NOTE.—In the arrangement and production of "The Battle of San Juan Hill" I have simply endeavored to combine historical fact with anecdote and fiction for the purpose of an instructive and patriotic half-hour stage entertainment, presented with as much realism as the modern theatre will permit. MR. F. F. PROCTOR'S very generous expenditure has enabled me to guarantee absolute accuracy in uniforms, arms, accoutrements and general military detail, while the scenery is painted from photographs taken on the spot by artists of the leading journals and magazines. Many of the soldiers in this production actually fought their way up the San Juan Hill. I desire to acknowledge the managerial courtesy of MR. JACOB LITT of "Sporting Life," and credit is also due to MR. J. AUSTIN FYNES, who first suggested to me and outlined this production. It has been my fortune to produce many large spectacles here and abroad, but never on such a vast stage as MR. PROCTOR has now thrown open to his patrons—beyond question the largest stage in the world. R. A. ROBERTS.
