The Voice of the Pack ger. He had a better way of knowing—a chill at the end of his whiskers. The little, breathless night sounds in the brush around him seemed to madden him. They made a song to him, a strange, wild melody that even such frontiersmen as Dan and Lennox could not experience. A thousand smells brushed down to him on the wind, more potent than any wine or lust. He began to tremble all over with rapture and excitement. But unlike Cranston's trembling, no wildness or fear was in it. He was aware of the leaves rustling beneath him. CONTINUED NEXT WEEK.

POULTRY BEST FOWLS FOR BACK YARD

American Breeds, Such as Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes and Orpingtons, Are Recommended. (Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Hens of the medium-sized breeds—Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and Orpingtons—are best suited to back-yard conditions. Large hens kept in close confinement are likely to get too fat to lay well. Small, nervous hens are apt to develop such vices as egg eating and feather eating. The bad tendencies mentioned do not prohibit the keeping of large and small breeds in small back yards, but make it necessary for the keeper to use extraordinary care to keep them in good condition and productive. White and light-colored varieties are not desirable for small back yards, because their plumage soils too easily. As a rule it is most satisfactory to buy hens of a local poultry keeper or dealer in live poultry. Desirable small flocks are frequently offered by people who are obliged by change of work or of residence to sell their poultry. Dealers in live poultry everywhere sort out from their general receipts the hens kept in close confinement and quality to sell to back-yard poultry keepers. When satisfactory stock cannot be obtained locally, the advertising columns of poultry papers, agricultural papers or newspapers that carry poultry advertising should be consulted, and the hens bought from the nearest breeder who can supply what is wanted at a reasonable price. For the back-yard flock kept to produce eggs only it is not necessary to have hens of extra good standard quality. What breeders of standard poultry call choice utility hens are as good as any for egg production and cost but little more than ordinary mongrels. Hens of this grade in the medium-sized breeds are usually a little under standard weights and have superficial faults—as unsoundness of color, or irregularity of markings, or of the shape of the comb—which in no way affect their laying capacity, but make them

Dual-Purpose Hens Are Best Suited for Back Yard Conditions. unfit for exhibition and undesirable for breeding purposes. When buying hens in person, particular attention should be given to general condition—whether the bird seems vigorous and lively—and to the appearance of the comb and condition of the feet. Healthy hens have bright red combs and bright eyes, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. A slight paleness of the comb is simply an indication that the hen is not laying at the time; but a bird whose comb has either a yellowish or a bluish cast should be rejected, for these are symptoms of internal disorders. The skin and scales of legs and toes should be smooth, and the soles of the feet soft and free from corns.

BETTER SIREs FOR BANTAMS Culpeper County (Virginia) Farmer Raises Purebreds From Chickens to Dairy Cattle. From bantam chickens to Holstein cattle is the range of live stock on the farm of Sam Sullivan & Sons, who recently enrolled in the "Better Sires—Better Stock" movement that is being directed by the United States Department of Agriculture. This farm, which is located in Culpeper county, Virginia, raises Holstein cattle, Duroc Jersey swine, Rhode Island White chickens, White Holland turkeys, white guinea fowls, Cochins bantams, and Muscovy ducks. Purebred horses also are kept on this farm, but no stallion is maintained. In accordance with the requirements of the better-sires movement, which is aimed to improve the average quality of farm live stock, all of the stock listed is bred to purebred sires.

Be-Hunting Profitable Business. In the swamps of Florida the hunting of "bee trees" is a profitable business. Record of wild honey deposits of more than 300 pounds in hollow trees has been noted. The trees are located by hunters who follow the flight of the bees. It requires keen eyesight and a compass. Crowding Father Time. It was an Irish member of parliament who, somewhat wearied with the long debate, said: "If you leave this question to us for three years we will settle it tomorrow morning." A Noble Language. Painting, or art generally, as such, with all its technicalities, difficulties, and particular ends, is nothing but a noble and expressive language, invaluable as the vehicle of thought, but by itself, nothing.—John Ruskin.

"ARMENIAN NATION LOOKS TO U. S. FOR SUCCOR FROM DEATH" Edwin M. Bulkley, Financier and Philanthropist, Defines Near East Relief Work.

New York.—"There is no spot on the globe today where there is more desperate and hopeless suffering than in Armenia," Edwin M. Bulkley, the well known New York banker, who has just been elected chairman of the board of trustees of Near East Relief, declared today. Mr. Bulkley succeeds the late Alexander J. Hemphill as head of the American relief work in Armenia, Turkey, Palestine, Syria, Mesopotamia and Persia. He has long been connected with the banking house of Spencer Trask & Co., and is thoroughly conversant with the Near Eastern situation. "Elsewhere," Mr. Bulkley continued, "where the famine that tears at our heart-strings and evokes our pity and our help. But in Armenia it is not starvation alone that the people face—but starvation coming after six years' destruction, wrought by a war that has never ended and that today is not even ended. It is starvation following pestilence, and stalking hand in hand with death from exposure, from violence or from disease. "In the mountains between Kara and Alexandropol there are 233,000 human beings without clothing, food or shelter in the bitter winter, who are wandering from place to place like people in a nightmare. Unless they are succored before the end of another month, they will all be dead. In southern Persia, the remnant of the ancient family of Chaldean Christians have been forced to renounce forever all hope of ever returning to the homeland where they have dwelt and flourished for 1,000 years, and to become pitiful fugitives, dependent upon the generosity of strangers for life itself. In Cilicia, 15,000 Armenian refugees have crowded into the coast regions seeking safety from the anarchy which reigns in the interior, in terror for their lives. They live from day to day on the food which is given them in the soup kitchens established by the Near East Relief. Scattered throughout the Near East, there are some 7,750,400 Armenians, the remainder of a nation of 1,000,000, who have neither government, country, homeland, shelter or hope of regeneration, save that which lies in the great heart of America. "It is a tragedy so stupendous that it is difficult for us to grasp its meaning. A whole nation, a living, Christian people, face to face with extermination today, unless we help. We shall see an entire nation disappear from the face of the earth before our eyes if we withhold our hand now, when the call comes to us to save by giving, or by inaction to condemn to death. Save the Children! "Perhaps we cannot save all the green people of this oldest Christian nation in the world. But at least we can save the little children who hold the future in their hands. They have wronged no one. They have harmed no one. And they have suffered through the precious years of childhood a calvary of agony and wretchedness. For three years the Near East Relief, an American organization, incorporated by Congress, has built up the nucleus of a new generation in the Near East, with the little children that it has taken in from the roadside and barren places, and nursed back to health, fed, clothed, housed and educated, in the name of the American people who have furnished the funds for this great work. "This has been our signal contribution to the world's future peace—that tens of thousands of these little ones shall all their lives look to us with gratitude and faith. It is a seed of world brotherhood that we have sown. Shall we let it die now? "The Near East Relief is appealing to the American people for the money to go on with this work—to keep these little ones alive and to save this martyred Christian people. Sixty dollars per year—$10 per month—feeds a child. We have taken this great responsibility upon us. A whole nation looks to us in faith and trust. "We cannot betray them now." Contributions may be sent to Cleveland H. Dodge, Treasurer, 1 Madison Avenue, New York City.

STRYCHNINE USEFUL TO DESTROY RABBITS Good Lively Machine Gun Is Harmless in Comparison. Record of 1,000 Animals to One Ounce of Poison Made in Gooding County, Idaho—Campaigns in Other Western States.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) A good lively machine gun is harmless when compared to strychnine—at least when it is used to exterminate rabbits. In Lincoln county, Idaho, the farmers, working in co-operation with the biological survey, United States Department of Agriculture, report that one ounce of the poison killed 400 rabbits. Farmers in Gooding county did even better with their poison and averaged 1,000 rabbits to the ounce. Blaine county, conducting a poison campaign under the direction of the bureau, killed 40,000 rabbits. These figures are illustrative of the work that has been done under government direction in exterminating rabbits in the western states, where they are so plentiful as to be extremely destructive to orchards and crops. Large-scale campaigns were organized in Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Utah and Arizona under the leadership of Department of Agriculture representative and along co-operative lines in which the state governments, the state extension service, and the land owners assumed a share of the responsibility. In addition to the poisoning methods, great rabbit drives were conducted, some of which resulted in the killing of as many as 10,000 rabbits. The representatives of the bureau of biological survey emphasize the fact that, in the West, the rabbit is a serious menace. Rabbits often devastate large fields of grain and destroy valuable orchards and vineyards. There are instances where orchards representing the work and savings of a lifetime, and which constitute the sole support of the owner, have been completely destroyed in a single night by jack rabbits.

SUPERIOR BRACE FOR FENCE Timbers Firmly Mortised In Afford Great Resistance to Heavy Strain of Wires.

The constant strain of a wire fence soon pulls the posts over. This is especially annoying when the fence is built on a curve. Here is a rail brace that presents great resistance to the destructive force of the wires. It is placed 18 inches above the surface of the ground, and is mortised into the posts about one-quarter inch at each end. The posts are set a rod apart, and are 6 or 7 inches in diameter, so that a timber 4 by 4 inches by 10 feet will just fit in between the posts. The posts and rail should be cross-cut, and the posts should be firmly set in holes three feet deep. The woodwork will then outlast the wire.

CAMPAIGN FOR BETTER SIREs More Than 3,000 Persons Have Agreed to Breed All Live Stock to Purebred Sires Only.

The better sires campaign recently passed the 3,000 mark. This means that more than 3,000 persons have agreed in writing to breed all live stock kept on their farms to purebred sires only. It is one of the results thus far accomplished by the United States Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with the states and county agents, in a systematic campaign begun only 14 months ago to exterminate scrubs—especially scrub sties—throughout the United States. Breeders and owners of all classes of live stock and poultry are co-operating in the effort which eventually will mean a higher quality average of the country's live stock.

GETTING PRODUCTS TO CITY Object in Building Roads Should Be to Enable Farmer to Get Best Prices for Crops.

Since the use of public roads is primarily in the transportation of farm products and farm necessities, the aim in building them should be to serve the best business of the nation, of which more than one-half is farming, and the roads should form a state system connected with the systems in adjoining states. This means that the road, instead of being from a farm to one market, is one from many farms to many markets. By cheap, quick delivery to shipping points such system will enable the farmer to have access to competitive markets and thus at all times to secure the best prices for his produce. Inexpensive Palm.
