Another Good Mine.

Fred Hallett returned from the mine which is being developed by his company at Crook's Corral. This location is on the point between Snake and Salmon rivers on the Snake river side. The formation of that country has afforded interesting study for theoretical prospectors for 25 years. There are mountains of wash gravel in that district that are a thousand feet above the river which carry gold in paying quantities. The puzzle has been to secure water to wash this gravel. Messrs. Hallett and Morrison have resorted to the "boom" process on the little creeks about Crook's corral. The rocker has been used on these little creeks during the spring freshets, and the cream of the ground has been taken by this primitive process. This company has placed a net work of ditches to catch the water from the snows of this winter. The gravel will be moved by powder to economize the for water the sluices.

It is estimated that the water supply by the methods engaged can be prolonged for a period of 90 days. There is an extensive deposit of gravel in the claims held by this company and it prospects an average of twenty cents a yard in coarse gold. The pay dirt is of the easiest kind to work—the gravel being very fine. By the use of blasting powder this deposit can be rolled into the bed rock flumes very rapidly, as the formation slopes in even grades to the water courses. It is estimated that this company can move 2000 yards of gravel daily when their system is wholly engaged at the flush of the spring rise in the little creeks. The preliminary steps have been taken toward incorporating this promising proposition.

Golden Gate Mining Company.

The Golden Gate mining company held a stockholders meeting at the office of the company, Wednesday of this week. There were stockholders present representing 529,713 shares.

The charter of the company was amended increasing the number of directors from seven to nine, electing two new members. The new members are A. J. Minard of Chicago, Ill., and W. E. Timberlake of Lewiston, Idaho. The company numbers 81 share holders including well known mining men of Lewiston, Asotin, Spokane, Seattle, Portland, Baker City, Moscow, Duluth, St. Paul, St. Louis and Chicago.

Machinery and supplies ample for development work to run the company up to June 1, have been forwarded to the mine. The policy of the company is to pay cash as they go and incur no indebtedness. It is expected to become a dividend paying mine by January 1 next.

The Lewiston Water & Power company has offered prizes to encourage the residents of Vineland. The prizes will cover a wide range of subjects. One for ornamental vines and shrubs; one for flower and landscape gardening; for each of all kinds of standard vegetables; for one-fourth acre of small fruits; and for the best arranged orchards and gardens on 2, 5, and 10 acre farms.

The present season is unusually late. In years past the peaches have been in full bloom at this date. On the other hand there have been years when winter extended all through March. One year in particular, John Silcott says Snake river froze over so solid that teams and loaded wagons crossed on the ice after the middle of March. Mr. Silcott's assertion astounded some of our citizens and they investigated to find confirmation of the statement. This climate usually so mild it seems has been in the past subject to freaks.

Marvelous Revelations

PROFESSOR MARTINEZ SOLVES A MYSTERY FOR AN OLD PROSPECTOR FROM DAYTON.

A New Gold Field Found

The Men Dug in the Snow and unearthed a Ledge that is Marvelously Rich.

Prof Martinez has gained distinction in another field. He has dealt with every class of cases in Lewiston and his success has been a wonder to all. His latest success was the location of a rich gold ledge on Camas Prairie. The circumstances surrounding this case are remarkable. W. H. V. Rickards and two companions returned after a hard winter tour with samples of fine ore.

Mr. Rickards had found indications of a rich ledge on Green Creek on Camas Prairie some time ago. He preserved samples of the ore and always had hopes of its richness but he could not find the lode. He finally abandoned all hope and the matter was at rest till last Christmas when the Professor visited Dayton. Mrs. Rickards who is a prudent lady and who had objected vigorously to the husband's custom of prospecting until the settler desisted and diligently followed the work of farming, took samples of the ore to Professor Martinez and asked him to predict as to its value. He immediately pronounced it valuable ore.

After his prediction Mrs. Rickards became enthusiastic on the subject of mines. She re-kindled the passion for the work in her husband; and the farm work for the time was secondary to the interest in the mine. The confidence inspired by the Professor made farm work less important than mining. To the amazement of the neighbors Mr. Rickards and some of his friends began to outfit for a winter's expedition to the mountains. They went with the Professor's help and advice to the old prospect on Green creek. They dug into the snow covered ground and revealed a gold bearing ledge three feet wide. Free gold bristles over the samples of ore.

They thoroughly explored the ledge. The assays show a value of $400 to the ton. It is a free milling proposition. The claim is in an open country that has been over-run by keen eyed miners for thirty-five years. But ordinary skill could not penetrate the depths to discover it. Professor Martinez saw it through that great gift that is given him. He directed the workmen from his office and thus gave the great mine to the world. Ore will be shipped next month and continue till a mill can be built on the ground. The ice is broken and Clearwater basin is to spring into a great mining district without further delay.

The excitement over this discovery will hasten the Professor's departure to the upper country. The people up there are urging him to come, and besides he wishes to be near the new mine, the development of which he will supervise personally. He will leave Lewiston about the 5th of April. The mean time will be devoted to the public for the good of the suffering and afflicted. There are some sufferers whom he cannot leave without sacrificing their interests before that date, and he never deserts a friend. He has performed five hundred good deeds in Lewiston, many of which were almost miraculous in their effects. He can perform half as many more if those in anguish and pain will call on him at his office in the Hale & Cooper building.

He will be unfortunate indeed who misses an opportunity to have his palm read and his life line located. He can relieve all diseases, acute and chronic, by the use of a his special medicines which are new in this country and by that magical power that is a gift to him.

Rev. Stephen B. J. Penrose, president of Whitman College, Walla Walla, will deliver one of his famous lectures at the Presbyterian church Saturday evening, April 17. President Penrose is a popular lecturer and his subjects are of the most interesting character. Full program published soon.

L. A. Porter who has been appointed horticultural inspector, is giving the San Jose scale a very serious study. Mr. Porter has more at stake than any other man in the valley. We may expect good results from his energy and intelligent research. The scale is the worst of all fruit pests and unless it is controlled it will ruin the fruit industry. All the work done, and the money expended in the past was wasted. Let us hope for better results in the future.

Two contestants appeared in the land office this week to settle the title to their homestead entries. In the case of Winona, Richardson vs Thomas Riley, evidence was submitted to the effect that the contestant had purchased the improvement of the former entryman. Miss Richardson has now a clear right to title. In the case of Bryon Richardson vs Hans Larson, the evidence was submitted and there was no appearance by the defendant. Atty. S. R. Hogan appeared in the above cases for the contestants.

Well Pleased and Confident.

During the last week, G. St. L. Abbott a director in the Vineland company and a member of the syndicate of capitalists that is back of the enterprise, visited Lewiston on his annual tour of inspection of this and other enterprises where he has interests. After a careful review of the company's plans and achievements, he expressed himself as well pleased with the management in every feature. Every plan Manager Libby had projected met with his hearty approval. He has every confidence in the development of this valley and will recommend pushing forward every project the company has planned for keeping pace with this development. Mr. Abbott emphasized his faith and confidence in the Vineland proposition by buying on his private account five acres, also five acres for President Adams. Manager Libby has also selected for himself five acres. All three of these pieces are to be planted to cherries.

Incidentally, Mr. Abbott gave out the assurance that railroad lines would reach Lewiston within the year. The opening of the reservation, the discovery of large ore bodies, the settlement of the country owing to irrigation and other enterprises had attracted capital and the interests of the country would not be overlooked. He expressed, with great confidence a belief that the Northern Pacific would complete its branch to Lewiston within the year.
