Waterfront Bill Is Now Before Texas Legislature

Representative Pat F. Dunn, At Request of City Council Introduces Bill That Would Carry Out Timon Plan For Waterfront Improvements

A bill that would vote to the City of Corpus Christi all state lands and interest in and to the land along and adjacent to the waters of Nueces Bay and a large portion of the waters of Corpus Christi Bay, within the city limits, and authorize the City to lease the same for business purposes, was introduced in the house of Representatives Feb 17 by Dunn, at the request of Mayor Miller and other members of the City Council.

The city council is holding yesterday afternoon approving the bill in its entirety and a resolution was unanimously adopted asking that the Legislature enact the bill into a law.

The city council desires to have the representation of its business interests and City Attorney Barnes explaining the position of the council has been delivered to Judge Pat Dunn, author of the bill, who is now in Austin, and it is expected that the bill will be introduced in the house of representatives in a few days.

Letter to Dunn

"In conjunction with the agreement of some weeks ago, I herewith give you a good synopsis of the plan of the City Council with reference to the waterfront.

"First, the city will use the land and water as right to all of the state, city and interest of the state in and to the land lying adjacent to the waters of Nueces Bay and a large portion of the waters of Corpus Christi Bay, within the city limits of Corpus Christi, and in the state of Texas, and in the state of Texas, and in the state of Texas
