The dance held by the Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Mary's Hospital on Monday evening was enjoyed by a good crowd, many of whom came from distant parts of the county. While the storm early in the evening prevented many from attending the affair was a decided success and a pleasant evening was spent by all who braved the inclement weather. This was the first of a series of dances that will be given for the benefit of the Hospital.

Pikeleton, of Mechanicsville, this county, the first St. Mary's countant to make the supreme sacrifice "somewhere in France, on account of wounds received in the line of duty." Mrs. Genevieve Hilton. Died at her home near Great Mills, Sunday night, Aug. 26th, Mrs. Genevieve Hilton, aged about 70 years, wife of John L. Hilton, and one of the county's most lovable characters. Letters From Overseas. The following is a letter from Lieut. Albert S. Burch, who is in France with the 32nd Infantry, to Miss Whittle Burch, of Oakley: FRANCE, JULY 20, 1918. My dear Whittle: Your letter dated June 24th came in a few days ago, and I think I got one from Aunt May about a week ago, but don't remember the date. Have moved since I wrote last and my belongings are scattered. Am at present slightly in the rear of our lines, and although I have been feeling bad recently, due to some kind of poison, which some of our officers contracted, I am feeling better this afternoon and will be none the worse in a few days. You will be glad to know that I have had the honor of being selected with my men to form part of a small band to be sent on an important mission into the heart of the enemy's lines. It is even more than a divisional affair, for we have been informed that it is really staged by the Army Corps, and all of us are elated. We are now staying at a fair in the rear, and within a week mean to storm the German line. It, of course, is a dangerous mission, but war is a dangerous game. Many of us will not come back, but the Germans in our path will long remember us and how we poured over the top at day break. Every man has been fitted out like a little arsenal— Colt automatics, rifle and bayonets and three-cornered daggers with steel knuckles combined. You may read a little of it before you receive this— and of the "9000" of this division. July 23, 1918. Will continue the letter I started a days ago. Am feeling fine now and am working hard in order that our plan may be a success. Before many days we will pull off our raid and then we will be able to rest a while. The Americans here are all getting in the line now. I hope you have sent my watch and that I will get it soon, for all of us carry two at all times now, for a minute may mean life or death to us and our men. It's awful hot here in the mountains during the day but cool at night. We march to the front line. Our men are very enthusiastic. A day or so ago the Colonel asked for volunteers from two battalions (about 2,000 men all told) to return to America. Not a man would go—and this from our regular army! They fight better than our army! Some of my men almost cried when I did not select them to go on this party with me. You see it's a picked lot. I must close now and let this go. Will write after our attack is made on the Gothic line. Heard had any news from Colin or Elliott. Heard from Ethel and others but cannot find any time to answer letters. Can't even remember whether I do answer letters or not. Best love to you all. ALBERT.

The mail arrived yesterday, and I have been putting all the afternoon in reading. I got 10 letters, that was some mail to get at one time, but it was welcomed. I am anxious to get mail. I received your letters and sister's. Papa, I have heard some good news, but I do not know for certain. A fine young man was Archie, a lover of home life, but willing to respect the call of his country and the old flag. W. J. FRANKS, Chief Tobacco Inspector, Baltimore, Md., Aug. 21, 1918.

THE AMERICAN EAGLE. The American eagle, our noble bird of prey. Flew across the ocean with his feathers all array. He lit upon the shores of France, he heard an awful wailing cry. Found Kaiser Bill camping upon the Frenchman's trail. He scratched his head and thought awhile; 'twas 1776 My foot is back on America was in the self-same fix: So he buckled on his fighting togs, called for his men and boots: I'm going to help Lafayette, boys, to reach the sea! Very little They have tramped over Belgium, devastated Northern France, and they will do the same to America, if they ever get a chance. The Kaiser started with the thought that in Paris he would dine, The French goose he would seize and the plucking would be fine. But John Bull was no danger, and the British Lion roared, The American Eagle circled down, pounced on the German hoard, France, England and America, fighting side by side. He knocked the breath out of the Hun and stemmed the German tide: They've got the Kaiser on the run, with his face to the Berlin. And we hope before it's over they will tan his ugly skin. And here's to the American Eagle, our noble bird of prey, When the Kaiser marches out to Berlin they will surely lead the way: Our army will be the first to put the Hun right through the mill, When our boys start out for Berlin—Good bye, Kaiser Bill! GABRIEL.

rendering it for me to fall without seeing some member of our family. I felt each one stood ready to make the trip to see me off, but it was simply impossible to see them all. I had directions to say to you, although for a whole day I was in D. C., even then could not let Tudy know. So you see old America had to rapidly drop asleep and fade from view, while I nursed an aching heart. Well, we were at sea twelve days. I can scarcely believe it was the big ocean—such ideal weather—sometimes mountain waves, which we stood so well. We docked in a French port O. K., and went direct to—, somewhere "over here." The strict military censorship presents my sailing there, but if you know my exact location, considering the short time we have been here, you surely would be surprised. You can draw your own conclusions. I think we are going to have a big time over here and things will soon be getting hot. We are going gunning pretty soon, and for big game. We have the pick and the corker shot; all we want is the order. So do not be surprised if we soon come back with a big bag of game. Tell the girls and my friends that I am the real moment of the "mail from home." The excitement and joyous interest is something you can little imagine, so ask them to help and keep from drawing a blank in the lips-up. Whilst I say that the country is beautiful, there is lots and lots of interest. Don't forget that as soon as the big show is over I will come home as fast as any moving thing can bring me. Now, listen mother, please don't worry, as I am real well and in no immediate danger. I wrote to Emma and Laurie a few days ago, and several letters to you whilst aboard the ship. Well, I must close. Remember me to everyone. With lots of love. WILL.

To Liberty Loan Bond Holders. Holders of the 4 per cent bonds of the First Liberty Loan, converted, and of the Second Liberty Loan, may avail themselves of the privilege of converting into 4 1/4 per cent bonds by presenting their bonds which handled the original subscription. These bonds are not convertible after November 9, 1918, even if subsequent series of bonds should be offered at a higher rate. Therefore, the conversion privilege must be exercised, if at all, on or before November 9, 1918. The Bonds to be converted upon this conversion will bear interest at the rate of 4 1/4 per annum from the last interest date (May 15, 1918, or June 15, 1918). No payment of accrued interest is required.

To Farmers and Tobacco Packers of Maryland. It is with regret that I have to request that you abstain from the use of tobacco until further notice. The State Warehouse has filled to the doors and can hold no more; this is brought about by conditions over which I have no control. Very little tobacco is being shipped out, while it has been arriving in unprecedented quantities. I feel sure if the farmers will have patience and hold their tobacco until November 9, 1918, even if some matter can be adjusted to the satisfaction of all and I think to the profit of those owning tobacco. In conclusion, I will add that it is imperative to secure spirits, liquors, wine, ale or beer, or shall at any such time and place drink or partake of such liquors, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined not less than $100 and not more than one hundred ($100) dollars. W. J. FRANKS, Chief Tobacco Inspector, Baltimore, Md., Aug. 21, 1918.

M. each day. APPLICATIONS FOR SCHOLARSHIPS IN THE DEPARTMENT OF ENGINEERING, established under the provisions of the Laws of Maryland Chapter 98, 1912, will now be received. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, a competitive examination must be taken Friday, September 20, 1918, beginning at 9 A. M. Appointments will be made soon after. Each Legislative District of Baltimore City and each County of the State, with the exception of Howard and Worcester counties, will be entitled to one or more scholarships for the year 1918-1919, in addition to those which have already been assigned. In the two counties mentioned above, all the available scholarships have been awarded. The scholarships entitle the holder to free tuition, free use of text-books and exemption from all regular fees. One of the scholars in each county and each Legislative District of the city desires also the sum of $200. The expense of attendance for those who do not receive scholarships is not greater than at other Maryland institutions. Two scholarships will be awarded "At Large." Packers' Profits Are Regulated. The public should understand that the profits of the packers have been limited by the Food Administration since November 1, 1917. For this purpose, the business of Swift & Company is now divided into three classes: Class 1 includes such products as beef, pork, mutton, oleomargarine and others that are essentially animal products. Profits are limited to 9 per cent of the capital employed in these departments, (including surplus and borrowed money), or not to exceed two and a half cents on each dollar of sales. Class 2 includes the soap, glue, fertilizer, and other departments more or less associated with the meat business. Many of these departments are in competition with outside businesses whose profits are not limited. Profits in this class are restricted to 15 per cent of the capital employed. Class 3 includes outside investments, such as those in stock yards, and the operation of packing plants in foreign countries. Profits in this class are not limited.
