Strange Case of Bullet—

A bullet fired a year ago last Fourth of July by a Chicago resident while shooting at a target in the Menominee Boulevard company at Wells and landed in a tree, was found in the tree by workmen who were felling the tree. The bullet was imbedded in a 32-inch pine tree. The tree was being felled by the workmen at Wells. The saw blade cracked the bullet and when the board containing the bullet was sawed through the center it was thrown out with great force, striking the man operating the plane another a blow on the chin and knocking him down.

Hunted Without Licenses—

The first arrest made in Gogebic county under the new law which forbids aliens hunting without a non-resident license was by Game Warden Oates and Deputy Game Warden Andrews. The workers from Peter Alexis and Simon Hamalainen, both of Bessemer, on a trout stream in vicinity of parmelee, which they left Friday. The men admitted that they were not citizens and were arrested and taken before a justice of the peace. On account of their ignorance of the law, they were allowed to pay the costs of the case, amounting to $5 each, and to take out a non-resident license, which cost them $25 each.

Mail Carrier Found Her Dead—

When he was about to deliver mail at the home, 2707 Banner avenue, Mail Carrier Fred Dearing, of Menominee, discovered Mrs. Peter Peterson sitting in the doorway, apparently sound asleep. Investigation, however, showed that she was dead and had been for some time by the door. He had rang the door bell and knocked for some time before he decided to go around to the back door. Mrs. Peterson was found sitting in a chair with her head resting against the door jamb. A thimble and needle were in her lap and she had evidently been sewing when death came. Heart disease is the cause of death. A thimble and needle were also found in her lap when she was found by her husband. Mrs. Peterson had been in her usual health when he left for his work in the morning. Coroner Bergman was called in and he decided that no inquest was necessary. Mrs. Peterson was a native of Sweden and had lived in Menominee for many years. She is survived by her husband and one son, Peter, who is employed in the marble quarry.

The Gibertson cases from Thompson, another name for one case, is scheduled to come up in Marquette on the 28th. The case is against a man charged of bigamy and also on a charge of violating a parole. The accused man states that he has served five years in Marquette prison for bigamy. He gives his occupation as a stenographer and was working when arrested Tuesday at 11 o'clock. The man talked freely to the captors and expressed regret at having been arrested. "I was drunk when I was married. I didn't know what I was doing," he told the officers. He is twenty-seven years old.

"According to the records at the county clerk's office a marriage license was issued Oct. 9 to Thomas I. Getchell and Jennie Coan. The couple were married that day by Justice John M. Goode. Getchell swore he never had been married before. The bride's occupation was given as waitress. Morley was her birthplace and she is twenty-five years old. Her parents are living. After the wedding they went to live at 131 Bostwick avenue, N. E.

"Mrs. Getchell was interviewed shortly after her husband's arrest. The man has begged the officers to say nothing to his wife of the trouble. 'It will crush her,' he told the officers. Mrs. Getchell was writing a letter to her mother in Montana when the newspaper man called at their home, 131 Bostwick avenue, N. E. The woman was tapping the machine keys of her husband's typewriter uncertainly. She was but a beginner and the novelty of transforming her thoughts into inky lettered words was fascinating.

"Her wide-opened eyes spoke her feelings. 'See,' and she pointed to the sheet in the typewriter. 'I was writing my brother, telling him of my marriage. My folks don't know it yet. It was to be a surprise.'

"At the age of twenty Jennie Coan left the home at Morley to seek work in the city. At first it was a struggle and even the toil and turmoil in the city failed to drive away the longing for home and mother—for the home she had always done and the quiet existence at home with her parents. Frequently she returned to Morley to visit, to comfort her mother, to let the folks there know she was well and happy. She was working at the Cleveland and roomed at 334 Bostwick avenue, N. E., when she first met Getchell.

"Think of it," she muttered. "It was only a week last Monday I first met him.

"Mrs. Getchell will go to Marquette with her husband. She must learn the truth from his very lips before her faith in him is shaken.

"The prisoner Tuesday afternoon sent a telegram to his mother at Escanaba asking her not to carry out her plans to come to Green Rapids to make him a visit.

RAISES CHECK IT IS CLAIMED

Nervy Flim Flam Game Is Said to Have Been Practiced Here

Accused of perpetrating in Calumet yesterday one of the nervi-est "flim flam" games that has gone to the attention of the police for months, A. Hartman is detained by the officers in Negaunee and will be brought back to Calumet to stand trial. Hartman is said to have raised a check from one dollar to forty-one dollars, cashing it and leaving town. The check was issued by Frank Suino, the Sixth street grocer.

Suino claims the man entered his store yesterday and represented himself to be with the Merchants Collecting Agency. He contracted with Mr. Suino for this agency to collect about ten accounts, all of them out of town, and to cover preliminary expenses was to receive one dollar at a rate of ten cents for each account, the collecting expenses to be deducted after the money had been procured. Not having time to look up these accounts, Mr. Suino claims Hartman left a blank statement to be filled in at his leisure and asked that the preliminary fee of one dollar be given to him so that it might be sent to his agency. This was agreed upon and Hartman proceeded to write out the check, using a fountain pen, Mr. Suino says. Suino signed the check with Hartman's pen, and claims he is certain it read one dollar. Hartman then departed, stating he planned to visit the Barsotti store.

Later in the afternoon, Suino's suspicions became aroused when he recalled the transaction, and he went to the First National bank, with the intention he says of stopping payment. When he got there he found Hartman in the act of having the check certified, a very natural step in view of the fact that the check was to be sent away, and Hartman's appearance caused Suino's suspicions to disappear for the moment and he hesitated about investigating further. On his way out, Hartman spoke to Suino and suggested that he should not delay in sending in a list of the accounts to be collected.

When Hartman left, Suino was not entirely satisfied and says he called the attention of the bank officials to the amount for which the check was issued, as a precaution against it being raised. He found to his dismay that while he stood looking on and evidently endorsing the transaction, the check bearing his signature and reading forty-one dollars instead of one dollar had been certified by the bank, and that the man he charges with raising it had departed.

Steps were immediately taken to stop payment and Marshal Trudell was notified. The check was cashed at the Tamarack Co-operative store a short time later, and Marshal Trudell ascertained that a man answering Hartman's description had left on the Northwestern train. Marshal Trudell immediately communicated with other towns in the upper peninsula with the result the man believed to be Hartman was apprehended at Negaunee.

Chief of Police Louis Voetsch of Houghton went to Negaunee last evening at Sheriff Cruse's request to bring Hartman back, there being no other deputy sheriff available who could be sent there.

Suino claims he received three long distance telephone calls, one last evening and two this morning in which promises were given that a satisfactory settlement would be made if the proceedings were dropped. As the matter has been placed in the hands of the authorities, however, this was impossible, and was not even considered by Mr. Suino.

May Be A Connection.

The authorities received word today from Superior, Wis., to keep on the lookout for a man named L. Iseman, wanted in that city for a forgery alleged to have been committed yesterday. Iseman is supposed to be in the copper country now and may be arrested this afternoon as the officers have a good description of him.

It is said Iseman also represented himself to be connected with the Merchants' Collecting Agency and if this is the case, the fact that Iseman headed this way should connect the two cases.

McCABE CLASS ORGANIZES.

Banquet Held at Y. M. C. A. and Season's Work is Planned.

Twenty-five members of the McCabe and Plus Ultra bible classes of the Laurium M. E. church, now consolidated as the McCabe class, sat at a five-course dinner in the Y. M. C. A. lecture room last evening, to plan the season's activities. The affair was arranged partly in celebration of the combining of the classes. W. J. Reynolds, superintendent of the Laurium M. E. Sunday school and Rev. A. B. Sutcliffe, pastor of the church, gave short talks, and members of the McCabe class in brief addresses welcomed the ex-Plus Ultras. These addresses were responded to. J. Garnet Odgers presided over the gathering as toastmaster.

The first business taken up was the election of officers. J. Garnet Odgers will continue as president of the class, his term not having expired. Melvin Rowe, former president of the Plus Ultras, was named as vice president and Chesney Sleep as secretary.

A committee was named to confer with similar committees named by Young men's bible classes representing other Sunday schools, and arrive at a definite and uniform basis of competition in athletics and other activities during the fall and winter months. Regulations which are satisfactory to all will be prepared.

Those present named a nominating committee, who at the next meeting will recommend the election of committees to direct the class' activities in various directions, socially in entertainments, bowling, hockey and other sports.

Following the business of the gathering, those present repaired to the gymnasium where games were enjoyed.

NOT FIRST SMITHSHOP.

Street Commissioner Jacka Discusses the Pioneer Days.

According to Street Commissioner Marmaduke Jacka, one of the district's old pioneers, the building at the rear of the Central house which was demolished yesterday, was not the first smithshop in Calumet. Mr. Jacka claims it was never used as a smithshop, although near the location of one of the early shops. The building has no interesting history, nevertheless, for Mr. Jacka asserts it was first used as a boiler house at the Northwest Mine and then moved to Calumet by the late William Anderson, altered and used as a barn.

Mr. Jacka contends the first smithshop in Red Jacket was erected and occupied by Peter Boller and was located near the site of the present Stork block. Later Boller moved across the street to a point close to the building mentioned yesterday as the first smithshop, and after conducting his shop there for a short time sold out to the late Chris Roehm.

PICKETING AT NEW ALLOUEZ

No Arrests Are Made; Hearing in Eviction Cases Monday

Strikers continued picketing in the vicinity of New Allouez this morning. No arrests were made. A crowd of strikers gathered at Wolverine but they were kept moving by the militia.

Parades were held at Red Jacket and other towns but none of the demonstrations was attended by violence. A small band of strikers gathered near the Copper Range depot where 75 workmen arrived on the St. Paul train but no disturbance occurred.

Final notices of eviction on about fifty strikers, occupants of houses owned by the Copper Range Consolidated Mining company at Painesdale and Trimountain, will have been served by this evening. The defendants are given until Monday afternoon to appear before Circuit Court Commissioner Weider to show cause why they should not be evicted.

Similar steps which were to have been taken in Calumet, received a temporary setback through legal procedure which such cases must undergo.

Deputies from the sheriff's office are still serving notices of the injunction and the end of the week will witness the completion of the task. Personal service will then have been obtained on every striker in the copper zone and the real test of the restraining order will then be forthcoming.

Charged With Shooting Wilkins.

George Tote of Kearsarge was arrested on a charge of shooting W. Guy Wilkins of Ahmeek at Kearsarge October 6. Wilkins is the Ahmeek clerk who was attacked by ten strikers and shot through the hip while he was running from the attack. Undersheriff Heikkila arrested Tote and Wilkins came to Houghton and identified Tote as one of his assailants. Tote was taken to Justice Jackola in Calumet last night and arraigned on a charge of assault with intent to kill. He failed to secure bail in the sum of $2,000 and was remanded to jail.

Admits Failure of Mission.

Failure on the part of the United States department of labor to bring about a settlement of the copper mine strike, by means of arbitration, virtually is admitted in a letter sent to President Charles H. Moyer, of the Western Federation of Miners, says a Washington dispatch. The letter, written by John A. Moffitt, who was sent by the federal department, first to Calumet and later to Boston, to meet the mine owners, was addressed to Mr. Moyer at Calumet.
