DANIELSON.
George W. Nash Secures Century Old 'Cello d'Amour'—Local Operator Picked Up Wireless Messages—Sportsmen at Legislative Hearing.

F. W. Bassett of Providence visited at his home in Danielson Thursday. Mrs. James W. Foley of Oneco called on Danielson friends Thursday.

W. Percy Hatch has gone to Worcester to locate. H. C. Blaney has been in Boston, attending the automobile show.

John B. Bassett is resting comfortably after an operation for the removal of his right foot.

'CELLO D'AMOUR.
Valuable Old Instrument Secured by George W. Nash.

George W. Nash has a rare old musical instrument which he secured this week from a man in a nearby rural community. "Cello d'Amour" is the instrument which in this day is practically unknown, as the manufacture of them ceased more than one hundred years ago. Shaped like a violin, it is much larger and is what might be termed a cross between a cello and viola. The strings are arranged the same as on a cello. A century and a quarter has probably elapsed since the sweet, mellow tones of the instrument first gave pleasure to the possessor, yet today it is in good condition and in the hands of an artist. Its power to charm is as potent as when Nash will scrape off several coats of hard oil that have been applied to preserve it, and re-finish the instrument.

Bodies Brought from Providence.
The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Skinner, who died in Providence, were brought to Danielson on a Thursday evening train and taken to the undertaking rooms of A. E. Wood.

New Hose for Fire Department.
Five lengths of new hose have been ordered purchased by the wardens and court of burgesses for use of the fire department.

WIRELESS MESSAGES
Caught Every Night by Roy Keach at His Father's House.

Wireless messages fittingly nightly across a waste of water along the Massachusetts coast and then inland for many miles, maintaining communication between vessels and shore stations, and here in Danielson an unregistered station to which the sound waves transmit in dots and dashes the wandering notes of the midnight hour, before midnight Roy Keach, stationed in his room at his father's house on Main street, regulates his wireless receiving apparatus, slips on his headphones and sits down to hear the mariners tell how they are faring out at sea, what the shore stations have to tell them in the way of business and the many other things that go fitting through space in the form of wireless messages. From 10 until 12 o'clock the receiving wires on the slope of the Congregational church intercept the radiating intelligence, the electric spark in the Keach home snaps and sputters, and the message, except for an occasional faint flash of news, business ceases for the night.

The study of wireless telegraphy has fascinated a young man for several years and the result is an achievement towards mastering the subject are the result of close application to his search for knowledge and careful observation of the mechanical means employed.

LIVELY INTEREST
In Hearing Before Legislative Committee on Bill Prohibiting Snaring.

There was a hearing bordering on the strenuous before the committee on fish and game bills at Hartford Wednesday afternoon, when the consideration of bills prohibiting the snaring of foxes was taken up. The committee room where the hearing was held was inadequate to accommodate the large attendance from various parts of the state and those who were unable to get in were forced to listen to the audible parts of the arguments from the corridor. Danielson, Brooklyn and Moosup had several representatives present. Danielson also sent a petition of over one hundred Exhilarated Hens.

Rub-a-dub-dub! RUB-a-DUB-dub!

That is what wears out your clothes—the eternal rubbing up and down the washboard.

Why don't you stop it? It isn't necessary.

The right way to wash clothes—the easy way—the quick way—the safe way—the Modern way is with P. & G. Naphtha Soap and cold (or lukewarm) water.

If you adopt this way, you will have precious little use for a wash-board.

The naphtha in P. & G. Naphtha Soap loosens the dirt. The soap cleans.

Boiling the clothes, too, is unnecessary. Use P. & G. Naphtha Soap and get rid of these twin evils of wash day. There is no need for either.

P. & G. Naphtha Soap is for sale in almost every grocery in this city.

Marines Need Exercise.
If Mr. Roosevelt is to have a warship to go hunting in he might as well have a brigade of infantry to do the hunting.—Philadelphia Leader.

POMFRET STORE BURGLARIZED—DIVERCE GRANTED JOHN J. BURNS—$165 DAMAGES AWARDED MRS. FOLEY—ATTORNEY ALYN L. BROWN OF NORWICH ASSISTS IN CASE—SHAW-RANDALL MARRIAGE.

Smith Brothers' general store at Pomfret was broken into for the second time in a few weeks early Thursday morning. Entrance was gained by forcing in a window. The loss, amounting to about $50, consists of merchandise, such as men's sweaters, men's hats, shoes, groceries, fountain pens, and razors. There is no clue to the thieves.

MOOSUP HUSBAND
Granted a Divorce—Damaging Testimony Introduced.

One divorce was granted and a civil suit disposed of at Thursday's sitting of the superior court in this city. John J. Burns of Moosup was granted a decree from Mary Burns of Philadelphia. The couple were married at Chester, Pa., in 1878, and lived in that city for seven years. Two children were born to them before they separated in 1882. Case was listed to be contested, but Attorney A. G. Bill, who represented Mrs. Burns, withdrew the defense. Attorney Donald G. Perkins of Norwich represented Mr. Burns. Attorney Perkins introduced a birth record from the Pennsylvania city showing that a child was born to Mrs. Burns in 1898, ten years after her separation from Mr. Burns. Papers identifying Mrs. Burns as the mother of the child were also introduced.

IN FAVOR OF PLAINTIFF.
Amount Sealed, But Mrs. Foley Recovers $165 Damages.

When the jury came in with a verdict in the civil case of Bridget Foley of Oneco vs. James W. Foley, Attorney A. G. Bill, returning in his verdict at 4 o'clock after deliberating about an hour, an unusual surprise was given the attendants at court. Clerk Edgar M. Warner read the verdict, announcing the finding in favor of the plaintiff, and that she be allowed to recover $250 of the $500 damages claimed. Judge Curtis then addressed the jury, stating that he believed they misapprehended the situation, inasmuch as their finding was for an amount in excess of fair compensation for the damages to the property as shown by the evidence. He recommended that they return to the jury room and further consider the matter. The jury accordingly retired, returning in half an hour with a verdict for the plaintiff to recover $165. Evidently the jurors had been deeply impressed with the arguments of Attorney Donald G. Perkins, who appeared for Mrs. Foley. Attorney Perkins was assisted in the case by Attorney Alyn L. Brown of Norwich, who made his initial appearance in a case before the Windham county superior court. Attorney A. M. Brown of Norwich represented the defendant.

At 2:45 o'clock Judge Curtis ordered court adjourned until this (Friday) morning at 10:30. The jurors were excused until Tuesday morning at 10:30.

Do as Well as They Know.
Mr. Carnegie says that members of congress do not know enough to make the tariff or remake it. They are ignorant of the conditions at home, and especially abroad, which have so important a bearing on this intricate matter. Besides, they are not disinterested, and are embarrassed by politics. The evidence before them is usually that of selfish interests, often themselves deceived by an exaggerated view of the immediate effects of the tariff upon before now by others who have been called (we think by Mr. Carnegie himself) "doctrinaires," or thinking and saying so. Mr. Carnegie would put the tariff into the hands of a commission of experts not members of congress; an industrial commission calls it "possible of dealing not only with the details of the tariff, but with the greater rising problem of the control of manufacturing monopoly, which he considers the coming question before the country.—Waterbury American.
