DRANK CHAMPAGNE TO STEADY PISTOL FOR DEATH SHOT

Discharged Cashier of Martin's Cafe Killed Self After Taking Wine.

Emil Pierre, cashier for eight years of J. B. Martin's restaurant at Twenty-sixth street and Fifth avenue, shot and killed himself to-day in the bachelor's apartment he occupied at No. 408 West Fifty-eighth street. After a quarrel with his employer last night he was discharged.

Early to-day J. B. Martin sent his manager, Charles L'Homme, to Pierre's rooms to ask him for the keys to the safe. Pierre sent down word for L'Homme to wait. He was engaged in writing farewell notes. He drank a quart bottle of champagne while he wrote.

While L'Homme waited below stairs the discharged cashier continued calmly writing. He was still writing when L'Homme went back to the restaurant. His employer told him to return and demand the keys to the safe. On his second visit he got no response to his knocking. Listening at the door he could not hear a sound. He suspected that Pierre had killed himself and got a ladder in the back yard and ran it up to a window of the apartment. Looking in the window he saw Pierre stretched on the floor dead. He had shot himself through the temple and died instantly.

In one of the farewell notes he had written the suicide admitted that he had been speculating in Wall street and had lost heavily. In another letter he wrote:

"As I wrote this in my last hour I am drinking my last bottle of champagne. I could not die without one more bottle of my favorite ——. It clears my head and will make my aim straight."

J. B. Martin would not say whether or not Pierce had been behind in his accounts. The suicide was 35 years old, unmarried and had no kin in this country.

WORE THEIR HATS IN COURT WITH CONSENT OF JUDGE.

Justice Blanchard Says It's a Disgrace to Force Human Beings to Inhabit Room.

The unusual spectacle of jurors and spectators sitting huddled in their coats and wearing their hats in a Supreme Court room, with a Justice presiding, was witnessed to-day in Trial Term, Part XVII., during the trial of the suit of Henry M. Johnson of Rapid River, South Dakota, against Edward F. Wattson of Red Bank, N. J., a wealthy promoter and banker.

Mr. Wattson left a sick bed to come into court. When the case was called he complained that the draughts from the open windows affected him. The windows had been thrust up to let the fowl air from the small room.

"Certainly, Mr. Wattson, you may have any comfort you wish," stated Justice Blanchard. "The air in this room is vile. It is a disgrace to ask a human being to sit in rooms of this kind and it is a scandal for the City of New York to force men to inhabit such places. You and all other gentlemen who wish may put on hats and coats, too, if you wish. I don't blame you, for I have suffered exceedingly in health because of my being forced to remain here."

Mr. Wattson put on his hat and coat and Juror No. 5—Morris A. Berkowitz—donned a heavy fur coat and black felt hat. Another spectator smiled and set his hat at a rakish angle over his left ear. Some of the others left the court room.

Johnson asks for a recovery of $4,000 for services which he alleges he performed at Mr. Wattson's request in developing lands in the Dakotas. Mr. Wattson makes a denial.

SHOOTS MAN, IS ACQUITTED.

Jury Justifies Casimer Ilg for Slaying Man in Cafe.

Less than twenty minutes was taken to reach a verdict by the jury sitting at the murder trial of Casimer Ilg, charged with killing Charles Schultz Aug. 26 last. Ilg also was indicted for murder for the death of Thomas Callighan, an eleven-year-old boy, who was struck by part of the charge of a shotgun aimed at Schultz.

John F. McIntyre, who defended Ilg, claimed the shooting of Schultz was a justifiable homicide, as Schultz, he said, had entered the cafe kept by the defendant at No. 5477 Southern Boulevard and had threatened Ilg's life. To protect himself Ilg fired. The shooting of the boy, McIntyre claimed, was an unfortunate accident.

After Justice Crain, sitting in Part 2 of General Sessions, had heard the verdict of the jury, he decided to wait until hearing from the District-Attorney's office before dismissing the indictment charging Ilg with the killing of the boy. Mr. McIntyre had requested the Court to order the indictment dismissed and the defendant discharged from custody.

FURS FOR "OTHER WOMAN."

Wife Sued by Lawyer Bases Alimony Claim on His Liberality.

A "stout blond woman" and a $300 fur coat figured in the case of Alfred B. Osgoodby for divorce from his wife, Lillian H. Osgoodby, when a motion for alimony and counsel fee was made before Supreme Court Justice Cohalan to-day.

Osgoodby, a lawyer, who says he has been forced to accept employment in a real estate office at $12.50 a week, objected to paying any alimony. His wife, however, charged that he had paid $300 for a fur coat for a "stout blond woman," and consequently could afford to pay something toward her support pending the trial of his suit.

An adjournment until to-morrow was granted. Mrs. Osgoodby is the divorced wife of Dr. Thomas Darlington, once head of the Health Department.

CITY PARK SYSTEM ABOMINABLY RUN, MITCHEL DECLARES

"I'm Reponsible," Mayor Retorts, in Board of Estimate Row Over Stover.

President Mitchel of the Board of Aldermen criticised at a meeting of the Board of Estimate to-day the Park Department under the administration of Commissioner Charles B. Stover. The Mayor promptly came to the Commissioner's defense, saying he took full responsibility for the official acts of Commissioner Stover.

President Mitchel invited the Mayor to read the report of the Commissioner of Accounts, which, he said, revealed an "incompetent and abominable administration."

President Mitchel took the opportunity to express his views when a resolution for revenue bonds for $25,000 to pay the park laboring force for the rest of the year was introduced. The resolution required unanimous consent.

"I object to this resolution," declared Mr. Mitchel. "With proper administration there would be no need for an issue of bonds."

Louis A. La Roche, clerk of the Park Department, explained that when the board consented to the increased scale of wages for laborers and then slashed $57,000 from the department estimate no provision was made for the increase and the laborers' account was reduced to nothing.

"Every man will have to be laid off, and if that occurs it will be the fault of this board," declared Mr. La Roche.

"It will not be the fault of this board, but the fault of an abominable and inefficient administration," retorted Mr. Mitchel.

"I agree with Mr. La Roche," spoke up the Mayor. "The fault lies with this Board and not the Park Administration. I am satisfied with that administration and take the full responsibility for it."

Mr. Mitchel agreed to reconsider allowing the needed $25,000 at the next meeting of the Board.

WALL STREET

Trading in the stock market to-day was a series of advances that began in specialties in the morning period, and subsequently became spontaneous in the final hour, sending the entire list to the highest range of the day at closing time for gains of from 1 to 4 1-2 points. The level reached by a number of stocks was the highest for this current movement.

Initial changes were mostly lower. Active issues were on an average of half a point under the closing of yesterday. It remained for shares of the inactive features to bring about a recovery. Stocks of the Southern railroads monopolized morning transactions. On a spirited demand Louisville & Nashville, Southern Railway and Atlantic Coast rose with alacrity. Gains of from 2 to 4 points was the culmination of the advancing tendency displayed by these stocks.

Active shares became infused with the strength manifested in the specialties during the afternoon. Union Pacific was by far the most prominent. From below 175, the price steadily mounted to 177 1-2. Other leaders made proportionate gains.

Come in and See What an All-Year-Round Toy Store Can Do When It Faces a Holiday Campaign

So many holiday Toy displays remind you of mushrooms—spring up over night with hurriedly assembled stocks, get all they can out of a few weeks of business, then, morning after Christmas, there is no sign of them. You do not expect much of a selection or very much Toy Store service of such only-for-the-holidays stores. And you are sure to find in such stores everything high-priced—to the breaking point.

This Macy Toy Store is an all-the-year-round Toy Store. It is gathering and distributing Toys, Games and Playthings every week in the year. Its holiday displays set the New York standard. This year it has eclipsed anything in the nature of a Toy display that New York has ever seen.

A good many thousand New Yorkers who are in close touch with Santa Claus understand pretty thoroughly why he chooses Macy's for his headquarters year after year. This is his 54th year.

Being fair to the children (and to Santa Claus as well) merely means knowing Macy's and the Broad opportunities this store holds out.

WOMEN'S SPENCERS (Hug-me-Tights) SHETLAND WOOL

Imported by us from the Shetland Islands, off the Scottish coast.

Hand crocheted, in white and Shetland gray.

About a hundred years ago—before steam-heated apartments were dreamed of—English women all wore "spencers," or "hug-me-tights," at that time a sort of crocheted or knitted wool corset-cover quite necessary for any degree of cold-weather comfort.

In a very modified and beautiful form, one might almost say idealized, the spencer has come down to us.

These "spencers" are light as a feather; so soft are they, they may easily be crumpled up in one hand. It is surprising and comforting to find what a lot of added warmth they give, worn under any coat or garment, or simply slipped on over a blouse when the chill is in the air.

Intended now as an outer garment, particularly, they are daintily finished and with a ribbon run through the crocheting at the waist line to be trimly tied in front.

Four different weights, prices varying accordingly.

THANKSGIVING FAVORS

OUR PAPER AND PASTE WORKROOMS on the premises are prepared to make anything that can be made of paper, from a dress for a fancy dress ball at $15 to the simplest favor for a children's party.

WE CAN CARRY OUT YOUR OWN IDEAS, or we can submit samples of entirely original design.

OUR PRICES, of course, afford the Regular Macy Saving.
