PORK PACKING BUSINESS OF C. H. DAVIS & CO.

Purchased from the Ruby Estate by Noah L. Rogers of Norwich and Carlos Allyn of Groton.

The long established pork packing business of C. H. Davis & Co., which for the past several years was conducted by D. T. Ruby up to the time of his death, was on Monday sold by George A. Keppeler, who is administrator of the estate to Noah L. Rogers of this city and Carlos W. Allyn of Groton.

The sale includes the property in Water street, the slaughter house property back of the property in Prospect park, as well as the machinery and the good will and name of the company.

Mr. Rogers, while interested in the company will not be actively connected with it, his time being taken up with his present work as manager for the Stoddard-Gilbert Co. here. FOUND THREE STONES ON CENTRAL VERMONT TRACK.

Louis Moroney of the Falls Removed Them Before Any Accident Resulted.

About 9 o'clock Monday morning, while walking the Central Vermont track, Louis Moroney of the Falls found three large stones placed on the railroad track between the bridge above the Falls and the Norwich Town station. They were some distance apart. He stated that they were good sized stones, and realizing the danger to trains, he removed them. How they came there is not known, but they could not have got there except by someone placing them there, and there could be but one result from such an act. As far as known no one was seen to place them there or in that vicinity, but the matter is in the hands of the railroad and the police for an investigation. It is stated that the stones were large enough to have derailed a train and cause much trouble.

COLONIAL INN.

Old Peck House is Now a Modernly Appointed Dwelling.

The house owned by L. A. Fenton on Elm avenue is about to be occupied by Mrs. J. H. Adams of 33 Maple street West Side. The wide lower hall with its arching sweep, the winding staircase, the room above paneled entirely, make this a fine type of colonial style in real colonial days after the revolution "the thundering of cannon at the old Peck house" proclaimed peace after war.

Twenty years ago when Mason Kinney owned the house, the garret was full of relics; wax wheels and spinning wheels, and a real British style coat of red hung from its rafters. So by easy stages has the change been made from the inn of the eighteenth century to the dwelling house with modern improvements of this twentieth century.

Junior Endeavor Society. George F. Hyde was in charge of the Junior Endeavor meeting on Sunday afternoon at the First Congregational church. He took for illustration a glass of clear water, then put into it a dark coloring matter. This was used to show the effects of sin on the life of another substance, talking away the color, showed how sin can be removed by the blood of Christ. The service closed with the song, "Faire Him. There was a good attendance.
