MANCHESTER.

—Rev. R. S. Cushman was confined to his house by temporary illness last Sabbath and his place was supplied by Rev. Dr. Wickham.

—H. P. Way has purchased the residence of J. M. Russell on North Main Street. Price $2,000.

—The sleighing in this vicinity is still good, but in the mountain towns the roads are badly drifted.

—Letters remaining in the post-office at Manchester, Feb. 1st, 1872: Joel Taylor, Geo. R. French, H. K. Slayton.

WM. B. BURTON, P. M.

—The unanimous verdict of the congregation last sabbath pronounced the new organ guilty of producing very fine music under the management of Mrs. L. A. Austin. It is really a fine instrument and adds very much to the choral part of service on the sabbath.

—Among the forthcoming announcements we notice that George Francis Train lectures at Rutland the 5th.—half fare on the railroad—Washburn's sensation at Music Hall the 7th, Murray's lecture the 9th and a grand masquerade at Rutland the 12th.

—The Troy Times says of Washburn's sensation troupe, "It was indeed a sensation. Bands Hall was crowded and the performance gave unmistakable satisfaction." Tickets for sale at the drug store for their performance at Music Hall the 7th.

—Cone & Burton keep up with the times, being constantly in receipt of new goods whenever their stock gets low, so that they are always supplied with a full line of goods of all kinds usually kept in a country store. They will come out with a new advertisement next week.

—We are requested to say that the Episcopal sewing society will meet on Friday afternoon and evening at the house of Mr. Truman Perkins and, that every one is expected to indulge his social qualities to the fullest extent on that occasion.

—Dr. Hemenway has recently been favored with an increase of responsibilities. The young lady arrived just in season to participate in the leap year ride, but owing to the severity of the weather did not think it prudent to be out.

—You can buy two boxes of fine style paper collars, with cloth lined button-holes, at L. C. Orvis' drug store, for the small sum of twenty-five cents, which is just half the usual price. Try them, they are worth twice the money.

—Fred. Morris, a young man about 20 years of age, was arrested by officer Aiklas of Schaghticoke, N. Y., on Wednesday morning, on a requisition from the Governor of Vermont, the charge being grand larceny. He will be taken to Troy for trial.

—We learn from the N. Y. Times of Tuesday, that Walter Hoyt, son of Fowler Hoyt, Esq., of this village, was accosted by a would-be robber, while on his way to his banking place about twelve o'clock at night, and in attempting to escape was shot through the arm. A man was arrested, and partially identified by Hoyt.

—The ladies who attended the leap year ride on Monday desire us to express their thanks to those friends in Arlington who prepared the Town Hall and furnished music for the occasion, taking no pay for it, and their willingness to reciprocate the kindness at the earliest opportunity.

—A correspondent from South Dorset informs us that a woman from Hebron, N. Y., has been through several of the towns in this vicinity soliciting aid for the Chicago sufferers and has collected quite a sum, which he thinks is not very likely to reach Chicago. Whether this is so or not it is safest to send through the regular channels.

—The third lecture of the course established by the Manchester Lecture Association, will be delivered at Music Hall on Friday evening, February 9th, by Rev. W. H. H. Murray of Boston; subject, The Adirondacks. The bare announcement of a lecture by this eloquent divine will be sufficient to insure a large audience. Mr. Murray is one of the most popular lecturers as well as preachers in the country, and no one can afford to lose this opportunity of hearing him.

—Notwithstanding the fact that apologies are generally disagreeable things both to the giver and receiver, we feel constrained to "the and explain" the poor appearance of the JOURNAL for the past week or two. Sickness of help and a combination of circumstances too numerous to mention are the cause of it, and if our readers will have a little patience we can safely promise an improvement in this and other respects, shortly.

—Many of our readers are more or less acquainted with Major John A. Pollen, the originator of the express business in this country, who died at his residence at Tarrytown Jan. 14th. He was formerly a very prominent man, remarkable for business ability for goodness of heart, and for probity of conduct. He started in life under very unpretending circumstances, but contrived to secure the respect, liking, and admiration of all who were brought into intercourse with him. He was noticeable for shrewdness, industry, and indefatigability. He identified his name and interest closely with the New York, Troy, and Montreal branch of the National Express Co., and the system created by him became the basis for all lines of that kind. Merits analogous to those which he displayed in private life were obvious throughout the whole of Major Pollen's public career. He was buried at Brattleboro, and has left behind him a reputation which confers dignity upon the enterprise with which he was professionally connected.

—The great event of the past week has been a leap year ride. The idea sprang into existence at Factory Point, and is supposed to have originated from the column injection "girls, do your jaty" found in Josh Billings Almanax. But whatever hatched this bissextile performance it had no sooner found a lodgment in the breast of some fair damsel at the "Point" than it spread throughout this whole region and young and old, maiden and matron were determined to "assert their rights." And when the air became thick with wild rumors and the ladies were seen in hurried consultation about the corners of the streets the men became shy and timid, with unusual flutterings about the region of the heart. Indeed, we saw one old stager with a face like brass blush like a school girl, with a strong disposition to faint, on being suddenly cornered in a deserted doorway. At last affairs were all arranged and the hour, Monday evening, arrived. Three large four horse teams and several smaller ones had been provided, and the ladies to the number of forty or more, after considerable difficulty, got their better halves to go for a ride to Arlington. Of that ride with the mercury near the starting point, of the diligent efforts of the fair ones to protect the objects of their charge from the cold, of the screams of terror from masculine lungs as the sleigh went over a bar higher than the rest of their half smothered exclamations while passing under the covered bridge it becometh us not to speak. On arriving at our destination we found friend Bartlett of the Arlington House ready to receive us, and though we overrun him almost like the frogs in Egypt, his face never lost its smile, and the abundance of the good things prepared for our repast never failed. We also found that the ladies of Arlington had not escaped the contagion, but they joined us with a like subdued and meek looking lot of masculines hanging to their dexter elbows. We also found that they had warmed and lighted the town hall and engaged music so that those so inclined might do homage to Terpsichore, the which most of them proceeded to do forthwith. Of the becoming and elegant toilets worn by the male persuasion and their efforts to look their prettiest, space and modesty forbid us to speak. That the ladies did their part to perfection is the testimony of all, though the bachelors have the most cause to be jubilant as they had all these attentions—not free while the benedicks are supposed to have furnished their wives money for the occasion. After partaking of the generous hospitality shown them at Arlington the party from Manchester were set down at their own doors at an early hour of the morning without accident or mishap, and "when next they go to ride may we be there to see."

—"Washburn's Last sensation," reorganized for 1872 with everything new and original will appear in Music Hall Wednesday evening Feb 7th. This show has met with great success, and papers in all parts of the country speak of it as one which respectable people can attend without fear of being insulted by anything approaching vulgarity or indecent allusion. The Holyoke Transcript of Jan. 20th, says: "Washburn, the always popular show man, won fresh laurels in Chapin hall, on Monday evening, his "last sensation" proving a decided hit drawing a full house and giving entire satisfaction. The hall was literally packed—fully one thousand persons being present and the performance in every particular fully up to the standard. Washburn Bros., Willis and Leon, are among the best gymnasts in the country, and we venture the assertion that better tumbling has never been witnessed here. The numerous features of the athletic exercises were alone worth the admission fee, and won unstinted applause. Maas, the comedian, and the pretty and sprightly Gussie Crayton, in their German character, songs and dances delighted everybody with their good voices, graceful acting, and versatility. The spade and ladder act, the clog dancing, the horn solo by Stewart, and the closing extravaganza, "The Arkansaw Traveller," were all admirably given, the whole making an excellent variety, merely assembled in one troupe. Mr. Washburn's twenty-five years experience in the show business fully entitles him to his position as the most popular and successful showman on the road, and when he comes again next May with entirely new and original attractions, he can safely count upon another full house. We commend his annual courier, Ed. Tinkham, to the Press universal, as a courteous, balmy and wide awake business agent who knows what he wants, and pays for what he wants, and pays for what he has, every time. This entertainment will exhibit at Free Library Hall Bennington, Monday, Feb. 5th, at Town Hall Arlington, Tuesday evening Feb. 6th, and at Music Hall Feb. 7th.

FACTORY POINT.

—Beach and Lee advertise their carriage shop for sale. It is a fine location for business and offers every inducement for a good manufacturer to purchase.

EAST MANCHESTER.

—It is said of this place, as of many others, that she has made to furnish. We cannot vouch for it, however, for if it be true the saying "where sin abounded grace much more abounded" fails in our instance. We are not a highly favored people at the present time. We can remember the time when Burr & Burton Seminary sent out strong young men who could stand the storms of summer and face the chilling blasts of winter, a Roe, Merwin, a Van Bleke, a Thompson a Forest, a Dudley and many others to stay the hands and cheer the hearts of the loved ones. But, alas, some of them have gone to meet their reward. The Damsels of this town often appeared in the little chapel and gave this people a severe talking to. Members from the Young Men's Association placed their light in the window and pointed to the "Star in the East." The evergreen stood in our midst, laden with golden gifts to make merry the hearts of the children. But grace has taken its departure and perched in more popular places. The shrill voice of a Collins is heard no more and the sweet tones of a Burnham have died away in the distance and the requirement go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature is neglected as far as this place is concerned.

Why not fill the water tank of the old fire engine, put the strong hand upon the crank and pour out a shower that shall quench the fire of approaching sin, for our lumbermen are getting weary and the bark is getting weighty but move on and the chairs at the Cliff Dale House are well bottomed, but we can't persuade neighbor Utley not to sell or lease. He says he is tired and wants to rest. He will sell fine building lots with living water at the door. The person that wants will do well to read his advertisement and then call on him. G.

DORSET.

—Twelve young ladies treated their "fellows" to a leap year ride last Friday evening, going to Arlington and back. They are said to have gone through the entire programme very handsomely.

—Although correspondents from this place have been mostly silent of late, it was not from lack of anything of interest to report, but more from a desire to give you a rest, as your columns seems to have been crowded. In fact Dorset seems to be unusually lively this winter. The debating club is progressing finely, giving us a pleasing entertainment at once a week. Then the reading circle each week, and our frequent sociables and other family gatherings, keep us pretty busy. We had some very interesting evening meetings, also, the first of January, which we trust will result in lasting benefit to some who attended them.

—There is to be an oyster supper on Friday of this week, the 2d of February, at G. W. Baker's. No tickets sent out, but a general invitation to all interested. We have a first rate hotel, and we trust our friends will give them a full house.

EAST DORSET.

—There have been two articles in the JOURNAL in relation to the donation party held in this place, for the benefit of the Rev. W. W. Foster, neither of them having told the whole story. The facts are these: There was a social gathering at Ames Hall, an oyster supper at Barrows Hall, and a grand dance at Cochran's Hall—the proceeds after paying for music were paid into the general fund, which was $20, making in all, after paying expenses, $110. X. Y. Z.

—Nothing particularly noteworthy has occurred during the past week, but as the crickets sang in the fairy story, "something is going to happen next week." There will be an entertainment given at Mr. Cochran's Hall on Tuesday eve Feb. 6th, consisting of colloquies, tableaux, pantomimes, etc., for the benefit of the East Dorset Library Association. Performance to commence at 7 1/2 o'clock. Price of admission twenty-five cts. A very good time is anticipated, and everybody who enjoys such occasions, or who care to aid a good cause, is cordially invited to be present. Front seats will be reserved for our friends from out of town and plenty of good places for all.

BY ORDER OF COMM.

NORTH DORSET.

—The school in this district has been closed for a week past in consequence of the illness of the teacher. It is hoped that she will soon be able to resume her charge.

—Miss Sarah Tier, who was thrown from a sled while coasting a few weeks ago, and one foot so severely injured that she has not been able to bear any weight on it since.

—Mr. Russell Streeter lost a valuable ox a few days ago. It was found dead in the barn, and is supposed to have eaten something poisonous among the hay.

EAST RUPERT.

—Mrs. Crouch wife of David Crouch of East Rupert about seventy-five years of age, who has been bereft of reason for some time in consequence of softening of the brain, on Friday evening, 26th ult. while her husband was absent from the room a few moments, in some way by the stove or light on the table, set fire to her clothes, and was so seriously burned before the fire could be extinguished, that she died about 2 o'clock next morning after some hours of intense suffering. In the attempt to rescue her Mr. Crouch burned his hands very badly.

BONDVILLE.

—Mrs. G. T. Shanks has in her window a Pensula which has been blossoming all winter. It has attained the height of three feet, and is literally covered with flowers having at the present time over 40 full blown. It presents to the passers by a strange contrast to the snow and cold winds that prevail outside.

FERE.

—We were happy to see the large number of Arlingtonians and our friends from abroad at the parsonage on the 18th inst., Thursday afternoon and evening. They left for our benefit nearly $40 in cash, besides many other valuable gifts. To our people and other friends, for these gifts, we would express our most grateful acknowledgments. In return for all this kindness, may rich temporal and spiritual blessings be bestowed upon them all.

ASA F. CLARK.
MARY CLARK.

LONDONGROVE.

—W. W. Wiley offers his farm for sale in to-day's paper.

—Gilman Davis recently lost a horse, the animal having broken its leg, as he claims, by reason of a defect in the highway, and we learn that he intends to claim damage of the town.

LONDONDERRY.

—A special communication of West River Lodge F. & A. M. is called at their lodge room Feb. 9th when a full attendance is desired. Work on the second and third degrees.

CHESTER.

—One result of the long run of fine sleighing is a pile of wood on the depot grounds, which if piled four feet high in one pile would extend a distance of nearly four miles.

—A. K. Davenport having been appointed liquor agent, is now prepared to heal persons afflicted with medicinal or mechanical disturbances. Those who have been sick state that A. K. keeps a good article, and deals the same out with discrimination. We see no speculation in those eyes.

—Prescott Heald, Esq., town clerk some 25 years, will, with his family, move to Canton, Ill., about the middle of March next. Mr. Heald is one of the few men in town who have the town's interest at heart; a man universally esteemed, and as good a town clerk as there is in the state. It is very generally regretted that ill health and family interests have determined Mr. Heald's departure from us.

—The Odd Fellows' second annual grand ball came off at the Ingraham House on the evening of the 17th ult. Over 100 couples participated. Hough's instruments were used on the occasion. The arrangements below were perfect; in fact it was one of the most enjoyable affairs we ever knew in the whole course of our life.

—The plash of fountains under green trees; the murmuring of waterfalls; the spicy breezes from forests of odorous shrubs; music in the air and warm sunbeams are considered indispensable in tinging love with a romantic sentimentality, but we have seen the article kindle on a bridge stringer of a January night. We have known a fellow who looked like a potato stalk in a cellar, warm up like a pepper pod under the persuasive influence of the little god dess. The Order of Hymen has of late been busy forging gordian chains. Last week we alluded to the loss of brother Henry from our happy circle; we now have to announce one more bereavement. Richard Whitney, Esq., who for more than 45 years had walked fearlessly before women, lost his strength and surrendered by reason of a dart from the quiver of Miss Catharine Reed of Londonderry, Rev. Geo. G. Lewis acting as Joint High Commissioner. Done at Springfield on the 19th ult. Richard will never be himself again. Peru papers please copy.

NORTH BENNINGTON.

—The annual session of the Teachers Institute will be held at this place, commencing on Monday next and closing on Friday. The hospitalities of the citizens and half fare on the railroad are generously extended to those teachers who shall attend.

—Some of the prominent liquor sellers have been prosecuted and fined during the past week. This spasmodic effort to enforce the liquor law was incited by a row in the saloon of John Haley on Monday evening of last week in which David Niles of Shaftsbury, was stabbed and beaten by parties from Hoosick.

BENNINGTON.

—Farwell has nearly recovered from his illness and the question of admission to bail of both Farwell and Lawrence will be heard before the supreme court which sets in this village next week.

—Engineer Green of Troy has made a report of his estimates of the cost of the Walloomsac road etc., with depots, freight houses and all necessary buildings complete. The cost to the orchard including land damages, etc., by one of the proposed routes is $297,000; by the other $309,000. The routes differ only from a point near C. Noyes to a point a short distance west of Bennington Centre.

—Mr. R. C. Root of New York, President of the Bennington and Glastenbury railroad, is not agent for the Messrs. Harper Brothers for the management of a 15,000 acre tract of timber land in Glastenbury; he himself owns the tract, having bought it many years ago of the late Major Atwater of Bennington. Mr. Root says the new road will be completed by the first of June next. Coal contracts have been made which will make the completion of the road by that time a necessity.

—E. W. Pierce, one of the proprietors of the Banner, has invented a bronzing machine which is simple in its construction, can be made at a small expense and does its work well and rapidly. A patent will be applied for.

—Some of our townsmen are spending the winter in New York.

—Our knitting mills are all doing a rushing business this season, the goods bringing good prices.

—Rev. J. Isham Bliss is now the rector of St. Peters church.

—About six inches of snow fell on Monday which gives us comfortable sleighing for a time.

—There is but one case of the small pox in town and that is on an unfrequented road nearly two miles from the village, so all fears of taking the contagion can cease. Yet vaccination has had a good run inasmuch as there have been about two hundred persons, more or less, in and around town that have been vaccinated.

—One of our former townsmen, Don W. Stone, Esq., one of the proprietors of the widely known and celebrated Stone & Murray Circus, has sold his interest in the same to his partner, Mr. Murray, who in connection with his brothers will hereafter manage the enterprise.

—We have plenty of amusements now, three balls being occupied every night.

WOODFORD.

—Patches has filled up his store with first class goods in his line, being encouraged by the expectation of the railroad. The depot will probably be near his store.

—Norman Crawford has moved from Bennington to this town, and goes into the wood business quite extensively.

—Quite a number of people in town have been exposed to the small pox by several persons who lived in other towns being taken with it here.

BERLIN.

—We are having splendid winter weather but need more snow very much.

—Mrs. Dolly Simmons, oldest daughter of Rev. J. D. Rogers, died Jan. 22nd, of lung fever. She gave evidence of having possessed that peace "which passeth understanding."

—There was a donation party at the chapel at South Berlin on the evening of Jan. 24th, for Rev. James Summerbell, which was a pleasant affair and a financial success. Mr. S. is pastor of the Seventh day Baptist church in this village but occupies the desk of the Christian chapel on Sunday. Berlin, you know, is the banner town and the place where two Sundays come together.

—Graded schools again! In fact we have it bad—on the brain. It is so heavy that some of us are pressed "like an ox beneath its sheaves" with the weight—others cannot sleep o'nights, so painful is the subject to contemplate. But we have accomplished a big thing in its way. We, with great care, labor and trepedation, hewed out of good timber, a board (of education). Well, what do you think? the moment the "Inspector of weights and measures" put his eye upon it, he said, "Too short at one end;" secondly, "A little wany edged;" thirdly, and overwhelmingly, "It is not graded." Now comes the big thing. We have "licked our puppy over again," and with skill (gained from past experience) and hard labor, have elected a "board" and graded it according to Hoyle, but have left off the safety valve! I put the question to you, "gum chewers," knowing there are learned "pundits among you; and it is said that the second and third resolutions (original and select) of a former article, have been successfully carried out in your state. We wish to know about that also. Is it necessary to have a safety valve? We dare not "go on with the show" before getting answers.

—Another matter has interested some of our population for the last six months, some "friends" feeling at times that "something must be done about it." And this is "what's the matter." A retired merchant widower, who is in years, on the shady side of fifty, and has always been something of a favorite with womankind, has been looking with longing eyes (so reported) into the yard adjoining his, where might be seen at times a decidedly pretty, blushing widow. Said widow is about twenty years his junior, and lives in the house adjoining. His aunt said to him months ago that there would have been no trouble, if he had kept on his own side of the fence, but with his habits and temperament the thing was simply impossible. Consequently, he has been seen going into the widow's house (by close observers) some say frequently. Now the people (?) not knowing exactly how the time is occupied while they are together, come to different conclusions as to the result of these interviews. Some are sure it means business, while others say it is mere pastime. Many say a wedding is inevitable; others that such a thing is not possible as he is a prudent man, and she has two wild responsibilities pledges of affection to her husband that was. People will talk, you know, and the talk about these parties would fill a large volume. Our Vanderbilt (named after Van, the great, on account of his railroad propensities) made a statement for which he should have been hung on the spot. The man has been interviewed since. A friend asked him some time since how he and the widow got along. He answered, "About as usual; I guess it's a chronic case, having passed the acute stage." Another wanted to know what he meant by going there so much, he being a bible man and full of quotations, instantly referred the person to the general epistle of James, 1st chapter, 27th verse, adding interrogatively, are not widows always in affliction till married again? When pressed by friends to know his intentions, he answers calmly, smoothly, but evasively, that opinions differ a good deal yet; that when the people come to a unanimous conclusion, that, no doubt will be a correct one. Meanwhile the real parties are seemingly quiet and comfortable, having in a manner become reconciled to the situation and criticisms. So the conundrum remains, "business or pastime."

CHATHAM.

—The father of Hon. E. Smith Strait, Judge of Rensselaer county, died on Sunday, Jan. 21st at his residence in Nassau.

—Edward Reynolds has purchased of Daniel Corcoran the old building on the corner opposite Hogg's Hotel and will erect a business block. This will be a great improvement to the village, as the reputation of the place has been decidedly bad for a number of years.

CHATHAM VILLAGE.

—Robert S. Golden, late ticket agent at the Boston & Albany depot, who is charged with embezzling and grand larceny has given bail to appear at the February term of Oyer and Terminer.

—Herndon's Opera Troupe will play for one week at Cady's Opera House commencing about Feb. 12th. We remember of hearing this troupe highly spoken of through the columns of the JOURNAL last summer, and we expect to be highly entertained by this first-class company.
