Novel Feature at Timonium Fair.

Maryland women, and particularly the wives of farmers, will be very much interested in the model kitchen and lighting proof—which is being erected at Timonium Fair and which not only will be used in the construction but which will contain every labor saving device for the home that is suitable for country homes. In addition there will be a model wash house, chicken house and garage.

The house, a one-story, four-room-and-a-half structure, is made almost entirely of steel. It is a fabricated house. Every part is pressed out at the factory and shipped ready to set up. It is said to be vermin proof. The chicken and wash houses are also vermin proof.

It will contain a combination kitchen and dining room, in which model meals will be prepared and served by the ladies of the Department of Domestic Science; two bed rooms, a living room and a bath. Electric and other appliances designed to save labor and add to the comfort and hours of the housewife will be installed in the house and in the wash house.

In the latter there will be a model laundry and dairy equipment. Much of the work will be done by machinery. Every appliance will be demonstrated by skilled demonstrators and its operation explained by them. All the buildings in this model home plant will be erected by August 15.

Summer Complaint in Children.

There is not anything like so many deaths from this disease now as before Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy came into such general use.

When this remedy is given with castor oil as directed and proper care taken as to diet, it is safe to say that fully ninety-nine out of every hundred cases recover. Mr. W. G. Campbell, of Butler, Tenn., says, "I have used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy for summer complaints in children. It is far ahead of anything I have ever used for this purpose."—adv.

Mares After Foaling Need Best of Care

Good care of the mare after foaling will always repay the farmer. Lack of care and attention when they are needed may often result in the loss of the mare or in a heavy expense. The mare should not be fed heavy grain or hay for the first 24 hours after parturition and the first feeding should consist of a bran mash with a little cooked flaxseed meal in it. A oatmeal soaked in warm water is also appropriate. If the mare is constipated give laxative feed. In 2 or 3 days, if doing well, she may be put back on dry feeds. In a week, if she is put back on dry feeds, she can have full feed. The mare may be put in harness and while on a heavy harness 2 or 3 days after foaling, but it is hard on the foal and may injure the mare's udder. It is best to turn the mare out and let her do her own work. She should be taken at first to see the foal is not chilled by staying out too long in cool, disagreeable weather or by lying on cold, damp ground. They should not be on grass if the mare has not been on grass before.

In a little over a week the mare may be safely put to work provided she previously had been worked. If the foal is left in the stall, the mare should be brought to the stable in the middle of the forenoon and afternoon in order that the foal may see his mother, but in no case should a foal molest a mare that is very warm, as digestive disorders are likely to follow. If possible, do not use the mare for purposes which will keep her away from the farm for a long time, as the foal will either go too long without nursing or else will be worn out by following the mare. When left at the stable the foal should be kept in a roomy, clean box stall in company with another case of about the same age if possible.

At about 2 months of age the foal will take dry feed, which should be supplied through the dam's grain box. This makes it necessary to furnish her with such feeds as ground oats, corn meal, bran, etc., about the time on a "creek" should be built in the stall or pasture, inside of which the foal can be supplied with grain without having to share it with its mother. A creep is simply a partition that will keep the mare out of the foal's manger, but which is far enough from the ground so that the foal can walk under it. A handful of ground oats should be given at first, and the quantity should be increased slowly as the foal grows. The maximum amount should be about 1 pound a day until weaning time.

The Lobster.

Unlike most other marine animals, the lobster does not truly migrate in its habits. It remains about the same ground, it is believed, from year to year, coming into shallower water in spring and returning to the less accessible depths in autumn.

Less of Appetite.

As a general rule there is nothing so common as the loss of appetite, and if you skip a meal or only eat two meals a day for a few days you will soon have a relish for your meals when meal time comes. Fear in mind that at least five hours should always elapse between meals so as to give the food ample time for its normal digestion. A period of rest before a second meal is taken. Then if you eat no more than you crave and take a reasonable amount of outdoor exercise every day, you will not need to worry about your appetite. When the loss of appetite is caused by constipation it often the case, that should be corrected at once. A dose of Chamberlain's Tablets will do it.—adv.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have running, sound or impaired hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflammation of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of catarrhal deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All druggists, 7c.
