Weather Maps Free

The Maryland State Weather Service has just published three Climate Maps of Maryland and Delaware, size 2 1/2 x 3 1/2. They show the annual mean temperature, the annual precipitation, and the length of the growing season for the various sections. These maps are printed in colors, and are beautiful specimens of the lithographer's art. They are readily understood by the layman, as well as by the scientist, and are intended for the use of educational institutions, public libraries, newspaper offices, etc., as well as for display in railroad stations and other public places. Merchants, manufacturers, farmers and all who desire to make their own climate will find them useful. With the map is furnished a descriptive circular, to be used as an aid in studying the climate.

Telephone Co. Improves Service

To relieve congestion on rural telephone lines in Southern Maryland, the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company has been stringing more than 220 miles of wire throughout St. Mary's, Montgomery and Prince George's counties. The company is spending more than $12,500 in improving these rural lines.
At the time the Maryland Public Service Commission granted the company a rate increase, it ordered the company to improve its service. One of the best methods is to string more lines. It is decided, therefore, that the company would be rural line relief. At its last meeting the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the company gave directions to lessen the number of stations on some of the old lines. On some of the lines there were eighteen or twenty stations. In some cases these crowded conditions now wires have been strung in the vicinity of Leonardtown, Mechanicsville, Prince Frederick, Brandywine, Sandy Spring and Gaithersburg. The greatest amount of work was done near Mechanicsville and Prince Frederick. In Mechanicsville it was necessary to erect fifty-seven miles of pole and line to take care of the stations transferred from the old congested lines and to provide for future additions to the system in that neighborhood.
The work in relieving the congestion will continue throughout Southern Maryland until about September 1. By that time, wherever possible, there will be a maximum of ten stations on rural lines under five miles in length and twelve stations on each line exceeding five miles.

"Promotion"

(A. LOCKER RALEY, 12 years old).
Promotion-time is drawing near. To some much joy, to some a tear. 'Tis wonderful what it will do for me. To weep, or to be filled with glee? Yes, all of us are hustling now. So that we can prepare a "row". Should things turn out the other way. Then to the teacher we will say. "For both sides will be sorely vexed." Pray what's the meaning of the word? He's put down the mighty in their pride. And equalish the humbler. We have tried. Yes, each and every one, to win—'Tis failure such a grievous sin. Provided we have "done our best" (I'll take my chances with the rest!) Holy Innocent's School, Brooklyn, N. Y.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Mary's Tobacco Growers' Association will be held on Saturday, July 2, at 8 p. m., at the Court House, Leonardtown.
The season for the cultivation of corn is fast drawing to a close. The best corn sowing sections practice a method of cultivation that does not injure the roots of the plant and conserves the soil moisture. This is done by frequent, shallow and level cultivation. In some sections of this county corn is showing the harmful effects of faulty cultivation.

BOAT RACES JULY 2

The program of races include five contests. There will be races for Bug eyes, Class one (boats more than 50 feet in length); Skipjacks, Working Cannon and Racing Canoes, with Ketchikan prizes to the winning boats in each class. The first race will start at 10 a. m., and the other races will follow at quarter of hour intervals. The course over which the boats will race is about nine miles in length, and has been so arranged that the racing boats will be in plain view of the large crowd of spectators. The shore at Calhoun, the new summer resort, is easily accessible by boat and train from every section of the State.

Bernard O'Keefe, who has taught in many schools of the city and the one time head of St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum, and Sister Bernadine Stone.

FRENCH CITY IN THE DESERT

Little Township of Ichnia has been made famous by Beauty Abides Beside Desolation.
Sir Alan Malcolm, British government representative on the Suez canal board, gives a charming description of the luxurious little township of Ichnia, which is the headquarters of a company. The executive of the undertaking is practically entirely French, and therefore it is not surprising to learn that behind a broad belt of tall trees and waving palms one finds a town that is purely French in atmosphere and management.
"Here is the France, where I am now staying with M. Joubert, the president; buildings, schools, shops, are all French, in fact you feel that you are living in a smart French seaside resort, where roses, violets and strawberries abound throughout the year, but if you go a mile in any direction from the lake you come to the end of civilization and are faced by the desert."
This lake, the Large Bitter lake, is more than ten miles long, and was at one time part of the Red sea, but for centuries it has been dried up and had become part of the desert. Across this depression the canal was dug, the sides and bottom were prepared, and when all was ready the waters of the Mediterranean were allowed to flow in. It took four months to fill this ancient bed of the Red sea.—Christian Science Monitor.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our dear husband and father, JOHN CALBER DEAN, who died June 12, 1921, aged 66 years. Gone, but not forgotten!
Anxiously we watched beside him, Hoping, praying for relief; Still all human skill was helpless—None but God could heal.
Oh, how lonely are the hours, And the nights seem dark and chill Since the one we loved hath left us, Nevermore his place to fill.
While our heavy hearts are aching, And our eyes are bathed in tears, We will look to Him, who promised All our sorrows He would share.
As we gather around our fireside Sweetest memories fill our mind Of the one we loved and cherished, One so loving, true and kind.
But we know that God hath called him From this world of toil and care, There to be with Christ our Saviour, Though our loss seems hard to bear.
Then, as we gently place a flower Amidst our tears or the grave, Let us feel that Christ is near us, Full of sympathy and love.
For we have this blessed comfort And how sweet it is to know We again shall meet our loved one Where our tears shall cease to flow.
So we trust it all with Jesus, And as He calls us, one by one, Say, as our loved one often whispered, "Lord, Thy will be done."
—By His Loving Wife and Children.

MUSEUM GETS RARE RUGS

Once Used to Wrap Around Pillars in the Orient, They Are Now in Philadelphia.
Six Mongol pillar rugs, recently purchased by the Pennsylvania museum, have been hung in the Memorial hall, Fairmount park, in the north corridor; one pair at the entrance to the Wilkes gallery, one pair at the entrance to the Silver room and the third pair at the entrance of the section devoted to musical instruments. These rugs were once bound about the wooden pillars of Mongol lamaseries or temples, and in several of the museum examples the wooden lashings which bound them are still there. Possibly textile decoration for pillars of loved carving, which would account for persistence of design, as these rugs could have been intended for no other purpose. In one pair, at least, the design becomes meaningless when spread flat, for the dragons which coil about the pillar appear cut off in three separate pieces, which meet exactly when the edges are joined.
The Chinese Huen Tsang, traveling to India in the first half of the seventh century, says that the pavilions of the monastery of Nalanda were upborne by pillars ornamented with dragons. The burial chambers of the kings, with their antechambers, have been uncovered from the mounds of earth which were heaped about them, and on the stone walls are fresco paintings of the same design. One of these royal tombs is flanked on either side by an octagonal column on which are painted coiled dragons, and the design of earlier carved uprights. The next step, for particularly noble people, was to transfer the design for a similar purpose in textile fabric to be lashed to the post.—Philadelphia Record.

Tracing Origin of Billiards

Billiards is believed by some to have been brought from the east by the Crusaders, while others claim an English origin for it and find it allied to the game of bowls. Still others assert that the French developed it from an ancient German game. It seems pretty certain that the first person to give form and rule to the game was an artist named Henrique Devinga, who lived in the reign of Charles IX. One writer says in billiards the ancient game of pallamalle played on a table instead of on the ground, and this is a reasonable assumption.
