WYOMING'S STOCK.

Cattle Worth More Than Before the Storm.

Reports of the effects of the great storm upon cattle have now reached Cheyenne from every part of the territory. Every ranch has been heard from. Men have ridden over every district where cattle range. The report in every case has been small losses. Not one disastrous loss has been reported. The foremen in charge of an occasional green feeding when other matter is scarce. Although claiming white clover as the best grass for sheep, it is not here inferred that farmers should depend on that alone. No farmer should pin his faith on a single variety of anything, but if a pasturage for sheep is to be prepared, it should be composed of mixed grasses, in which the proportion of white clover should be large. As it needs no cultivation or manuring on good soils, no additional labor is required to secure a pasture composed principally of it, and say that as I was never elected to congress, but I do say I am prouder than if elected to the senate of the United States, as this is my eighth term. [Applause.]

Col. C. C. Slaughter was elected first vice-president and Dr. J. R. Stevens sec ond.

When Dr. Stephens was nominated he said he could not serve as he only had one old jersey cow. [Laughter.]

J. C. Loving was elected secretary and F. I Sherwood assistant secretary.

Each one of the newly elected officers returned their thanks gracefully for the honor conferred and were hearily applauded.

The committee to examine the lists of cattle returned reported through their chairman, Colonel Slaughter. He reported that they had examined the lists returned, and found them as near correct as possible.

Mr. J. C. Loving was elected treasurer, and returned "more thanks than when he was elected secretary." [Laughter.]

On motion of J. N. Simpson the president nominated the executive committee.

Mr. Smith moved to agree to the appointments as handed in by the president.

Mr. A. M. Britton said the by-laws provided that the election should be by ballot.

Mr. J. N. Simpson said this was a very important committee, with power to levy assessments and controlling the finances of the association, and great care should be taken in the selection. His name was on the lists submitted, and he would feel compelled if the convention would elect some other man in his place, if they felt there was a better man for the place.

Mr. Evans hoped the election would be by ballot, and no member would be influenced by considerations of personal friendship or interests, but vote for those he regarded the best men for the place. No man who had been placed in nomination should feel hurt if he was voted against.

The vote by ballot was proceeded with, Capt. Warren and John Dawson acting as tellers

The following is the committee chosen: J. N. Simpson C. C. Slaughter, D. K. Elkin, A. M. Britton, W. R. Bowling A. Forsythe, J. G. Witherspoon, G. T. Reynolds, M. Harrold, J. C. Loving, J. W. Wilson, J. F. Evans.

THE CONVENTION.

Closing Day of a Harmonious Session.

All the Old Officers Re-elected—Cane Presentation.

Dallas Unanimously Chosen as the Next Place of Meeting.

THIRD DAY.

The convention was called to order at 10:30 o'clock, President Carter in the chair.

Col. C. C. Slaughter presented a petition signed by thirty members, asking a reconsideration of article 12 of the new constitution and moved a reconsideration of the same.

Considerable discussion arose before the resolution to reconsider was put to a vote. Carried: ayes 45, against 25. [Laughter.]

Moved and seconded that initiation fee be charged from $25 to $10.

The following new members were admitted: John Millrop, J. H. Stephens, B. Gatewood, J. T. Liggon, John B. Lee, I. F. Evans, J. W. Look, J. W. Corn.

Adjourned until 2 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The association was called to order at 2:30 by President Carter.

Application for membership was the first business, and the applications of H. M. Taylor of Palo Pinto county was considered and passed upon favorably.

Applications from J. D. Reed, F. C. Peary, A. H. Palmer, J. B. Young, George Peary, J. H. Davis, D. H. Phillips, D. B. Gardner, Charles Cannon, A. P. Moore, W. G. Veal were also considered and the applicants declared elected.

On motion of I. Cloud the secretary was requested to read the list of names and the amount of cattle registered by each member.

Capt. A. M. Britton said the members did not give in their names for the purpose of advertising the amount of cattle they had on hand.

Col. C. C. Slaughter moved to amend by appointing a committee to examine the lists and ascertain if they are correct.

Mr. Addington said he could see no reason why the lists should not be read. He wanted every man to give a correct return of his cattle if he had to be sworn.

MIRZAN'S STORY.

Imprisoned in New York for a Murder Committed in Egypt.

(New York Sun.)

Armed with a mandate bearing President Arthur's signature two United States marshals yesterday bearded the man-of-war Nipsic which arrived from Turkey on Thursday, and took in custody a patriarchal-looking man, with bronzed features, whose name is Stephen P. Mirzan, and who was brought here to serve a life sentence in the Albany penitentiary for a murder committed four years ago in Egypt. Mirzan, who is 55 years old, says he was born in Turkey and became an importer in Boston at the age of 22. He returned to America from 1865 to 1868, took out citizenship papers in interim, and returned to Alexandria in 1874. There he established himself as a money-broker, and published a financial paper in French, advocating the financial policy of Egypt during the panic of 1878. For this service he received a government pension for several years, and when it was withdrawn prepared, at the request of secretary of state, Hamilton Fish, a statement of the Egyptian finances, which created a sensation, and was published in the London Economist and the leading continental financial journals.

In 1887 the khedive agreed to pay him a pension out of his own private funds to become the agent of the government to negotiate for the reduction of the interest on the Egyptian bonds held by England. These negotiations were successfully carried on, and the khedive continued to pay his pension until 1879, when it was withdrawn because of Mirzan's refusal to accede to the request of Nubar Pasha and another high official to defend the government's financial policy again in his paper. He appealed to the khedive for protection and redress, and was referred to one Dahan, who promised to pay him $1,000 in liquidation of all his claims against the government. A long time passed, and Mirzan, meeting Dahan in the streets of Alexandria on July 17, 1879, appealed to him for the money, as he was poor. Dahan repulsed him coldly, and finally struck him in the face. A hot quarrel followed and Mirzan shot Dahan, inflicting a mortal wound. Mirzan delivered himself up, and, after speculations eleven months in prison, was tried before the Tribunal Niroiyeh, composed tincture of nux vomica, two to four drops, twice a day. Purging if not excessive should not be violently checked, but if the animal is losing strength rapidly therefrom, give tincture of opium, from ten to twenty drops every four hours until checked. Pulmonary complications, are best relieved by flannel bandages dipped in hot water and applied to the chest, care being taken not to let the animal take cold, after they are removed.

Muriate of Ammonia, and powdered cinchona bark, each, five grains twice a day.

Chlorate of Potash in the animal's drinking water.

If the animal does not rest well at night, give it ten to twenty grains of chloral-hydrate, dissolved in water. Intestinal complications are best treated with soothing remedies. Give a close of oil, and after it has operated, give oil of turpentine, three to six drops, tincture of nux vomica three times a day. If the bowels are loose, give tannic acid or alum, ten to twelve grains, every two or three hours until loose stools cease. Give tincture of potassium three to six grains three times a day; ergot, dose two to six grains three times a day; iodide of iron two to six grains, three drops, tincture of nux vomica three times a day in water; tartar emetic in water; tartar emetic, applied to a counter-irritant, applied to the loins, will in many cases give relief.

Sheep men, are your four-legged herders, and they will do you more service than many of your two-legged ones. Truly yours,

F. J. SMITH, D. V. M.

COLONEL HARRY GILMORE.

Death of a Dashing Confederate Cavalry Officer—Some of His Wonderful Exploits.

Baltimore, March 4.—Colonel Harry Gilmore, the dashing confederate cavoath from within, a pistol-bullet went whistling past my head, and I ran for death and life. I did not stop till I found myself in Broad street.

In the next days papers I saw the account of the capture of a burglar by one policeman, who had watched two burglars from the corner and saw one enter the house and the other leap up the wall like a cat, grab at a disappearing leg, and yell "Police!" and run.

The one that was caught, got seven years penal servitude, and "The police are searching willingly, though as yet unsuccessfully, for the other, who, it appears, is a desperate character." They never caught him.

TEXARKANA.

The Sheriff Who Killed Young Johnson Gives Bond.

Special to the Gazette.

Texarkana, March 8.—C. E. Dixon, who killed A. S. Johnson yesterday in the presence of the open court, at Miller county, Arkansas courthouse, gave bail for $5,000 and was released this evening. His friends express the firmest hopes of his acquittal, and with the exception of the gambling classes, with whom Johnson was very popular, the public is of the same impression. Judge Mitchell, who was present at the time of the tragedy, instructed the grand jury and district attorney to make a thorough investigation of the whole affair, and Mr. Dixon has expressed his anxiousness that the case be tried as early as possible. The sheriff's office will be in the hands of Mr. Bramble until the vindication of the law, and the present term of court will continue its labors.

TRAIN ROBBERS.

Daring Attempt to Rob the Passengers on the Little Rock & Fort Smith Road.

Little Rock, March 8.—At 8:30 last night the east-bound passenger train on the Little Rock & Fort Smith railroad was boarded by four men two miles west of Mulberry Station, Crawford county, 140 miles from Little Rock. They ordered the passengers to throw up their hands and be-thing that grows. They prefer, however, a pasture in which the grass is short, and they graze as close to the ground as they can conveniently go. The most favorite pasturage with them is white clover, and they thrive on it without feeding from the barn, provided it is plentiful. Strange to say, although this grass is one of the hardiest we have, but few farmers make a speciality of growing it. What little there is of it on most farms, is the voluntary growth of overlooked seeds, for it is never given a fair opportunity to make a suitable growth for general purposes. Sheep and white clover should be found together, as the red clover, while excellent feed for cattle, is not what the sheep prefers. White clover is far superior to the red in common pasturers for all animals, and when once it becomes firmly intrenched, furnishes an unlimited amount of herbage for an indefinite time. It will grow on soils that will not produce red clover at all, and it is neither affected by heat, cold, wet or dryness, to any considerable extent. It is not suitable for hay, being too short in growth, but it is early in springing up, and furnishes
