten days be allowed for the discussion of the bill, but to this Senator Gallinger objected.

"I deeply regret," said Senator Root, "that any shade of party politics has fallen upon the consideration of this measure. We have in the Senate long felt that it was our duty to lay aside party when we reached the water's edge. We have considered the terms of treaties and advised the President, of whatever party, in accordance with the best of our judgment and our conscience. When we have reached the water's edge we have said we left party.

"Remember, sir, the condition of the world to-day. I am arguing against the government of the United States buying, not a ship, but an international quarrel with every ship. Somebody said to me: 'It is buying a claim, not a ship.' No. It is buying a quarrel, and I say, remember the condition of the world. Recall to your minds all that you have read during the last six months of the condition of feeling on the part of the people in all these countries—England, Belgium, France, Germany, Russia, Servia, all of them—tense to the highest degree in that condition of exaltation which holds prudence for naught.

"The Senator from New York," said Mr. Williams in reply, "suggests the danger of American sovereignty being imperilled by seizures of these ships in which the United States will have an interest. How could it? The ships will belong to a corporation in the District of Columbia. The United States doesn't want to hide behind a corporation, but the mere fact that the ship-holding aggregation will be incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia will be notice to the world that these ships are to be treated as other private craft. If they are seized they will have to take their chance in a prize court, just like other ships."

Mr. Williams said that the alleged Republican filibuster against the bill was costing American shippers $500,000 a day by continuing the present exorbitant rates of ocean freight.

"I wholly repudiate the suggestion that the United States will purchase interned ships," said Senator Simmons. "The President has not received a Nobel Peace Prize, but his record has been one of peace and reconciliation. It shows him as one who so loves to see his countrymen at peace that he submits to some things which other men not so inclined might not submit to. No one can believe, therefore, that in advocating the purchase of ships he is advocating the purchase of a quarrel."

NOTES OF THE TRADE.

A national convention to concentrate the work in the interest of the "Made in the U. S. A." movement and increase the efficiency in stimulating American industry and our domestic and foreign trade will be held in New York March 6 to 13. In conjunction with this convention the First National "Made in the U. S. A." Industrial Exposition will be held at the Grand Central Palace, the object being to show a comprehensive exhibition of "American made" and "American grown" products. The exposition committee is composed of fully one hundred leading American manufacturers, and space is rapidly being taken by all lines of industries and production.

F. Fishbein & Co. report a heavy business in wool poplins. There seems to be a little shortage of high shades and many mills are dycing their staple colors to meet the demand. Wool poplin opened up at 22½ cents a yard and has gone as high as $1.05.

Whipcords under the guise of gabardines in wide wales are selling very freely in many dress goods houses. The goods will not sell when offered as whipcords, according to several selling agents.

Curtis Guild, former United States Ambassador to Russia, will deliver an address on "Russian Trade and Our Opportunity" before the American Manufacturers' Export Association at its regular monthly luncheon at the Hotel Biltmore on January 27, at 12:30 p. m. E. V. Douglass, secretry of the association, states that there is an awakening interest and desire among manufacturers in the United States to acquire a larger share of Russia's trade.

INFORMATION BUREAU.

Inquiries relating to trade matters and conditions should be addressed to the Editor of the Buyers' Column.

Question—Please tell me the standard price of French serge? K. D. O. Answer—There is no standard price of this material, as you can buy it from several concerns for different prices.

Question—What is the commercial hotel in New Orleans. Many thanks. Sol H. Answer—The Grunewald.

NOTES OF TRADE AND INDUSTRY

Several carpet and rug buyers for large retail stores have recently gone to England, and carpet manufacturers here fear that there may be large orders for floor coverings placed with foreign manufacturers. Sales to retailers have been so small during the last half year that it would be possible for buyers to place a very large amount of business in carpets and rugs with foreign manufcturers without bringing their stock above normal. English manufacturers are believed to be making a great effort to capture trade here for their carpets and rugs, and there are some claims in the wool trade here that British textile manufacturers of all kinds had much to do with the strict embargo on wool, to serve their own interests, although statements from the English point of view were that the embargo was to embarrass Germany.

The opening of the fall season for men's wear woollen overcoatings has been postponed indefinitely owing to the lack of interest in placing orders shown by buyers in the market. Several of the leading selling agents had planned to start the 1915 season yesterday, but after sounding the sentiment of buyers found that practically none of them were ready to do anything, but "look around."

The dyestuffs situation has reached an acute stage in some cases, but in many instances where it was predicted several months ago that the supply would be exhausted by January 1 consumers have enough materials for their needs for the next four or five months. In several grades of cotton cloth, notably khaki and goods for household or work use, the supplies of dyes are at such a low point that agents can take few further orders for their goods.

Several of the leading can manufacturers are working three shifts of men operating eight hours each a day as a result of the largest amount of business in tin cans which this country has ever seen. There is almost a normal demand for cans of all kinds for domestic needs, and from export sources a number of large orders have resulted directly from war needs. One manufacturer is now filling an order for 15,000,000 large canisters for army use abroad. This order called for almost $5,000,000 gross charge at the factory.

Manufacturers and distributors of pencils, pad and writing paper and other stationery say they have not yet been favored with an increasing volume of business, such as is reported in the last few weeks in other lines of trade.

IN VAUDEVILLE.

Some of the Headliners on the Bills for the Week.

Mme. Alla Nazimova made her debut in vaudeville at the Palace Theatre this week in "War Brides," a sketch by Marion Craig Wentworth, which appears in the current issue of "The Century Magazine." Maurice and Florence Walton return to vaudeville with new dances. They use the Leon Bakst stage decorations, which have been arranged by Baron de Mayer, acting for the Russian artist. Trixie Friganza is the starred comedienne with her, in her songs and dances. Lillian Shaw is the feature singing dialect comedienne. Frank Fogarty, the Dublin minstrel, returns with a programme of original observations on life.

A modern dancing carnival is in progress this week at the Colonial. The rival dancing teams of Sawyer and Harcourt and Jarrott and Maxwell are seen in new versions of the modern dances. Georgie Wood makes his first metropolitan appearance here.

"Neptune's Garden," featuring a big cast of swimmers, divers, dancers and pantomimists, is headlined at Keith's Royal Theatre this week. The popular Fannie Brice is seen here with all new material, new songs, jokes and clowning.

A "midwinter carnival" has been arranged for B. F. Keith's Alhambra Theatre during the week. Arthur Prince, who has not been in America for several years, makes his appearance. Pat Rooney and Marion Bent present "Twenty Minutes of Pat and Marion." A feature of the programme is the appearance of Han Ping Chien, presenting "Pekin Mysteries."

Adele Blood is the chief attraction at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre for the week. Miss Blood offers "A Dream of Fair Women," and is assisted by Perceival Lennon. Tom Lewis, late star of "High Jinks," follows Miss Blood as a headline attraction on the bill, presenting a comedy sketch, "Brother Fans," by Tom Barry.
