IN A CONVERSATION with General Wade Hampton, after the murder of Randolph, Governor Scott, the so-called champion of South Carolina Republicanism, made the following pledges:

1st. That he would use his influence to make the State go Democratic.

2d. That he would endeavor to induce a sufficient number of the colored members of the Legislature to resign, so that the whites might secure a strong representation in both houses.

3d. That he would appoint to office, whenever he could do so, such men as were recommended by the Democratic party.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Gold at New York closed yesterday at 12¾ a12⅞.

—Cotton closed buoyant; sales 4300 bales.

—At Liverpool, at 3 P. M., cotton was more active; uplands 8⅝a8¾d; sales 15,000 bales.

—Mazzini has been liberated.

—It is stated that the health of Chief Justice Chase continues very precarious.

—Since the 25th of August there have been two hundred and fifty yellow fever deaths in New Orleans.

—The Archbishop of Quebec died on Friday night, of dropsy of the heart, aged seventy-two years.

—The total number of deaths from yellow fever in Mobile since the 18th ultimo to Saturday, inclusive, was eighty-seven.

—An appeal for the Pope has been issued by the Catholics of different nations assembled at Brussels.

—A Florence dispatch says that Caldini is said to be in favor of the nomination of Duke Aosta for King of Spain.

—Western Virginia claims the first snow of the season, an indefinite amount having fallen at Kingwood, as the local journal says, on the 4th inst.

—An armed cruiser has been placed under the orders of the United States district attorney at New York, by Admiral Stringham, to prevent the violation of any of the neutrality laws by France or Prussia at that port.

—The members already elected to the Forty-second Congress number 82—Republicans 56, Democrats 26; a net gain of eight for the latter. A full House is 243 members. There remain to be elected 161 members.

—A meeting of Southerners resident in New York was held on Saturday, at which it was resolved to call a public meeting at an early date to give expression to the general feeling excited by the death of General Lee.

—A firm of champagne manufacturers, of Ay, write to their London correspondents advising them that the Prussians passing through Champagne leave the vine harvest in safety, and even afford it protection.

—The liberal papers of Germany clamor for the abolition of the black, white and red banner of North Germany, as a sectional flag, and the restoration of the old imperial colors of black, red and gold, as acceptable to South as to North Germany.

—The atmosphere of Western Europe is said by German surgeons to be just now very favorable to the rapid healing of wounds, and the severely wounded at Rezonville, who have been quartered at Durkheim, are nearly all able to leave their beds.

—The "Angel Gabriel" is a colored enthusiast in New Orleans, who has had a "revelation" to this effect: "Gabriel shoot de first nigger dat votes for a carpet-bagger what eats out the substance of de colored man, meanin' de truck patch."

—A London letter of a recent date says: "The change of public opinion in England respecting the war is surprising. The Times has not only taken up the defence of the Emperor, and proved him to be the most unselfish, devoted and heroic of sovereigns, but it now declares that the French position is improving every day, while that of the Germans is every day growing more difficult; and yesterday, in an able leader, it strenuously opposed the dismemberment of France as useless to Germany and a cause of future wars rather than any assurances of peace. Either the change of public opinion in England must be even greater than appears on the surface, or the government is preparing to take some action. The sympathies of England are very deeply stirred. Nearly two millions of dollars have already been contributed to the relief of the wounded. It begins to be seen that a power that can destroy the armies of France and inclose Paris in a line of steel, might also, if it wished, scatter its Uhlans over England and occupy London. Every country in Europe is at the mercy of a power that can conquer and dismember France, whenever ambition or greed shall set it in action. Every power must arm against it; and if that is not sufficient, every other power must combine to limit its encroachments. It is evident that King William believes God has chosen him to be Emperor of Germany. What security have we that he will not imagine that he has a mission to extend his Empire over Europe?"

—The full text of Jules Favre's official report to the Government of National Defence, regarding his mission to the Prussian headquarters at Ferrieres, appears in the Moniteur of the 28th ult. After detailing the preliminaries of the arrangement by which a meeting was held between himself and Bismarck, M. Favre describes the place of the interview, the opening remarks, and then gives the ultimatum of the Prussian Chancellor in these words: "He repeated several times, 'Strasbourg is the key to the house; I must have it.' I then asked him to be more explicit. 'It is useless,' he replied, 'since we cannot listen to you. It is a matter to arrange later.' I asked him to do it at once. He said then that the two Departments of Bas Rhin and Haut Rhin, a part of the Moselle, with Metz, Chateau Salins and Senones were indispensable, and that he could not give them up in the negotiations. I added that, so far as we were concerned, we would never accept them. We could, I stated, perish as a nation, but we would not suffer dishonor; besides, the country alone was competent to decide regarding a cession of territory." At a subsequent interview, Bismarck demanded, as conditions of an armistice, the occupation of Strasbourg, of Toul and of Pfalsburg; and as to the demand of the previous evening, that the Assembly should meet at Paris, he desired in that case to have added a fort commanding the city—that of Mont Valerian. He also demanded the surrender of Strasbourg, which Favre indignantly refused, and after vain attempts to secure admissible propositions, returned to Paris overcome with grief and indignation, and ready to counsel resistance to the bitter end.

WE beg that the correspondents of THE NEWS throughout the State, as well as the County Chairmen, will forward to this office, as soon as possible, their reports of the result of the elections.

THERE IS NO MIDDLE PATH. YOU MUST VOTE with HAMPTON AND KERSHAW, FOR CARPENTER AND BUTLER, OR with WHITTEMORE, CREWS AND HURLEY, FOR RANSIER AND SCOTT.

TO-DAY!

MEN OF SOUTH CAROLINA! Your noble old State makes a last appeal to you to do your whole duty as citizens this day! The final and complete overthrow of the vampires who, for five years past, have been fattening on her substance, depends upon your earnest, resolute and united action during the next twelve hours. The victory is within our reach, and our enemies know and feel it. But, in a contest where all is at stake, we cannot afford to trust anything to chance. Let no man leave the heat and burden of the day to be borne by his neighbors. We must have EVERY HONEST MAN in the community, young and old, rich and poor, white and colored, at work vigorously and incessantly, from dawn until the closing of the polls. There is no friend of Reform whose influence and zealous efforts, after he has deposited his vote, will not help on the good cause. Even his very presence at the polling places will be of service in preventing any attempt to intimidate voters, and in assuring fairness and good order. Then, let every good citizen, whatever his station, act as if upon his individual vote and exertions depended the result of the great contest, and our triumph is certain.

A careful estimate shows that upon Charleston hangs, in a great measure, the fate of the State. Let the grand old City by the Sea see to it that, before the sun goes down to-day, she rolls up a rousing majority for a Cause with which are so closely linked her prosperity and pride.

WILL YOU VOTE FOR SCOTT, THE MAN WHO PUBLICLY DECLARES THAT SOUTH CAROLINA IS A NEST OF ASSASSINS?

Bayard and Blackguard.

General WADE HAMPTON is known, either in person or by fame, to every man and woman in South Carolina, and he is universally accepted as the best impersonation of those elements of character which are most highly prized by every true lover of the State. He is a gentleman in the fullest sense, and in its old knightly meaning. The soul of truth and honor would not, could not, tell what is not true. He would not stoop to do a mean act, not even to serve his best friends. General Hampton, through his friend, General M. C. Butler, affirmed certain facts concerning Governor R. K. Scott. The Ring Organ, whether upon authority from the said Governor or not, we cannot say, undertook to deny the facts. General Hampton, thereupon, under his own signature, reiterates the charge, with all the most circumstantial specifications. What does Governor Scott do then? Why, just nothing at all. The Radical newspaper again puts forth a general denial. We do not even know whether this denial is authorized by Governor Scott. Certainly the said sheet cannot expect to be believed unless corroborated by most trustworthy witnesses. He who plays with truth as this same Ring Organ has done all through this present political campaign, has no claim to be believed even upon oath.

Now, if Governor Scott had any regard for his character—such as every true gentleman has—he would not hide behind that partisan sheet, but would come out like a man, and deny the damaging allegations made by General Hampton. This, of course, presupposes that he could controvert the statement made. But we know that he cannot, and this perfectly explains his otherwise inexplicable silence.

The Ring Organ talks about a letter the Governor is said to have written, which, however, had not yet come to hand. Now, seeing that the Governor was in Charleston at the time, it does seem wondrous strange that the said letter could not have been reproduced, and given to an anxious public; or—and a fearful suspicion here arises—can it be that his Excellency cannot write any more than he can speak? If so, then he should never travel without his private secretary.

The Governor, it may be, disdains the homely virtues of truth and honesty. He prefers indirection to ingenuousness. If it were not that he is as innocent of the "humanities" as he is of eloquence, we should suspect that he had learned in the school of Talleyrand that cautious maxim, "Verba scripta manent." It is much more convenient to let an irresponsible, servile braggart understrapper put forth denials, than to publish, under his signature, a denial of facts stated by General Wade Hampton.

The controversy narrows itself down to this: General Wade Hampton charges that, at an interview he had with Governor Scott, two years ago, his Excellency promised, for a consideration, to sell out the political interests of the colored people of South Carolina. Now, when he is made to face this ugly fact, he finds it inconvenient, and would like very much to lie out of it. But this he cannot and dare not do. So he permits his henchman, who is paid for it, (out of the State Treasury?) to say "No, he never did anything of the kind."

Men of South Carolina, white and colored, you know Hampton, and you know Scott! Whom will you believe?

If you believe Hampton, as we know you will, then be up and doing this day, and see to it that the miscreant Scott be driven away from the high position he now disgraces, and that the champions of Reform be invested with the reins of the government of South Carolina.

VOTE FOR CARPENTER AND BUTLER, AND EVERY OFFICE IN THE STATE SHALL BE FILLED BY HONEST AND CAPABLE MEN.

The Man Who Knows what it Will all Come To.

The last number of the London Pall Mall Gazette contains an article with the title, "The man who knows what it will all come to," in which occurs a passage so strikingly applicable to two classes among our citizens, that it might almost have been written for the occasion of the present election. We commend it to every one to whom its satire comes home:

"In politics the man who knows what it will all come to votes in the same lobby with the man who protests our principle. Both are opposed to changes, and inveigh against it with a vigor of lung which fills asthmatics with envy. But there is this difference between them, that the man who protests on principle takes his stand upon moral grounds, and warns reformers of the personal disgrace they are incurring, in the hope that his timely rebukes may bring them to a sense of their criminality; whereas the man who knows what it will all come to rarely troubles himself about the souls or honor of his political adversaries. He does not profess to be a casuist. He confines himsel fto demonstrating the material dangers of reform, looking at it from what he coldly terms the practical point of view. When there is a bill before the House to allow a company to lay down a new line of rails, the man who protests on principle rises to observe that there were no railways in the time of Moses. After this he goes on to show that the railway must necessarily run through many estates, which have been handed down entire, from father to son; that it will encourage men to become vagabonds by luring them from their homes to the pursuit of idle pleasure in foreign lands; that it will considerably facilitate the flight of murderers and absconding clerks, the desertion of soldiers, and the elopement of married women. The man who knows what it will all come to, contents himself by laying upon the table of the House a bundle of papers by which he proves, with great precision; First, that the line of rail is to be laid on a sand embankment, which must inevitably collapse at no distant day; secondly, that he has no wish to say anything against the engineer, but that the man is without doubt the most incompetent individual in the three kingdoms; thirdly, that in the current year three hundred and sixty-five people have been killed by railway accidents, and three times as many deprived of a leg or arm; fourthly, that the vicinity of a railway is prejudicial to corn growing, and that there will be no new crops in the fields near which the new line passes; fifthly, that he begs pardon for detaining the House so long; and sixthly, that he knows what it will all come to. * * * * * * * Unfortunately, like many other good things in life, such as drenching showers for instance, the man who knows what it will all come to has a trick of presenting himself when he is not wanted, and so mars more fortunes than he makes."

THEY WHO PROFESS TO LOVE SOUTH CAROLINA, YET REFUSE TO VOTE TO-DAY, ARE PATRIOTS AS BENEDICT ARNOLD WAS!

Our Pledges.

The Union Reform party is pledged to reduce the present heavy and crushing taxes, so that the wages of laborers may be raised, and the profits of the planters be increased.

To abolish the useless and expensive offices which swell the cost of government and oppress the people.

To limit the length of the sessions of the General Assembly, so that the work of legislation may be well and quickly done.

To reduce fees and salaries wherever practicable.

To govern the State for the benefit of the people, and not for the advantage of office-holders and professional politicians.

LOOK AT YOUR TAX RECEIPTS, AND VOTE FOR THE REFORM CANDIDATES, WHO ARE PLEDGED TO REDUCE TAXATION.

THE Congressional committee appointed to investigate the charges against General O. O. Howard, state in their minority report that Governor Scott was elected Governor of South Carolina, in 1868, by "the corrupt "use of rations, provisions and transporta-"tions, to the extent of $300,000!" It would take half a million to elect him now. With a Reform Legislature, he can't make that up in two years. The money is scarce, and hard work to-day will beat Scott out of his boots.

JUDGE CARPENTER, the Reform candidate for Governor, has the cordial endorsement of the Charleston and Orangeburg Bars, of Wade Hampton, of Kershaw, and of all the tried men whom the people love and trust!

HONEST REPUBLICANS! You know that the Scott faction is incompetent and corrupt. You admit that Reform is necessary. How then can you vote against those whose whole platform is RETRENCHMENT and REFORM?

The Importance of the Governor's Office.

We admit that it is of vast importance to elect good and true men to represent Charleston County in the General Assembly, but the people must not overlook the urgent necessity of electing R. B. Carpenter—a Governor who will be in harmony with the sentiment of Retrenchment and Reform. ☞ Aside from the power wielded by the Governor in pardoning criminals and making appointments of public officials, the veto authority vested in the Executive is sufficient to warrant the most vigorous efforts to elect an honest and able Governor. Neither party expects to be able to control the Governor by a two-thirds vote in the Legislature. If, therefore, Scott be re-elected, he can veto the wise measures of even a Reform majority, and may tie the hands of the Legislature by his veto on all questions of public moment.

Heed not specious arguments, but work for the State. It is of vital consequence that our next Governor should be in full accord with the popular demand for more honesty and less taxation. This boon Judge Carpenter is pledged to secure to the people. Governor Scott, on the other hand, has not uttered a syllable that gives the slightest hope of any effort upon his part to relieve the masses from enormous taxes, and every type and figure of official oppression and mismanagement.

It is a plain common-sense question. To vote for Carpenter, is to vote for MORE HONESTY and LESS TAXES. To vote for Scott, is to vote for RASCALITY, IGNORANCE and CONFISCATION under the forms of law.

VOTE FOR BUTLER AND AN HONEST ADMINISTRATION OF THE LAND COMMISSION LAW.

JUDGE ORR, in March last, declared that the Scott faction was "ignorant, dishonest, "and unfit for decent society." The agile Judge may vote for this faction to-day. But where is the honest man who, at the ballot-box to-day, will announce his approval of what in private life he denounces and avoids?

ANGUS MCINTOSH, who has been appointed a Trial Justice for Darlington County, spent some months in Marion jail charged with burglary. These are the men whom Scott puts over the people, and whom Carpenter will promptly turn out.

"AN OPEN FIELD AND A FAIR FIGHT—AND AJAX ASKS NO MORE."

GOVERNOR SCOTT is responsible for the extravagancies and wrongs of the Land Commission. Elect Carpenter and Butler, and the laws will be faithfully administered, and the honest workingman will soon enjoy the comforts of a happy home.

SCOTT and Ransier are responsible for the Gold bill, the Insurance bill, the Sinking Fund bill, and every other measure which, by bribery and fraud, is fastened upon the people of the State. Vote them down!

GOVERNOR SCOTT spent $300,000, (so says a Congressional committee,) to secure his election when there was no opposition. This time he cannot draw drafts on Uncle Sam, and, unless Charleston fail, he is defeated before the setting of the sun.

A LARGE oil company is in successful operation in Columbia. Elect Carpenter and Butler, and similar enterprises will spring up in every county of the State.

No man abandons his party principles in siding with Reform. Good Republicans and good Democrats alike will vote for Carpenter and Butler.

TIM HURLEY says that Scott has made all that he wanted. Then send him back home to Ohio—by voting for Carpenter to-day.

A FAIR OF THE GERMAN LADIES' SOCIETY FOR THE PURPOSE OF COMPLETING THEIR NEW CHURCH,

Will be held during the FIRST WEEK IN NOVEMBER NEXT, at the Concert Rooms of the Academy of Music.

The ladies respectfully ask for kind and voluntary contributions from all citizens kindly disposed towards their undertaking. Any contribution, in fancy or useful articles, small or large, or to the refreshment tables, will be gratefully accepted, and duly acknowledged through the public press.

Mr. F. VON SANTEN will receive for the ladies all contributions, and exhibit them at his store, No. 229 King, near Market street. The ladies ask that this appeal to a generous public may not be overlooked.

Mrs. D. A. AMME, President.
Mrs. F. WEHMANN, Secretary.
sep28-w Mrs. J. U. BOESCH, Treasurer.
