ROCKBRIDGE TRAGEDY.

FULL PARTICULARS OF THE WALKER-MILLER TROUBLE.

Origin of the Unfortunate Affray—A Sensational Scene in the Court-Room—Excitement During the Trial—Widespread Gloom Over the Bloody Affray.

LEXINGTON, VA., November 9.—[Special.] The particulars in the Brownsburg Walker-Miller, obtained from a member of the sheriff's posse, are here presented. A week or ten days ago it is charged that Mr. Henry Miller grossly insulted the wife of Dr. Z. J. Walker, but the lady did not make the matter known to her husband for several days thereafter, fearing that it would cause serious trouble between her husband and Henry Miller. Finally the matter preyed so upon her mind that she told the story to her husband. He was highly indignant, and said he would kill Miller on sight. It is further charged that Dr. Walker on Monday, the 4th instant, started out with a double-barreled shot-gun with the purpose of killing Miller, but failing to find him returned home and went to bed very much indisposed. Later, it is said, Dr. Walker publicly said he intended to kill Miller the very first time he met him, but, by some means, the two never met. Had they met, the chances are that both would have been killed and the other fatal casualties been avoided. Miller heard of the threats on his life made by Walker, and at the earnest solicitation of his friends he finally consented to swear out a warrant for the arrest or Walker, the object of said warrant being to have Walker put under peace bonds. The matter stood thus for several days, and those well informed daily expected a fatal encounter between the two men should they meet.

A DEEP UNDERCURRENT OF EXCITEMENT

lay dormant at Brownsburg for a week or more, and Friday, when it was announced that Walker had been arrested, and would be tried, the excitement and interest began to show up. The case was set for 3 P. M., before Justice E. B. Bosworth, to be heard in the Academy building in Brownsburg. A large crowd turned out to hear the case, and the little court-room was crowded to its full capacity. Before the trial had begun Justice Bosworth had appointed Mr. Samuel Deaver constable, with instructions to search the parties interested and see that they had no manner of arms about them. Constable Deaver approached Dr. Walker and told him he would have to search him. The Doctor said certainly. Nothing in the way of arms was found on him. Then the presiding justice told Dr. Walker that he would have the Millers searched, but Dr. Walker objected, saying so far as he was concerned it made no difference whether they had arms or not. Before the case was called and after being searched, Dr. Walker went to his office alone, and then went into the court room with his wife and several close friends. Miller, with four sons and friends, were in the court room, but previous to going in they deposited downstairs their arms, consisting of pistols and a rifle, left in charge of a friend. Mr. John Reese. The case was called in the presence of an audience only measured by the full capacity of the little room, Justice Bosworth presiding. The evidence in the case on both sides was taken at some length amid a breathless silence and deep interest on the part of the friends of both sides.

BEGINNING OF THE AFFRAY.

When all evidence had been taken, the justice announced as his decision that it was his purpose to place Dr. Walker under a bond of five hundred dollars to keep the peace. The decision created a surprise, and seemed to anger Dr. Walker, but he held his temper well in hand, calmly, but firmly, declining to give the required bond. Justice Bosworth then announced his decision that the defendant would have to go to jail in default. Dr. Walker then responded that he would rather go to jail than give the bond, required, and that he was ready to be taken into custody and be carried to the jail at Lexington.

Then Dr. Walker, turning to Justice Bosworth, asked him if he could have the privilege of slapping Miller in the mouth. The justice refused to give his assent to any such proceeding, saying he did not propose to see his court held in contempt or the peace disturbed. Instantly eye witnesses attest that Dr. Walker drew from his inside coat pocket a large pistol, and made a motion to shoot Mr. Henry Miller, who was standing very close to him. Dave Miller, a son of old man Henry, jumped on Dr. Walker and took the pistol from him, after a hard struggle, the weapon discharging once or twice in the scuffle, and it is thought Dave received his dangerous wound in the body when the pistol was discharged in his effort to disarm Dr. Walker. Dr. Walker, disarmed of his pistol, then and made towards Henry Miller. Dave Miller, Henry's son, with Dr. Walker's pistol, then shot the Doctor twice. Dr. Walker advanced on Henry Miller, caught him around the neck with his left arm, and with his right hand stabbed the old man in the heart, breast, back, and other places some ten times or more, killing him instantly. The knife was broken off in Miller's body near the hilt.

Just here it is proper to say that as soon as Dr. Walker drew his pistol some one from the outside raised the window or opened the door and threw in four pistols, three of which were secured by the Miller boys, and the other one by a friend of Walker's. Walker had been searched for arms, and was supposed to be disarmed, but it is thought that he armed himself when he went into the office alone before coming into court. When Walker had killed Miller and young Dave Miller had shot Dr. Walker twice.

THE FIGHT BECAME GENERAL.

Miller fell a corpse and Walker almost at the same time fell near by. Mrs. Walker, then standing at the other end of the room, went to the side of her husband, and taking a bottle of camphor, began to bathe his face. The fray still continued between the Miller boys and friends of Walker. When the trouble had to some extent quieted down, Justice Bosworth and others, upon examination, found Miller a corpse and Walker mortally wounded, shot through the body and bowels with seven or eight balls in his person. He was unconscious, and Mrs. Walker was lying over the body of her husband in a faint, it was thought, but when she was moved from her position was found in her head from which blood was running, showing she had been shot and killed. The other injured are Dave Miller, badly wounded in the body, and cannot be moved; Constable Samuel Deaver, cut in the neck with a knife, but his wound is not serious, several others present were shot through the clothes but not hurt. When the smoke had cleared away it was found that the little court-room had been riddled with bullets.

A GHASTLY BULLET HOLE,

THE NEWS OF THE TERRIBLE AFFAIR

flashed over the whole country like wild fire, and soon the town was in a state of excitement that threatened to burst into a flame that would result in other fatal encounters between the friends of the two principals in the affair. Hence the call for the sheriff and his posse. The town was full of people from the surrounding country discussing the terrible encounter with its awful results. The body of Miller was taken to his home and the dying doctor was carried to his residence near by. Dr. S. B. Morrison and his son, young Dr. Morrison, were summoned to his bedside, and did all they could to relieve his sufferings, but without result, and at 1 o'clock this morning he died. Just before he died he was conscious to some extent, and, it is said, talked a little. The body of Mrs. Walker was taken to her home, where it was cared for by friends. Young Dave Miller was carefully lifted and conveyed to his father's home, where he is resting comfortably, the nature of his wound is not known, but it is feared it may result fatally. Deputy Sheriff Tampleton is at Brownsburg in charge of Dave Miller, who could not be moved on account of his wounds.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

Justice Bosworth held a coroner's inquest over the bodies of Miller, Mrs. Walker and Dr. Walker, when it is expected the evidence will determine who it was that killed Walker and his wife, the killing of Miller being known to have been at the hands of Walker. There is a wide range of public opinion as to how Mrs. Walker met her death, whether by a stray bullet in the great excitement or whether it was the act of deliberation. It is said that one of the Miller boys deliberately shot her, but such a story is hard to believe, and will have to be substantiated by unimpeachable witnesses before the public can be made to believe that it was intentional.

Upon the arrival of the sheriff and his deputies, the posse, at Brownsburg they held a consultation, and after sounding public opinion, it was deemed best to arrest the Miller boys at once, and bring them to Lexington. Accordingly a warrant was obtained, and the sheriff and his men went out to Miller's place, and meeting a cordial reception, stated their business. The warrant was read, and without further ado the three boys, James, George, and William Miller, participants in the affair, were placed under arrest, and by an out-of-the-way road, so as to avoid coming through Brownsburg, they were brought to town, arriving here about 10:45 this morning and lodged in jail. John Reese, a friend of the Miller boys, was also brought here and placed in jail at the same time, charged with being the man who furnished the arms at the critical moment. The Miller boys are charged with killing Dr. and Mrs. Walker. The officers say that there was a large crowd to-day at Brownsburg, and to prevent any trouble, although public opinion seems to be evenly divided in the case, it was thought best to bring the Millers here at once, and not leave them there to attend the funeral of their father.

DEEP FEELING OVER THE AFFAIR.

Brownsburg is now quite quiet, but in the deepest gloom, and while all fear of further troubles are dispelled, deep feeling, brought about by this sad affair, has been engendered, and some think that Walker's friends will make an attempt to visit quick punishment on the Miller boys, now in jail, but as far as we can see, there is no reason whatever for any such fears. The accused should have, and will have, full protection of the law and a fair trial, and the Court will see that they are protected by the officers of the law at all hazards. The relations and friends of Dr. Walker and Mr. Miller are numerous all over the county, both families being highly respectable and connected, and that such a state of affairs has been brought about between two such prominent men of well-known character has caused surprise and wonder. It has been stated that the Miller boys tried to escape arrest, but such is not true. When Sheriff Witt and his deputies went to make the arrest they were found at home and made not the slightest attempt or showed any resistance. Dr. Walker, wife, and Mr. Miller will be buried Sunday morning.

DOUBLE MURDER

Committed in Johnston County, North Carolina—Other North State News.

RALEIGH, November 9.—[Special.]—A story reaches here to-day of a horrible double murder committed near Selma, in Johnston county, last night. A respectable old lady named Celia Brown was living alone with her little grandson, about eight years old, in the county, near Selma. This morning the bodies of both were found in a branch two hundred yards away from the house, where they had been dragged for concealment. Both had apparently been shot with a gun. No possible cause can be assigned for the horrible deed, as Mrs. Brown was a respectable old lady, who had lived at the place a number of years in apparent security, with nobody but her little grandson. Mrs. Brown was to have been a witness in the case against Shad Pike, a negro, who not long ago made a criminal assault upon a white lady near there, and it is thought that Mrs. Brown was murdered to prevent her giving testimony.

Yesterday a delegation of colored men waited on Governor Fowle and asked him to take some step towards bringing the parties to justice who a few nights ago, at Clayton, in Johnston county, shot and killed a negro named Smith, who had been detected stealing some peas from a store. It is known who shot Smith, and the negroes who waited on the Governor yesterday requested him to send a special detective to Clayton to ferret out the guilty party. The affair has caused a great sensation and much indignation among the negroes. Governor Fowle told them that he could do nothing in the matter, having no authority. Johnston county is developing into a prolific section for sensations within the last few days. To-day Postmaster Stansil and Assistant Creech, of Selma, were arrested and brought here for breaking open registered letters and robbing them of their contents. Both were ingeniously trapped by Postoffice Inspector Conaway, who has been working up the case. He baited them with bogus registered letters, and had all genuine registered matter sent around by another route.

There is much discussion being engaged in throughout the State as to whether the Methodist Conference, which meets at Greensboro this month, will ratify the action of the board of trustees of Trinity College, proposing to move the college to this city. Mr. Julian T. Carr, of Durham, was here to-day, and in an interview expressed himself as unconditionally opposed to the removal of the college. He is one of the board of trustees of the institution, and is one of the wealthiest members of the Methodist Church in the State. Much opposition is developing to the removal of the college.

The executive committee of the State Confederate Veteran Association met here to-day, and decided to take immediate steps to raise funds to build a Confederate Soldiers' Home. They elected O. M. Sherrill, of Newton, to canvass the State for subscriptions.

The weekly pay roll of the sewerage construction force now at work in the city, shows that there are at present nine hundred men at work.

The local talent of this city has decided to present the opera of the Pirates of Penzance here on December 11. Raleigh has some splendid amateur talent, and her performances of this kind have a state reputation.

LYNCHBURG.

Various Items From the Hill City.

LYNCHBURG, VA., November 9.—[Special.]—The City Council last night voted the privilege to the Street-Car Company to introduce electricity as a motive power on the cars, and Senator Daniel goes to New York in a few days to make arrangements for the same.

The number of converts under Sam Jones' late religious administration in this city who have attached themselves to several Baptist, Methodist, and Presbyterian churches, are counted at 125, with many more to come in a few days. The Methodists and Baptists get the largest portion of them.

In the Corporation Court yesterday a charter was granted to the Blue Ridge Dyspepsia Water Company, a new Lynchburg enterprise recently organized.

Jere Conner, John Wilkins and Moses Dixon, three of the negroes charged with the attempted assassination of R. R. Noblin, of Halifax, were brought to Lynchburg this morning from Danville and placed in jail for safe keeping. The guards reported that two other negroes had been arrested.

Much interest was manifested in Buchanan yesterday, when Major Jolliffe, chief engineer, and Captain Charles Mays, first assistant, with a party of workmen, left that place for the purpose of resurveying the Virginia Western Railroad from that place westward. It is reported that the company will get control of the Valley road, and will adopt it, thereby going by way of Salem instead of the route heretofore surveyed. Colonel Buford is at the head of the Virginia Western, and when he gets in earnest he mains business.

A call has been signed by a number of citizens for a meeting of temperance people on Monday night, to have another prohibition vote in this city within sixty days.

THE NEW MEXICAN STORM.

The Sun Shines After Nine Days of Snow.

CLAYTON, N. M., November 9.—The storm abated yesterday, and for the first time in nine days the sun shone. While no authentic reports have been received concerning loss of life, reports come from inland that several Mexican herders were frozen on the Leon, a small creek twenty miles south of the town. No communication has been had directly, and the mails from the seven different post offices inland have not arrived. Some apprehension is felt concerning the mail driver, who should have reached Clayton Thursday evening, but has not as yet appeared. Telegrams from Grand Lake last night give another case of freezing—that of Joe Morgan, a cowboy, who was employed with others in herding a herd of cattle near that point.

The depth of snow cannot be correctly estimated. The train men report much difficulty in different cuts, which, in some places, are completely filled with dead cattle and sheep.

Old cow men say that with the present depth of snow stock will be unable to live for any length of time, and unless the cold weather moderates, and the crust which has formed on the snow loosens, the mortality among cattle will be tremendous.

THE GOODLOE-CLAY TRAGEDY.

Colonel Goodloe's Chances for Recovery Growing Less.

CINCINNATI, O., November 9.—A special from Lexington, Ky., to the Evening Post says: Colonel Goodloe rested well last night, and this morning his physicians believe he has a good chance for recovery. The people are still greatly excited. Hundreds have already visited the scene of the tragedy in the postoffice building, and discussed the horror. Assistant Postmaster Swift was talking to Mr. Swoop a few seconds before the altercation began, and says he did not hear any words pass between the men, although they were a few feet away. He thinks it was a tacit understanding between them that the first time they met alone it should be a fight.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon Colonel Goodloe was much worse, and his chances for recovery seem to be growing less. The physicians have begun to probe for the ball. The dance this will not be passed before midnight, and the doctors are far from being as hopeful as they were this morning.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 9.—Hon. J. R. Thomas, of Illinois, this evening received the following dispatch in regard to the condition of Colonel Goodloe:

"Lexington, Ky., November 9.—7:30 P. M.—The operation on Goodloe is just concluded. The intestines were badly cut in two places. There is some hope, but the chances are adverse.

"[Signed] H. P. McDOWELL."

WASHINGTON.

Condition of the Ossipee—Capital News and Notes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 9.—The recent dispute between Commander Robley D. Evans and the engineer officer at the Norfolk navy-yard, concerning the condition of the Ossipee, when that vessel was ordered to convey Minister Douglas to Hayti, has been again brought into notice by the report of the naval inspection board on the condition of the ship. The board found the vessel in good condition, but recommends that new boilers be substituted for those now in the vessel. The Ossipee will probably soon be put out of commission until next July, when the construction appropriations will be available to repair her hull. Secretary Tracy will then decide whether she shall be fitted out as a cruiser or as a training ship.

INDIANS AND WILD WEST STORIES.

Indian Commissioner Morgan has addressed a circular to all Indian agents, asking them to state what influence the so-called wild West shows have upon the Indians traveling with them. The question is asked with a view of the influence of these shows on the Indians traveling with them is pernicious, of recalling all Indians away on exhibition.

CONTRACT FOR THE AMPHITRITE.

Contracts for furnishing material for building the monitor Amphitrite have been awarded to Albert Flagler, J. W. Gaskill & Son, of Philadelphia; E. J. Griffith, of Norfolk; John Kendy, T. N. Motley, C. H. Pleasants, Rowland A. Robbins and James W. Soper, of New York.

THE ELEVENTH CENSUS.

Superintendent Porter, in his annual report to Secretary Noble, says the preliminary work for the eleventh census is well in hand.

Under the head of wealth, debt and taxation, the statistics of which in the last census were collected under the direction of Mr. Porter, the report states that comprehensive tables are being prepared, which will show the financial condition of every county, city and village at the end of each fiscal year since 1880.

The assessed valuation and financial condition of counties in 1889-'90, as compared with 1880, will be given separately by counties and states, and the comparison of the assessed valuation and financial condition of States will go back as far as 1850. A table of all sources of revenue in cities and large towns of 5,000 population will be given. In the matter of securing full particulars of local governments apart from finance a comprehensive series of investigations is now being completed, which it is believed will cover the entire ground. A report of the public indebtedness, State, county, and municipal, for each year of the decade, ending 1890, will be included. The work of the division in charge of this work is so well advanced that the results for the nine years ending 1889 will be published next summer.

Superintendent Porter calls attention to the fact that resolutions have been passed by government labor organizations in various parts of the country asking that an inquiry be made as to the percentage of people in this country who occupy their own farms and homes, and what percentage are tenants and of those occupying their own farms and homes, what proportion have their property free from debt, and of the farms and homes under mortgage what percentage of the value is mortgaged.

This line of inquiry, the report states, is not authorized by law, but Mr. Porter says that the office is willing to undertake the inquiry, providing Congress will grant the necessary additional money.

CAPITAL NOTES.

The Naval Inspection Board will inspect the Chicago, the Boston, the Atlanta and the Yorktown on the 11th instant, preparatory to the departure of these vessels for European waters.

DANVILLE DOTS.

City Real Estate to be Revalued—Accident on the Richmond and Danville—The Proposed New Railroad.

DANVILLE, VA., November 9.—[Special.] At a special meeting of the City Council, held this afternoon, Messrs. Frank B. Gravely, Abner Anderson and C. H. Conrad were appointed a committee of assessors to revalue the city real estate for assessment and taxation the coming year.

A small accident in the yard of the Richmond and Danville Railroad, in North Danville, last night, ran several freight-cars off the switch and delayed the north-bound passenger train two hours.

A resolution was to-day offered in the City Council, by Councilman Neal, looking to the annexation of North Danville and the consolidation of the two municipal governments. The resolution provides or the appointment of a joint committee from the two Councils to consider the matter, and if annexation is deemed advisable, to petition the next Legislature for the necessary authority.

The board of directors of the contemplated Danville, Mebane, Pittsboro and Southern Road will meet at Yanceyville Tuesday to elect a president and treasurer. It is believed Major W. T. Sutherlin, of this city, will be made president if he will accept.

The latest information from Henry says Peters (Democrat) will get his seat in the Senate by over 100 majority.

Miss Lizzie Pace, niece of Mr. James B. Pace, of Richmond, is very ill, and her death is hourly expected. She has been sick for several months past.

Sol. Franklin, a prominent citizen of Henry county, died at his home last night.

BEYOND THE SEA.

Meeting of the Primrose League—Le Caron, the Informer—Cablegrams of More or Less Interest.

LONDON, November 9.—An immense meeting of the Primrose League was held at Manchester today, with the Earl of Dunraven as the orator of the occasion. In the course of his speech, his Lordship said that it was undoubtedly true that labor questions were the most important of the day. Thousands of workers, not only those unemployed by reason of the scarcity of work and other causes, but those who were regularly employed, were, to his personal knowledge, existing under the most shameful conditions. In these circumstances, he declared it was impossible for anybody to withhold his entire sympathy from workers of all classes or to engage heartily in all movements calculated to ameliorate their condition.

LECARON, THE INFORMER.

LONDON, November 9.—LeCaron, the informer par excellence, has taken a small house in Kensington, whence he drives and walks with utmost disregard for any of the thousands of enemies his treachery to the Irish has made for him. If he is under the protection of detectives the fact is not apparent, but the fact that the government or the Times, or both, are under heavy expense to maintain him, is plain.

CONDITION OF THE KING OF HOLLAND.

HAGUE, November 9.—The condition of the King of Holland has greatly improved. He is able to transact business, and goes out driving every day. He attended church last Sunday.

CABLETS.

LONDON, November 9.—The master lightermen held a meeting this afternoon, and agreed to concede to the demands of their employes.

LONDON, November 9.—It is ascertained from official figures that during the present year Italy has called into the various branches of her military service 150,000 more men than in any previous year.

THE LATE LIEUTENANT CREICHTON.

Appeal for Aid for His Family.

PETERSBURG, VA., November 9.—[Special Correspondence.]—Our small impoverished city had the misfortune to be visited with a $500,000 conflagration on 6th; the Lieutenant of Police George Creichton, in attempting to save the life of a young lad, son of Eppes Hargrave, Esq., met his untimely end by a falling wall. His life was uninsured, leaving no estate, but a wife and six children, the youngest only five weeks old. In the name of suffering humanity we write you and other newspapers in your city for a contribution for the maintenance of his poor distressed and afflicted family, any donation from your charitable citizens will be thankfully received.

LEXINGTON.

Honors to Cadet Ingate's Memory—Death of Rev. James H. Smith.

LEXINGTON, VA., November 9.—[Special.] Flags were at half-mast at the Virginia Military Institute today in honor of the late J. F. Ingate, a cadet in the corps. The remains were shown all the military honors, and under a body-guard of cadets, the remains were shipped to Mobile, Alabama.

Rev. James H. Smith died here this morning. He was known as an author on various church topics, and was last stationed at Harrisonburg, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. He was the youngest son of General F. H. Smith, of the Virginia Military Institute.

Threatened Contest in Prince Edward.

FARMVILLE, VA., November 9.—[Special.] Our election passed off very quietly in the county. No bad feeling seemed to exist. I learn that the Republican candidate, Thomas R. N. Cocks, for the House of Delegates, will make a contest, claiming that he was elected.

Governor McKinney has recovered from his sickness and seems well pleased with his large majority. We think he will make one of Virginia's best Governors.
