FOGS OF LONDON AND PARIS. French Capital Bids Fair to Suffer Worse Than the English.

A certain undesired supremacy has always been granted to London in the matter of fogs, and the London peacemaker has always been considered unequal in his way. But things have changed a good deal of late. In the first place, these of late years, notably that at the beginning of this month, have been overhead fogs, which made the noonday like night, although in the streets it was perfectly clear, and there was little or no dislocation of traffic. This is said to be owing to the fact that a few hundred feet up the air is cold enough to condense the moisture, whereas in the streets the air is warm enough to keep the moisture uncondensed. This variety of fog is certainly the least objectionable, for it enables people to go about their business without groping along the walls in utter darkness, as used to be the case. Another change that must be noted is the prevalence of fogs in Paris, notably in the present month, when in the first week of the fog was much worse on the banks of the Seine than on the banks of the Thames. Some years ago, when Paris burned wood, the city had no real fogs, but now that it has taken to burning coal it has imported the "London particular." And as the Seine at Paris is not tidal, there is less chance of a breeze to carry away the fog than there is even in London.

Make Persuasion Do Work of Fear. Yet hold it more humane, more heartily, first, by winning words to conquer willing hearts, and make persuasion do the work of fear.—John Milton.

Dream Superstition. To dream you hear horses neigh, augurs that you will have new and powerful friends, who will do you much service.

Original Night Rider. The Omaha Bee says that Paul Revere was the founder of the rough riders. He was also the original night rider, wasn't he?

Climatic Peculiarly. New York, despite its more rigorous climate, is 500 miles nearer the equator than is the British capital.

RAISED FUNDS AND HAD JOKE. Typical Anecdote Concerning Whistler, the Eccentric Artist.

Whistler's most recent biography has this to say of his early life in Paris: "Though frequently hard up, Whistler had an income which seemed princely to students who lived on nothing at all. If Whistler had money in his pockets, Mr. Loures says, he spent it royally on others. If his pockets were empty he managed to refill them in a way that still amazes M. Oulevey, who, in proof of it, told us of the night when, after the case where they had squandered their last sous on kirsch had closed, he and Lambert and Whistler adjourned to the Halles for supper, ordered the best and ate it. Then he and Lambert stayed in the restaurant as hostages, while Whistler, at dawn, went off to find money to pay. He was back when they awoke with 300 or 400 francs in his pocket. He had been to see an American friend, he said, a painter. 'And, do you know, he had the bad manners to abuse the situation—he insisted on my looking at his pictures.'"

HIS MOTIVE FOR GOING HOME. Johnny Wanted a Personal Interview with Sammy Green.

Johnny astonished the family in the country one day by announcing that he wanted to go home. "What's that?" demanded his father. "Want to go home?" "Yep," maintained the boy. "Well, that's very funny. It wasn't two days ago that you were begging us to stay up on this farm until October. Are you sick?" "Nope." "Got the blues?" "Nope." "Toothache?" "Nope." "Mad because your mother won't let you go swimming?" "Nope." "Ah! I think I understand," said his father with a chuckle. "I happen to hear you saying that farmer's boy yesterday out back of the barn, and I also happened to see him flop you on your back. Did it hurt much?" "N-nope." "Well, cheer up my boy. We all have our ups and downs in this world. What good would it do you to go home?" "If I were only home, pap," replied the boy with a longing sigh. "I could knock the stuff out of Sammy Green, and then I'd feel better."—Bohemian Magazine.

Country of Contrasts. Armenia is a country of strong contrasts, of opposite extremes, of heat and cold, light and shade, drought and moisture, and contains many mysterious awaiting solution. The ethnologist is still in doubt as to what branch of the great European family the Armenian people belong to; the philologist has not yet classified their language, the antiquarian knows next to nothing of their early history.

Sorry for the Lightkeeper. While the dear old country gentleman and his wife were walking on the beach one evening they suddenly noticed the revolving light of a lighthouse. The old lady gazed at it with open eyes for some minutes, then she turned to her husband with a puzzled look. "Well," she exclaimed, "if the man in that ship hasn't lit that light 40 times, and it has gone out everytime!"

She Missed Mr. Blaine. "I miss Mr. Blaine. I cannot bear the orderly array of my life. I miss the envelopes in the gravy, the be-spattered table linen, the uncertainty of the meals, for you know he always starts out on his constitutional when he hears them talking in dinner. I miss his unvarying attention and as constant neglect."—From "Letters of Mrs. James G. Blaine."

Used Dolls to Set Fashions. Long before women's newspapers were started, and fashion plates in their modern form were thought of, women derived their knowledge of the fashions from dolls dressed in modern costumes, which were sent from one country to another, more especially from Paris, which then, as now, was the leading center of the mode.

The Most Dangerous Capital. London, which used to boast of being the quietest and safest capital of the world, has become noisier than Paris and more dangerous than New York. Nearly 300 persons are now killed annually by street accidents, and how many more just escape with their lives cannot be computed.—Outlook.

Early Conditions Important. Artists say that the surroundings of the child determine whether or not he may become an artist. Hideous surroundings warp and twist the perception of the beautiful so that in later life the child cannot compete with those who have enjoyed a more artistic environment.

A Social Animal. Man, just as Lord Bacon avers, is a social animal, and inveterately so, else the natural difficulty of always walking up to the hostess saying: "I've had such a lovely time!" must have long since proved insurmountable.—Puck.

Time's Changes. When the "old schoolboys" studied geography they were familiar with a blank space on the map known as the Great American Desert, a hopeless region. Now the best apples in the United States are raised there.

He Gave It Up. After Hercules had passed safely through two Fourth of July celebrations, a half-dozen football games and a hunting season in the Maine woods his persecutor gave up trying and surrendered the stolen crown.

A False Accusation. As fire when thrown into water is cooled down and put out, so also a false accusation when brought against a man of the purest and holiest character, boils over and is at once dissipated, and vanishes.—Cicero.

The True Spirit. Are you willing to forget what you have done for other people, and to remember what other people have done for you? Then you can keep Christmas.—Henry Van Dyke.

Grass of Great Strength. A steel-like grass which grows on the volcanic slopes of Oran, Algeria, is so elastic and strong that it can be used instead of springs in the manufacture of furniture.

War Office Cat. Of the war office cat which recently passed away, it is said that he was not a good mouser. Can this have been the influence of environment?—Punch.

HOME FROM ENCAMPMENT. Post Master Potter Declines Promotion Because of Office Duties.

Comrades C. A. Potter, H. W. Babson and W. N. Arnold have returned from the Connecticut encampment, G. A. R. held at South Norwalk. Post-master Potter has been junior vice commander of the department of Connecticut during the past ten years, and would have been advanced to senior vice commander if he would guarantee to attend the National encampment, to be held at Salt Lake City in August. The trip, however, would entail Mr. Potter's absence from the postoffice for a period of at least three weeks, and because of this fact he deemed it wise to decline the advancement.

DUPRE FINED. $200 and Costs in Superior Court on Thursday.

Turned Over to Probation Officer. There was a night session of the city court lasting until 11 o'clock Wednesday evening, when the summer case in which three children—two girls and a boy—were involved and which resulted in their being placed in the hands of the probation officer.

Open Meeting of Thompson Grange. Quaintest change of Thompson will have an open meeting and special programme this (Friday) evening.

More Plunder from Bradley House. The trials at the superior court in Williamette this week, having to do with the breaking and entering of the George Bradley residence at Pomfret, reveals the fact that though a good portion of the stolen articles have been recovered, there are still some valuable things missing that are admitted to have been taken by Charles Miller, who has pleaded guilty to robbing the house, but has not yet received his sentence.

Found Peddling Without a License. That the police are keeping close tabs on visiting peddlers who try to evade paying a license for doing business in the city, as provided by the city ordinance, was demonstrated on Thursday afternoon when Officer James McGuire brought in two men who were selling a load of pineapples about town. The peddlers had a license to do business Wednesday, but Thursday morning they started out without one. Captain Murray intends that the ordinance be strictly enforced. This fact has become known to many transient dealers and only a few now attempt to escape paying the license fee.

Teachers' Convention Today (Friday). Nearly all the teachers of eastern Connecticut will meet here today in annual convention. The list of speakers includes the names of men of note in the educational field and excellent addresses are anticipated. The business session and election of officers is set down for late in the afternoon session. The peddlers had a license to do business Wednesday, but Thursday morning they started out without one. Captain Murray intends that the ordinance be strictly enforced. This fact has become known to many transient dealers and only a few now attempt to escape paying the license fee.

Forest Fires. Forest fires of more or less destructiveness were reported Thursday from various surrounding parts, several of which are close to the railroad lines.

Service May Be Restricted This Year. There is a probability that the half-hourly trolley service usual on the Putnam line during the summer months will be maintained this year only between Mechanicville and Danielson. Last year the service was maintained all the way between Webster and Central Village. The greater number of persons who take advantage of the half-hour service live between Mechanicville and Danielson, and last year the long distance service did not, it is believed, prove altogether profitable.

Charles S. Francis of Danielson is erecting a cottage on the northwest shore of Alexander's lake. The location is not far from the King cottage. There are many desirable cottage sites in the vicinity which unfortunately are not available.

Installing of Wheels Delayed. The installing of water wheels at the plant of the French River Textile company is being delayed by construction difficulties. The wheels, however, come without interfering with the operation of the mill, which is rushed with orders.

Building Bridge Approach. Hundreds of loads of earth are being used to build the road approach to the bridge to be built near Pomfret in eliminating one more of the grade crossings on the Midland division.

SURE REMEDY FOR HICCOUGHES. Science at Last Has Devised Cure for Troublesome Complaint.

Did you ever take nine swallows of water to cure the hiccoughs? Do you remember the time some one soared the hiccoughs away by telling you of a whipping due for some measurer? Well, science has been studying hiccoughs and caught the hiccoughs by the "nape of the neck." The nine swallows of water had a little science in it, and so did the scare cure. The scientific hiccough cure consists in pressing down to numbness the nerve that connects the stomach, heart, lungs and brain, the pneumogastric nerve. The pressure, partially and locally paralyzes this nerve and of necessity the hiccoughing must cease.

Have the hiccoughing patient sit down and be at ease, with the muscles of the neck relaxed as much as possible. Grasp both sides of the neck and press down steadily and as hard as the subject may permit for about one minute, having the patient work the head from side to side. Within about one minute the nerve will be numbed and rested and the spasmodic motion will cease. It may require longer pressure in some cases, but the result is sure if patience is maintained.

Local Japanese authorities are making active preparations for the celebration on July 1 and 2 of the 25th anniversary of the opening of Yokohama to foreign trade.
