A. F. KING Editor
L. F. ABELL Business Manager

Entered at the Leonardtown Postoffice as second class matter under the Act of May, 1898.

Leonardtown, Md., Thursday, August 25, 1921.

Register!

The old order of things has changed. Some think with a backward trend; others take the cheerier view and consider that the new and progressive make for a betterment.

Among the new conditions to be faced is the problem of government by the consent of all the governed, and universal suffrage forces upon all our citizens, without distinction of sex, the responsibility of exercising their franchise.

Our Southern Maryland women, as a class, did not seek the ballot, but they must realize that since its ratification the constitutional amendment virtually forces them to register and participate in the selection of their representatives.

MODERN INVENTIONS.

One of the curious features about the most modern of modern inventions, the airplane and the wireless telegraph, is that they are most in demand in lands which hitherto have let the world of progress and invention pass by unheeded.

Though Austria today is a mere patch compared with the former empire, the old government machine, which was probably oversteered even to Hapsburg days, still exists.

The great obstacle to readjustment is the high cost of food to the consumer—and the producer is not at fault. It is pretty nearly time for food distributors to revise an acquaintance with the old rule of quick sales and small profits, says Houston Post.

Work is a sovereign remedy even for bootlegging. No man who toils ten hours a day at good wages will care to take a chance. Work is a liver-regulator, an aid to digestion, a lung-developer, a specific for insomnia, a hair restorer, and an all-round re-generator.

All the bells of heaven may ring, All the bells of earth may ring, All the bells of hell may ring, Sweeter far than all things heard, Mand of harper, tones of bird, Sounds of woods at sundown stirred, Walling water's wistful strain, Wind in warm, wa weather, One thing yet there is, that none hearing ere his chime he done, Knows not well the sweetest one Heard of man beneath the sun, Hoped in heaven hereafter, Safe and strong and loud and light, Very sound of very high, Heard from morning's rosiest height, When the soul of all delight, Fills a child's dream laughter, Golden bells of welcome rolled, Never forth such notes nor told Hours so blithe in tones so bold, As the radiant mouth of gold, Here that rings forth heaven, If the golden-crested wren Were a nightingale—why then Something men and heard of men Might be half as sweet as when Laughs a child of seven, —Algonon Charles Swinburne.

NEW WING FOR AIRPLANES

Device That is Said to Greatly Increase the Speed of Flyer Through Air.

Demonstration and tests of the new Handley-Page "high-lift" wing for airplanes seem to indicate a practical success.

From the accompanying diagram it will be seen that the new wing is roughly on the lines of a Venetian blind. There are a number of small planes with a slot or airway between each; instead of decreasing the lift, as may easily be imagined by the uninitiated, the action of these slots converts each narrow plane into a separate wing with a maximum amount

New Lift Wing. of lift on each. Its action is similar to the action of the separate feathers of a bird's wing, but whereas the feathers overlap (the front feather overlapping the second, and so on), with the Handley-Page invention each plane is clearly divided by a slot. With only a single plane fitted in front of the leading edges of the ordinary planes of a D. H. 9 airplane, the lift of the machine has been increased 55 per cent, and the length of the get-off and landing runs cut down. Wind tunnel tests have been carried out on model wings with five, six and seven slots or airways, and it has been found that these give about four times as much lift as an ordinary wing of the same area. Future developments will allow for the alteration of the angle of the planes to be controlled by the pilot.

Saw Apparition of Dead Friend. Here is a peculiar case vouched for by an Alberta (Canada) reader. A lady of about fifty was walking in an open space when she met an old friend whom she thought was at sea. The man did not turn to look at her, but walked straight ahead. Returning home she told her friends of the incident only to learn that the seaman had returned home and had dropped dead at about the very time the lady thought she saw him.

but he simply yielded at the driver. "You can't kill me, and you can't even make me mad." That was the right spirit. How could a bridegroom expect a taxi driver to notice him? Nobody else does on the wedding day.

It is said that the big circuses have decided to hold no more mammoth parades in which gaudy wagons, painted elms and blood-sweating behemoths transfix the rubbering thousands. Events are stripping posterity of all the joys of the past.

Since a hot drink failed to revive the only gorilla in the United States, it is cited that gorillas do not live long in this country. It may be that after a gorilla has sampled one of our drinks it doesn't want to live here.

Of course, that new war over in the Balkan region is largely due to the aversion of the men to work, but not entirely. They have the same aversion to bathing, and would rather fight than work or bathe.

The census bureau reports that the foreign-born population is 13,703,987, or about 8 per cent, which indicates that some of the foreign born are making a disproportionate amount of noise.

Another reason why some women do not object to their husbands playing poker is, they get a measly percentage of the winnings, and never hear of the losing games at all.

Do you remember in the old detective stories there was always a quiet man who stepped out of the crowd and said: "I am an officer." What has become of this quiet man?

Already the statisticians are beginning to worry about next winter's coal shortage, but the effects of the regular annual ice shortage are not yet manifested.

The name of the new Japanese ambassador to Germany is Eyt Hloki, which sounds enough like a college yell to cheer the Germans up considerably.

It has taken 144 years to make the bulk of the United States population urban, and it will probably take another 144 years to make it urban.

The tailors have decreed longer trousers for men, but most of us in the era of high prices have worn ours much longer than we wanted to.

Modesty in woman's dress is a matter of taste and geography; the Turks cover their women up from head to heels.

FOR STATE SENATOR.

AUGUST 10, 1921. Editor of the BEACON:— Kindly allow me space in your esteemed paper to announce my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for State Senator. I shall, if nominated, endeavor to give to the people of St. Mary's County the best services of which I am capable. In making this announcement of my candidacy I am constrained to do so at the earnest solicitation of Democrats throughout the county. Yours truly, J. ALLAN COAD.

KNIGHTS & LADIES, ATTEND!

A thrilling feature of this festival will be a Grand Tournament on the great field beneath the western hills of Great Mills and directly back of Mr. John Ceell's store. Many knights have already given in their names for this event. Others wishing to enter the lists must send their names, titles and fees to Mr. Potter of Great Mills. The knights' fee is $1.50. This includes supper to the contending knights. A $10 gold piece, the gift of Mr. Allan Ceell, will be the queen's prize. Music will enliven this tilt of spears. The tournament will begin at 3 p. m. sharp. Suppers will be served from 4.30 to 8 p. m.

Suppers for adults, $1.00; for children, 50c. Dancing from 8 to 12 p. m. Guy's Orchestra, from Clements, will furnish music for the dance. Dancing alone, 50c.

If you want to see a display of the real old Maryland spirit, come Great Mills on Tuesday, September 6th, 1921.
