

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

FOR PRESIDENT OF THE U. S. WOODROW WILSON

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE U. S. THOMAS R. MARSHALL

FOR UNITED STATES SENATE: DAVID J. LEWIS

FOR MEMBER OF THE 65th CONGRESS OF THE U. S. JACKSON H. RALSTON

The Democratic Convention at St. Louis has framed for the consideration of the voters of America one of the strongest platforms that it was ever the proud boast of any party to set forth as a solution of the grave questions that confront the world at this time.

At this time the United States is looked to by the people of the earth as the exemplar of the nations, and the responsibility placed upon her is grave indeed. Every phase of the important questions of the day are clearly set forth and the party is solemnly pledged to speedily enact the necessary legislation to remedy them.

The Mexican situation has reached so critical a stage that it has seemed advisable to the Government to call out the National Guardsmen and prepare them for any eventuality, and they will be ready should the break finally come.

Maryland, in anticipation of the part she will be called upon to play, is making ready and within an inconceivably short time will have a remarkably high place in the estimation of the War Department.

It should most certainly seem clear to the world that this war is not of our seeking, but has been forced upon us in a manner that no self-respecting sovereignty could with honor avoid.

Our toleration of the many indignities perpetrated against us by the citizens of Mexico has caused us to receive severe criticism, not only at home but also abroad, and now that we have been grossly insulted by those in charge of that unfortunate country's affairs, no good can be accomplished by delaying the inevitable.

It is devoutly to be hoped that the war will be of brief duration and that victory will crown the arms of the United States with but a small cost in the lives of our sailors and soldiers who will be engaged in the fighting.
