Hedges.

Kansas will be, from necessity, mostly fenced by hedges. The Osage Orange makes the best hedge of any shrub now known, and is just adapted to this latitude.

This hedge, when properly trained, will turn wolves, dogs, hogs, cattle, horses and even chickens. It is a good protection to orchards, gardens, sheep pastures, &c.

Farmers need not delay for old ground to plant on. The custom, in a prairie country, is to plow land about three feet wide, and have the center broken up fine by several plowings, to about one foot deep. In this center set the hedge row. The plowed furrows on each side, will protect it from fire; and with suitable trimming and training, it will be a good, substantial fence in a few years.

Mr. Gardner is an experienced hand in the business, and is now in Missouri making contracts for a springs work. We hope some of our farmers will speak for his services before it is too late. Many thousands of rods of plants were set in Missouri last year, and the year before, in such a prepared hedge row as we have described, and are now reported to be doing remarkably well.

One year's delay will make a difference of one year's crop. This will amount to much more than the cost of the hedge.

The Little Giant.

We understand that some dissatisfaction has been expressed in regard to the working of the "Little Giant Corn and Cob Mill," the complaint being that it is not adapted to the grinding of fine meal. We have never seen a mill of that description up to the present; but if we understand the manufacturer correctly, he recommends it as specially adapted to grinding corn in the cob, and claims for the No. 2 the ability to crush ten bushels per hour, and for the No. 4 twenty bushels per hour. It will grind fine meal, but he claims it should be run through the mill twice, the fine first being sifted out. The design is to supply every farmer with one. It is believed that all who have stock to feed will save the value of a mill in one year, by using crushed food only for his stock. That the cob possesses a large amount of nutritious matter, not well informed farmer doubts at the present day; and crushed corn always digests, while that which passes into the stomach of animals unbroken in mastication passes through them without being effected by the digestive organs.

Garvey.

We have refused to speak of the course of Garvey's Freeman, and of its ostensible editor for some time, when we have felt duty required it, merely because we thought its tendency would be to divide our Free State strength. That time has passed. Garvey's sheet is being quoted in all the border papers as a sound Free State paper, to the injury of the cause, and to the prejudice of the best men in the party. He stands alone, with perhaps a half-a-dozen exceptions, and instead of representing the views of others, he expresses the opinion of Garvey and his assistants.

No Late Numbers.

We have not a copy of the late numbers of the Herald of Freedom, save our regular files, and but few of those. We shall send no back numbers of our paper hereafter save to those who specially order them, and then to none only old subscribers who are renewing their subscriptions.

A new town site has been located southwest of this place, in the vicinity of Bloomington, by a company of gentlemen who propose making improvements there as rapidly as possible. Read their advertisement in another column.

Kansas Meeting in Rutland, O.

RUTLAND, MICHIGAN, O., Feb. 11, '56. In obedience to a call of the friends of Freedom, a large number of the citizens of Rutland met this evening, in the Universalist church, to consult on the difficulties now prevailing in Kansas, and to adopt a plan of co-operation with other portions of the country, to give aid and relief to the citizens of that Territory now laboring to establish a Free State government.

The house organized with S. C. Larkin in the Chair, and J. L. Eakin, Sec'y. A. Merrel, Esq., having been called on by the Chair, stated the object of the meeting in a brief, but very appropriate and thrilling sketch of past events in Kansas.

On motion, J. L. Eakin and S. C. Larkin were chosen a committee on resolutions.

Pending the action of the committee, the house was entertained with appropriate speeches by N. Sempson, Esq., P. G. Evans, and others.

The committee on resolutions submitted the following: WHEREAS, We, the citizens of Rutland, this evening assembled, deeply sympathize with the citizens of Kansas in their efforts to establish Freedom in that Territory, therefore,

Resolved, That we manifest our sympathy by contributing our mite to aid them in their laudable enterprise, or to send them the good and true man, in favor of the organization of a Free State government, who will become permanent citizens of that Territory.

Resolved, That to carry out the foregoing, we appoint a committee of seven, auxiliary to the county committee, consisting of Messrs. S. C. Larkin, A. Merrel, H. Holt, B. Paine, A. Standsbery, A. Skinner, and A. Vanciele, to call meetings, collect and apply funds.

On motion, S. C. Larkin was appointed Treasurer of the committee.

The call for contributions was responded to by Messrs. N. Sempson, A. Merrel, J. Leasler, and S. C. Larkin, for $5.00 each; S. L. Barrett, $3.00; R. Church, $2.00; S. H. Barrett, L. Brian, and G. Evans, $1.00 each.

Resolved, That a copy of the proceedings of this meeting be sent to the Meigs County Telegraph, and to the Herald of Freedom at Lawrence, K. T.

Adjourned to Monday evening, the 18th inst., at early candle lighting.

Pursuant to adjournment, a very large number of the citizens of Rutland met early this evening, and were called to order by the Chairman. The report of the proceedings of the last meeting was read and received.

After some remarks by A. Merrel, Esq., and J. L. Eakin, the call for contributions was again made, which was readily responded to, to the amount of $45.

On motion of A. Merrel, Esq., Josiah Sempson was added to the auxiliary committee.

On motion of Josiah Sempson, the ministers of the Gospel, of all denominations, were requested to lay the subject before their congregations, and solicit donations. Adjourned till Thursday evening, the 21st inst.

Fremont and the Presidency.

A Washington letter writer says that Colonel Fremont is talked of for the Republican nomination for the Presidency. We care very little about what is said in Washington concerning the next Presidency, as anything coming from thence is not likely to have much weight with the country, by which it is regarded as a sink of iniquity, a political Sodom, that ought to be purified by fire, and if the fire were very hot, and should do its work completely, so much the better would the country like it. But "we happen to know" that Colonel Fremont's nomination has been talked of in more influential quarters than in Washington, and that the idea is seriously entertained of bringing him forward as a sort of general opposition candidate for the Presidency, in 1856, in the hope and expectation of being able effectually to "crush out" the present dynasty of pro-slavery agitators. The idea is a good one. There are various reasons for thinking well of it. In the first place, there are the character and position of the man himself. You might search the whole country over, from Eastport to San Francisco, and you would not find a more chivalrous, high-minded man than John C. Fremont. And by "chivalrous," we do not mean a loud-talking, idle, hectoring fire-eater, who believes in the lie of slavery, or that it is the duty of the United States—the one thing to accomplish which God called the republic into existence—to spread slavery into countries from which it was removed by the natural abhorrence of injustice on the part of unsophisticated men. We mean that Col. Fremont is a gentleman, as well as a gentleman. He is chivalrous in the best sense of the term, and therefore, you do not hear of him in connection with any of those doings in which the "chivalry" are always as busy as their great master is said to be in a gale of wind. His character is pure. His name is most honorably connected with some of the most daring and useful occurrences in our history. He has a reputation on foot for coolness and "dash," such as no other American possesses. He has the mind to plan and the will to execute, long ago admitted, through their union, to constitute the true right divine. He has never been mixed up in the dirty politics of the age, but could come into the arena with a spotless shield, and lead the people on to a splendid victory over the remnants of ancient feignism. He has no obligations to this, or to that, or to 't'other political clique, and would owe his success to the people alone. He could be independent in his action, which has been the case with no President that we have had for many a year.

Those who are desirous of getting rid of party rule, as exhibited in its present shape, might place Col. Fremont at their head, and if they should not succeed in their first attempt, they might do so at the second. We think their chance of immediate success would be excellent.—Boston Chronicle.

MARRIED.

In Manhattan, Kansas, on the 19th ult., by Rev. C. H. Lovoy, Mr. SAMUEL WHITEHEAD, late of Michigan, to Miss JULIA L. LOWMYER, only daughter of the officiating clergyman.

Letter from Pennsylvania.

NEW CASTLE, PA., March 4, 1856.

G. W. BROWN, Esq.—Dear Sir:—You may remember that our citizens called upon me to present your company a Bible when you passed this place on your way to Kansas, and that I subscribed for the Herald of Freedom at that time.

Since then I have felt a deep, and at times, a painful interest in your welfare and that of your paper and cause. The term of my subscription having expired with the last number of Vol. I, I have concluded to subscribe for another year, mainly because I have been more than gratified by your course in the difficult and trying scenes through which you have passed; and further, because I wish to assist in sustaining a Free Press in Kansas.

To aid in this, I send you the accompanying list—twenty-two names—each for one year, who responded to an appeal which I made in your behalf on the occasion of a Kansas Aid Meeting in this place one evening last week, an account of which you will find in a copy of the "American Freeman," of which I am associate editor, and a copy of which was mailed to your address.

The right kind of feeling prevails all through this region of country, and a number of emigrants will find their way to your place as soon as spring opens. I need hardly express the hope that you will stand up for your rights, as I have no fears on that score, but I have wished a thousand times that I was there to stand up beside you. Your Free State men of Kansas are writing a page in the history of not only our country, but the cause of humanity throughout the world. A destiny is upon you; not to him who is false to his mission or betrays his trust, for either gain or dishonorable means. Some of you may fall, as some have fallen, but the world of Reform will move on, and the memory of its martyrs will be unrolled in the living free hearts of earth's enfranchised millions. It is worth living, thus to die—it is worth dying, thus to live forever. And above all, it is worth working and suffering, to live to share the final triumph of "God's truth over man's fraud."

May you thus live, and print, and if need be, fight for the "good time coming," and when it does come, millions of hearts will throb in unison with yours, with the Free State men of Kansas, with the advanced guards of Freedom's cohorts. Yours for a Free State, D. LEASURE.
