WALTER SIDOSKI IS BEING SOUGHT BY AUTHORITIES. Claimed That He Cut Maudlin Woytinski of Hallville in Fitchville Sunday.

Sunday morning the residents of Fitchville were alarmed and surprised to see a Poleander near the store carrying a knife covered with blood and holding a man by the collar. The man was identified as Grand Juror Ass M. Miller and with Constable John J. Sweeney started for the scene of the trouble. Arriving at the place, which was formerly owned by the late Jeremiah Driscoll, but is now owned by Jewish farmers, the man was attacked by Walter Sidoski, who was cut on the face and hands with a knife. The floor was covered with blood and it is thought he was cut on the body.

As soon as possible word was sent to the authorities. The accused fled to the farmhouse and has not been seen since. The police here were notified, and it is said that Sidoski has been before the police court in another town three times before, charged with cutting affrays, and fined each time.

The complaint was made by Alexander Simons, a boarder at the farm.

ANOTHER ADDITION TO FIFTH COMPANY'S TROPHIES. Have Won Many Honors in the Existence of Organization, Which Dates from Soon After the War.

The Fifth company, Coast Artillery, Captain Tarbox, have hung in their company parlor the bronze shield which they won the past summer for being high in rifle practice, thus adding another to the many trophies won during the existence of the company, of which it has been a member for over forty years, although changing the name several times during those years.

After the close of the civil war many of the Norwich veterans who wished to continue the friendships and fraternity gained in their country's service organized a militia company, Every member of the new organization was a veteran of the civil war. The first captain was J. Edwidge Woodworth, late captain of Company F, 18th U. S. V. The company became Company C, Third regiment, C. N. G. It was called the Buckingham Guard, but later this name was changed and the company was called the Norwich City Guards. For many years it was known as the veteran company of the brigade.

On one occasion in camp there was a discussion among the officers about which company had the most veterans. Two captains claimed this honor, and they decided to investigate. It was found that one company had 45, while Company C had 55.

Company C, in combination with Company B, participated in the attainment of the famous Seventh New York regiment when it visited this city. The first company to be organized at the Seventh New York can now be seen in the City Hall.

In June, 1878, the Hillyer Guard, Company B, 1st New York regiment, visited Norwich, and was entertained by Company C. The testimonial from the Hillyer boys hangs in the company's parlor. In June, 1886, the Manchester Rifles, Company G, First regiment, came to Norwich and were quartered at the Wauregan. Company C made a special parade, and was present at the banquet in the evening at the Wauregan. Captain Tarbox was a member of the Manchester Rifles at the time and remembers well the felicitous speech made by General J. B. Colt.

When the call came for troops for the Spanish war Company C responded promptly and went into the service with the Third Connecticut Volunteers, under the late Colonel Augustus E. Tyler. The company has acted as escort to the G. A. R. on Memorial day, with but two exceptions, every year since that day has been observed. The first exception was in 1868, when the company, being composed entirely of veterans, paraded as veterans instead of militia. The second exception was when the uniforms had been sent away for repairs and were not returned in time.

In fact, the company has been active in the life of Norwich during the forty-three years of its existence. One of its members became the captain of a company which was organized as the G. A. R. on Memorial day, with but two exceptions, every year since that day has been observed. The first exception was in 1868, when the company, being composed entirely of veterans, paraded as veterans instead of militia. The second exception was when the uniforms had been sent away for repairs and were not returned in time.

CELEBRATION OF GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gager Received About $100 in Gold—Hundred or More Guests Found a Royal Welcome.

At their pleasant country home in Bozrah Monday Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Gager entertained about one hundred relatives and friends at the celebration of their golden wedding. The guests began to arrive shortly after 3 o'clock and during the evening large numbers of the townsmen and friends from Norwich came to congratulate the bride and groom upon reaching the third milestone of married life. Mr. and Mrs. Gager proved delightful host and hostess and welcomed all with old-time hospitality. One of the interesting incidents related was the wager of Mr. Gager with some friends to walk from Bozrah to New London and back in twelve hours. Mr. Gager took the wager and although he left at 10 o'clock, he was compelled to give up his watch to get a coat to protect himself from the cold weather, he kept on to New London, secured an affidavit at the Crocker house and recovering his watch on his way back arrived at the starting place in Bozrah with over half an hour to spare.

CHARLES A. GAGER.

CURES ECZEMA QUICKLY

New Drug, Poslam, Now Obtainable in Small Quantities.

Since its discovery one year ago the new drug, poslam, has successfully cured thousands of chronic cases of eczema and other distressing skin affections. Heretofore poslam has been dispensed solely for the benefit of eczema patients in large jars sufficient for a month's treatment. This was found to be an inconvenience to many thousands who use it for minor skin troubles, such as pimples, blackheads, herpes, and other skin conditions, blemishes, itching feet, piles, etc., which require but a small quantity to cure. To overcome this, and in response to urgent appeals, the dispensers of poslam have been obliged to adopt, in addition to the regular two-dollar package, a special fifteen-cent size, which, in future, may be found on sale at Lee & Osgood, Smith's and other leading drug stores in Norwich, or may be ordered direct from the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West 25th Street, New York City. In all eczema cases poslam stops itching with first application, and proceeds to heal immediately; chronic cases being cured in two weeks. In less serious skin troubles, results are seen after an overnight application.

Poslam is also on sale in Putnam at Larsons and in Woodbury at Woodbury's, and in Willimantic at Chesbros'. Samples for experimental purposes may still be had, free of charge, by writing to the laboratories for them.
