FIGHT HIGHER VIRGINIA FARE

Citizens Will Oppose Company's Petition for Increased Fare To Washington.

Vigorous protest against any increase in car fare is to be made to the State Corporation Commission of Virginia by citizens of Alexandria and other suburban points along the lines of the Washington-Virginia Railway Company.

PLAN PROTEST MEETING.

Aroused over the announcement of this company that it plans to increase its fares, citizens of Alexandria plan a mammoth protest meeting next week. The executive committee of the Mt. Vernon Division Commuters' Association meets tonight to plan for the demonstration.

The railway company proposes, on February 13, to increase the fare to Alexandria from 19 to 24 cents one way. It also contemplates discontinuing the use of the thirty-trip book and plans to raise the price of the monthly book from $4.56 to $5.56.

D. R. Stansbury, president of the association, issued the call for the meeting. He said today the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce probably would join the citizens in the protest.

WILL ATTEND HEARING.

Although the company has filed new rates with the Corporation Commission, this commission has set no date to hear arguments from the public. This hearing probably will be held about February 5.

Citizens of Alexandria plan to send several lawyers and representative men and women of the city to attend this hearing with instructions to lodge a most vigorous protest against any fare increase.

TRIBUTES PAID TO MEMORY OF GORGAS

Officials From Pan-America Join With Cabinet Officers in Notable Service.

Representative America, from both sides of the Gulf of Mexico joined last night in paying tribute to the memory of Maj. Gen. William Crawford Gorgas, late surgeon general of the army. The services, held in the Pan-American building, under the auspices of the Southern Society, were attended by Secretaries Baker and Daniels, representatives of the State Department and European embassies, and by the envoys of practically all the Latin-American republics.

Adj. Gen. Peter C. Harris presided. Before introducing the other speakers he sketched the life of General Gorgas, who died in England last July, told of his many achievements, and declared his sanitation work had made possible the building of the Panama canal.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels urged that a statue be erected to General Gorgas in Washington.

Others who spoke were William H. Saunders, president of the Southern Society; Dr. Clarence J. Owens, past president of the society; Senor Don Federico Pezet; ambassabor from Peru; Maj. Gen. H. K. Bethell, military attache of the British embassy; Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, minister from Cuba; Senor Don Rafael H. Elizalde, minister from Ecuador; Secretary of War Baker, Norman H. Davis, acting Secretary of State; Senor Don J. E. Lefevre, charge d'affaires from Panama; Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general, Pan-American Union, and benediction by Dr. J. Henning Nelms.

Many cablegrams and messages were received from notables in all parts of the world lauding the memory of the dead surgeon general. Among these was a cablegram from the King of Italy.

CLUBWOMEN TO VISIT C. & P. PHONE PLANT

Members of the Federation of Women's Clubs tonight will make a tour of inspection of the Thirteenth street plant of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. A. G. Berry, president of the company, extended an invitation to the women last week.

The women will visit the operators' room, where company officials plan spending many minutes explaining the number of movements made when a caller picks up the phone and gives a number. A buffet supper will be served following the inspection.

WILSON GIVEN CANE BY TEXANS FOR HIS LEAGUE STAND

President Wilson today exulted in a gift from Texas Democrats, presented as "an indorsement of your stand on the League of Nations."

The gift—a cane made of the heart of a Bois d'Arc tree—was presented by Congressman Parish of Texas on behalf of the Democrats of Wise county, Texas.

President Wilson expressed his gratitude for the cane and the sentiments which prompted the giving.

Congressman Parish also presented the President with a photograph of Sam Woody, ninety-four years old, reputed to be the oldest Democrat in Texas.

The President was looking exceedingly well, the Congressman stated.

LEPERS TO BE MOVED SOON

Secrecy Will Veil Transfer of District Hospital Inmates. Public to Be Protected.

Secrecy will surround the removal to the National Leprosarim at Carville, La., of Willard Centlivre and Charles H. Young, inmates of the District Leper Hospital on the Eastern Branch, it became known today.

PUBLIC TO BE PROTECTED.

Dr. William C. Fowler, District Health Officer, declined to make public his plans for the transfer of the two men. He would say only that the removal would be made in such a manner that there will be no chance of the disease spreading.

Surgeon General Cummings, of the United States Public Health Service, Saturday gave Dr. Fowler permission to send these men to the national institution. It has not been decided whether the transfer will be made by local or Federal authorities.

Not until the lepers are safely quartered at Carville will Dr. Fowler make public the fact that they have been removed from this city, it was said at the Health Department today. It is believed they will be taken away this month.

A long fight to have the lepers taken out of Washington will be ended when these two men leave town. Dr. Fowler has been in communication with the Health Service for many months asking for their removal. The Health Service has been unable to take charge of them until recently, when the purchase of the leprosarium at Carville, one time the Louisiana State Leprosarium, was negotiated.

IN CUSTODY 8 MONTHS.

Centlivre was taken into custody about eight months ago. He escaped from Carville and came to Washington. He appeared at one of the Health Department clinics and was quarantined.

A few months ago, Dr. Fowler received a telephone call from a physician that he had discovered a leper here. Dr. Fowler investigated and took Charles H. Young into custody. Young declares he had been traveling over the United States and several times had been taken into custody.

Both men were housed in the leper hospital on the Eastern branch. It cost the District at the rate of about $3,000 a year to care for them. Their removal was requested by Dr. Fowler because they are not residents of the District.

When the lepers are removed the leper hospital will be closed.

ARREST LECTURER WHO IGNORED COURT ORDER

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The weekly anti-Catholic lecture of Jay W. Forrest, supreme grand master of the Sons and Daughters of Washington, before the Sons and Daughters at Bryant Hall, was interrupted yesterday by the arrest of the supreme grand master.

The supreme grand master had ignored, in his supremely grand masterly way, two summonses obtained by Mrs. Jeanette M. Miller, of 197 Logan street, Brooklyn, who wants him to explain just how money collected from the Sons and Daughters of Washington was spent, and so yesterday Magistrate Silberman said it with a warrant.

As soon as he had been released for $500 bail Mr. Forrest returned to Bryant Hall and resumed his lecture.

"The fight has jurt begun," he said. "I can now fight a man who has been hiding behind a woman's skirts, and that is the kind of man I like to fight.

CLERK BONUS WILL WIN, TYPO PRESIDENT SAYS

M. A. Bodenhamer, president of Columbia Typographical Union, Local No. 101, announced at a meeting of the union yesterday afternoon in Typographical Temple that after a canvas of the Senate he was convinced it would restore the $240 bonus defeated in the House on a point of order.

"We have taken the bonus matter up with many Senators and Congressmen and find that the majority of the sentiment is in favor of it," said Mr. Bodenhamer. "In fact, according to the opinions expressed, we feel certain that nineteen out of every twenty of the Senators are in favor of continuing the bonus."

THRIFT WEEK DRIVE OPENED

Federal National Bank President Gives First Address of Y. M. C. A. Series.

Pay yourself first and spend afterward.

This is the keynote of thrift, John Poole, president of the Federal National Bank, told an audience this morning in the assembly room of the Terminal Railroad Y. M. C. A. Mr. Poole's talk was the first of a series that will be given every morning this week in the Y. M. C. A. by prominent business men and bankers, in carrying out the "Thrift Week" campaign, which is being conducted throughout the country this week.

MORE STEAM NEEDED.

"The whole scheme of saving gives opportunity for improving the quality of the mind," Mr. Poole told his audience. "The man who saves appears to his fellow-men as a rather superior sort of a person. But he is not any better than they are with one exception. He saves and thereby gets an air of independence and a feeling of security that impresses every one who meets him.

"The truth is that most of the people are behind the procession. They need to put on a burst of steam and get up in the front and lead the procession, if possible. The biggest men in Washington today are the men who saved. The men who have not saved seem to be just a few steps behind the procession, and if they do not start saving they will be in that position all their life."

EXPLAINS WEEK'S OBJECTS.

Mr. Poole explained the object of "Thrift Week" and told why each day's lecture would be by men in different lines of business.

Officials of the Franklin National Bank this morning laid a wreath at the foot o fthe statue of Benjamin Franklin, at Tenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, and another wreath was placed there by William Guggenheim, chairman of the Benjamin Franklin memorial committee, of New York.

Throughout the week, meetings will be held by various business organizations in the interests of preaching thrift. Edward Shaw will address the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club Thursday on "Own Your Own Home."

SPEAKERS FOR THE WEEK.

The speakers and their subjects at the Terminal Railroad Y. M. C. A. for the week are:

Tomorrow: C. F. Kolherman, auditor Washington Terminal Company, "Budget Day;" Wednesday, E. G. Adams, president District Life Underwriters' Association, "National Life Insurance Day;" Thursday, W. S. Quinter, secretary District Building and Loan Association, "Own Your Own Home Day;" Friday, George E. Hamilton, general counsel Washington Terminal Company, "Make a Will Day;" Saturday, R. L. Neuhauser, banker, "Pay Your Bills Promptly;" Sunday, Rev. George A. Miller, pastor Ninth Street Christian Church, "Share with Others Day." The Sunday meeting will be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Hear D. C. Radio Music in Tenn.

Chattanooga Operator Picks Up Free Concert For His Friends.

"Canned music" sent out by radio telephone from the Bureau of Standards has been picked up by an amateur radio station at Chattanooga, Tenn., the bureau learned today.

Saturday night, Benjamin F. Painter, an amateur radio operator at Chattanooga, with some friends, tried to pick up a radio plea for relief for European children, sent out at Pittsburgh.

While tuning in for the Pittsburgh station he picked up the jazzy waves whirling out from the Bureau of Standards and the group enjoyed a free concert.

At the bureau it was stated that this is the greatest distance at which music has been transmitted from the local station.

Extensive radio telephone work has been carried on for many months at the bureau and phonograph music was successfully sent out during the war. During a convention of scientists at the bureau early in the war a receiving outfit, placed in the main auditorium, picked up phonograph music sent out from another part of the grounds so clearly that it could readily be heard in all parts of the auditorium and even in the corridors outside for some distance.

For a time daily concerts were a regular part of the program of the bureau radio workers.

Drain to Address Veterans.

Vincent B. Costello Post, No. 15, American Legion, and the Ladies' Auxiliary will meet in the office of the adjutant, District Building, at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. Department Commander James A. Drain will speak. The post band of thirty-two pieces, under Band Leader Jones, will play. The meeting will be preceded by a meeting of the entertainment committee in Room 24 at 7:30 o'clock.

Girl Bitten by Dog.

While passing in front of 518 Thirteenth street southeast, Etta Shaw, colored, twenty years old, 1512 C street southeast, was bitten on the right hand by a dog said to be owned by George C. Scott, of the Thirteenth street address.

The dog leaped over the fence in front of the house and attacked the woman. She was treated at a nearby drug store. Her wound is not serious.

Balloonists' "Perils" Plain "Bunk," Says D. C. Man Who Knows North

Bunk.

That's what most of the "sob stories" about the heart-chilling wildness of the James Bay country, where the three American naval balloonists landed last month, really are, according to a Washington man who lived there for several years. And likewise:

Bosh.

That's what the stories of the impossibility of travel over the frozen wastes in winter really are. This according to the same man.

The chap in question is Alfred W. Law, 507 Fifteenth street southeast. Law explained this morning that he first went to the James Bay country a number of years ago, settling in a little place called Porcupine. He said that he built a little log cabin, in which he set up a printing press and got out a little paper, "The Porcupine Quill."

"I had nothing to write about during the winter," he said, "except the snow and trees and rocks and now and then a yarn about some chap breaking through the ice. In the summer I didn't have much more, though at one time I did take up a campaign against the sons of rich men, who, through political pull, got appointments as forest rangers in the James Bay country and who set more fires with cigarette stumps than they ever discovered and put out.

PUTS PUBLIC "WISE."

"I wonder if it isn't time for the public to be put wise to other phases of the 'airmen's perils' stuff that has commanded so much attention of late? The sob stories that have been handed out are more or less nauseating to those of us who know the conditions as they prevail in the James Bay country, and I don't believe the balloonists themselves, if they are red-blooded men will resent my telling some things I know about the region their balloon landed in.

"In the first place it seems queer to me that three men would start out in a balloon in midwinter thinly clad, as they are said to have been. Even if they only planned a five or six hours' journey that would land them somewhere in northern New York State, they should have had gumption enough to properly clothe themselves.

"Immediately after landing near Moose Factory they encountered an Indian whom their ordinary intelligence should have told them was not a savage, and if not a savage, then a friend. He, as a trapper, would procure something for them to eat in a hurry. Then he would, and did know the shortest route to the nearest Hudson's Bay post. From there to the railway was a tiresome but safe journey over trails that have been established for many years. At this time of year all the rivers flowing north are shallow. In the deeper places the ice would be thick and in the rapids or shallows there would scarcely be any ice. Their trail in such places would be around by land.

LIVED THERE THREE YEARS.

"I lived in that country for three years and I know what it is to make a very refreshing stew out of tender balsam and tamarac tips, moss, and the rind of a piece of bacon. I once had to sit down to a meal that my half-breed Indian helper had prepared, using machine oil instead of Wesson oil, on account of his being unable to recognize the cans.

"The country is flat in that region and the timber small. Hundreds of trappers and prospectors are scattered around everywhere and there are blazed trails in every direction. These lead to somebody somewhere in a day or two of travel."

Orphans of D. C. Will Be Guests of Times And Palace Theater

One week from today the orphans of Washington will take control of the Palace Theater, Thirteenth and F streets northwest. They will continue in undisputed possession for six consecutive days.

The occasion will be an orphans', party arranged by The Washington Times, which makes this an annual affair.

Lawrence Beatus, of the Palace Theater, will see that the parentless boys and girls have the choicest seats and guarantees them the time of their lives at the showings of "The Love Light," in which Mary Pickford is starred.

Walter Brownley proprietor of the Fruit and Nut Shop at 1205 G street northwest, will provide the little ladies and gentlemen with boxes of candy and fruit, and several prominent automobile dealers will provide closed cars in which the orphans may motor to the opera in befitting style.

NEW PICKFORD FILM.

The automobiles will call for the orphans at their respective institutions and take them to the theater door, there Mr. Brownley will distribute his boxes of goodies, and Manager Beatus will do the rest. In providing "The Love Light" as the entertainment, Manager Beatus is putting on what is considered the best film in which Mary Pickford has ever been seen. Not only that, but this will be the first time "The Love Light" has been publicly shown in any theater in the United States. The plot of the screen play is fascinating and gripping, filled with thrills, pathos and humor, and the orphans are sure to enjoy it immensely.

On Monday the children from the German Orphan Asylum and Episcopal Home for Children in Anacostia will be the guests of The Washington Times and Manager Beatus.

The orphans from the Jewish Foster Home and St. John's Orphanage will see "The Love Light" on Tuesday. On Wednesday the little boys and girls who live at the Bureau Home, the Washington City Orphanage and the Foundling Hospital will see the play.

Thursday's guests will be the orphans from the Baptist Home for Children, The Children's Home of the Central Union Mission, and St. Joseph's Male Orphan Asylum. On Friday large contingents of parentless boys and girls from the Methodist Home for Children and the Gospel Mission's Home for Children will be entertained at the Palace Theater, and on Saturday the 130 young lady orphans at St. Vincent's Female Orphan Asylum will have the theater all to themselves.

WILL BE GIVEN RIDE.

Following their attendance at the theater all the orphans will be given a long motor ride and then taken to the doors of their respective institutions.

Manager Beatus has urged The Washington Times to make every effort to apprehend and bring to the Palace Theater next week every solitary white orphan in Washington because he believed that in "The Love Light" he has the Mary Pickford film which will afford the children the greatest possible enjoyment and he does not want any of them to miss it.

In case any of the orphans have been omitted from the above list, persons knowing of other large groups of white orphans would confer a favor upon Manager Beatus by communicating with him. Better than that, persons knowing of such orphans can present them at the box office at the Palace Theater any morning next week and Manager Beatus will be glad to give the doorman the wink.

MARINE ENGINEERS OPEN 7-DAY CONVENTION HERE

With more than 300 marine engineers from every port in the United States in attendance, the seven-day convention of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association opened this morning in the Hotel Ebbitt. William S. Brown, of Buffalo, president of the organization, presided.

The morning program was given over to reports. This afternoon Admiral W. S. Benson and Commander Gatewood, of the Shipping Board, will speak. Gen. George Uhler will be the principal speaker at tomorrow's session.

To Install Maine Officers.

Installation of officers of the Maine State Association will take place in the white parlor of the Ebbitt House at 8 o'clock next Saturday night. The installation ceremonies will be followed by an entertainment.

D. C. WELFARE BILL NEEDED

—MARSHALL

Vice President Indorses Curtis Measure at Hearing Before Senate Committee.

Co-ordination of all of the various charitable and welfare organizations in Washington under the direction of the Board of Public Welfare, composed of citizens who would serve without compensation, was strongly urged by Vice President Marshall today at a hearing by the Senate District Committee.

HEARING ON CURTIS BILL.

The hearing was on the bill introduced by Senator Curtis, providing for compulsory school attendance and prohibiting the employment of children under fourteen years of age in any line of industry in the National Capital.

Vice President Marshall said that the National Capital should have a model board of public welfare to be used as a guide by all the cities of the country, whereas at present there are a score or more of independent and unrelated charity and welfare organizations frequently overlapping and duplicating each others efforts.

Senator Sherman and Senator Sheppard expressed their accord with the views given by Vice President Marshall with regard to the necessity for the suggested board.

The vice president accompanied his suggestion with a codification of the welfare laws of Massachusetts and Indiana, said by him to have been pronounced by the Interntional Congress of Charities and Corrections to be the best in the world, and urged that this codification be introduced in the form of a bill to apply to the District of Columbia. His suggestion in this regard was followed by the committee and the bill will beintroduced within the next day or two.

WOULD CONCENTRATE WORK.

"I am a firm believer in the principle that the world should be governed by law and not by discretion," said Vice President Marshall. "I believe that the various activities which a government is compelled to assume should be co-ordinated so as to prevent duplication of effort and work harmoniously toward a common end, that comon end being the public welfare. I believe, therefore, in the District of Colubia these various activities should be a branch of a department of public welfare, presided over by a board of citizens who are interested in the public welfare and will give their time to furthering it without compensation at the hands of the government. I am quite well aware that this may meet with opposition at the hands of public officials and that it must run the gauntlet of that strange human nature, which insists that the thing which is being done is the all important maer and all ohers are merely secondary and incidental."

Vice President Marshall said that the manner in which insane people are committed to asylums is appalling. He said these people are sick and should be handled as such, but instead they are treated as criminals. He characterized the absence of law governing the boarding of the insane as "little short of a crime." He strongly urged the speedy construction of a home for the feeble minded and immediate treatment for such patients, saying that 75 per cent of the insanity in Washington could thus be prevented.

WANTS ORPHANS ADOPTED.

The Vice President also stated that there was a crying need for better laws providing for humanitarian treatment for illegitimate children, and for the care of orphans. He said that instead of being placed in institutions the orphans should be turned over to the care of childless husbands and wives who would provide good homes for them and bring them up properly.

With regard to the suggestion of a member of the committee that hearings be held on his bill Vice President Marshall said:

"If you are going to do that it is better to do nothing. This bill is either necessary or it isn't. This is a short session of Congress and we haven't many more weeks in which to pass necessary legislation. If you are going to hold hearings and get the views of all the representatives of all the charity and welfare organizations and the superintendents of the various institutions, I can tell you in advance that they probably will advise against the enaction of this legislation, because it would interfere with what they are doing.

"Nevertheless I want to say to you that I have made an investigation of the District welfare and charity work of the past twenty-five years and find that there is much to be desired in the way of co-operation and co-ordination and that I have brought here to you a suggestion which will cover and remedy the condition. The trouble is fundamental and is chiefly due to the absence of proper administrative legislation.

BILL WIDELY INDORSED.

"I have talked with Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh and other nationally-known philanthropists and welfare workers and they heartily approve putting this legislation into effect in the District of Columbia. In fact, Mrs. Walsh so thoroughly approved it that she has volunteered to finance the expenses of the board of public welfare.

"My suggestion is that, instead of holding hearings, that you go ahead and pass this bill at this session without any appropriation, allowing institutions to function as at present for another year, and then amend the act to meet such conditions as may necessitate amendment."

Pen Women to Entertain.

Miss Jane Manners, noted New York drama reader, will entertain members of the League of American Penwomen at a meeting in the headquarters, 1722 H street northwest, at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night. Men and women who are interested in cultural advancement are invited. Miss Manners' program will consist of three one-act plays, "The Will," by James M. Barrie; "Kitty Cluve," by Frankfort Moore; and a short play by Cosmos Hamilton. Among the guests will be Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, wife of the famous author and lecturer.

'Gold Tooth' Ben To Desert D. C.

Just Can't Stand G. O. P. So He Prepares to Leave Capitol.

"Gold Tooth" Ben is going to quit Washington before March 4 just so he won't have to watch the Republicans come into power. He comes from a Democratic stronghold, Boone county, Mo., and he "just can't stand a Republican nohow."

Ever since Governor Cox gave his one-man imitation of being left at the post, Gold Tooth Ben has been dead sore. Right after the election returns were announced, he climbed a tree. He's been living there ever since, only coming down to eat.

For Gold Tooth Ben is a raccoon. He was brought here when President Wilson first took office, and was loaned to the Zoo. So far as is known, he's the only coon in captivity sporting a genuine gold tooth. It was inserted in his jaw by a dentist in St. Louis.

For eight years Ben has been friendly enough—but now he won't even associate with the other 'coons.

"They've turned Republican, and he doesn't want to become contaminated," explained Edward F. Goltra, Democratic national committeeman from Missouri, who has come to take Ben home.

START TRADE TOUR TUESDAY

Capital Cops on Motorcycles to Escort Governor Ritchie to District Line.

Washington policemen, on motorcycles, will escort A. C. Ritchie, governor of Maryland, and his staff to the District Line tomorrow morning, when the Maryland officials and Washington and Baltimore businessmen begin their trip from Washington to Leonardtown, Md., on a trade pilgrimage. From the District Line to Leonardtown, and from Leonardtown to the District Line on the return trip, the party will be escorted by Maryland State mounted police.

ANDREWS HEADS LOCAL MEN.

Col. Charles W. Kutz, Engineer Commissioner for the District of Columbia will be a member of the party. All three District Commissioners will welcome the governor and his staff tomorrow morning at the office of the Tidewater Transportation Company, 613 G street northwest. The start will be made from this point at 9:30 o'clock.

The Washington business men will be headed by Ross P. Andrews, chairman of the out of town trade committee of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of this city. Dr. Hugh Smith, of the Federal Bureau of Fisheries, will also accompany the party.

"The Washington business men who will make the trip will impress upon the people of Southern Maryland, that Washington, five hours away from them by motor truck, is the feasible trade center for them," according to Charles J. Columbus, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

"This section of the country produced about 75 per cent of all the oysters tonged in the world, in addition to a great variety of other sea food. Using Washington as the center for their trade, the Southern Maryland section is only ten hours away from New York—five hours to Washington, and fivehours from Washington to New York. The Baltimore business men are getting jealous of the trade which the Washington merchants have built up and are going to make a decided effort to divert it to Baltimore. While there is no feeling against their trying to get the trade, ft is obvious to everyone that Washington is its real center. If Baltimore business men were to get the trade, the routes to Baltimore would in many instances, lead through Washington and then to Baltimore, or if Washington was not touched, it would mean a longer trip through less convenienced roads.

GETS 1,000 GALLONS A DAY.

"Washington now gets about 1,000 gallons of oysters a day in season from this section. The total output of the section is about 4,000 gallons a day. Washington motor truck transportation companies are making arrangements for special trucks to carry the oyster and crab products from this section and they will reach New York and other points in a better condition if brought here by truck than by any other means.

"Not only the sea food products of that section, but the agricultural products are equally as available, and the time may not be very far off when the tobacco products of southern Maryland will come to Washington. A tobacco industry may develop here that will be one of the factors in the city's commercial life. There is also room for great improvement in truck gardens in this section and an effort will be made by Washington business men to have the people put more interest in this development.

Lecture at Museum.

An illustrated lecture by William E. Myer, of Nashville, Tenn., will feature a meeting of the Anthropological Society tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 at the United States National Museum.

PREVENTIVE DENTISTRY

AT THE SIGN OF THE TOOTH

The old adage, ONE OUNCE OF PREVENTION IS WORTH A POUND OF CURE, is more than exemplified in your teeth. Deadly germs lurk in the cavities of decayed teeth and the pus pockets of unhealthy gums.

YOU WOULD NOT EAT TAINTED FOOD. Yet with decayed teeth and infected gums, that is exactly what you do. In time your health must pay the penalty.

BE PRUDENT, have your teeth attended to NOW. A small payment down will start the treatment. The rest as you please. NO CHARGE for a careful examination.

A CATCHOUC PLATE made by me is guaranteed, both material and workmanship, to stand up for twenty years. Will not absorb odors, is extremely thin and light in weight. $5, $10, $15.

Set of Teeth
A Catchouc Plate

An X-ray picture, such as this, indicates the location of abscesses. Eliminate all guess work, you lose no teeth that can possibly be saved.

We have gone to great expense to install such scientific instruments as will benefit our patients most.
(No charge for X-ray pictures)

PAINLESS EXTRACTION—By the use of a simple botanical discovery we have been able to extract teeth absolutely without pain, I also administer gas where it is indicated or desired.

BRIDGE WORK—My bridge work is patented, and is without doubt the nearest approach to natural teeth, both in service and appearance, that has yet been produced. All work accomplished without pain and guaranteed for twenty years in writing.
