The Watauga Democrat is now in its new home. The building recently vacated by the Peoples Bank and Trust Company. A brick annex has been added to the building and many other improvements added which makes it an ideal shop.

The equipment is practically all new and many towns three times the size of Boone cannot boast of anything so modern. The press a six column of the Babcock make is in fine running shape, the Messrs Glenn and Lee of Gastonia having finished the installation some days ago, and the new model 14 Linotype cast the slugs used in this issue. The folder is on the road and will arrive within the next few days. When the shop will be completely installed and the size of the paper changed to eight pages. Many other purchases have been made consisting of border designs, new advertising faces, and job equipment which added to our already large line of display faces, will give a great variety to advertising and better service to our advertisers.

Our aim in the future is to give the people of Boone and Watauga County a paper devoted entirely to the upbuilding of the county and its surroundings and absolutely free from partisan ideas. No effort shall be spared to gather all the news of town, County and state, give it in a fair, impartial way and do anything that will stand for the advancement of our community and the progress of our city.

The buying of so much new equipment will necessitate a raise in the price of our publication. After Jan. 1st the price will change from $1.00 to $1.50, this price being based on the cost of production. So boys dig down in your pockets, renew your subscription while you can get the paper at the old price, and begin to read one of the most modern, wide-awake newspapers published in this section of the state, for it is our aim to make your county paper a sheet to be proud of, a publication that will reflect credit on the town where it is published.

Remember that subscriptions will be taken at $1.00 per year until January 1.

PLANT BEING MUCH ENLARGED

The Watauga Furniture and Lumber Co., to accommodate its rapidly growing business, is now doubling its possibly thrilling its capacity for turning out work and handling all kinds of building materials, from basement to roof. The new building will be a tremendous affair. A 100 horse power engine is now on the grounds and will be installed to propel the various machinery used in a latter day wood-working plant. The steady growth of the business is an index to what Boone and the county is doing in the way of building, and we are glad to see it progressing.

YOUR DRUGGIST IS MORE

THAN A MERCHANT
Your health, safety and life are seldom, if ever, things for which merchants are responsible.

Your life, however, may depend absolutely upon the accurate filling of physicians' prescriptions. It may depend upon the quality of drugs used in formulating the medicines.

Skill in merchandising may be easily acquired. Skill in compounding prescriptions is the result of years of expensive training in technical schools where pharmacists are trained in accuracy, and taught the knowledge of drugs and chemicals, so that when they enter the commercial field they will be equipped to help preserve and protect the health of the public which forms their clientele.

Your druggist is more than a merchant.

COMMUNITY FAIR A GREAT SUCCESS

On last Wednesday, November 8, there was staged at the Boone Public Schools a very successful little fair. The idea of the Fair was suggested by the principal of the school to the Parent-Teachers Association only a few weeks before the plan details was appointed. Parents, teachers and pupils went to talking and to quietly working. A great deal of hand work was done at home by the older girls and boys. The primary teachers assisted the smaller pupils at school.

On Wednesday morning, while the air was still frosty and cool, could be heard the shouts of the happy school children either with arms full or with push carts going back and forth laden with fruits, vegetables, handwork and various other articles, the children were eagerly hurrying to school. Decorations were brought and the morning was spent in preparing the display to exhibit. Promptly at one o'clock, the opening hour, the parents and friends began to visit the different rooms. A great surprise was in store for every interested observer. Beautiful decorations of Autumn leaves, corn stalks, hay, and paper cuttings formed a background for the display of works.

There were many beautiful table covers, runners, scarfs, pillow tops, dresses, aprons, capes and other articles of fancy and plain sewing. There were porch swings, benches, boxes, bird houses, aeroplanes and other forms of wood work. Drawings, clay modeling, paper cutting, folding, writings, compositions, and other articles showed the many forms vegetables, jellies, candies, and biscuits were in their places. Relics of the olden days added to the picturesque variety of articles. Great interest was manifested and many visitors continued to come and go until the hour arrived for the children to take their cherished possessions home.

Judges for each room were appointed and ribbons were awarded to the following prize winners:—

THE ELECTIONS

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH

Concerning Tuesday's election, it is probably safe to say that seldom in American history has any election even in an off year excited so little interest or enthusiasm among voters. As a matter of fact, educated Americans during the latter part of October were probably more interested in the English elections than in the American! Here in America, on the contrary, the issues are so mixed up that it is impossible to tell which way either party is headed.

The Republican party is torn between contending factions, and nobody can say yet whether it is going to be controlled by the Progressive wing represented by Lodge, Daugherty and Mellon—President Harding himself being more sympathetic with the latter group than the other.

In the same way, in the Democratic Party, no one can say whether the next candidate for President is to be a rather colorless candidate of to J. M. Cox or A. B. Parker type, acceptable to Tammany and its allies or a fighting progressive of the type of Wm. G. McAdoo.

Ad because of the uncertainty as to the trend of politics, the years' elections have excited less than their usual share of interest.

England on the other had, is stirred from center to circumference by the very prospect of the election to be held here this month. England is excited not only because there is to be an election (and the British have elections much less often than we do) but because this election is

THE DAIRY MINDED MAN

In successful managing a dairy herd, the man is the first essential. No matter how favorable conditions may be or how good the market, the man must at heart be a "dairy-minded man." or the profit will not be what they should.

The right kind of cows are indispensable and the proper kind of feed are a necessity; but both would fail to bring the proper desired returns if the man behind them failed to give the proper care and management. Cows of quality must be fed quantity. A stingy woman is a poor cook and a stingy man is a poor dairyman.

The "dairy-minded man" learns how to know his cow—their likes and dislikes, their needs and what is hurtful to them. A cow that gives a large quantity of milk is often notional and has petty whims about the way she wants her feed arranged and the way she is milked. An increase in milk is often secured by humoring these whims.

The "dairy-minded man" loves his cows. He makes pots of them and thereby increases his pleasure in caring for them and increases his bank account at the same time. He strives to give them the care of a mother and furnishes them shelter in winter, shade in summer, water and salt at all times. He does everything necessary to make them comfortable. The dairyman that does all of these things is a "dairy-minded man" and you will know him by his success in the dairy business.

H. L. WILSON

W. GRADY WILSON

The subject of this sketch was born May 23, 1894, died Aug. 23, 1922. About four years ago he was falsely accused of a crime and met his death by the hand of an enemy. I have known Grady for some years and the more I knew of him the better I loved him. He was industrious and kind to the people in his home and community. He told different ones not long ago that if anything happened to him that he was prepared to go, that he feared not his enemies was plain too see by the life he lived proved his innocence. He left a father, mother, six sisters, a brother and many friends to mourn his loss, but may their loss be his eternal gain.

PARENT-TEACHERS MEETING.

The Parent-Teachers Association spent a pleasant afternoon last Wednesday at the Boone Public School attending the School Community Fair. It was a great success—far more so than we could have dreamed. Many people throughout the Boone District were in attendance. This shows what can be accomplished with Parents and Teachers Co-operating.

Let us go forward with the good work to make a bigger, better school! The old school is not large enough we need a larger and better one.
