

Not All Silk Gloves Are Kayzers

Kaysers are now—as for 25 years—the silk gloves that all women want. But there are other silk gloves—vastly inferior—which trade on the Kayser fame.

Not like the Kaysers in finish or fit. Not like the Kaysers in fabric or wear. But just like the Kaysers in price.

These are times to be careful. If you want the Kayser, refuse a glove without "Kayser" in the hem.

Kayser gloves are the result of 25 years of experience. They are made in our factory, from the raw silk up. They go through fifty operations to attain perfection in finish and fit.

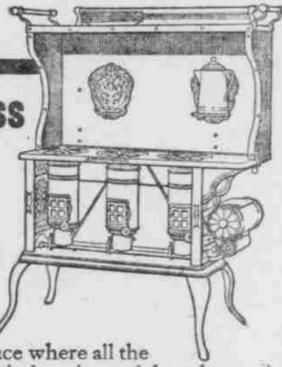

They have our patent tips, and a guarantee in every pair. Yet the poorest gloves cost no less.

Short Silk Gloves, - 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25
Long Silk Gloves, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50

NET SET FOR BIG SMUGGLERS

Government Detectives Suspect Big Fifth Avenue Store Among Other Companies.

New York, April 22.—Although federal officers had succeeded in collecting evidence showing that the government had been swindled out of from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 a year through the so-called "underground system" of importing foreign dress goods into this country, no hint was forthcoming today as to who were the suspected individuals or concerns. In fact, a policy of secrecy was preserved by all those concerned in the investigation of the smuggling.

This, it was pointed out, was a necessary course to pursue in order that the persons implicated might have no opportunity to evade prosecution. It is understood that a large Fifth Avenue store is among the companies suspected by the authorities, although information on this point was withheld by the investigators.

According to the United States marshal, William Henkel, in charge of the sale, no recently seized goods, valued at $52,000, the public auction will not take place for several weeks. The delay, he said, was due to the fact that the goods would have to be formally condemned in the United States.

A number of women visited the marshal's office with inquiries as to the style of the dresses and the date set for the sale. To all of them Henkel replied that he didn't know the first thing about the "cut" of the gowns, and that there would be no auction for a fortnight at least.

TOLLAND CO. DOCTORS.

Hold Annual Meeting at Rockville—Dr. Fisk of Coventry, President.

The 117th annual meeting of the Tolland county medical association was held at Rockville Tuesday, with a good attendance, considering the unpleasant weather. James Stretch of Stafford Springs, president of the association, presided. The following officers were elected: President, L. P. Fisk of Coventry; vice president, C. E. Pendleton of Hebron; secretary and treasurer, E. P. Flint of Rockville; delegate F. W. Vansteele of Hebron; delegate F. D. Smith of Rockville; county reporter, C. B. Newton of Stafford Springs; essayist at semi-annual meeting, Dr. W. E. Bean of Rockville; essayist at annual meeting, F. M. Dickinson of Rockville; county delegates, Hartford county E. P. Flint; New Haven, W. L. Higgins; New London, W. E. Cron; Fairfield, T. F. O'Loughlin; of Rockville. Visiting delegates present were S. T. Gilbert of New Haven and F. K. Hollister of Middletown. After dinner the following interesting papers were given: Some Points in Prophylaxis in Children, by Walter G. Murphy of East Hartford; Aurai Complications Following la Grippe, E. Oliver Winslow of New London, formerly of Rockville; and A Consideration of a Few Acute Surgical Diseases, by Frederick B. Willard of Hartford.

WOULD DIVIDE DIOCESE.

Bishop Brewster Emphatically Favors Division of Connecticut Diocese.

In one of his addresses in Stamford Sunday in a private conversation Bishop Brewster made it evident that he is heartily in support of the proposition to divide the Episcopal diocese of Connecticut. The argument for creating two dioceses in the state grows out of the belief held by the bishop and shared by many of the clergy, that the number of parishes is too large, and the demand on the time of the bishop for other duties is too great to permit of giving to each parish and to each of the many subjects to be dealt with a sufficient amount of time. While Connecticut is a small diocese territorially, it is really one of the largest in the Episcopal Church of America when the number of clergy, parishes and communicants are considered. Diocesan division will be formally discussed at the convention this year, and while it may be some time before the new diocese is formed the prospects that one will be formed look very favorable.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY.

Census "Grabbers."

The permanent office seeking class at Washington which visit their states at important elections have succeeded in securing the exclusion from the census bill of the provision requiring, for appointment to the census service, of an actual domicile in their respective states for one year previous to appointment. This class evidently possesses a potent influence at Washington, and for no better reason than that their votes might prove to be balances in their respective states.

Turned on Dr. Aked.

The Rev. Dr. Aked, the imported pastor of John D. Rockefeller's New York church, sees nothing but destruction ahead of the republic because of the kind of government he finds here. For central in anyone who would seriously note the way capital is being driven out of Great Britain and the empire threatened by socialistic legislation; the death grapple with labor unionism that is menacing the integrity of France; the danger of a smash-up in Austria-Hungary when the present emperor dies; the anarchistic condition of Russia, and the possible breakdown of France and Germany if the present pace keeps up.—Waterbury American.

Even in Maine.

The state of Maine is at last awake to the necessity of saving its forests. Only a few years ago Maine was supposed to have had an inexhaustible supply of lumber, but the pulp mills have been chewing up the trees at an alarming rate. It is not too late, however, to do some good if the work is done in the right way. In addition to the pulp mills and ordinary building demands, forest fires are depleting the wooded sections of the state. To prevent these fires in now the concern of the state, and the danger of being followed by every other state where forestry is of consequence.—Bridgeport Post.

Not So Bad as It Used to Be.

Hartford comes to the front with its feet wet and its skirts bedraggled, but cheerful, affirming that it is not so bad as it used to be in time of flood, that the worst is over, and that the new bridge and the East Side improvements have bettered its conditions. That is comforting and Hartford—the part on high ground—can rejoice and be glad. "And so it comes about," says the Courant, "that in the midst of what would under ordinary circumstances be a threat, not to say an interruption, traffic goes quietly on and even sightseeing leads hundreds of people over where, but for the work of the bridge commission, there would be doubt and danger and as few travelers as possible."—Bridgeport Standard.

Nothing Doing.

The general assembly has been in session three months. It has transacted a little business and has done some speculation as to the time of adjournment. The most sanguine prediction does not fix the date earlier than July 1, and it may not be even that. The main business of the session appears to be a lack of leadership, and as a result a great deal of time is taken up with insignificant matters, some of which ought not to be brought up for discussion in legislative body at all. None of the important measures has been reported and when these do come in they will occupy a great deal of attention. When they are disposed of a time for adjournment can better determined.—New Britain Herald.

The New Bromley Lecturer.

The Hartford Courant very gracefully and correctly says that "The selection of Maj. J. C. Hemphill of the Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier to be the next lecturer in the Bromley course at Yale, is an exceedingly happy one." The honor is one that the South Carolina journalist may well appreciate, but it is the more significant in its recognition of the merits of the journalism of the south. In some ways, notably in comparative freedom from the yellow sensationalism of the modern sort, the southern press has maintained a high standard. It has developed many very able editors who could fairly be ranked as publicists, and it is certain that some of the most vigorous editorial writing in the United States is today done south of the Mason and Dixon line.—Springfield Republican.

A Familiar Sound.

Mr. Hopkins says he will be elected next time, but he is no senator chosen. That has a ringing sound about it, but it is exactly the way Adicks used to talk.—Chicago Tribune.

Would Put It Wise.

The New York Sun says: "Mr. Bryan is disappearing." Somebody should send the Sun a bale of Chautauqua lecture programmes.—Atlanta Constitution.

Hard on the Lions.

This new game of feeding ex-presidents to the lions solves a much vexed problem.—Louisville Courier-Journal.
