APPROACHING A CRISIS AT BANGKOK.

Minister Pavie Departs—China Angry at French Claims.

M. Pavie, French minister resident at Bangkok, Siam, started down the river yesterday afternoon on the warship Inconstante, accompanied by the warships Lutin and Comete.

The division of the far east of the French fleet, which is commanded by Admiral Humann, sailed yesterday for the Gulf of Siam. The merchant vessels lying off Bangkok will receive the time before the blockade to leave the Menam river and put out to sea.

The Chinese government has received the news of France's territorial demands upon Siam with amazement and indignation.

That France should lay claim to country up to the 23d parallel is regarded as an intrusion upon the rights of China, for at Pekin the contention is that both banks of the Mekong to a point well south of the 23d parallel are Chinese possessions. The Mandarin party, which is bitterly anti-French, is trying to force the government to interfere.

A French cabinet council was held yesterday at Marly-le-Roi, where President Carnot is temporarily sojourning. M. Carnot presided over the deliberations, which were entirely devoted to the Siamese question.

After the council rose a semi-official statement of the proceedings was issued. This statement was that in conformity with the unanimous vote of the senate and the chamber of deputies, the government had taken such measures to safeguard the interests and dignity of France as were considered from Siam's reply to the French ultimatum to have been rendered necessary.

The Chinese charge d'affaires called on M. Develle, minister of foreign affairs, and explained the Chinese government's views of the France-Siamese dispute.

In the House of Commons.

In the British house of commons last evening Mr. John Leng, advanced liberal, member for Dundee, asked if the government was aware that British subjects had rights in over forty square miles of land in the Siamese provinces of Chantaborn, Kratanbattamabang for working ruby and sapphire mines, and whether, in the event of France annexing those provinces, care would be taken to guard British interests.

Sir Edward Grey, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, stated in reply that the government was aware of the mining rights held in Siam by British subjects, but he pointed out that the provinces where the rights were held lie to the west of the Mekong river, and were not, therefore, included in the territorial demands made by France.

The Hon. George N. Curson, conservative, member for the Southport division of Lancashire, asked whether France had notified Great Britain that she had established a blockade of the Siamese coast; whether the establishment of such a blockade would be regarded as an act of belligerency between France and Siam; whether the blockade had been or would be recognized by Great Britain and what measures the government proposed to take in regard to the matter.

Sir Edward Grey replied that Great Britain had received from France verbal notice of the intention of the French government to blockade the Siamese coast. The blockade would certainly be an act of belligerency. The British government, Sir Edward added, proposed to continue its present protection to the lives of British subjects in Bangkok and of the property of British subjects. The government thought that the value that attaches to a declaration of blockade must vary with the circumstances of each particular case.

Mr. Curson then asked: "Suppose any British vessel, even a ship carrying the mail, should ascend the Mekong river after Thursday will it risk being captured or fired upon by the French? If so, what steps will the government take to mitigate such a state of affairs? And further, when may we expect notification of the proceedings of our warships in Paris?

Cries of "hear, hear," greeted this.

Sir Edward stated that any further communications he might make to the house must depend on the communications now passing between Great Britain and France. As to the details of the blockade he must state that the government had only just received notice of the intended blockade. He added that he must ask that due notice be given of other questions the members desired to ask.

Notwithstanding this request the Right Hon. Sir Charles Dilke, advanced radical member for the Forest of Dean division of Gloucestershire, asked: "Will there be a declaration of war, or merely an implied belligerency? Will not the blockade be established under the pretense of its being what is called a 'pacific blockade'?"

Sir Edward replied: "I can't add anything to what I have said. I hope to be able to give you further information on Thursday. It would not be advisable for to the public interest to make any further statement today."

Sir Richard Temple, conservative, member for the Kingston-on-Thames division of Surrey, asked if the government was taking steps to secure some equality in the British and French naval forces in Siamese waters.

This question brought forth cries of "Don't answer," but Sir Edward answered this question saying: "I assured the house on a previous occasion, and the assurance still holds, that Great Britain has a sufficient force off Bangkok to protect British subjects and property."

A Second Monument to the Dead of the Dauntless Seventh Cavalry.

Fort Riley, Kan., was in gala attire yesterday, and from early morning till sunset the city presented the appearance of a fort during war times. The occasion was the dedication of the monument recently erected to the memory of the members of the seventh United States cavalry who fell at the Wounded Knee and Drexel Mission fight during the Sioux outbreak, December 29, 1890.

Special excursion trains brought thousands of people from the surrounding cities and, added to the big display of military already gathered, crowded Fort Riley's streets to their fullest capacity. The dedication proper took place early in the forenoon amid imposing surroundings. The oration was delivered by J. R. Burton of Abilene.

Another monument to the fighting seventh cavalry stands on the battlefield of the Little Big Horn, where Custer and his "boys" made their last desperate stand against the warriors marshaled by Sitting Bull.
