A delegation of prominent Prince Georges visited Leonardtown on Wednesday morning last.

Capt. and Mrs. Webster Foxwell, of Leonardtown, left on Tuesday last on an extended trip north.

Mr. Wm. A. Fenwick, of Leonardtown, spent a few days during the week with relatives in Washington.

In the death of Mr. Eugene Robinson, which occurred recently, his St. Mary's friends feel a keen loss.

Miss Mary Hill, the popular operator of the Mechanicsville Exchange is visiting relatives in Virginia.

On Tuesday last, quite a crowd gathered in Leonardtown for political post-mortems and future plans.

The Orphans' and Commissioners' Courts were in session on Tuesday last and transacted routine business.

Don't miss the bargains at the rummage sale going on Thursday afternoon on the lawn at St. Aloysius Rectory.

Mrs. Horace H. Bowling, of Mechanicsville, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Joy, Leonardtown.

Mr. and Mrs. Giles Dyer, of Washington, spent the week end with the family of Mr. Wm. Meverel Loker, Leonardtown.

There will be services and administration of the Holy Communion at St. Peter's Chapel on Sunday, the 14th inst., at 10:30 o'clock a. m.

Don't forget the oyster supper and social evening at the Hotel Lawrence on Wednesday, Nov. 17, for the benefit of St. Paul's M. E. Church.

The Nemmes Motor Line is to be complemented upon the luxury and attractiveness of their new bus. The traveling public will welcome the improvement.

The Board of Election Supervisors met in their office on Thursday last and canvassed the returns of Tuesday's election. The official canvass appears elsewhere in this issue.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Frank Bailey and sons, Messrs. James and T. Carey Bailey, of Baltimore, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. S. Briscoe, of St. Cathbert's.

All Annual Thanksgiving Supper, of the Saints' Parish, will be held at All Saints' Hall, Oakley on Wednesday, Nov. 25th. A dance will follow the supper. Particulars later.

Miss Estelle Abell, of Leonardtown, who has been visiting relatives in Washington, has returned to her home. She was accompanied by her cousin, Miss Lelia Stephenson, of Washington.

Father Gasson, S. J., is expected to take the place of the pastor, Father Gorman, who is on retreat. No services at St. Mary's Chapel, California, Sunday or Monday.

The basket ball enthusiast will be afforded an opportunity of witnessing a fine game on Saturday next. The Leonard Hall team will meet the La Plata five in the local gym, a good entertainment is assured.

On Wednesday (to-day) the hunting season begins. Game is said to be plentiful and good sport is predicted. It may not be amiss to call the attention of hunters to a few of the more important "don'ts", published elsewhere in this issue.

Died, on the 2nd of November, after a lingering illness, at his home in Dallas, Texas, William Coud Combs, late of this county. Mr. Combs leaves surviving his wife, three brothers and three sisters. May he rest in peace!

Because of the prevalence of contagious diseases in the Ridge Section, the Pines' School was closed on Friday last and will not be reopened until Monday next. Misses Joy and Herbert, who teach there, are at their respective homes.

On Sunday last while hunting near his home, Gerald Higgs, of Helen, was instantly killed by the accidental discharge of his shot gun. It seems that when running across the field he tripped and in falling the gun was discharged. The load took effect in the throat and death was instantaneous.

It has been announced that the Biograph Co., of Baltimore, will produce their moving pictures in the Town Hall, Leonardtown, on Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 16 and 17, bringing some very interesting pictures, including "Charlie" Chaplin, the world's noted comedian in one of his masterpiece. The pictures will also be taken to Charlotte Hall on the 18th for the benefit of All Faiths' Episcopal Church.

At a meeting of the Town Fathers the bids for the proposed improvements of the streets of Leonardtown were opened and the contract awarded to Austin and Ireland, a Baltimore firm. We are credibly informed that work will be begun in the near future and the contract completed before Christmas.

Miss Mary Juliette Miles, daughter of the late Dr. James Miles, of this county, and Dr. John R. Perkins, of Virginia, were married in Baltimore on Wednesday last by the Rev. Wm. Page Dame. After an extended wedding trip the young couple will reside in Winston Salem, N. C. Our good wishes attend on them.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the county Arms House, near Leonardtown, on Wednesday morning. All the furniture and personal effects of Mr. Ford, together with a sum of money he had just drawn, were burned. Fortunately the inmates escaped without injury, but all their clothing was lost. Mr. Hilton, president of the Board of County Commissioners, and Mr. Gough, clerk, made arrangements for taking care of the inmates this (Wednesday) morning.

The building was insured in the Fireman's Insurance Co., and we are informed by their representative, Mr. J. C. Howard, that the company is ready to settle with the county immediately.

News from the Seventh. Miss Kate Hodges, of Barton Hall, is visiting Miss Gaynell Wible, of Capitol Hill.

Adelaide Hamilton and Palmer, of Charlotte Hall, spent the week-end with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. F. Palmer, of Cherry Grove.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 12. Mrs. Jaeger has charge of the program committee, but we regret the program is not ready for print.

How to Prevent Croup. It may be a surprise to you to learn that in many cases croup can be prevented. Mrs. H. M. Jones, Elida, O., relates her experience as follows: "My little boy is subject to croup. During the past winter I kept a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and when he began having that croupy cough I would give him one or two doses of it and it would break the attack. I like it better for children than any other medicine because it is safe and reliable." Obtainable everywhere.—adv.

Happenings of St. Mary's Academy. The happenings of St. Mary's Academy since the beginning of the scholastic year have not been very nor far between: quite a number of events, both social and literary, have followed each other in rapid succession.

On September 24 the fragrance of flowers, odor of incense and hymns of praise ushered in the formal opening of the Academy. A solemn high Mass in honor of the Holy Ghost was celebrated on that day to ask God's blessing on the work of the coming year.

Rev. Father Casey, S. J., of Chaptico, was the celebrant, assisted by Rev. Father Debold, S. J., as deacon, Rev. Father Cunningham, S. J., as sub-deacon, and Rev. Father Kelly, S. J., Manager of Communion. As the conclusion of the Mass, Rev. Father B. Matthews, S. J., of St. Inigo, gave an eloquent address, impressing upon the students the necessity of faithful, earnest, conscientious work during the year which they had dedicated to God, to Knowledge and to their Alma Mater.

Columbus Day was duly celebrated by a holiday being granted the students. The boarders spent the afternoon on the shores of Breton Bay.

On October 19, in response to an invitation from the faculty of St. Mary's Academy, Mr. C. E. W. Griffith, a world-renowned Shakespearean reader, honored the institution with his presence.

He delivered two lectures, one at 4 p. m., on the history of the Principal Dramas of the immortal bard. At its conclusion he impersonated the amusing comedy, The Taming of the Shrew.

Later, at 7:30 p. m., he gave selections from Dante's Divina Comedia and an impersonation of King Lear. In this role Mr. Griffith was no superior. He truly gave a brilliant opening for the course of lectures to be delivered at the Academy during the coming year.

On October 21, Rt. Rev. Bishop Corrigan, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore, accompanied by Rev. Father Francis, C. P., visited the school. In honor of the reverend visitors, a holiday was granted the students.

An illustrated lecture on the Passion Play of Oberammergau was delivered on October 31, by Rev. Father Gasson, S. J., of Georgetown University. This was particularly interesting, as the reverend lecturer had witnessed the Play at Oberammergau and had lived among the people of those regions.

Class Day Exercises were held on Wednesday, Nov. 3. This consisted of a music and literary programme and the reading of Notes. The music and elocution were a worthy demonstration of the abilities of the students.

At its conclusion, Rev. Father Gorman, S. J., who presided over the exercises, complimented the pupils upon the clear distinct enunciation and upon the modesty of their deportment; he urged them to evince till the close of the year the same enthusiasm that had manifested at its opening.

According to a time-honored custom, the student's reports here read aloud. These bore testimony to the diligence, ability and application worthy of the high standard of St. Mary's Academy. Following was the programme of the Sweet Summer's Game Away...Chorus Juniors.

Bernardo del Carpio...Recitation Sally Greenwell. Sextette from "Lucia di Lammermoor" (The Legend Alone) Adria Camilleri.

The Curse of Regulus...Reading Elizabeth Dorsey. Little Caprice...Piano Sallie Greenwell.

THE CLASS OF 1916. Chamberlain's Tablets. This is a medicine intended especially for stomachic ailments, biliousness and constipation. It is meeting with much success and rapidly gaining in favor and popularity. Obtainable everywhere.—adv.

St. Mary's Seminary Bulletin. NOVEMBER 6, 1915. "Work hard! Play hard!" seems to be the motto of S. M. S. this session, judging from the judicious blend of study and pleasure, which makes each week fleet-footed than the last.

There was unusual merriment in Room 5, on Tuesday night, when a surprise party gathered to celebrate Miss Gladys Mitchell upon her sixteenth birthday. The cake was ready in all the cheerful glow of twinkling lights, with delicious cocoa steaming fragrantly.

The stage, in the attractive reproduction of a drawing room: gave an artistic keynote to the opera in the drawing of a beautiful white swan placed attractively on a pond, the work of Rev. Mr. Minnick.

While due praise should be given to all taking part in the entertainment, special merit should be bestowed upon Miss Frances Hopkins, who has contributed so largely to the success of "Evenings with Grand Opera," by her sympathetic interpretation of the author's mood. The following is the program:

I—"Bridal Chorus" and "Swan Song", from Lohengrin—Frances Hopkins. II—"The Story of Lohengrin"—Ruth Burroughs.

III—"The Argument of the Opera"—Lydia Mortimer. IV—"Love Song from Lohengrin"—Lillian Meredith.

PERSONALS. On Sunday the following motoring parties were guests of Mrs. Maddox: Dr. and Mrs. A. Hodgdon, of St. Mary's; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Dent, Mr. Jack Dent, Messrs. Elizabeth and Mary Turner Dent, of Oakley; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Blakistone, Miss Jane Blakistone, Mr. Miffin Blakistone and Miss Smith, of River Springs.

On Tuesday Mr. Dana Hodgdon dined with Mrs. Maddox, later leaving by boat for Baltimore.

Miss Janet Brome attended the marriage of her cousin, Miss Miles, of Baltimore, to Dr. Perkins, of Stuart, Va., early this week.

Several of our social leaders are in Baltimore attending the 11th session of the D. A. R. of Maryland at the Belvedere.

Hen in Much Trouble. A New Jersey hen, spring a barrel of fine, soft tar, alighted thereon and laid an egg. There resulted a firmly bound sandwich tar, egg and chicken in the order named. A woman and a man who went to the rescue were also held fast by the hands until police were called and effected a rescue.

Always That Possibility. "Why do you beg, my good man?" "Can't get no work to suit me." "Is that possible? But why beg? Surely you can get yourself on an investigating committee, or a valuation board, or an advisory commission of some sort."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Isben's Poor Pathology. The Isben's are a fall out of Isben in seriously questioning the truth of the theme of his "Ghosts." It doubts very much whether such cases as that of Oswald, in which the awful disease is inherited, are anything but terrific exceptions instead of being typical, as Isben would have us suppose.

VIII—"Sciences and Discoveries"—Edith Marriot, Myrtle Welch. IX—"Literature and Art"—Mary Hines, Katherine Cator.

The first five committees will report weekly; the remaining four will appear bi-weekly upon the program. This class yields to none in the excellent work being done, and in the general results throughout the school.

"The Outlook" and "The Literary Digest" form the basis of the reports, with clippings from our best Baltimore dailies and the New York Sun.

Miss Ruth Walsh made 100 per cent in the last Arithmetic test, Miss Rachel Dubois scoring the same high grade in Freshman Grammar.

Olive Dent's name appears in the honor list of all her teachers, with Emma Wiley's as a close second. Friday night the S. M. S. Dramatic Club was organized with the following officers: Julia Plummer, president; Ruth Burroughs, vice-president; Lydia Mortimer, secretary, and Mattie Murphy, treasurer. Lorena Croft was elected to serve as prompter and stage manager.

It goes without saying that the girls have their eyes on a wonderful play which they will produce about Thanksgiving. Miss Plummer, in arranging for the first meeting of the club, appointed the following committee on refreshments: Misses Bessie Dent, Emma Phipps, Gladys Mitchell and Myrtle Welch. These with the officers and the following young ladies compose the membership. Misses Hazel Bailey, Julia Dent, Rachel Dubois and Dorothy Kernan.

Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock Miss Moore and her special friends entertained in honor of Miss Ruth Parran's birthday.

The fortunate young lady was given a dainty Japanese stenciled dresser scarf besides other useful gifts. Amongst other games played was the following: Each girl was given a stick of chewing gum to chew until a whistle blew; then, with a tooth pick, animals of all kinds were modelled. The prize was won by Miss Katherine Farran, in a life-like reproduction of "Boo", our good old watch dog.

The guests were the following: Misses Moore, Ruth Parran, Katherine Parran, Ruth Burroughs, Katherine Cator, Myrtle Welch, Mattie Murphy and Olive Dent. Refreshments consisted of the cake, which custom cannot stale, with its merry little lights, stuffed fish and tea.

In the fashion of beneficent fairies, the best was reserved to the last, when "Lohengrin" was presented in recital Saturday night.

INSECTS HARM APPLES

Many Orchardists Who Fail to Guard Against Pests.

In Many Cases There is No Excuse for Inferior Fruit Except Neglect of Persons to Carry Out Plans of Spraying.

(By E. F. TAYLOR.) There are comparatively few orchardists at the present time who doubt the value of spraying apples for the curculio and the codling moth. On the other hand, there are many who are, in reality, not protecting their orchards from these two cardinal apple pests as much as is possible or, indeed, practicable.

It is unnecessary to go into detail in explaining all the reasons why fruit, stung from the codling moth or stung and deformed by the curculio, is permitted. Suffice to say that in many cases there is no reasonable excuse, except the failure of persons to carry out plans of spraying which are already well known to be effective.

There is a strong tendency, however, noted recently among many fruit growers to do more careful and intelligent spraying so that a higher percentage of first-class apples may be produced. A few years of partial fruit failures from adverse and uncontrollable weather conditions makes it even more necessary that in the other years we save our crops.

From destruction by insects—an accomplishment quite within our power. Among many insects damaging the apple crop there are two which stand out pre-eminently as the most destructive. These are the curculio, the old offender commonly known as the plum curculio, and the well-known codling moth. The damage done to apples alone by the curculio in a year when an average crop is borne runs into millions of dollars.

In controlling these and other insects, apple growers should apply their arsenical sprays at times when they will be of the greatest possible service. There is a limit to the number of sprays which can be profitably applied, especially since in many cases it is also necessary to give separate spraying fungicides at times when an insecticide is required, or vice versa.

Spraying is the chief method of control of curculio and codling moth in apple orchards, but there are a number of other natural or artificial checks against both insects which deserve mention.

Banding of the trees to capture the descending worms of codling moths as they search for a place for pupation, was a practice even before spraying for codling moth was begun. It has been shown that they will sometimes capture as high as 40 per cent of the worms upon the tree, but it cannot be considered a practical operation when such far better results can be accomplished by spraying. When bands are used they must be looked after every ten days and the worms destroyed, to prevent the moth from maturing and making its escape. If this is not done they will only offer safer hiding places and do more harm than good. They are sometimes useful in trapping the first emerging worms in the summer in order to forecast the date of appearance of second generation worms.

Cultivation of orchards is one of the best of procedures for curculio destruction. It keeps the orchard free from many of the desirable hibernation places for the adult, and it unquestionably destroys a high per cent of the insects in the ground.

There are many useful natural insect parasites and other enemies of both curculio and codling moth which attack them in practically all their stages and assist very materially in preventing the damage from them being far greater than it is.

Hen in Much Trouble. A New Jersey hen, spring a barrel of fine, soft tar, alighted thereon and laid an egg. There resulted a firmly bound sandwich tar, egg and chicken in the order named. A woman and a man who went to the rescue were also held fast by the hands until police were called and effected a rescue.
