BILLIARDS

Alfred De Oro retained his title as world pocket billiard champion by defeating James Maturio of Denver.

 Brooklyn took the third and deciding game of the series from New York in the National Three Cushion Billiard league, played in Brooklyn.
 Charles Otis of Pittsburgh defeated Frank Jones of Philadelphia in a National Three-Cushion Billiard league match at Philadelphia, 50 to 41.
 Ora C. Morningstar of Pittsburgh, world's champion at 18-1 balk line billiards, retained his title by defeating George Sutton of Chicago, 500 to 478.
 Kansas City again defeated Pittsburgh in the National Billiard league tournament, when Johnny Moore of Kansas City defeated Charles McCourt of Pittsburgh, 50 to 37.
 In a game up-hill battle with George Stagg, for the supremacy in their 2-25-point match at 18-2 balk line billiards last night Koji Yamada, Japanese cueist, won the final block, 720 to 400, but lost the match, 2,000 to 1,920.

FOOTBALL

Three Brazilians are on the Cornell University association football team of the Eastern Intercollegiate league.
 Football coaches could learn a lot about interference by studying the methods of some baseball club owners.
 Andy Smith is back flatfooted at Dr. Carl Williams, stating that his idea did not prevail at Penn until late in the season when the team found itself and licked Michigan and Cornell.
 It must be a source of grief at West Point that no punishment is to be meted out to the 400 middies who violated the commandant's orders and bet on the annual army game.
 Five Cogdells will fight for place on Auburn eleven next fall. Two are younger brothers of the famous Auburn All-Southerner of 1909-10-11, and the other three are first cousins. Not one of the family weigh under 190.
 On New Year's day Alonso Stagg, professor of physical culture at Ohio State, was a Yale athlete of note in years long gone and made Walter Camp's All-American of 1889.
 Bill Roper, some time Missouri coach and more recently head mogul at Princeton, believes that despite the success of the 1912 code that the attack should be strengthened still more, the inside kick restored, and the forward pass unrestricted except that it be made from behind the line of scrimmage.
 Vanderbilt will not go east next year, having turned down an offer from Yale and having announced that no effort will be made to secure a game with Harvard. The commodore intend to devote their attention to southern games, incidentally making a return trip to play Virginia at Charlottesville.

BASEBALL

George Davis, the sometime short stop of the Sox, will be found coaching the Amherst nine next spring.
 Hub Northern of the Dodgers, has been traded to Toronto for Benny Myers, catcher.
 Fred Clarke has agreed to the proposal of a series of exhibition games in Hot Springs next spring between the Pirates and the Red Sox.
 Harry Davis will probably be found next season as manager of Reading in the Tri-State, a club of which Connie Mack is a big stockholder.
 Ivy Wingo, the Cardinals' catcher, who will do most of the backstopping next season, is the most promising receiver in the National league.
 The New York Yankees will play all of their home games on the Polo grounds, as the work on the new site of the Highlanders' park has not yet begun.
 Connie Mack has made six separate efforts to sign Robert McGraw Jr. (no relation to John "Muggsy" who is a pitcher and at least eighty years old.

MEN AND MARRIAGE

Some Reasons Why Women Remain Unwed.

English Writer Says Dread of Expenses of Household is One Cause—Thinks All Girls Should Learn Trade.

On the whole, women wish to marry, and if they don't it is because the men don't ask them. Men are afraid of the expenses of a household, and you cannot wonder at it when you consider what even a small, well-maintained middle-class family, with a wife, three children, and three servants. The man of that family is supporting eight people, not to speak of the gardener and the dog. But even if we taxed bachelors into matrimony, some women would still die unwed, since more women than men reach maturity. So the American preacher with the German name (and his like) should know better than to fear at the innocent victim of human ignorance. When science can determine sex, many more men will be born than women, and then there will be no "old maids" except from choice.

The people I want to build a gallows for are the fathers who know they can leave their girls as money and yet do not have them trained to earn a living. If they happen to marry, well and good; but if they fail, they recruit the ranks of the income-poor, starve, pine and struggle, most helpless, most unhappy. In France the system of giving every girl a dowry and arranging a marriage for her reduces the number of poor spinsters, and is more humane and intelligent than our want of system. Yet I hope our boys and girls will continue to marry for love, and not by arrangement, and that it will become a matter of course to give a girl a trade in case she should need it either for part of her life or to the end. In England at present money does not play a paramount part in most matches, and that is wholly desirable and to be praised.

Both in France and in Germany girls suffer under mortifications from finding that they themselves count for less than the dowry, and that the marriage may be broken off if the financial negotiations go wrong. In England a girl without a penny who has a way with her will have twenty offers while her neighbor the heiress has none. I have heard of a girl with fifteen thousand a year who wished to marry, and never had a chance. She was not deformed, but she was shy and rather gauche. Rich men were not attracted, and the poor ones knew they were not the kind to hang their hats in a wife's hall. I am sorry for the girl, but I am glad that such a thing can happen in this country.—London Chronicle.

Remembered the Sound.
 A large German woman held up a long line of people at the money order window in a postoffice the other day, and all because her memory had failed. She wanted to send some money to her son, a sailor on a merchant steamer then in foreign waters, but when she presented the application at the window the clerk noticed that the address was lacking.
 "Well, where do you want to send it?" he asked. "We can't give you the money order unless you know the name of the place."
 "Yah, dot's de trouble," she replied. "I didn't bring his letter and I can't remember der name of der town, but it's some place out by China dot sounds like der noise a motor car makes."

The two clerks looked at each other.
 "What kind of a noise does a motor car make?" asked one.
 "Honk, honk," suggested the other.
 "Yah, dot's it," exclaimed the woman. "Honk, honk, dot's de place."
 "Fill it in Hong Kong," said the clerk, and she paid over the money with a sigh of relief.—Weekly Telegraph.

Emperor and Butcher.
 Among the pleasant stories told of the aged emperor of Austria is one that recalls a similar incident in the life of Henry IV of France. One day the Austrian emperor was entering a village on horseback. He was met by a butcher, who had gone out in the hope of catching a glimpse of "der gute Koenig." The emperor asked the way to the inn. He was told. Then asked the butcher, "Have you records by discoursing for thirteen and one-half hours without a break. Mark Twain relates hearing a speech of nearly as long duration. When living in Vienna he attended a sitting of the Reichsrath which lasted thirty-three hours of which twelve hours were occupied by a single speech. The opposition determined to obstruct, and the deputy's monologue was a contribution.

Long-Winded Speeches.
 One of the Slav members of the Reichsrath appears to have broken all records in the matter. "Quite recently," was the answer of Francis Joseph. "Are you sure; do you know him certainly?" asked the butcher. "Well, I ought to know him," said the monarch. "I have shaved him often enough." "Oh," said the butcher. "So you are the court barber," and much abashed in the presence of tonorial greatness he whipped off his cap and bowed himself to the side of the road.
