Robbery of a New York City Bank.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Between 6 and 9 o'clock this morning masked burglars entered the Manhattan Savings Bank building at the corner of Broadway and Bleeker streets, and after handcuffing the janitor, made him, under threats of instant death, reveal the combination of the safe to them and deliver up the keys of the bank. They rifled the vault of a presumably large amount of money, as twenty tin boxes known to have contained bills were found on the floor empty. The doors, windows and all means of access from without were found intact, and it was evident that the thieves had entered by means of keys. Dan Keeley, night watchman, said he left his post at 6 o'clock A. M. and aroused the janitor, as was his custom, and left the building, locking the hall door after him. The janitor (Wertel) created an unfavorable impression on cross-examination. He said that at 10 minutes past 6, while he was dressing, seven masked men rushed into his room and handcuffed himself and his wife and demanded the keys of the bank. His mother-in-law, an old lady, screamed when the burglars drew a pistol and threatened instant death to anyone who made a noise. They then carried him into an adjoining room and forced him to deliver up the keys of the street doors. With these four of the party went down stairs, leaving three on guard in his room. Three hours passed and Wertel heard a clock strike 9. Just then one of the men from down stairs returned, and after a whispered consultation, they all left.

The Amount Stolen—No Clue to the Robbers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The gigantic robbery of the Manhattan savings institution is the sensation in banking circles. Notice has been posted in the bank, saying: "For purpose of preventing loss to depositors it is ordered that no payments be made without sixty days' notice. The surplus of the bank is more than sufficient to cover any probable loss that may be sustained by reason of the robbery." A great number of depositors have given the necessary notice. The directors were in secret session today. It is said to be a rule for janitors of bank buildings in this city to have the combination of vaults. Every available detective in town has been assigned to the case. So far as can be ascertained no arrests have been made yet. Superintendent Walling said this morning that he could give no new information about the case, and denied that he professed last night to have any clue to the robbers, and if he had one he would not admit it. The janitor and night watchman are at the bank to-day helping to straighten out matters. Augustus Schell says the bank will have a surplus of $500,000 if all the coupon bonds stolen were counted as lost. Great crowds continued all the morning about the bank. The robbers left behind a skeleton key and also three pairs of handcuffs. Of forty or fifty boxes stored away about twenty had been opened and their contents rifled. It is possible that the amount taken may be more than $3,000,000, since the contents of a number of tin boxes containing gold coin and government bonds, with which the sides of the vault were lined, have disappeared.

The Robbed Bank.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Depositors thronged about the Manhattan Savings Bank to-day, and were informed that their money was all right and would be paid if needed at the end of sixty days. A circular has been issued setting forth the numbers and other particulars of the stolen bonds. No arrests yet made.

A Letter.

The following is a letter from young America who recently "came west" to pick up a fortune:

DAYTON, W. T., July 15, 1878.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY TRAGEDY.

Terrible Murder.

A man and his wife was murdered at Scow Bay opposite Port Townsend on the 19th of October. The man was found in the stable near the cow, which it is supposed he was preparing to milk, with a bullet in his head. The ball was fired by some person unknown, and striking him in the neck just below the ear and extending upwards into his head; the hole made by the bullet is quite large. The woman was lying on the ground just outside the house, and as blood was discovered on the floor, it is conjectured that she was shot in the house and started to run to her husband at the barn, when she was overtaken by the assassin, who cut from ear to ear her throat. Two small children were found in the house—the eldest about two and one-half years and the other six months. They had been about thirty-six hours without food. Nothing seemed to be disturbed in or about the premises, and it cannot be imagined what prompted the murder. The victim was an inoffensive man. He was about forty and his wife about thirty-five.—Tacoma Herald.

Arrest of Two Persons Charged with the Murder of Hight and His Wife.

[From the Oregonian, Oct. 28th.] Under date of October 24th our regular correspondent, writing from Port Townsend, sends the following additional particulars of the recent terrible tragedy at Scow Bay:

After a most painstaking and careful investigation the jury impaneled in the case of the Hight murder, found a verdict of murder against some person or persons unknown. It is generally conceded that the murder must have been committed by a white man or men, as had it been Indians it is more than probable that the house would have been ransacked and the children perhaps slain also; but as it was, everything seemed untouched in the house, and the murder was evidently committed through revenge, but by whom is the mystery which still remains unsolved. The officers of the law have been using every effort to obtain a clue to the murderer and it is hoped that in the end they may be successful.

Later.

October 25, 1878.

Through the untiring exertions of Sheriff Miller, two men have been arrested and everything seems to point to them as the guilty parties. One of the men is a half breed named Charlie Clausen, the other is an Indian named Joe Davison. The accused were brought before Justice Learned this morning, and remanded to the county jail until Monday next at 2 P. M., without bail. Too much credit cannot be given to Sheriff Miller for his unsparing efforts in working up the evidence in the case, which it is thought will be quite successful in bringing the guilty ones to justice. The children of the deceased were brought to this city yesterday and are being taken care of by the charitably disposed persons here.

The number of deaths in this city in one week has been very unusual. On Wednesday the double funeral of the victims took place from the Presbyterian church, the services being conducted by the pastor, Rev. James Agnew; next morning the funeral of George Swan, an old boatman, who had dropped dead the day before from heart disease, took place in the same building; on Thursday a little boy, son of Mrs. A. W. Davis, of Dungeness, died quite suddenly in this city, and again to-day an old man died at the marine hospital. It is satisfactory to know that such an unusual amount of mortality is very uncommon in this city.

Re-Opening a Thoroughfare.

In order to guard against results utterly subversive of health, it is absolutely essential that the grand thoroughfare or avenue of the system, the bowels, should be re-opened as speedily as possible when they become obstructed. If they are not, the bile is misdirected into the blood; the liver becomes torpid; viscid bilious matter gets into the stomach, and produces indigestion; headaches ensue, and other symptoms are produced, which a prolongation of the exciting cause only tends to aggravate. The aperient properties of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters constitute a most useful agent in overcoming constipation of the bowels, and promoting a regular habit of body. It is infinitely superior to the drastic cathartics frequently used for the purpose, since it does not, like them, act violently, but produces a natural, painless effect, which does not impair the tone of the evaculatory organs, which it invigorates instead of weakening. The stomach and liver, also, indeed the entire system, is strengthened and regulated by it.

THE DALLES IN FLAMES.

Five Buildings Destroyed in the Business Center of the Town.

On Sunday last the Dalles was visited by a disastrous fire. Five business houses and one dwelling. The extensive destruction of property was mainly due to the fact that the Dalles Water Works had its supply cut off all day until 11:30 P. M. One of the prominent citizens, H. J. Waldron, Esq., died from the effects of his great exertions to save property. The fire is supposed to have originated in Corum's saddle shop which was completely burned, also D. Frank, who was in the same business, the grocery store of Comfort & Hall, boot and shoe establishment of Saunders & Son, warehouses of French & Co., dwelling of Edward Wingate; also his store and part of stock, though major portion had been moved into his new brick along-side of the old store, and saved, as well as some of the harness in the adjoining premises and part of Comfort & Hall's stock. If it had not been for Wingate's brick and there not being a particle of wind, the whole lower end of the city would more than likely have been destroyed. The water company had one of their mains up was the reason that the water was cut off.—P. Standard Oct. 29th.

Butter Making.

In a communication to the Rural New Yorker, E. D. Curtis, says: "If I have made a discovery, or if everybody knew it before me, I will tell it all the same. As soon as the cream shows signs of 'coming' pour into the churn two or three quarts of water—as near ice cold as it is possible to get—and the butter will gather a great deal quicker and come hard and firm. I tried the cold water (ice water) on the start, and found it made the cream too cold and kept the butter from coming; but put in at the last end it is a capital idea and will save hours of churning in the course of the season. Butter will come in fifteen or twenty minutes, as a rule, if the cream is in the right condition and temperature. A cool cellar is cool enough to start the churning, and as near right as farmers can get it without thermometers and ice, and cold well water will lower the temperature for gathering. The temperature of our cellar is 64° and the butter invariably comes quick with the help of cold water which is probably 2° colder. When the cream stands too long on the milk before skimming, the butter will not come quickly, and it is always poorer, and such butter will not keep well. This is one reason, and the main one, why there is so much rancid butter. Better churn often, and have good sweet butter, and skim often also."

A Convict's Lucky Audacity.

Justice is often not so whimsically administered now as in the old days, when a culprit deserving the gallows could sometimes save his neck by a smart but not a cunning, when any one of his soldiers was brought before him for heinous offenses, to save to them "Brother, you or I will certainly be hanged," which was a sufficient denunciation of their fate. A spy who was discovered in his camp was addressed in this language; and the next day as the wretch was about being led to the gallows, he pressed earnestly to speak with the marshal, alleging that he had something of importance to communicate. The marshal, being made acquainted with his request, said, in his rough manner: "It is always the way of these rascals; they pretend some frivolous story merely to give them-selves for a few moments; however, bring the dog bitch." Being introduced, the marshal asked him what he had to say. "Why, my lord," said the culprit, "when I first had the honor of your conversation, you were pleased to say that either you or I should be hung; now, I am come to know whether it is your pleasure to be so, because if you won't, I must; that's all." The marshal was so pleased at the fellow's humor, that he ordered him released.—Youth's Companion.

Justice to Capt. Baughman.

PORTLAND, Oct. 28, 1878.

To the Editor of the Oregonian: Since the unfortunate affair upon the steamer Spokane, on the Upper Columbia, which resulted in the killing of Patrick Whalen by Capt. E. W. Baughman, in almost every instance that I have heard, parties in conversation, or conversed with persons in relation to the matter, they have invariably reverted to another unfortunate occurrence, that happened on board the steamer Tenino while lying at Lewis on, in the year 1862, which resulted in the killing of "Dan," the watchman, by Capt. Baughman. Having been present, and one of the parties in the melee, and knowing all the facts; I deem it my duty to give them as they occurred, that all may judge whether Capt. Baughman was to blame, in that affair, or not.

In 1862, there was scarcely a house in the town of Lewiston, and at the earnest solicitation of several ladies and gentlemen, Capt. Baughman occasionally gave his consent to have a dancing party on board of the Tenino. About two weeks previous to the time that Dan was killed, during one of these parties, a dozen or more roughs came on board and we came very near having serious trouble before we got them out of the saloon and off of the boat. In order to prevent trouble Captain B. told me to put one of the deckhands on watch with Dan to prevent a repetition of our experience at the last party. I ordered James Brady, one of the best and strongest men on the boat, to assist the watchman in guarding the gangway that night. Everything went well until between 10 and 11 o'clock, when, upon hearing loud and boisterous talking, I went out in the "Texas" and there, standing at the bar, I saw Dan, James Brady and Barney (another deck hand) taking a drink. I told Dan that that was not the place for them, and told him to go down stairs and attend to his duty. After considerable talk they went down stairs. I then told the bar-keeper not to give them any more drink and went back into the cabin. I was there scarcely 20 minutes when loud talking again attracted my attention, and upon going out found the watchman, and two men standing in front of the bar. I ordered the watchman to go down to his post, which he refused to do. I immediately returned to the cabin, and informed the captain how matters stood forward. He came out with me, and walking up to Dan told him to go down stairs, I at the same time telling the two men to go on the lower deck. After a short talk we all went below and after consulting the captain I told Jim and Barney to turn in, that we did not want them on deck; whereupon James Brady tore his hat off his head and using harsh words throw it on the deck, starting for the capstan bar rack, alongside the stairway; "Dan" starting the same instant for a capstan bar leaning against a spar near the gangway, used to breast the boat off. Capt. B. seeing his intention, caught the bar first and struck him one blow which felled him to the deck, and turning to Barney, who had an axe in his hands, ordered him to drop it and go turn in, which he did instantly. Brady secured a bar from the rack before I could prevent him, and as he raised it to strike me he hit the deck above, which warded off the blow, so that as the bar descended toward my head I grabbed it with both hands, wrenching it from him and struck him a glancing blow, which felled him, but he was able to stand in a few moments. In the meantime Capt. B. had ordered some one to go for a doctor and some water, and was trying to revive Dan, remarking, "My God! I am afraid I have killed him." Dan remained in an unconscious state several hours, during which everything that could be done to save his life. At 1 o'clock the next day Capt. Baughman stood a preliminary examination, James Brady and Barney both testifying in his favor, and the court, after examining a number of witnesses, acquitted him. It is not my intention or wish to shield or defend Captain Baughman if he is guilty of murder or willful manslaughter in the killing of P. Whalen, but to state the facts of the former case as I recollect them that those who are continually referring to the affair may not do him injustice. J. H. D. GRAY
First Officer of Str. Tenino, 1862.

Soldier's Additional Homestead Scrip can be located without settlement, upon any government lands subject to entry by Homestead or Pre-emption, and is the only paper that can be located without settlement direct from the original claimant to whom the scrip was issued, and as much of that class is now on the market, would advise caution in purchasing. Buy that only which will stand the strictest scrutiny and is guaranteed by the purchaser. The other class of Additional Homesteads known by its dealers "floats" can be supplied at $2.30 to $2.85 per acre. The class I sell can not be sold at any such rate, and I will pay to any one in this section who is the original claimant, and desires to dispose of the same, $2.90 per acre, and in addition pay all fees. Do not fail to see my agents and investigate this matter fully, as this is the only way to become convinced of the purity of the scrip offered, and its advantage in making location.
