THE ROAD QUESTION.

MR. EDITOR:—I have read with interest, several articles in the columns of the BEACON concerning the road question, and think it well to offer a few suggestions which, however humble they may be, I hope will be adjudged of some worth to the community.

Our roads, as we all know, are in a very deplorable condition. I could mention many holes that are dangerous, in every sense of the word, and it does seem to me out of place to make complaints to the County Commissioners about such places, especially since we have road supervisors who seem to wait until some damage is done to a horse or a vehicle before repairing is begun.

If we are to have good roads, necessarily they must be attended to, and I know of no other direct or approved means to do this than to give the work to the farmers.

What I propose to do is this:— Every landowner in the county has more or less of public road running through or around his place. Instead of appointing Supervisors to look after and repair our public highways, give this right to the farmers. Pay the farmers in exact proportion to what our Supervisors get today and I venture to say that we will have better roads. There would be rivalry between these road menders, who would, in every case, try to make a better road than his neighbor. One settled fact about the matter would be that the farmers would know when and where to fix the roads. The farmers invariably possess better facilities for repairing roads and, consequently, could do their work with much more convenience and economy.

What I suggest about repairing holes, is to fill them with medium size stones sufficient to make a solid foundation, and then use gravel in good quantities and I feel safe in saying that these depressions will be permanently mended.

As to straightening the roads, I think that proposition entirely out of the question. Give us good roads and we will adjust that matter, when we shall have been assured perfect safety over the public transit.

Another point, I wish to call attention to is: One of our highly respected citizens suggested that liquor dealers be compelled to pay a higher license and let this money be spent for the benefit of the public roads. Now, who will dare say that those named, who are far in the minority, do not pay their just dues, toward defraying the county expenses in proportion to the rest of our law abiding citizens? Gentlemen, if you consider the selling of intoxicants a great wrong, let us have local option, but do not recommend an exorbitant measure that will fall on a few.

Gentlemen, these are my conscientious sentiments and whether they are deserving merit or not I don't care, but I certainly am anxious to see the right thing done.

a young man and as the years of his youth are coupled with the years of his older age he will be as good a

Cedar Point Notes.

Cool, cloudy weather is still with us causing the trees and grass to retain their intense dark green appearance, but being especially favorable for the onward march of the army worm. They are sweeping everything. After stripping the wheat of leaves they are now feeding on the heads and cleaning the corn off to the ground. It looks as if Moll Dyer's curse is extending over a large portion of St. Mary's this year.

Mrs. R. W. Bell is ill in a hospital in Baltimore after a serious operation.

Mr. C. A. Brady is building a new dwelling for Mr. Warner.

Mr. T. C. Meredith is cutting a bill of lumber for a new dwelling at Milestone.

Mrs. B. B. Quirk and daughter have returned from Blackstone, Va., where they went to be present at the Graduation of her grand-daughter, Miss Elsie Meredith, she being one of the honor members of a graduating class of fifty three.

OBSEVER.

IN MEMORIAN.

In sad but loving remembrance, of my darling sister M. Bessie Raley (nee) Eliff who departed this life, January 13, 1907.

It is just five months ago today Since her dear spirit fled, How sudden was the summons, When word came, she was dead.

I miss her coming footsteps, I miss her every where,
Home is not what it used to be,
Since my sister is not here.

When you ask me do I miss her, Yes, it fills my heart with pain, But her spirit softly whispers,
In heaven we'll meet again.

As the evening sun is setting, Oftimes as I sit alone, In my heart there comes a feeling, That my sister must come home.

Peaceful be your silent slumber, Peaceful in your grave so low;
You no more will join our number,
You no more our sorrows know.

Yet again I hope to meet you,
When the days of life are fled,
And with joy in heaven to greet you, Where no farewell tears are shed.

Thou art gone but not forgotten, Still I miss you more and more, Yet to earth I would not recall you From that bright, eternal shore.

She will not be forgotten;
Never shall her memory fade, Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger, Round the grave when she was laid.

She has passed from us forever, Entered though the pearly gates But some day we will join her, If we trust in God and wait.

We cannot tell who next may fall Beneath the chastening rod, One must be first, but let us all, Prepare to meet our God.

Farewell dear sister, may you slumber Be as gentle as your love, And when God calls us homeward May we meet in heaven above.
By her loving sister Eva.

How to Clean White Gloves.

White kid gloves may be satisfactorily cleaned at home by this process: Place the glove in a small basin and pour over just enough benzine to cover, set a plate over the basin, so as to prevent the spirit evaporating, and let the glove soak for five minutes. Have a thick cloth ready on the table and a piece of clean flannel. Take the glove out of the basin, let it drip a little, place it on the cloth and wipe it with the flannel, changing the surface constantly as it is soiled. The glove must not be rubbed too hard or the surface will be spoiled. When the glove is quite clean, blow into it to inflate it and hang in the shade in a draft.

Will Cure Consumption.

A. A. Herren, Finch, Ark., writes:
"Foley's Honey and Tar is the best preparation for coughs, colds and lung trouble. I know that it has cured consumption in the first stages." You never heard of any one using Foley's Honey and Tar and not being satisfied. Loker & deWaal.

Mental Arithmetic.

A young lady is entertaining a young man whom she met while away last winter, and who is making his first visit to her home. There are two walks they may take in the evening. One is along a well-lighted promenade, the other through a vine-embowered lane. It takes forty minutes to walk at an ordinary pace along the well-lighted promenade.
It was up to her to suggest which walk they should take. Which, did he take, and did he have a ring in his pocket? How did she guess it?

A man is rearranging the pictures in his library. His wife has absolute faith in his judgment in such matters. How many times does she make him change the new location of each picture? You are wrong, for she is away on a visit.
How soon after she returns will she take the pictures down and hang them where they were before.

Orchard Fertilizing.

Many farmers do not understand that production of large crops of apples, pears and peaches is a heavy draft on the vitality of the trees, and if nothing is done to increase the fertility of the soil the trees must decline and finally die. Anyone who has grown fruit for some length of time must have observed this.

The regular cultivation of the soil during the first half of the growing season will undoubtedly be beneficial, but this is allowable only on ground that is level, or nearly so, and even then will in time cease to be efficacious. There are two ways to keep up the fertility: First, sowing crimson clover, cowpeas or some cover crop at the last season; second, applying stable manure.

The latter is what may be done now, and there is nothing better.
Anyone who has plenty of stable manure can keep his orchard in good condition. It may be hauled right from the stable or the cowshed and spread on the surface of the ground, not closely around the trunks of the trees, where there are few roots, but out 10 feet or more under the branches.

It is a good plan in such cases to make light applications, going over the ground several times at intervals of five or six weeks. This avoids the heating which takes place when much is applied at one time, and the consequent escape of ammonia, one of the best elements in stable manure, and allows the rains to carry down the soluble portions to the roots. This involves more labor, of course, but it will pay.

General Jackson Liked Lemon.

"Just now," an old Confederate soldier recently remarked, "a very popular expression of rather indefinite meaning is to say that one "was handed a lemon," but literally you could not have better pleased Stonewall Jackson. General Jackson's fondness for lemons was something remarkable, and he was never without them if they could possibly be obtained. Very often during the war they were not to be had, and he missed them greatly. When he could get hold of one—and every one in his command knowing his fondness for them was always on the lookout for the fruit—he would

A Lesson in Health.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible.
Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease.
It strengthens the whole system.

A man who is in perfect health, so he can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr. L. C. Rodgers, of Branchton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says, "success to Foley's Kidney Cure."

If you will make inquiry it will be a revelation to you how many succumb to kidney or bladder troubles in one form or another. If the patient is not beyond medical aid, Foley's Kidney Cure will cure. It never disappoints.

W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup for chronic constipation, and it has proven, without a doubt, to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference."

How to Clean White Gloves.

torily cleaned at home by this pro-
flannel, changing the surface con-
draft.

Will Cure Consumption.

A. A. Herren, Finch, Ark., writes:
stages." You never heard of any
and not being satisfied. Loker &

his first visit to her home. There
along the well-lighted promenade.
It was up to her to suggest which
pocket? How did she guess it?

wrong, for she is away on a visit.
them where they were before.
