DYING, REFUSES TO TELL POLICE WHO SHOT HIM

"If I Get Well I'll Attend to My Own Quarrels," Beins Gasps in Hospital.

ONE MAN ARRESTED.

Pointed Out to Patrolman After Affray, but No Witnesses Are Found Later.

Joseph Beins, of No. 599 Washington street, was hovering between life and death in St. Vincent's Hospital to-day with a bullet wound in his abdomen when Frank Murphy, of No. 4 Horatio street, was brought before him. Murphy having been arrested, suspected of the shooting.

"Is this the man who shot you?" Beins was asked.

"I'll tell the police nothing," replied Beins. "If I get well I'll attend to my own quarrels. If I don't get well some one else will attend to them for me."

Beins then turned away from the police, and could not be persuaded to talk.

The shooting occurred after midnight in Thomas Taviola's saloon, Greenwich avenue and Twelfth street.

Heard Shot Fired.

Policeman Copley, of the Charles street station, was a short distance from the place when he saw a man dart from the saloon entrance and run through Greenwich avenue. At the same moment some one shouted from the doorway that the fleeing man had just shot another. Copley pursued the fugitive and soon captured him.

Copley then returned to the saloon where he found Beins on the floor with a pistol wound in the abdomen.

In the Charles street station Murphy is said to have admitted to Detective Gleason, of the Central Office, that he had served time for receiving stolen goods, and that his photograph was in the Rogues' Gallery. He denied the shooting, however, and although the police detained several witnesses they were unable to learn who injured Biens.

No Revolver Found.

Murphy was held on suspicion by the Charles street police. When he was searched $100 in bills was found on him, but the police were unable to discover any weapon. The revolver with which Beins was shot was not found, although a search was made of the saloon and the section of Greenwich avenue through which Murphy fled. The police were at a loss to understand the motive of the shooting.

KIRK INDICTED ON MURDER CHARGE

Heubner's Coachman Accused of Killing Gardener Lee With a Wrench.

John Kirk, a former coachman for Paul A. Huebner, of Pelham Manor, has just been indicted by the Grand Jury at White Plains on the charge of murder in the second degree for killing Dennis Lee, a gardener for Mr. Heubner, in the furnace room of the barn on Dec. 8 last.

On that day Kirk went to New Rochelle with two horses belonging to Mr. Heubner for the purpose of having them shod. He became intoxicated while there, and when he returned to the barn quarrelled with Lee and struck him with a wrench, it is alleged, which fractured his skull and caused death.

Coroner Wiesendanger, of Yonkers, and the police of Pelham Manor, when they arrived at the barn found Kirk asleep in the harness room. He was still under the influence of liquor and told the Coroner he had struck Lee with something, but could not remember what it was. They had had a quarrel. The trial of Kirk will probably take place next month.

COURT DRAWS THE LINE AS TO LEGAL "LOBBYING."

Paving Company Sued by Agent Insists Its Contract Violated Law.

The case of Edward R. Dunham against the Hastings Pavement Company, in which Mr. Dunham claims $113,330 as commission due him under a contract, which allowed to him all over $2.90 per square yard on contracts secured from the city, was given to the jury to-day by Justice Greenbaum, in the Supreme Court.

Austen G. Fox, counsel, claimed the company had a right to abrogate the contract in 1897, though it was to run till 1905, and that it was illegal, because it called for "lobbying" in the Board of Aldermen. Justice Greenbaum instructed the jury on that point as follows:

"If you find that the intent of the parties to this contract intended that Mr. Dunham should lobby, that is, to talk privately and try to urge individual members of the Board of Aldermen, the Mayor or any other city official to vote for the resolutions, the contract must be considered as void. If on the other hand the intent was that he should employ lawful means to persuade the Board of Aldermen to pass the resolution, then the contract was valid."

Guggenheim Succeeds Dunn.

Benjamin Guggenheim, for several years chairman of the Executive Committee of the International Steam Pump Company, was elected President of the company at a meeting of the directors to-day. He succeeds John W. Dunn, who resigned on account of ill-health. Mr. Dunn underwent a severe operation.

Suffragettes Are Not "Slab-Sided Old Maids," the Definition Credited to Blanche Ring

Photographs of Leaders For and Against the Movement Show That There Is No Balance of Beauty On Either Side.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH

Are all woman suffragists "frumpy, slab-sided, masculine old maids?"

Miss Blanche Ring is responsible for the statement that they are.

If one may accept her declaration as unbiased, then all the pretty women are in the camp of the anti-suffragists. But what to an unprejudiced observer are the facts? Side by side The Evening World prints pictures of six leaders in the movements for and against votes for women.

There are Mrs. Clarence Mackay, Mrs. Philip Lydig and Madame Nellie Melba—all ardent champions of the cause of suffrage; and representing the "Antis," Mrs. Gilbert Jones, Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder and Mrs. Humphry Ward, the best known feminine opponent of the suffrage movement.

Formerly it was generally believed that the women who held "advanced" views were recruited exclusively from the ranks of the unattractive and the unsought.

But one glance at the pretty and smartly dressed suffragettes of to-day must dispel the last vestige of such an illusion.

Beauty certainly is not limited to the ranks of the suffragists.

Mrs. Gilbert Jones, prominent among the "Antis," is as handsome a matron as may be found within the city limits. But, on the other hand, Mrs. Clarence Mackay and Mrs. Lydig are famous beauties, and both are ranged with the forces of the woman's revolution.

Mrs. Humphry Ward cannot, strictly speaking, be called a beauty. Her features are too irregular to conform to the accepted canons of feminine loveliness, but they are strongly intellectual, and have that spiritual beauty which the possession of an extraordinary mind confers.

Oliver Wendell Holmes once wrote that beauty in women and in jewels is produced by centuries of repose. Before the "Antis" began to organize and agitate, this definition would have given them a distinct advantage over the more restless suffragists.

But since both sides now display energy and enthusiasm enough to make the suffrage question a national, instead of a Carrie-National issue, there is no repose to be found in either camp.

Perhaps, however, Dr. Holmes did not make repose and intellectual stagnation synonymous terms. I have never yet seen a woman whose face was not improved by an occasional idea.

Personally, I am even revolutionary enough to believe that there can be no great beauty without the illumination that the possession of marked intelligence confers. Pleasing figures of pink and white putty there may be, but not the loveliness that has inspired artists and poets.

Mrs. Mackay, besides being a beautiful woman, has written books, is serving on the school board in the vicinity of her Long Island home, and in every other way giving evidence of her unusual mental attainments.

Mrs. Lydig's loveliness is of the spirited type, made famous by the great French etcher, Helleu, who has made many pictures of her. Madame Melba, besides possessing a softly beautiful face, has that stamp of distinction made by the possession of a superlative talent.

Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder's sweet motherliness is about the best argument the anti-suffragists could advance to keep women as they are.

It would be difficult to say which of these six women reflects most honor on the cause she has adopted. Certainly there is no balance of beauty on either side strong enough to furnish an excuse for Miss Ring's invidious criticism.

Of course, the question of personal beauty is utterly irrelevant in a serious discussion of the suffrage question, but even taking it frivolously, Miss Ring is wrong.

But perhaps Miss Ring didn't say it, or, at least, didn't mean it.

Press agents, how many crimes are committed in your name!

WARRANT FOR JUROR IN CARMACK CASE

Charge of Drunkenness Does Not Stand, but One of Perjury Is Now Made.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 28.—When the trial of Col. Duncan B. Cooper, Robin Cooper and John Sharpe, charged with the murder of former United States Senator E. W. Carmack, was resumed to-day, the charges against Jurors Leigh and Jackson were called. Both are accused of being habitual drunkards, and Leigh is accused of having expressed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused. In the case of Leigh, Judge Hart said:

"The charge of drunkenness is controverted, but it is evident that the juror is biassed, and therefore I excuse Mr. Leigh from serving."

Attorneys for the defense entered a formal exception to the dismissal of Leigh.

"I ask that Mr. Leigh be held for the Grand Jury on a charge of perjury," said Attorney-General McCarn.

"If you wish him held," answered the Court, "swear out a warrant."

The defense objected to any action against Leigh, but the Attorney-General left the room to issue the warrant.

While the Attorney-General was preparing the affidavit, Judge Hart ordered the case of Juror Jackson taken up.

It developed to-day that Juror Whitworth is in such delicate health as to cause the Court grave uneasiness as to his ability to continue in the box through a long trial. Should Judge Hart excuse him it would result in a further delay in the completion of the jury.

The defense served notice that it would file a formal motion that the Court dismiss the eight men left on the jury on the ground that the dismissal of Leigh had prejudiced the others against the defendants.

The first witness against Juror Jackson swore that Jackson, who is a blacksmith, would put a shoe on two on a horse, collect for the work and go three or four miles to a saloon for a drink before he would finish the job.

Squire Lewis, who has lived near Jackson for twenty-five years, said he saw Jackson sober only once in twenty-five years.

At this point the defense admitted that Jackson was unfit and consented to his dismissal. This leaves seven men in the box.

The Court read a letter from Mrs. J. H. Whitworth, which said two physicians agreed that Whitworth's condition was such that to have him serve might mean his death. Judge Hart said he felt it best to relieve Mr. Whitworth. The State objected, and the Court ordered the physicians summoned. The doctors were busy, however, and the decision was put off until to-morrow.

Juror Leigh was arrested in the clerk's office on a charge of perjury and bound over to the Grand Jury. He gave a $1,500 bond.

ADDS 330,000 ACRES TO THE CLEVELAND FOREST.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The President to-day signed a proclamation adding more than 330,000 acres to the Cleveland National Forest in Southern California and eliminating from that reserve 1,000 acres of land not considered suitable for national forest purposes.

After these changes the forest has an area of more than 1,570,000 acres. This forest, originally called the San Jacinto, was named by President Roosevelt in July last in honor of the late President Cleveland, who created that and twelve other reserves on Washington's Birthday in 1897.

KIDNEY DISORDERS.

Symptoms and Home Treatment.

Gaut, the celebrated German specialist, asserts that seven-tenths of the feeble-minded and insane are the victims of kidney diseases.

Nervousness, excitability, restlessness, melancholia, pains in the back and head, neuralgia and rheumatic pains, fevers, chills, scanty urine, highly colored and acid urine, burning pains, fulness and soreness in the region of the bladder, all indicate that the kidneys are affected and weakened, needing tonic treatment.

The very best physician should be consulted at once, or let the following simple, inexpensive but reliable prescription be used for several weeks:

Mix one-half ounce fluid extract Buchu with one ounce compound fluid Balmwort and two ounces compound syrup Sarsaparilla. Then take a teaspoonful after each meal and one at retiring, drinking plenty of good, pure water between meals. This mixture makes a splendid tonic and blood purifier. If unable to obtain these ingredients from your regular druggist you can readily obtain them at any of Hegeman & Co.'s or Riker's Drug Stores, New York City.

LIFE OF A PIMPLE

Complexions Are Cleared and Pimples Disappear Overnight Without Trouble.

The dispensers of poslam, a new skin discovery, ask that notice be given that no one is urged to purchase it without first obtaining an experimental package. Those who have tried it will find that the fifty-cent box, on sale at Hegeman's, Riker's, Kalish's, Kinsman's, Jungmann's and all drug stores, is sufficient to cure the worst cases of eczema, where the surface affected is not too large. The itching ceases on first application. It will also cure acne, tetter, blotches, scaly scalp, hives, barber's and every other form of itch, including itching feet. Being flesh colored and containing no grease, the presence of poslam on exposed surfaces, such as the face and hands, is not perceptible. Water and soap cannot be used in connection with it, as these irritate and prolong skin troubles, sometimes even causing them.

As to the experimental package of poslam, it can be had free of charge by mail of the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York. It alone is sufficient to clear the complexion overnight, and to rid the face of pimples in twenty-four hours.
