LIPTON HAS NOT DECIDED ON CUP RACE DETAILS

Next Challenger's Designer, Her Dimensions and Type as Yet Unknown.

Sir Thomas Lipton will challenge for the America's Cup, and the race will be held in 1908. This fact was exclusively printed in The Evening World Oct. 25.

Who will design the new Shamrock, her dimensions, type and classification are secrets locked up in the mind of Sir Thomas, who just at present is at the Waldorf-Astoria and deeply puzzled to understand how American reporters can learn so much about his intentions.

"Since I stated to you nineteen days ago," said Sir Thomas to a reporter for The Evening World to-day, "that I would challenge for the cup I have given up one any further details of my plans. I am surprised at a statement printed in a morning paper to-day in which it is said that Willie Fife is to design the boat, that she is to be of cutter rig and class H or 52 feet water-line measurement and other details unauthorized by myself in any way. I do not even know these things myself.

"It has been my ambition for years to lift the cup, and I may say that one of my objects in coming here this fall was to ascertain if any further steps could be taken in this direction. Everything done here has been in a very informal way. I have not stated positively that I would challenge for the cup in 1907 or 1908, and I will not deny that I may do so.

"At a luncheon given to me and the officials of the New York Yacht Club by R. A. C. Smith at the Midday Club, on Oct. 25, there was considerable talk over cup matters. I was more than satisfied with the results of that talk, as I told a reporter for The Evening World when I came out. I am sure the club will put no obstacles in my way should a challenge be sent over for the cup. That is all I care to say on that subject.

"As to the details of the challenge, it would be absurd for me to give them out for publication at this time. It takes more than six months to get a boat out. That would preclude a challenge for a race in 1907. Having eighteen months in which to figure out ideas for a boat, and only ten months being required for notice of challenge, why should I state my plans at this time?

"As to the designer, I also told you there are two able men in England—William Fife and Albert Mylne. I have talked with both of them before coming here, but no designs were accepted or ideas adopted as relating to a new challenger. There can, therefore, be nothing definite about whether a cutter or sloop might be regarded as the best type to be used in a challenger.

"I can, however, give you a positive statement as to the length of the challenger," and while the reporter pricked up his ears to get one definite statement Sir Thomas smiled as he said drily and with characteristic humor: "She'll not be over ninety feet."

This is the limit placed on the conditions governing cup challenges.

It may be added that Sir Thomas is apparently satisfied that the new measurement rules of the New York Yacht Club will produce the wholesome type of a boat for which he has always insisted the cup racers should be built. He has condemned the freaks or racing machines built only to be destroyed after a race and consequently of no practical value.

It was the fact that the N. Y. Y. C. had only given the new rule a year's trial that caused the challenge to be postponed until 1908. The Regatta Committee told Sir Thomas this at the lunch at the Mid-Day Club and advised that another year be given to a demonstration of the rule. He agreed that the delay was advisable and consequently will make his challenge for a race in 1908.

CHOSE RUSH HOUR FOR B. R. T. PAVING

Half a dozen deliberate laborers tied up the B. R. T. lines running through Fulton street during the morning rush hour to-day. Thousands of toilers in Manhattan reached their shops and offices late because the half dozen men in overalls in the Brooklyn street emulated in their toil the impulsive movement of frapped molasses.

The blockaders were engaged in putting down paving stones between the westbound tracks in Fulton street and Elm place. From the precision of their actions it was fair to assume that they learned their trade in a watch factory. For nearly an hour they kept a line of cars stalled almost continuously from Elm place out to Lafayette avenue in Fulton street and Flatbush avenue.

The overpowering intelligences that set these men to work at paving between these street car tracks in the height of the rush movement is possessed by the management of the contracting firm that built the Subway through Fulton street.
