

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE
There will be a meeting at the usual place on Thursday night next.

VIOLATORS COMMITTEES.—We are informed that it is contemplated in various parts of the city to form Committees of Vigilance for the protection of citizens. We cannot say whether committees have actually been formed, but there is strong talk of such an event. God help us, what are we to do? The intelligence of Wednesday states that the disturbances which have been so extensively prevailed in Washington, have been put an end to, and that peace, and quietness, and order, abound among us. It is true, that so far as we have heard, the Sabbath day was not marked by any of those outrageous acts of violence and blood which have marked the advent and passage of that day, since the first Monday of June last, appropriately termed by one of the upholders and defenders of the acts of that day, "Bloody Monday." For this we are thankful. If good order and peace and quietness—if lawfulness and lawlessness and crime be banished—if the perpetrators of those enormities be sent to their own places—if the Sabbath day be regarded, henceforth, as a day of rest from labor and toil, as a day of sacred rest, and not as a day of recreation and pleasure, of drunkenness and debauchery—if citizens may, as of yore, under different auspices, walk the streets secure from interruption, safe from insult and brutal attack—then will we give all honor to the conservators of the peace. We will do them ample justice—they shall have all the credit their good conduct and faithful vigilance will entitle them to at our hands.

But the fact is, and we think the future will justify our opinion, that this fall in the whirlwind of lawlessness and blood-guiltiness, which has, since the first day of June been prevailing in Washington, is like the calm that precedes the destructive hurricane, only the more violent because of the strength which the treacherous calm enabled it to concentrate and discharge with added fury upon those, who, deceived by appearance, are unprepared to meet and withstand the fury of the assault.

We know that the presence in Washington of the baleful element which has proved so destructive to the peace of the city, and dangerous to the lives and limbs of our citizens, is not here by accident! There is not a citizen, scarcely, who is not perfectly satisfied on this point. They all know that the individuals who compose this organized band of desperadoes, are here by invitation, for a special object, and they are well aware, that that object is not yet accomplished, and will not be, if at all, until June next.

They, who, for their own base purposes, concocted this scheme of fraud and villainy, and concentrated in our midst this element of mischief, have found themselves unable to control and guide it. Some of them, indeed, have no wish to do so, but would rather let it will among the peaceful and defenceless citizens of Washington.

This, perhaps, after all, would be the best course, for it would more speedily work its own cure. The citizens would protect themselves. Another reason why we distrust this specious calm, is because we know something of the leaders of the mobocratic party, and know that they will never rest until they have accomplished their object, or meet with a defeat that will place them hors de combat forever.

Another reason is, that the ruin, which, like a flood, has poured its poisonous waves of liquid fire through every street of our city, and overwhelmed so many of our brightest and most promising youths in its resistless course, will not be stayed by any act of those who now control the destiny of Washington! On the contrary, the cause of this ruin is to be found, mainly, in the example and influence, in this respect, of him, whose influence and example should be on the other side, who once was known as an advocate of the cause of temperance, but who now is known as an open violator of his solemn pledge. What has the cause of temperance to hope from such a man? What have the people of Washington to hope or expect, from his example and influence, toward the prevention of crime or the extermination of the causes which lead to its commission?

We venture the assertion that there have been more grogeries, and places of all kinds where liquor is sold, licensed since June, 1865, than were ever before licensed during the same period of time.

But this is not all the evil. The chief magistrate of a city should be a pattern of sobriety and morality—one whom the young men of the city might imitate with credit to themselves and honor to him; one to whom fathers would take pride in pointing their sons, and advising them to walk in his footsteps—not one whose example is pernicious, contaminating, degrading.

John O. Ryan says: "I don't believe in this leading the poor from the public crib. I always noticed when we used to feed the poor from a crib down in Virginia, two or three big dogs got all the corn and the rest of the lot, but they all stood in the line where the corn was thrown, and never put their nose to the ground to help themselves the whole winter. But those that were turned out and not fed from the crib went off to the woods, and in the spring were all fat as butter, and their tails curled so tight that they could hardly get their hind legs on the ground. In the same way men with pigs; if you want them to eat, you must make them root for themselves and not teach them to go to the crib."

"Root hog, or die," that's the motto. Six hours a day and a thousand dollars a year is the demand of the "emigrants" from the government of New York. They have no idea of rooting—they must be fed on the fat of the land. They assemble themselves together in vast numbers and demand it as a right. They expected to find the streets paved with gold—disappointed in this respect, they demand support from Government. A little longer, and they will demand to be supported without any labor at all.

A Washington Police Officer and a Richmond Lawyer.—There was an exciting incident at the trial of the custom-house robbers at Richmond, on Thursday. Mr. William A. Bosc, police officer of Washington city, while on the witness stand, admitted that he would tell five hundred dollars a day to a thief, if it was necessary to do so, in order that the public might be benefited.

THE DEAD SHOT.
The Mills Point Herald gives a sketch of great interest relative to a lawyer of this city. It is a column long, and we must condense it. It relates, that at a restaurant in this city, one night, were assembled a party of young Creoles, who had just taken license to practice law in Louisiana. The host after drinking much wine became boisterous, and looked round anxiously to find someone to insult. He at last discovered a spare old man in a corner, at whom he commenced firing melon seeds from between the thumb and finger. The one hit him on the left ear. The second struck his hand, and the third rebounded from his breast.

"You are a bad shot," said the old man, rising; "I will give you a few lessons, and I'll hand his card. The parties met with pistols the next morning on the Shell Road, near the half way house. The Creole fired first, and missed.

"Monsieur," said the stranger, "you are too hasty, and you bear too hard on the trigger; but now it is my turn. I advise you to stand cool and firm; the least variation would cost you your life. You aimed at my eye, but hit my ear—it was well you missed." He raised the pistol and muttered, "Monsieur's right ear," he fired—the lower lappet of the right ear was shot away. "One lesson at a time," said the unknown; "is unknown; here, sir, is your first melon seed; when you shall here from me again."

Twelve months had passed—the occurrence above related was almost forgotten by the actors—when one evening at the Theatre Orleans, the Creole felt a slight tap on the shoulder; he turned, and the stranger, who was Monsieur, whispered he, "I owe you another lesson; are you at leisure to-morrow morning?"

They met again, and the Creole missed. Said the old man, "you have not improved much since your last lesson. Your second shot at the restaurant struck my hand; therefore this goes to the same spot," and at the firing of the pistol the Creole's left hand hung in shreds to his arm. "The next time we meet, Monsieur, your breast shall be the target," exclaimed the unknown, as he handed over the second melon seed carefully wrapped up in a piece of paper. "Au revoir!" and the Creole recovered, but lost his spirits, and was a changed man.

A few days ago, the Creole received a small package from Havana, accompanied by a letter from a hotel keeper there, stating that the said package was ordered to be sent to his address by a foreign gentleman who had died there. He opened the box, and found therein a small purse containing one melon seed. The stranger was no more!

THE DISARMING LAW.—On Saturday Charles Hurdle was arrested under the new law prohibiting the carrying of dangerous weapons. A double-barrelled pistol was found in his possession, loaded and ready for use. Justice Donn fined him $20 and costs, when he appealed to the Circuit Court. It is doubted if the Corporation has the power to pass such a law. The question will now be decided by the proper tribunal.

BOVINE KNIVES AND REVOLVERS.—On Monday at noon the steamer George Page brought to her wharf about fifteen sets of ugly-looking cut-throats or spear-wood in a criminal dock. They were all armed to the teeth, and did not hesitate to expose their naked knives and revolvers to all on board. How is it that they are not made to pay the penalty of a law which is so clearly intended to protect the people from such persons as these, and to use their weapons with impunity.

THE LADIES' MITE SOCIETY OF GORSUCH Chapel are now holding a Fair in Island Hall, corner of Sixth street and Virginia avenue. Young men go and see them and encourage them. Old men, you have not a great while to live on earth. You go and see them and do them all the good you can. Let all go, and they will the sooner accomplish the end they have in view—that end is—doing good.

MODERATE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—We are informed, upon good authority, which will be forthcoming, that one of the Fourth ward representatives in the lower Board, shortly after his election, was fined for selling liquor on the Sabbath day—and magnanimously paid the fine.

MARKER ANNOT.—Late indications leave no room to doubt that the market here "struck in" upon the spot, in the vicinity of Halifax, N.S. On Saturday, a large number was taken off Prospect Mt.
