Attorney Samuel H. Davis, who was appointed administrator de bonis non, with Will annexed, of the estate of Weeden Barber, by Judge Edward M. Burke of the Western probate court, was formerly pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, but abandoned the pulpit for the bar.

Mr. Davis was appointed administrator at the instance of the Seventh-day Baptist missionary society, and principally to secure a bequest of $500 made by Mr. Barber to the society to be used for home missionary work. Mr. Barber died in 1885. He had two sons who gave their lives for their country in the civil war. He was survived by three daughters, one of them being Mrs. Butts, executrix of the estate. Mrs. Butts filed her final account in the probate court showing a balance of $1,915.89. The $500 bequest to the missionary society was not paid as under the will payment was not to be made until five years after the death of the testator.

Mrs. Butts died soon thereafter and her two sisters enjoyed the benefits of the estate, occupying the Barber home in Granite street, for the balance of their lives. As the estate was not fully administered, this bequest having been unpaid, and the records of the court showing a sum ample for twice the amount, the appointment of an administrator de bonis non resulted. It is for him to ascertain the present condition of the estate and to see that $500 legacy for the missionary society.

Administrator Davis, in connection with his appointment, will have another long forgotten matter to give consideration. There is a clause in Mr. Barber's will that provides for an income to the Children's Aid society in New York and to be used for aid in the education of negroes in the south. It is known that the aid society has no knowledge of this provision and therefore his never made claim upon the estate.

The will provides that the house and barn in Granite street be kept in repair, the taxes paid, and that the profits accruing from rental shall go to the Children's Aid society of New York. The Barber house is an old-fashioned two-tenement house, now in fairly good condition.

The estate is in a complicated condition and Administrator Davis will have difficulty in straightening out the entanglements. The will of itself is not a very specific document, for it says that the $500 legacy is to the Seventh-day Baptist Home Missionary society. As a matter of fact the word Home is not in the name of the society, and as Mr. Barber was an active worker in the society he evidently intended the legacy for home missionary work. The will also states that the legacy shall be paid to the treasurer of the society, without specifying that it was to be applied for missionary work and could be interpreted as a personal gift to the treasurer. But the laws of Rhode Island are broad in the consideration of bequests for charitable purposes and the intent of the testator prevails over what seems to be specific statements.

Eugene Atwood of Stonington is owner of the silk mill building in Westerly, and wants it for his own use, and has therefore wanted the present occupants out of the building. Mr. Atwood is engaged in the manufacture of machinery used by silk workers and, so it is said, is to establish a branch of his Stonington industry in Westerly, or is to operate a silk mill, not only for the profit there is in it, but to show to prospective purchasers the machinery in practical operation.

The present lessees of the building are the Westeryly Silk Mill company, with office and ownership in New York. Employment is given to thirty-five people and the company desires to retain their business in Westerly. That is why the situation was explained to the board of trade and the assistance of that organization solicited. The company has been negotiating for a lease of the portion of the Segar mill building, but that is not considered practical, as such a deal would prevent rental of the balance of the building, which is too large for the uses of the Westeryly Silk company.

While the coming of the Atwood industry will be welcome, the board of trade will make every possible effort to keep the present occupants in the mill building not wanted by the silk company. If this cannot be done, although the Segars are willing to make all reasonable concession, the committee will probably find some other suitable location, and, if necessary, perhaps erect a small building suitable for the silk company, for the committee is determined to make every endeavor to keep the industries located here and bring in as many new ones as possible. The matter has been referred with power to the committee on trades and manufactures and William Segar is a member of that committee.

The awards in the monthly contest of the School Arts Guild have just been announced, the first prize going to Elizabeth Ridgely of Baltimore. The Westeryly prize winners are Arnold, Paul, the private street school; Catherine Howard, Grove street school, and Herbert Maggs, Pleasant street school. Honorable mention was given Semilda Boulet, Gardiner Hill, Charles Lusk, Antonio Panchiera and Lorena Randall of Westerly.

Governor Fother has appointed Senator Arnold of Westerly chairman of the committee to confer with the Senate committee on the appropriation bill. About twenty members of the Woman's Christian Temperance union met Wednesday with Dr. Annis L. Waits at her home on the Watch Hill road.

Among the latest receipts by the American Sabbath Tract society, was $21 from the First Baptist church, $15 from the Baptist church of Ashaway, and $5.67 from the church in Westerly.

At Tuesday evening's meeting of the board of trade, James A. Welch of the committee relative to a tree warden, reported progress, and would make final report in simple form for action by the financial town meeting.

Letter was received from the treasury department stating that as soon as practicable a photograph of the proposed new postoffice building would be furnished, and effort made to have the architecture in accordance with the surroundings.

Miss Estelle Murray, graduate of Rhode Island hospital, has been engaged by the Westeryly district nursing society, and will commence her active duties April 17. At present she is training with the Providence district nurse association.

The funeral of Frederick Schlaecher of White Rock was solemnized with a requiem mass, Rev. Peter Mooney, celebrant, in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Wednesday. The bearers were James M. Burke, Cornelius Brandeis, Edward M. Burke and Robert Duff.

At the residence of his nephew, John S. Crandall, in the section of Westerly known as District No. 6, Oliver P. Gavitt died Wednesday morning in his 74th year. He is survived by two sisters and two brothers, Mrs. Margery Crandall and Mrs. Amos Burdick and Saunders and Royal Gavitt.

Wilcox, the Mystic baseball pitcher, who is being tried out by the management of the Providence team, is showing up well in practice. He has a reputation for being a good job this season and is confident.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh of the Eustachian tube.
