Address of
J. WALTER MITCHELL to the members of the Washington and Stonewall Society of Charlotte Hall Academy.
 It is in response to the very kind invitation of those having charge of the arrangements for this evening's entertainment that I am afforded the pleasure of being with you and talking to you gentlemen, as one of the former members of your Society, one of the boys, for although it has been twenty years since I was an active member taking part in similar contests as those engaging your attention tonight, I still feel like one of you, and my memory travels quickly back across the span of years since I like you stood upon this platform and measured swords with my school mates for the coveted prizes offered by your ancient and honorable Society.
 No doubt you tonight think twenty years an ordinary life time, and so it seems to most of us looking prospectively, but when the years have passed and we look back to the scenes of our college days we are wont to wonder at the rapidly with which they flow. And let me say that no matter what the great unknown future may have in store for you, no matter whether your pathway through life be strewn with roses, or be filled with obstacles to be overcome, whether in the flush of victory or the hour of temporary defeat, the golden memory of these days will be ever with you, and will enable you to fully appreciate the sentiment expressed in the lines of our poets.
 Then talk no more of future gloom Our joys will always last When hope shall brighten the days to come
 And memory gild the past.
 Literary Societies are useful and necessary adjuncts of every College and University and render a service beyond value to the student, affording opportunity for that special training in elocution, declamation and debate, which in after years he finds so indispensable in his intercourse with his fellow-man.
 A College student's life in this advanced age is complex and many sided; as it is necessary for you to have your Chapel and Young Mens Christian Association to develop the moral and religious side, and the gymnasium and athletic field is needed for expansion of the muscles and strengthening and building up the physical man so is the literary society desirable in giving to the student the opportunity of becoming master of a style and diction, clear in enunciation, quick in repartee, alert and forceful in debate, qualities which tend so strongly to make, what in truth every man should strive to be a leader in thought and expression. And how well the old Washington and Stonewall Society has filled this function in the past is abundantly testified to by the roll of her former members, who have become leaders in their chosen professions and avocations, and how well she is maintaining her high standard is demonstrated in no uncertain terms by the exhibition it has been my good fortune to witness at this time. The very name of your society is an inspiration for the utmost exertion to fit yourselves as disciples of the two great and illustrious persons whose names it bears, George Washington the great soldier, statesman, and instructor of the young nation Jonthan Jackson, known to fame as Stonewall, soldier and instructor of youth, two of the noblest of Gods nobleman; the result of whose efforts were so very different, yet whose lives were not unlike, alike in that they were leaders of as brave fearless and true men as ever shouldered a gun or stepped to the sound of martial music, both equally believing in the righteousness and justice of their respective causes, alike in the universal love and esteem in which they were held by their fellowmen, different in that the cause of one succeeded and lived, while the cause of the other failed and died. The lives of these two men illustrate the vagaries of fate. This leads us to contemplate the two opposite views as to the controlling force in mens lives, one holding that human beings are the creatures of circumstances, that chance or fate determines whether their efforts shall be crowned with success or doomed to failure, and is the thought expressed in the much quoted lines of Shakespeare "There comes a tide in the affairs of men which taken at its flood leads on to fortune" or as later expressed by John J. Ingalls, "Opportunity! Master of human destinies am I! Fame love and fortune on my footsteps wait. Cities and fields I walk, I penetrate deserts and seas, remote, and passing by hovel and mart and palace, soon or late I knock unbidden once at every gate!

 If sleeping, wake: if feasting rise before I turn away. It is the hour of fate, and they who follow me reach every state mortals desire and conquer every foe save death: but those who doubt or hesitate condemned to failure, penury and woe, seek me in vain and uselessly implore, I answer not and I return no more! the other which that man is the master of his own destiny, or in other words that each individual determines by his own acts whether success or failure shall be his ultimate lot, which thought is thus expressed by Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

One ship east another drives west With the same name winds that blow It is the set of the sails and not the gales Which determine the way they go.
 Both views have many strong adherents who maintain that contention with great logic and force. I myself believe that a compromise position between the two is more nearly correct; is the safe one for you to take, it can certainly do you no injury at all times have the sails of the ship so set and trimmed as to catch the fair breeze which chance or fate may cause to overtake you.
 If I can do no more I wish to impress upon you that now is the formation period of your lives, now is the time that this venerable institution of learning, with her able and learned corps of professors and instructors, with her many adjuncts and accessories old Charlotte Hall, your and my Alma Mater is endeavoring to teach you the use and value of every sail, spar and rope, of the great ship upon which you will soon embark for life's voyage, so that be the winds fair or adverse, you will finally be able to safely moor her in the harbor of success.

And in conclusion young gentlemen when in after years you have attained the goal for which you have striven do not forget the old School; be ever zealous in looking to the welfare of your Alma Mater, remember the guidance and instruction of your youth, whose locks now brown may perchance have turned to silver, and who are enjoying a quiet and rest they so richly deserve, and always keep green the memory of the days when you were members of the old Washington and Stonewall Society.

VITAL WASHINGTON NEWS.
 BY TAVENNER.
 HOW PROTECTION PROTECTS Protectionists assert that high tariff rates "protect" American workmen. What is meant by the word "protect"? The steel industry is one of the most highly protected industries in the United States. The high rates on steel products have "protected" the American workmen in that industry by driving them from the mills. Positions formerly filled by Americans are now occupied by the cheapest foreign labor. A report just made on conditions in the mills of the steel trust at Bethlehem Pa. states that "4725 men, or 51 per cent of all the employes, worked twelve hours a day; 220 workmen had a twelve-hour day except on Saturdays and 4203 employes had a workday of ten and one-half to eleven hours in length." Thus does protection "protect" the workman!

How, indeed!
 "How can the government control the trusts when the trusts control the government?"—Senator Owen of Oklahoma.

We rather liked the pleasant sound of peace gone willy-nilly, and someone being chased around the White House with a Billy. We've missed it much for lack of Dutch in smiling Mr. Taft, and mortal sin but it has been a long time since we laughed.

After all it is the producing power of the farm that determines the boy in his going or staying.
 Show him that there's money in it, and he will stick to the old farm like a sand-bur to a sheeps' tail.—Farm
