PUBLIC SALES.

TRUST SALE.

BY authority, and in pursuance of the provisions of a Deed of Trust, executed to me by Augustine M. Braxton, for the benefit of Benj. O. Tayloe, bearing date on the first day of January, 1840, and duly recorded in the Clerk's Office of King George County, I shall offer for sale, at public auction, on Wednesday, the 27th day of October next, upon the premises, the tract of land in said deed mentioned, known by the name of WINDSOR, containing about 820 acres, one half of which, at least, is bottom land of the finest quality, and a large portion of the balance (though high) is what is usually denominated "table-land", and is of that character of soil which admits of the highest improvement.—Upon the estate are a comfortable frame dwelling, most of the usual out-houses, and a grist and saw-mill.

The estate will be divided into two tracts—the one containing about 207 acres, and the other about 620—the latter embracing the Dwelling and Mill.

Windsor is beautifully situated in the lower part of King George County, Va., and commands from the dwelling house an extensive view of the Potomac river. Its location is in the midst of a society equal to any in the State, and in many respects, presents inducements to purchase, with a view to a residence, rarely offered.

According to the provisions of the deed under which I sell, the terms will be one fourth of the purchase money in hand; the balance in equal payments at the expiration of one, two, and three years; but I am authorized by the gentleman for whose benefit the sale is made, to say that, the purchaser can negotiate with him for a much longer credit, if desired.

Mr. Braxton, or his manager on the estate, will show the land to any person wishing to view it before the day of sale.

W. R. MASON, Trustee.

NOTICE.

AT the same time and place, of the sale above advertised, the undersigned, by authority of two deeds of trust, executed to them, by Augustine M. Braxton, and recorded in the Clerk's Office of King George County, will offer for sale, at public auction, the following interests and property, to wit: all the right and title to certain property, which the said A. M. Braxton acquired by the purchase of the schedule of J. E. Kirwin; all the interest which the said Braxton has in sundry slaves, held by B. Kirwin and wife for life—being a reversionary or remainder interest in two-thirds of them, after the termination of said life interest; also, 6 work horses, 20 mules, 50 to 50 head of cattle, 150 sheep, 4 wagons, all the farming utensils on the Windsor estate, a carriage and pair of carriage horses, a riding horse, sundry articles of house and kitchen furniture, and the crop of corn now growing on the Windsor estate.

The terms will be made known on the day of sale.

REMOVAL.

WM. LANPHIER, DENTIST, respectfully continues his tender of services to the citizens and visitors of Alexandria. Office removed next door to Cook's Drug Store, on King street.

All necessary operations upon diseased teeth performed carefully, and every attention given directed to promote the health and prolong the usefulness of such TEETH as shall come under his care.

The Mechanical branch being wholly executed by himself will enable him to furnish Artificial Teeth, much cheaper than can be procured elsewhere in this District.

The success which has generally attended his efforts, both in the Surgical and Mechanical Branches, while he has been in practice here, taken together with an experience of seven years in that practice, it is almost unnecessary to say, is the best evidence of his ability. mh7—Sa&Montf

ENDYMION.

BY HENRY W. LONGFELLOW.

The rising moon has hid the stars,
Her lovely rays, like golden bars,
Lie on the landscape green,
With shadows brown between.

And silver white the river gleams,
As if Diana, in her dreams,
Had dropt her silver bow
Upon the meadows low.

On such a tranquil night as this,
She woke Endymion with a kiss,
When, sleeping in the grove,
He dreamed not of her love.

Like Dian's kiss, unask'd, unsought,
Love gives itself, but is not bought;
Nor voice, nor sound betrays
Its deep, impassion'd gaze,

It comes—the beautiful, the free,
The crown of all humanity—
In silence and alone
To seek the elected one.

It lifts the boughs, whose shadows deep
Are Life's oblivion, the soul's sleep,
And kisses the clos'd eyes
Of him, who, slumbering, lies.

O, weary hearts! oh, slumbering eyes!
O, drooping souls, whose destinies
Are fraught with fear and pain,
Ye shall be loved again!

No one is so accurs'd by fate,
No one so wholly desolate,
But some heart, though unknown,
Responds unto his own.

Responds, as if with unseen wings
An angel swept its quivering strings;
And whispers, in its song,
"Where hast thou staid so long?"

WILLIAMSON THE BURGLAR.

The arrest of Williamson, the noted Eng[illegible] burglar at Harrisburg, has been alre[illegible] mentioned. On the examination of his tru[illegible] and those of an accomplice in his compa[illegible] they were found to contain some hundred [illegible] keys, vices, anvils, files, dark lantern, [illegible] every kind of implement for opening locks, [illegible] aiding their dark profession. There w[illegible] found in their possession bills of lading [illegible] invoices of valuable goods, shipped for Pi[illegible] burg by the Pennsylvania Canal, such [illegible] 3,500 yards of silk and other valuable go[illegible] supposed to be worth $20 to $30,000. They [illegible] so had a bill of lading of goods shipped [illegible] "Hand's Line" at Philadelphia for New [illegible] leans.

The Philadelphia Inquirer gives the foll[illegible] ing notice of his arrest &c.

The history of this rogue cannot but be co[illegible] sidered as extraordinary, and the unpress[illegible] prevails very extensively in our commun[illegible] that his recent release in this city, was [illegible] say the least, somewhat strange, all the c[illegible] cumstances considered. It will be remem[illegible] ed that he was arrested some time since, ch[illegible] ed with an attempt to rob Mr. Finley's s[illegible] in Walnut street. By some jugglery he c[illegible] trived to get off, and was next heard of [illegible] connexion with some robberies in Boston [illegible] The authorities there were very anxiou[illegible] hold him, satisfied that he could be convic[illegible] and put in prison for years. One of the jud[illegible] too, if we remember right, and we beg[illegible] Boston cotemporaries to refer again to [illegible] matter, expressed an apprehension that if [illegible] mitted to go to Philadelphia, he woul[illegible] permitted to escape. Not so, however, [illegible] was assured, and Williamson was brough[illegible] He was here held on two charges—one m[illegible] next in with the robbery of Mr. Lesc[illegible] store at the corner of Third and Market str[illegible] and the other in relation to his escape un[illegible] the charge made against him by Mr. Fin[illegible] In the first case, Mr. Lescure found to his [illegible] prise, that the principal witness on whom [illegible] depended, had been silenced; that William[illegible] had powerful friends in this city, and that [illegible] he would be unable to substantiate his c[illegible] ges against him. In the other case, Mr. L[illegible] ley's matter, the burglar employed powe[illegible] counsel, secured one or two witnesses, and [illegible] when finally held to bail, succeeded by me[illegible] which are yet to be explained in inducing [illegible] or three individuals to come forward, sw[illegible] that they were worth the necessary amou[illegible] and thus facilitate his release. Mr. Lesc[illegible] however, still felt conscious that he ha[illegible] hand in his robbing his store; and this indu[illegible] ed him to keep a vigilant eye upon him.

Williamson had not been out of prison [illegible] week before several other burglaries w[illegible] prepetrated in Philadelphia, and as alre[illegible] stated in our columns, he was a few days s[illegible] again arrested at the instance of Mr. J. M. [illegible] Lescure a brother of the gentleman wh[illegible] store was robbed, under the following circu[illegible] stances. Mr. Lescure happened by accid[illegible] to take passage in the rail road cars which [illegible] the city at 12 o'clock at night, on Saturday [illegible] for Harrisburg. Towards morning he disco[illegible] ered that Williamson and Smith were in th[illegible] cars, bound to the west, under assumed nam[illegible] On arriving at Harrisburg, Mr. L. had th[illegible] both arrested, and their baggage searc[illegible] when it was discovered that one trunk co[illegible] tained several hundred skeleton keys, w[illegible] every other kind of implement for bu[illegible] breaking, &c. There were also fo[illegible] extensive invoices of valuable goods, co[illegible] prising from four to five thousand yards [illegible] choice silks—several hundred pieces of s[illegible] ribbons—a large quantity of cambric and [illegible] handkerchiefs, with a great variety of oth[illegible] fancy goods. Bills of lading were also fo[illegible] in their possession, showing that these go[illegible] had been sent within a few days from Phi[illegible] delphia to Pittsburg. One of these boxes [illegible] been opened in Harrisburg, and found to co[illegible] tain the goods recently stolen from Mr. M[illegible] while officers have been dispatched to Pi[illegible] burg, with the object of examining the bo[illegible] sent on in that direction. The public [illegible] greatly indebted to Mr. L. for his untiring [illegible] glance in this matter. Not half the truth [illegible] feel satisfied, has yet been told in relatio[illegible] the movements of this burglar, nor can [illegible] expect its development, until all chance [illegible] escape shall have departed. Then he may [illegible] induced to unfathom the mystery in wh[illegible] many points of his case are still involved.
